There were eight deaths in Greenland last year, five males and three females. Of these, two were under five years of age, and three over seventy; the average age was a little over forty-five years.

Our neighbor of the Journal prints his paper this week on a new Cottrell & Babcock power press, and is to be congratulated on this evidence of prosperity, and also on the improved appearance of his sheet.

Gilman. She was granted a pension a few years ago.

VANDALISM.

Some unknown persor has been cutting down the shade trees on Miller avenue. The mayor, with other of the city authorities, are investigating the matter. Whoever it may be should be severely punished.—Weekly.

I presume that the trees referred to are the willows which have long stood near the spring, about half-way between Lincoln avenue and South street, which I believe have been recently cut down by some person, I do not know who. If so, the man or men who felled them should receive the thanks of every decent person who has occasion to pass that way of an evening, or to water his horse or himself at the spring; for those willows have long been an evening haunt during the warm season for hoodlum hobbodehoys, who from the shelter of the thick branches would launch filthy obscenity and gross insults at passing ladies, and at men when they dared, while the spring could never be kept in good condition, the friendly concealment of the trees enabling the hoodlums to steal or smash the dipper, or to defile the spring or pump, as often as they desired—and that has been very often—without fear of detection. For one, I am glad the said "shade trees" are gone, and hereby tender my thanks to the vandal who chopped them down, no matter whether he had any right to do it or not. RATZ.

THE GREENBACK CLUB.

The Protest of the 11th inst. contains a call signed by Gardner J. Greenleaf of this city, (who has been appointed club organizer for New Hampshire by Charles J. Beattie of Chicago, Ill., chairman of the organizing committee of the Union Greenback Labor party,) for a meeting at Mercantile hall on Congress street, Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of re-organizing the Portsmouth greenback club on a firm bases. In organizing a club or admitting members thereto, the following pledge is required in open meeting:

I, ——, ——, do solemnly pledge my sacred honor that hereafter I shall not vote for, or give any political aid or support to, any person who is or may be nominated for any legislative or executive office, state or national, by either the democratic or republican parties, and that I will do all in my power honorably to advance the cause and support the principles of the greenback-labor party.

Wm. Weaver of Nashua will address the meeting on Tuesday evening, to which the public generally are cordially invited.

CARELESSNESS.

Editor Chronicle: Your paper of Friday morning contained a complaint concerning the carelessness of drug clerks, which is no doubt pertinent and just. But the writer forgets that such a remissness is common in every vocation of life. A boiler tendered by a careless fireman becomes dry, and a building is blown up and a loss of many lives ensues. A horse is wrongly harnessed, and he runs away and life is endangered or forfeited. An Irishman's pipe sets fire to a tenement block, and women and children are burned to death. A physician writes a prescription, and thro' inadvertence fails to indicate the right quantity of the drug desired, (no very rare occurrence,) and unless the apothecary corrects the blunder, fatal results occur. So we ask the same question so plaintively put by your correspondent, "is there no protection," etc., and we answer, "absolutely none." We are all dependent on one another, and we all do as well as we can under the circumstances, (as a rule,) and it is of no use to rush into print with the faults of our fellows when no possible good can come of it. I am not a druggist nor the son of a druggist, but I am of the opinion that the case alluded to would not happen once in ten thousand times, and also that it is not helped by being made known to the public, unless we can first make everybody else faultless. G.

The "Atlantic Monthly" for March has generous installments of the serial stories by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and Henry James, Jr., both of which are sure to have wide reading. Perhaps the most noteworthy paper in the number, and one that ought to be read by every good American citizen, is the "Story of a Great Monopoly" by H. D. Lloyd, which gives an account of the origin and growth of "The Standard Oil Company," revealing the steps by which, from insignificant beginnings, a power has been grasped which is able to purchase legislatures and courts, and seems almost equal to defying the authority of the government. Mr. Grant Allen, who is well known as an English writer on philosophical subjects, contributes an article on "The Genesis of Genius" in reply to the article by Mr. William James on "Great Men, Great Thoughts, and the Environment" which appeared in the Atlantic for October. All who have read Mr. James' article, and the essay in reply to it by Mr. John Fiske in the January Atlantic, should not fail to read Mr. Allen's article. Another paper that will be read with general interest is "The End of the War," by Theodore Bacon. Catharine Carrington furnishes a short story called "The Eleventh Hour." Richard Grant White this time writes "Random Recollections of England," which bring entirely, or nearly, to a close a series of unusually interesting essays upon the English people, their character and customs, which ought to be, and doubtless will be, gathered into a volume. The number contains poems by Dr. Holmes, Rose Terry Cooke, Frances L. Mace, and Maurice Thompson. An article on "New York Theatres" will attract no little attention. Another essay by William M. Rossetti on "The Wives of Poets," reviews of recent books, a diversified "Contributors' Club," and a running classified account of the books of the month, conclude an excellent number of this sterling magazine. Of Maj. Poore's interesting reminiscences of times in Washington, we are to have an installment in April. The March number has an excellent variety, and seems unusually interesting. A Wise Fox in Vermont.

Vermont papers can tell some tall stories. The Lyndon Union has this rather tough yarn about the cunning of a fox in that neighborhood: "A man has for several years been in pursuit of a cunning old fox, but every attempt to catch him has been defeated. A few weeks ago he put a beef's head on the hill, and set a trap in a convenient place for the fox to fall into it. The next time he went to it he found fresh fox-tracks, and put his hound to work. The chase was lively, but the fox was too much for the dog, and on two or three different hills he actually sat down, face toward the dog, and waited for him. In this way he coaxed the dog over a good deal of territory, and, finally coming to the hill where the trap was set, the fox made a straight line for the trap, jumped over it, and the old dog, pursuing the same line, put his foot in the trap and stopped right there, leaving the fox to pursue the rest of the journey alone."

—An Arctic exploration: A year or so ago a young Galveston lady got married, and the young couple went off on a bridal trip. After her return she was always mentioning her northern trip. "Did you visit the Canadas?" asked somebody. "The Kenedys?" she asked, musingly, "do they live down on Canal street, in New Orleans? We went as far north as New Orleans."—Galveston News.

—Reidsville, N. C., thinks it has a woman who can beat Dr. Mary Walker all hollow. She has worn male attire a number of years, and is known as one of the best and hardest working farmers in the county, and she simply goes along and attends to her farm without showing herself much on the big road of life, save now and then she drives her span of black horses to Reidsville, dressed in pants, boots and hat. She wears a striped cotton cloth dress over her pants, that takes just about the knees. Her name is Miss Jane Small, and her age is between thirty and forty. She runs a small farm of her own. She worms, cuts and cures her own tobacco, cuts wood for the coal-kiln, ditches, digs, and in fact does everything about her farm. She also runs a stillhouse, and the Reidsville Times says "she will whip a fellow in a minute." So just look out, and don't go around there trying to interview her.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

Chronicle Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16th.

The debate on the river and harbor bill continues in the House, and may for a length of time that will make the prospects of an extra session probable. Public attention is now being drawn to this bill in such a manner that the iniquities contained in it will be so fully exposed that there will probably be some improvement in the manner of legislating for rivers and harbors after this year.

Commodore Oliver Perry Grew Watson, sixty-three years old, six feet high, arrived here on the 14th by way of the chain bridge, all the way from Ashtabula, Ohio, having as he states left there in November last for Washington, and walked all the way to see President Hayes, whom he asserts he met last fall in Ohio, and received from him an invitation to visit him and remain until after the inauguration. He visited the Capitol, Smithsonian Institute and the President's House after he came to town. He did not see the President, but was sent by the doorkeeper to police head-quarters, where he would be provided with lodgings, etc. He proposes to call on the President, who he thinks will receive him cordially, having invited him to Washington. It appears that the President on his trip to Ohio in November, made a speech in which he invited his Ashtabula friends if they came to Washington, to call and see him, and that that induced Mr. C. O. P. G. Watson to make his long trip.

The bill introduced by Mr. Townshend the other day gives form to an idea long entertained by legislators, and I imagine by all who watch congressional proceedings. He proposes a November, instead of a December meeting of Congress. The "short session" must end on the 4th of March, and there is—there has been for as many years as I can remember—too little time to do properly all that should be done. The present session well enough illustrates the fact. With only ten or eleven working days left, but one of the eleven apopriation bills has been finally acted on. Two remain unreported by the appropriation committee. Either the House should meet earlier, or this committee should be instructed to do so. This would probably prevent several evils—the frequency of legislation by conference commitees, the neglect of really necessary measures, and the danger of extra sessions. Mr. Townshend is entitled to thanks from all except lobbyists for the bill introduced by him.

A friend of Senator Mahone of Virginia writes from Petersburg to a gentlemen here that no one has authority for any statement whatever as to the course the senator will pursue if the republicans shall attempt a reorganization of the Senate next month. The friend says he has no doubt Mahone will act with the democratic senators, but his opinion is not based on anything said in the past six months. KNOX.

He Got His Rum.

Some time ago a character, of which there are so many in Newburyport, went into a rum shop and called for a quart of rum. It was poured into a two-quart jug, which he produced, when he coolly told the barkeeper to charge it.

"Not much," said the man of stimulants; "I'll take it back."

"All right, then," said the bummer, "but be careful and take only a quart, for I've got another quart in there."

The barkeeper poured out a quart, and was satisfied; so was the customer. The other quart was water, and the stimulant was ready mixed for drinking.—Herald.

—A novel sort of "love spell" has recently been tried in a small district of Russia, and if it did not succeed, (and of this no account is given,) it was not for want of energetic application. A peasant was perpetually quarrelling with his wife, because, as she declared, he "had ceased to love her." The village council took the matter into consideration, and adjudged the peasant to receive twenty blows with rods, "to compel him to love his wife again." This is equal to rubbing two kittens' heads together to make them play.

The saying "time is money" is best illustrated by the prompt action of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in all cases of Coughs, Colds, &c. Price 25 cents a bottle, at all druggists.

—A learned doctor has given his opinion that tight lacing is a public benefit, inasmuch as it kills off all the foolish girls and makes the wise only to grow into womanhood.

Father Scully!

Of Cambridge, wishes all catholic Children to attend the parochial schools. If their parents give them Sulphur Bitters they will have rosy cheeks and be strong and healthy. See another column.

—A clergyman, meeting an inebriated neighbor, exclaimed: "Drunk again, Wilkins!" to which Wilkins, in a semi-confidential tone, responded, "Sho am I, parson!"

Fees of Doctors.

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post.

—No matter how deep a young man's pocket may be, a colored silk handkerchief will inevitably float to the top and flop over, while a soiled linen rag will sink to the bottom like a brick thrown in a mud puddle.

The friends of temperance will find Malt Bitters invigorating and strengthening.

—Lady to her husband, just as the fifteenth waltz is commencing at 2:35 A. M.: "Don't keep looking at your watch, Algy! One would think you were in church."

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tubercular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed) JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount? If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

The English Bar.

It is a characteristic distinction that at the Inns of Court men are "called to the bar" after a certain probation, while in the United States they are, upon examination, "admitted to practice" in the courts. The former mode is a voluntary act of grace by which the benchers ask a man to become one of their fraternity; the latter is in the nature of the recognition of a right upon the fulfillment of certain conditions.

A barrister's profession in England is nominally of an honorary character, and his fee is an honorarium, which cannot be sued for at law as an attorney's costs may. Practically, however, a barrister's services of course are paid for like any other professional services, and the professional incomes of many successful English barristers are very large. Law is the noblest of all professions in England. It takes men into Parliament; it makes them peers and lord chancellors.

I did not have the good fortune of seeing any of the great courts in session, for my visit was in the long vacation; but I saw a criminal cause tried in one of the minor courts in Liverpool, and was much interested in the proceedings. First of all, I was struck by the costume of the judge and of the barristers, whose wigs and gowns gave them an air of dignity and authority well suited to their functions and not without its practical value. The wigs, indeed, did seem somewhat ridiculous, because of their absurd likeness and unlikeness to the natural covering of the head. The judge's wig was the least grotesque. It was quite like the large bob wig worn by all gentlemen in the latter part of the last century,—much like that, for example, represented in Dr. Johnson's portraits. But the barrister's wig is certainly the queerest covering that was ever put upon a human head.

The gown gives dignity to the figure and grace to the action; but I found it difficult to look at the wigs without laughing. Behind and at the sides there hang four little formal, isolated curl in double rows, so unlike anything human, and yet so plainly an imitation of curled and powdered human hair, that they would seem like caricature, if they did not, in their bald artificiality, pass all bounds of caricature. I spoke of their absurdity to a friend who was at the bar, and said that, while the gown seemed worthy of reverence and admiration, I wondered why the ridiculous little wigs were not discarded.

"Discard wigs!" was his reply. "Why, we couldn't get on without them. I could not try a cause without my wig. I should feel as if I had no right to be in court; as if the judge would be justified in taking no notice of me; and as if the witnesses had me at their mercy, instead of me having them at mine. I shouldn't dare to cross-question a witness without my wig."

"In other words," I said, "your wig gives you an authoritative position which enables you to bamboozle a witness."

"Why, yes," he answered, smiling, "that's pretty much it, if you choose to put it so."—RICHARD GRANT WHITE, in Atlantic for March.

A Capital Substitute.

Once a man searched through what is now the state of Florida to find a fountain he had heard was there, which was able to make an old person young again. He failed. We can't be boys or girls again. Age and infirmity are sure to come, but God did not ordain sickness. That is our fault. There is no fountain of youth, but there is a fountain of health, and its other name is Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It comes from nature—from the fields and flowers, and like them is "very good." Try it for complaints of women, blood troubles, and pains and aches everywhere. If you can't get it at the store, send one dollar for a bottle to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

An extra passenger was found on Conductor Reed's train, which left Boston for Lowell at noon on Friday, a colored lady named Haskell having given birth to a fine boy on the route. The other passengers named the new comer Arthur Reed Haskell, in honor of the conductor. The mother is the wife of a Boston barber.

One of the perplexing things which annoys the through traveller is the failure of some of the Massachusetts railroads to keep their contracts with passengers. The eastward bound traveller who arrives on Saturday afternoon at Albany, N. Y., finds a fine steamer which will carry him to New York for a dollar, and in summer he may reach his New England home via the Sound, by Monday morning; but he cannot come directly east, as the puritanic Massachusetts people do not allow trains to run over their saintly soil after midnight on Saturday. The result is, everyone is compelled to lie over at the Hudson, or go to New York, and yet Boston talks of being a place to export the products of the west!

When a man journeys in New York state he early sees that the Boston capitalist has diffused his means, and in railway investments has here a little and there a little. Everything to accommodate the Empire City, nothing for the Bay State and Hub. Take for example the attempt to go through or around New York by what is facetiously denominated the "through route" between Boston and Washington. It is nothing but a miserable failure for the average passenger. We have twice tried it, and failed to connect with the Pennsylvania railway at Jersey City; and recently we found that a prominent New Hampshire gentleman with whom we conversed had failed in like manner to connect on four successive journeys.

The New York & New England road sells what purports to be a through ticket for the six o'clock P. M. train to Washington. It is marked "not good after the day of its issue." The ticket will take its holder to New York, but on arrival at Jersey City the next morning the chances are that the train to Washington starting at 4:30 o'clock A. M. has been gone hours before his arrival. His ticket is dated one day previously, and he seeks to connect by a later train, but the conductor shows him his contract, and he has no alternative but to seek out some official at Jersey City and state his case, and he is then perhaps taken to Philadelphia with all possible speed. Here the monopoly known as the Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore road is willing to carry him when one of its trains may be going towards Washington.

He finds himself a belated traveller. Instead of speeding on his way by rail from Jersey City at half-past four o'clock in the morning, rocked to sleep by the musical oscillation of the Pullman coaches, and arriving at the seat of government at half-past eleven in the forenoon, in season for a day's vigorous work, he is drawn along by successive stages, and finds himself on the road all day,

"Remote, unfriended, melancholy, slow,"

All because the N. Y. & N. E. R. R. sell a ticket through, and without any sort of certainty that their old steamboat can find its way from Haarlem to Jersey in season to make its connection.

Eastern people have grown tired of this treatment. The N. Y. & N. E. R. R. seems to be the direct way over which to travel to reach New York, but it lacks the ability in its management to arrange for the transportation of its passengers in case of its failure to land them at the Pennsylvania station in season for the train in which they are expected to be carried to Washington.

So many important engagements have been interrupted by this unfortunate state of things that the average eastern traveller, who once regarded the N. Y. & N. E. as an improvement over the old routes, has returned to the other lines, disgusted at the frequency of the New England line's failures to perform its promised trips, and in turn warns his friends to avoid a repetition of his misfortune.

Congress.

The House on the 18th inst. passed a resolution in honor of the memory of the late representative Farr of New Hampshire. A resolution had been referred to the committee on appropriations, asking them to recommend the payment of the salary which would have been due Mr. Farr in this Congress for the balance of his term had he survived, and also to recommend that the forty-seventh Congress, to which he was elected, should appropriate the salary which would be due him for that term. The committee declined to recommend such action to the next Congress, and in lieu of that, a resolution making the bulk appropriation to the representatives of Mr. Farr of $6,000, which includes the balance for this Congress and the salary for the next, was unanimously agreed to in the House.

The barque Norton Stover arrived at Portland, Me., Feb. 18th, after a tempestuous passage of ten weeks from Baltimore. The vessel was in and out of Vineyard Haven five times, and once was as far [illegible] Nantucket, but was unable to re[illegible]. She put back again to the [illegible], and when she arrived was encumbered with one hundred tons of ice, sinking her two feet at the head. The captain then ran her to south channel to relieve her of ice. The vessel is but slightly damaged. The first mate is severely frost-bitten.

A decision in the case of Hayden, the Vermont wife murderer, was given by the court on Friday. It was that the petitioner should not have leave to file a motion for a new trial, but the sentence of the law must be executed. This was Hayden's last chance, and he will be executed next Friday.

According to the census reports there are nearly a million more males than females in the United States. Those young fellows who have been waiting to take their pick under the mistaken impression that women were much more numerous than men, had best scrabble round and secure a mate before they are all gone.

The funding bill which passed the United States Senate last week is simply an attempt to make the national banks loan the government money at the rate of three per cent per annum. Whenever it is found that the national banks cannot afford to pay taxes and loan a part of their capital at this rate, such banks will give up their charters and go back to the state system, or their managers will organize private banking houses. The west and south seek to reduce the rate of interest paid on their indebtedness, and in the effects of this bill will be seen whether the rate of interest is to be such as a majority of congressmen may indicate, or if capital, as ever before, can be capable of fixing its own price for the use of money. It is intimated that the President may veto the bill.

A Dog Accomplice.

The Scotch shepherd-dog and the little terrier are reputed the most intelligent of the canine tribe. It is on account of his teachableness, as well as his sagacity, that the terrier is usually chosen for a trick dog. But the most remarkable case of canine sagacity that we recall is related of a shepherd's dog. It is told in the memoir of Dr. William Chambers, one of the founders of Chambers' Journal, and condensed, is as follows:

A Scotch farmer, named Murdison, was suspected of stealing sheep, but for years escaped detection. But one day, an ewe, which had been stolen among other sheep, reappeared at her former home. She bore on her face a brand in addition to that of her true owner's, a Mr. Gibson. Ascertaining that the new brand was that of Mr. Murdison's, a visit was paid to his farm. There a large number of sheep were discovered bearing Gibson's brand "O," but all having over it the letter "T," the brand of Murdison. He and his shepherd, one Miller, were arrested, tried, convicted and duly hung. It was found that the long-continued success of these men in sheep-stealing was due to the sagacity of Miller's dog, "Yarrow." Accompanied by Yarrow, the man would visit a farm and spy the flock. He had only to point out certain sheep to the sagacious dog. That night Yarrow would return, select each animal pointed out, bring them together and drive them across the river Tweed to his master's farm. He was never detected in the act.

AROUND HOME.

Frank Mayo is to appear in this city in "Van, the Virginian," March 5th. "All the rage" will be here March 16th.

The Eastern railroad is overhauling and remodelling the old passenger depot at North Berwick, and will use it for a freight house.

A valuable horse belonging to W. Freeman, Esq., died on Saturday from pneumonia. Quite a number of horses about the city are suffering from lung troubles.

Senator Rollins, our Washington correspondent writes, will endeavor to have a liberal sum added to the appropriation bill, for improving the Lamprey river between Newmarket and Great bay.

Reserved seat tickets for the entertainment at Music hall next Saturday evening, when Denman Thompson will appear in his inimitable character of "Joshua Whitcomb," the New England farmer, can now be secured at Preston's.

The arrivals of fish on Saturday, the 19th, were the schooners Ev Nichols, with 1500 lbs.; Flora Temple 400; Satellite, 1500; Celia, 500 lbs. On Sunday evening the schooner Ella M. Johnson arrived with 10,000 lbs. of cod fish.

Between eighty and ninety officers of the first brigade, New Hampshire National Guard, assembled at Manchester last week for a four days' drill. The only officer in attendance from this city was Capt. James E. Ford of the City Guards.

Mr. Thomas E. Call is confined to his house by an accident, having slipped on the ice near the corner of State and Pleasant streets, and injured his kneepan. He is insured against accidents with Morse & Ilsley, and draws $25 per week.

Among the victims of "the Hon. Thomas B. Swan" of Minot, Me., fusionist leader, bribe refuser, thief, liar, swindler, etc., was Mr. J. F. Knight of Epping, who made a pecuniary response to "the Hon." Swan's corn-sheller and knife-sharpener circular. The committee appointed to investigate Swan's actions have reported that the charges of swindling are fully sustained, and that Swan is also an embezzler of Minot's town funds; and they recommend his expulsion from the legislature.

The fishing schooner Grace Choate started out Sunday morning about five o'clock, and when just below the beacon a dense fog set in, making it impossible to see land, and the compass refusing to work, the vessel's whereabouts could not be ascertained. Boats were sent out with directions to find the narrows if possible, and signal the vessel if it was found, but they had proceeded only a short distance when the schooner went ashore on Peirce's island. It was about high water at the time, and as she was thrown up some distance on the land, she will have to be floated off. No damage was done by the shock except that a piece of the fore shoe was knocked off. The crew took everything that was transportable out in dories, to avoid any possible damage that might be done by the rising tide.

The schooner Frank Walter, which arrived here on Thursday of last week from Holmes' Hole, brought two hundred and fifty tons of guano from the Pacific Guano company. This is the second cargo of this kind brought into this port this season; it is distributed through Vermont and New Hampshire.

On Sunday afternoon the steamer Emerald towed the navy yard anchor-boy alongside of the schooner Grace Choate, ashore on Peirce's island.

The national house of representatives on Saturday passed the senate bill authorizing the transfer of the terms of the United States courts from Exeter to Concord.

The schooner Flora Temple caught on one of her trawls, on Saturday last, a curiosity to others than fishermen, and not very often seen by them in this vicinity. It is called a "nurse fish," is a species of ground shark and seldom leaves the bottom excepting on some hot day, when it will rise to the surface and bask awhile in the sun. The specimen brought in is about eleven feet long, but they have been seen thirty feet in length. They are only valuable for their livers, of which they yield from one barrel to five barrels, each, according to size.

The sale of tickets for "The Guv'nor," at Franklin theatre next Saturday evening, commenced at nine o'clock last Saturday at Stavers' store in Franklin buildings. Hundreds of our citizens have been attracted to Boston to see this play during its long run at the Museum, it being not only one of the most successful comedies produced of late years, but also the play in which Miss Norah Bartlett appears in one part. Those of our people who have seen her in the play in Boston will wish to see her on her "native heath," and hundreds of others will go to enjoy a two-hours' hearty laugh.

An association for the promotion of civil service reform has been organized in Boston. Charles Frances Adams, Jr., is president, Thomas J. Whidden, formerly of this city, is one of the vice presidents, and William Simes is treasurer. It will be a harmless species of amusement, and as long as there is no hope for the democracy in the matter of office, the reformers may count upon the support of the few members they may have from that party. But let the unterrified once get their man in as president of the nation, and the "reform" will be more honored in the breach than in the observance. In fact, it will be all breach and no observance.

THE MUSICAL CONVENTION.

The grand finale of this assemblage occurred on Friday evening, when Music hall was well filled. "The Messiah" was rendered, with the aid of the following soloists; Miss Fanny Kellogg, soprano, Mrs. Ella C. Fenderson, contralto, W. C. Tower, tenor, J. F. Winch, basso. The chorus seemed to lack the power we had expected to see developed by a week's training; and we missed from their "accustomed haunts" many singers whom we have regarded as essential towards the complement of a good chorus. The base seemed too subdued,—young, but not lusty; indeed, Mr. Winch could put to flight a whole army of singers like this base, and the conductor should if posible have made more of them. With but few note-worthy exceptions there appeared a lack of enthusiasm in the chorus, as if there was a need of some life-infusing spirit which was not at hand.

The soloists, of course, being trained for such occasions, sang artistically and elicited generous applause. Mr. Tower, who sang first in the oratorio, has a fine voice, with the power of filling the hall without the strong effort we sometimes are pained to witness. Mrs. Fenderson charmed the entire audience with her natural and expressive singing, rendered as if she felt the beautiful words she warbled; she was dignified, impressive and cultivated, without any apparent attempt at stage display. Miss Kellogg disappointed in the oratorio, which apparently was less to her taste, or perhaps gave less scope to her artistic powers. In the song and generously invited encore she seemed more fully to justify our great expectations, and to please with the compass of her voice and excellence of her execution. Mr. Winch was effective, and listened to with admiration. The rich base notes rolled forth when he sang, and were in striking contrast with the feeble aggregated voices of the base chorus. "My Queen" drew forth applause such as a Music hall audience renders only when it means approbation. Mrs. Martha Dana Shepard's playing in the second part was most heartily endorsed. It is rather comical to see a lady put so much bodily effort into the playing of an accompaniment. Mrs. Shepard plays with her hands, nods her head, and bends forward her body with every note. She seems an enthusiast, but for stage playing there appears to be too much the semblance of hard work; we think she becomes lost in the intense application of the moment, but this may be the correct way to render that part of the programme; we have no professional knowledge upon this subject, and only state our impressions of the way it appeared to us as viewed from the front. The general floral tributes to this lady show how some persons must have appreciated her efforts.

The audience in Music hall sat through this long entertainment apparently without fatigue. The singing began at ten minutes after eight o'clock, and ended at eleven. It seems very singular that none of these entertainments should begin in our city until eight o'clock or after. In Boston a quarter to eight is the latest hour, and our out-of-town friends in this vicinity would be glad to have our concerts and other entertainment begin at an earlier hour. The Music hall managers ought to reform this.

We think our people are much indebted to Messrs. Cole and Grant for their efforts in bringing together the members and attendants upon this convention. Certainly they have afforded much enjoyment to the frequenters of Music hall during the past week; and in cultivating musical taste, in developing an appreciation of music, and in bringing together not only the occupants of the stage but the spectators, a good work has been done. Whether the attendants at church in our city will hereafter praise the Lord by the means of paid performers, or unite in the more devotional, though perhaps less artistic mode of congregational voice worship, the labors of this convention ought to develope in listener, as in singer, an increased zeal and improved condition of musical talent; and the pleasant hours enjoyed during the convention will be a source of happy retrospection to very many. Let it in due time be repeated.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, Feb. 19; Batchelder, J.

Albert Clark was before the court on two charges—one of keeping a disorderly house, and one of assault on George Wallin. He was bound over in $300 to answer at a higher court, on the first complaint, and discharged on the other.

CARELESSNESS.

Feb. 19th, 1881.

Mr. Editor: I do not propose to enter into a newspaper discussion with the writer of an article in your paper signed "G," upon the propriety of warning the public against the fatal mistakes of boys employed in druggists' stores. Nor do I intend to show what is so self-evident as the puerile weakness of a comparison between such mistakes and "accidents from runaway horses, or fires from Irishmen's pipes;" but I do insist upon the right and duty of warning the public upon the second occurrence of a mistake at the same apothecary's shop, (in the same family,) whether the warning be "plaintive" or not. P.

A DOUBLE SHOT.

Dear Chronicle: May I be permitted a few reflections upon two communications in your Saturday's issue?

One writer expresses his joy that the beautiful shade trees in Miller avenue have been butchered, because they had become the haunt of coarse and vulgar rowdies. Is this so? Has it come to this, that all our shade trees must be cut down, our pleasant retired nooks made desolate, because there is no power of law, no sense of decency or self-restraint, no love of the beautiful, no regard for others, in our community? What a confession for old Portsmouth—for New England—to make! There is not a country on the continent of Europe where such a plea for the destruction of rural beauty would be so much as thought of. Is law, or decency, stronger there than here? Of course we may take the liberty to doubt whether the "unknown person" (?) who took the law into his own hands, was moved by any such motive. But that he or his friends should put forward such an excuse without expecting to excite a burst of indignant denial, shows that there may be some truth in the charge. Should not the question be seriously asked among us, "what can be done to remedy such a state of things?"

Your other correspondent thinks we are very foolish to make such a fuss about being poisoned by a druggist, because if we escape that fate, we may be burnt alive by a smoking Irishman, or scalded to death by a drunken engineer. I have heard that Americans are the most good-natured people in the world, but this is carrying things a little too far. I respectfully object to meeting my death by any such method, if I can avoid it by "making a fuss,"—even if I rush into the papers to do it. There is some consolation in the reflection that the careless engineer who lets his boiler burst, is very likely to be blown to pieces himself. But the smiling druggist who sends me croton oil for castor oil, or the hurried physician who forgets to state whether I am to take an ounce or a drachm of laudanum, can go on smiling and hurrying when I am in the cold ground. And if my ghost is not allowed to haunt him, I sincerely hope that my friends will at least mention the cause of my death in the papers. Not to find fault, oh no! "we are none of us faultless;" but merely as an interesting item of news. COMMENTATOR.

LIFE INSURANCE.

Mr. C. M. Gignoux of this city has been appointed general agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, for the state of Maine. Some time since Mr. Gignoux came to Portsmouth, and established in this city the New Hampshire general agency of the Mutual Life. He is familiar with life insurance in all its phases, and abundantly capable of demonstrating to any candid person the advantages of insurance by a company of acknowledged soundness in its management, over the many specious associations originated nominally to benefit the members thereof, but to which, the test of scrutiny being applied, no clear-headed man is attracted. Proper discrimination in selecting a reliable, permanent and sound means of life insurance is just as essential as are caution, prudence and sagacity in making investments; and the transitory, fleeting and unreliable in everything claiming to extend the benefits of life insurance at cheap rates or upon impossible contingences is just as much to be avoided as are the thousand of worthless speculative "investments" which today invite the unwary to come and take them. Carefully compiled tables are more apt to indicate what can be afforded in insurance by solvent companies, than are the honeyed promises of sponsors of untried experiments.

JOLLITIES' PROCLAMATION.

Celebration of Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22d. The bells of the various churches will be rung at sunrise, noon and sunset, and a national salute fired from the navy yard at noon. Business will be generally suspended at noon. At three o'clock P. M., a procession will be seen on Chestnut street, right resting on Music hall, and one thousand sets of cards distributed free to everybody who applies at the box office. At four o'clock the ticket office will open and remain open till eight, for the sale of reserved seats and gallery tickets for the greatest attraction of the season, "The Jollities," in the most laughable of all plays called the "Electrical Doll," which entertainment takes place in the evening and closes the day's celebration. Tickets at the usual prices. Star Course ticket-holders admitted on their course tickets free. The prize offered by the managers will be drawn between the acts. Don't wait till evening to buy your tickets, as the rush will be immense. Let those now laugh who never laughed before, and those who always laughed come laugh some more. By order of

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Twenty-two persons united with the Methodist church at South Berwick on a recent Sunday,—nineteen by profession of faith, and three by letter.

Rev. W. S. Vail, for four years pastor of the Universalist church at South Berwick, has resigned his pastorate to accept a more advantageous one at Hollowell and Gardiner. He will make his home at Gardiner, preaching at Hollowell in the forenoon.

Dr. Larrabee, the young doctor who was found dead in his office at Saco some weeks ago, was buried at Kennebunkport, his funeral being attended by his aged mother, Mrs. Seth T. Scribner of Waterborough. On her return home she took to her bed, and died in a few days. She was buried beside her son.

The commissioners of York county had a hearing in Newichawanick hall, South Berwick, recently, on a petition of the town of Berwick for gates at the Eastern railroad crossing in "Happy valley." The petitioners were represented by W. S. Copeland, Esq., and the railroad by Superintendent Sanborn. The commissioners reserved their decision.

A Kittery Point correspondent of the Biddeford Journal says: "There has been great excitement over an animal which has been prowling by night around Brave Boat Harbor and vicinity. People have been afraid to go in the road by night, woodchoppers have gone to their work armed and protected by their dog, if they owned one, if not they have taken their neighbor's, and it has even been said that teamsters have used carbines instead of goads. Sportsmen have examined the creature's track and pronounced it a bear, others a catamount, and so on, taking in almost every species of the carnivorous race. Hunters have followed the track of the beast for miles, over hill and vale, animated by an occasional report that it had been seen and fired at with the usual effect. At last it has been traced to a farmer's yard, where the ferocious animal was seen in a specimen of the canine race, a large dog, which has been chained by day and loosed to ramble about by night."

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, N. Y., publishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

John P. Sweetser,

46 MARKET STREET - PORTSMOUTH

Can This Be?

A Washington correspondent says that Gen. Hazen, the new "Old Probabilities," is exhibiting an extraordinary talent for everything except the science of meteorology. His leading notion about the clerks employed under him is that they should be drilled like soldiers. There is a general revolt against this innovation. Under Gen. Myer there was a drill twice a month, and even then those with whose work drill interfered, were excused. Gen. Hazen has a different idea. All must drill, and if the work of the bureau inteferes, work must give way. Men who work all night long are compelled to drill in the morning. The corps is thus being worn out, and some of the best men have sent in their resignations, saying they enlisted for clerical service, and not to be marched around the streets. Although Gen. Hazen wants fifty new clerks, he daily takes that number from their work, for drill. He intends parading his men on inauguration day, and for that purpose will close the bureau, receiving and transmitting no weather reports at all.

Naval Affairs.

Lieut. Comdr. Yates Stirling has reported his return home, having been detached from the Lackawanna and placed on waiting orders.

Commander Henry F. Picking, commanding the Kearsarge, reports to the secretary of the navy from Pensacola, Fla., under date of the 10th inst., that the vessel arrived there the previous evening, after an extraordinarily rough passage, during which the machinery had a severe racking. The Kearsarge arrived at Port Eads on the 17th inst. The Alliance and Tennessee were anchored in front of New Orleans on the same date.

The numbers of "Littell's Living Age" for the weeks ending Feb. 12th and 19th, respectively, have the following noteworthy articles: Jacob van Arteveld, the Brewer of Ghent, "Edinburgh Review;" A Glimpse at Newfoundland, "Nineteenth Century;" Plutarch, and the Unconscious Christianity of the First Two Centuries, "Contemporary;" Emperor Alexander's Reforms, "Fraser;" The Invincible Armada, "Gentlemen's Magazine;" Story of Queen Louise of Prussia, "Chambers' Journal;" Frank Buckland, "Pall Mall Gazette;" Haroun Alraschid, An Apology for the Snow, and The Storm, 1881, "Spectator;" The Plane Tree, "Hardwicke's Science Gossip;" with instalments of "The Freres," "Don John," and "Visited on the Children," and Illouscha, a Shadow of Russian Life. Also the usual amount of poetry. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year, the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with "The Living Age" for a year, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

Try it. It will cure you. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. All druggists keep it. Price 25 cents.

The Suncock Journal says that Joseph Hoole, employed in the China mill carpenter shop, scratched a piece of skin off one of his fingers, a few days since, to which he paid no attention at the time. Soon his hand and arm were found to be so badly inflamed and diseased that it became necessary to amputate the finger, and fears are entertained that the whole hand will have to be cut off. Mr. Hoole was not insured against accidents.

That's a Fact.

A man can't work unless he feels well. The hard times have made plenty of people sick simply by worrying them almost out of their wits about money and business. Trouble of mind has brought on trouble of body. There is indigestion, heaviness in the head, and all that. Are you afflicted in this way? Go and invest one dollar for a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and it will make a new man of your. It takes the bile out of the blood, and is worth a trip to Rondout, N. Y.,—the doctor's home—on foot, if you can not get it more easily. First, however, see if your druggist hasn't got it.

George Neal, of Windham, slipped on some ice in his door-yard, one day recently, and broke a leg. Dr. Crosby, of Manchester, attended the case. Was not insured.

We are strongly disposed to regard that person as the best physician who does most to alleviate human suffering. Judged from this standard, Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., is entitled to the front rank, for her Vegetable Compound is daily working wonderful cures in female diseases. Send for circular to the above address.

Newell Moulton, of Hampstead, cut a gash in one of his feet, four inches long and nearly through the foot, on Tuesday forenoon, the 8th inst. No accident insurance.

—Pleasing Modesty: A Frenchman was presented to Mahmoud, and found himself, in consequence of progressive ideas, a little embarrassed at having to call him continually "His Highness," a title even less familiar than that of "His Majesty." The Sultan saw his embarrassment and remarked sympathetically, "Call me King of Kings; it is much more simple."—Paris Figaro.

Steamer City of Boston, of the Norwich line, and steamer Elm City, were in collision on the sound Friday night. Both steamers were considerably injured, but proceeded to their destinations.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount? If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tubercular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

—Coal at San Francisco is $18 per ton!

—It isn't always the servant girl who does mischief with the kerosene oil. Eight men were burned to death lately near Bradford, Pa., by the carelessness of one of their number, who attempted to improve the fire by adding a cup of coal oil from a bucketful of the fluid which stood near at hand.

—It is stated that there one day appeared at one of the soup houses in this city a nice-looking woman, who presented her pail to be filled, and the soup operator asked her how many she had in her family. "Six," she answered. "Who are they?" was queried. Without hesitation she replied, her husband, herself, two dogs and two cats; and she continued, beseechingly, "Please don't put much pepper in the soup; the dogs don't like it!"—Boston Journal.

—A New York boarder asked a diminution of his rent because of the dampness of his room. It was refused, and the boarder gave notice that he would leave. He got even with his landlord by planting a beautiful mushroom in his bed chamber, and whenever any one came to see the apartment he would call to the servant girl: "Bridget, see here; what is this mushroom doing in this room? It seems to me that I told you to take it away;" to which Bridget answers, "I did as you told me, sir, but another must have grown there since."

A Capital Substitute.

Once a man searched through what is now the state of Florida to find a fountain he had heard was there, which was able to make an old person young again. He failed. We can't be boys or girls again. Age and infirmity are sure to come, but God did not ordain sickness. That is our fault. There is no fountain of youth, but there is a fountain of health, and its other name is Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It comes from nature—from the fields and flowers, and like them is "very good." Try it for complaints of women, blood troubles, and pains and aches everywhere. If you can't get it at the store, send one dollar for a bottle to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

I have had the liver complaint twenty-five years and my blood became poisoned, and abscesses formed on my limbs, ten of them at one time, and discharged like ulcers. Was given up to die by sixteen different doctors. Twelve bottles D. R. V. G. has caused all sores to fill with new flesh and heal; I am thirty pounds heavier in my flesh than I ever was, and sound and well; age 47. D. R. V. G. saved my life.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conductive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Traveller.

Rational Treatment and Positive Cures are what the afflicted seek for, and those who resort to Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are not doomed to disappointment. So positively efficacious is his Favorite Prescription in all cases of female weaknesses, nervous and other derangements incident to the sex, that this potent remedy is sold under a positive guarantee. For particulars see Pierce's Memorandum Book (given away by druggists), or see the wrappers of the medicine. Sold by druggists.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D.:

Dear Sir—I feel that I should be neglecting my duty were I to fail in giving my testimony as to the value of your medicines. For years I have been a great sufferer from a complication of chronic diseases which our physicians treated in vain. I am now using your Favorite Prescription and find myself almost well. Your medicines have done me more good than anything I have ever used.

I remain, gratefully yours,

News and Notes.

At San Francisco, Saturday, Wheeler, the strangler of his sister-in-law, who was also his mistress, was sentenced to be hanged March 10th. Kalloch's trial is now to go on, the jury having been completed.

Discovery has been made, and publicly divulged, of a so-called "Wisconsin Dental College, incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin," located at Delavan, Walworth county, Wis., which, for the small fee of $12, promises to send to applicants "an elegant honorary diploma and degree, D. D. S., (Doctor of Dental Surgery,) with name artistically hand-printed," the same being on parchment, and attested by the signatures of the faculty and the college seal. The managers seem to have taken the hint from the bogus medical college of Philadelphia.

At a masquerade at Munich, Germany, last week, one of the participants set his dress on fire while lighting a cigar. Rushing among the others he communicated the fire to them. Four Germans were burned to death on the spot, and four more fatally injured; three Germans and a Russian were burned less seriously.

At Nanticoke, near Wilkesbarre, Pa., Saturday night, a Hungarian named Lafschuski broke a bottle of alcohol in his pocket, and the contents saturated his clothing. He attempted to light a match, when his clothing caught fire and he was so terribly burned that he will probably die.

The cremation of the remains of Dr. Konraden Horenzberg, who died in Indianapolis some days since, took place last week in Lemoyne's crematory at Washington, Pa. This was the tenth cremation, and created no excitement whatever.

Four shots were heard near the Texas Pacific passenger depot at Dallas, Texas, Saturday evening, and the corpse of A. R. Strathern, a wealthy cattle man of Ennis, Texas, was found shortly after. There is no clue to the murderers.

The five negroes lynched by a mob at Springfield, Tenn., last week, made the number lawlessly put to death for that crime seven, two others having been lynched previously. There were nine in the gang of murderers, and it is reported that the other two have also been killed. The Tennessee senate has denounced mob rule, and called upon the governor to use all the power of the state to bring the lynchers to justice.

Fred Rollins, of Rockport, Me., accidentally shot himself last week while gunning, and it is feared will die.

New Hampshire Items.

At a special town meeting in Somersworth last week it was voted to exempt from taxation, for ten years, any manufactory of woollen goods to be erected by D. H. Buffum or others, in the vicinity of Woodvale woollen mills.

The Rochester Courier says a deposit of $248 was made in the Norway Plains savings bank in 1853, and a few days ago the depositor came in to have the interest entered in the book, when $798 was put on.

Nahum Robinson of Concord has been appointed deputy warden of the state prison, in place of Bean, resigned.

Naval Affairs.

RYE, Feb. 21st.

The lecture by Rev. Mr. Haines of North Hampton, on Monday evening, 14th inst., at the Congregational church, on the "Problems of the future," was in every respect most excellent, and held the attention of his audience for an hour without any signs of loss of interest being manifested by any person. That so small a number were present is to be regretted, as it is not often that such an opportunity for hearing something really good occurs; and it is to be hoped that the few who did have the pleasure of listening to Mr. Haines, able interesting and instructive lecture, and to which he must have given much time and thought, will by no means be the only ones gratified by being so fortunate as to hear it. Other towns should, if possible, avail themselves of the privilege of hearing this lecture, for it certainly is fully equal to many that it costs one hundred dollars to secure.

The next lecture before the Martha Washington society, it is understood, is to be delivered by Rev. Mr. McGinley of Portsmouth, on Monday evening, March 7th, and it is to be hoped he will have a full house. After that, on March 15th and 16th, comes the festival, which the "Martha's" are looking forward to with great expectation.

The ladies connected with the Christian society have during the winter held semi-monthly socials at the town hall, and propose on next Wednesday evening, 23d inst., to give an entertainment and supper, to which they invite their friends.

The selectmen have posted the warrant for town meeting, and it appears by it that besides choosing the town officers there are but three other articles to consider, and these three relate to roads. The summer residents at Straw's point want a new road, leading from the Cable house across the marsh and pasture, to a point between C. O. Philbrick's and Mrs. James Brown's; while the residents in the immediate vicinity, and others, wish the road to be built across the back of the beach, where there is at present a passage-way through the sand. It is claimed by those who favor the latter plan that it is much the less expensive, and will answer all purposes. That there ought to be a well defined highway from the point to the Ocean house road, no one denies, and probably one will be laid out before long. The other article about roads is to take action in regard to widening and straightening the existing highway between the Centre school-house and Lang's hill.

A Great Monopoly.

Very few of the forty millions of people in the United States who burn kerosene know that its production, manufacture, and export, its price at home and abroad, have been controlled for years by a single corporation,—the Standard Oil company. This company began in a partnership, in the early years of the civil war, between Samuel Andrews and John Rockefeller in Cleveland. Rockefeller had been a bookkeeper in some interior town in Ohio, and had afterwards made a few thousand dollars by keeping a flour store in Cleveland. Andrews had been a day laborer in refineries, and so poor that his wife took in sewing. He found a way of refining by which more kerosene could be got out of a barrel of petroleum than by any other method, and set up for himself a ten-barrel still in Cleveland, by which he cleared $500 in six months. Andrews' still and Rockefeller's savings have grown into the Standard Oil company. It has a capital, nominally $2,500,000, but really much more, on which it divides among its stockholders every year millions of dollars of profits. It has refineries at Cleveland, Baltimore and New York. Its own acid works, glue factories, hardware stores, and barrel shops supply it with all the accessories it needs in its business. It has bought land in Indianapolis on which to erect the largest barrel factory in the country. It has drawn its check for $1,000,000 to suppress a rival. It buys 30,000 or 40,000 barrels of crude oil a day, at a price fixed by itself, and makes special contracts with the railroads for the transportation of 13,000,000 or 14,000,000 barrels of oil a year. The four quarters of the globe are partitioned among the members of the Standard combinations. One has the control of the China trade; another that of some country of Europe; another that of the United States. In New York, you cannot buy oil for East Indian export from the house that has been given the European trade; reciprocally, the East Indian house is not allowed to sell for export to Europe. The Standard produces only one fiftieth or sixtieth of our petroleum, but dictates the price of all, and refines nine-tenths. Circulars are issued at intervals by which the price of oil is fixed for all the cities of the country, except New York, where a little competition survives. Such is the indifference of the Standard Oil company to railroad charges that the price is made the same for points so far apart as Terre Haute, Chicago, and Keokuk. There is not today a merchant in Chicago, or in any other city in the New England, western, or southern states, dealing in kerosene, whose prices are not fixed for him by the Standard. In all cases these prices are graded so that a merchant in one city cannot export to another. Chicago, Cincinnati, or Cleveland is not allowed to supply the tributary towns. That is done by the Standard itself, which runs oil in its own tank cars to all the principal points of distribution. This corporation has driven into bankruptcy, or out of business, into union with itself, all the petroleum refineries of the country except five in New York, and a few of little consequence in western Pennsylvania. Nobody knows how many millions Rockefeller is worth. Current gossip among his business acquaintance in Cleveland puts his income last year at a figure second only, if second at all, to that of Vanderbilt. His partner, Samuel Andrews, the poor English day laborer, retired years ago with millions. Just who the Standard Oil company are, exactly what their capital is, and what are their relations to the railroads, nobody knows except in part. Their officers refused to testify before the supreme court of Pennsylvania, the late New York railroad investigating committee, and a committee of Congress. The New York committee found there was nothing to be learned from them, and was compelled to confess its inability to ascertain as much as it desired to know "of this mysterious organization, whose business and transactions are of such a character that its members declined giving a history or description, lest their testimony be used to convict them of crime."—H. D. LLOYD, in March Atlantic.

—Admiral Bythesea, a very distinguished officer, who has just retired from the service, after having for many years filled the post of consulting naval officer to the government of India, got his name by being, when an infant, picked up at sea by a ship of war, lashed to a bale of goods. Inquiry failed to elicit any sort of information about this human flotsam; so the ship's officers adopted him, called him "By-the-Sea," and sent him to a naval school. The first ship in which he served was that which had saved his life. He has the Victoria Cross and the Order of the Bath. If a man who was picked up at sea in this way is not entitled to the "order of the bath," there can be no use in having K. C. B.

—"Dearest Harold, I love you with deep devotion. Your image is ineffaceably engraven on the tablets of my memory, and in my heart the love I bear for you can never, never die. But I am extravagant, wildly ambitious to shine in society, to sit beside the jewelled queens of fashion, to dazzle all eyes with priceless gems, and so, dear, dear Harold, I must marry the plumber."

Holiday to-day; no CHRONICLE to-morrow.

Mr. Ralph L. Reinewald has resigned the position of cornet soloist at the Unitarian church.

Messrs, Coggswell and Lyman, bank commissioners, are in town making the customary examination of the condition of the Portsmouth savings bank.

Meeting at the Grange hall, Congress street, this evening, for the purpose of organizing a greenback club on a new and solid basis. All invited. William Weaver, of Nashua, will address the meeting.

The schooner Grace Choate came off the Peirce's island ledge on Monday afternoon at high water, and the tug Clara Batemen took her over to the navy yard. The extent of her injuries could not at the time be told.

Under the heading of "Egyptian Masonic Rite of Memphis" the Legion of Honor Journal says: "Sir Kt. O. M. Knight, 95th degree, Dep. Gr. Rep., of Portsmouth, N. H., is forming several new chapters in his state."

The fishing schooners carried into Newburyport last week about 85,000 lbs. of fish, and the dory fishermen landed at the same place about 15,000 lbs. The Forest Maid and Mary E. Smith took in the largest fares of the week.

Henry B. Haley and Curtis B. Edgerly, the two Newmarket men pardoned out of the state prison last week by the governor and council, were sent there in November, 1879, the former under sentence of three years and the latter of two years and six months, for burglary.

This evening, at Music hall, "The Jollities" will play "The Electrical Doll." It is said to be full of ludicrous situations, and numerous songs are introduced; two of the party we know to be fine singers, and the others are complimented very highly by the papers. Holders of tickets to the Star Lyceum course will be admitted to this entertainment on such tickets.

This afternoon and evening, at Franklin hall, there will be a series of foot races, including a two-mile go-as-you-please race for a meerschaum pipe, open to firemen only; a ten-mile walk, open to all persons in Rockingham, Strafford and York counties, for a gold medal and $10 in money; a five-mile go-as-you-please race, for $5, open to all; and a ten-mile walk by Dennis Driscoll against a team of five Portsmouth pedestrians, the latter to relieve each other every second mile, and the member of the team making the best record to have a silver cup. Prizes will also be given for club-swinging, jumping, etc. A large number of entries have been made.

The entertainment at Music hall, Sunday evening, was a success pecuniarily, and was satisfactory in so far as the amusement of the audience was concerned; but the "grand demonstration of the wonders and mysteries of spirit power, in full gaslight on the open stage," the rising of pianos and tables from the floor, and the passing around of flowers by spirit hands, in the glare of that same gaslight, were performed only on the programmes. The principal male performer shew himself an expert at the common cabinet and dark-lantern tricks, and Miss Nellie Everett, "the wonderful young medium," gave a very interesting and amusing exhibition of her power of "second-sight." As an entertainment it was worth more than the price of admission, but quite as good shows have been given here before by persons who professed to be acting under spiritual control, and by others who professed to expose spiritualism as a fraud and a delusion.

Foxes are quite plenty in Newington; one was shot a few mornings since in the barnyard of the Badger farm at the Bayside.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 22d.

On Washington's birthday last year we had fine coasting, and were allowed to make the best of it, but this year the mayor and the clerk of the weather interfere. BOYS.

Every ticket for Denman Thompson's performance of "Joshua Whitcomb" at Manchester on Wednesday evening of this week, was sold on Saturday, the first day of the sale. Joshua Whitcomb will appear at Portsmouth Music hall on Saturday evening next.

District Officer Manning, of Salem, Mass., on Monday forwarded to Sheriff Kent the papers for holding Whitfield Chichester, now in Portsmouth jail, after New Hampshire is through with him. The man wanted in Salem is the person who on the 11th inst., was before the police court here, having been drunk under the name of William Clayton, and as Whitfield Chichester stolen clothing, for which latter offence he is now held in $300 for trial before the supreme court. Chichester's offence in Salem was the stealing of clothing.

The fish arrivals on Monday were the schooners Rover's Bride with 3000 lbs.; George A. Upton, 5000; Celia, 2500; Daniel C. Baker, 5000; Shooting Star, 2000; Minnetta, 3500; Helen F. Osier, (netter,) 28,000; General Grant, 3500; Norma, 1000; Anna H. Mason, 5000; small boats, 1000 lbs. Schooners Azalia, Mary E. Caswell and Nettie Adams came in light.

We are informed that there was a narrow escape from a railroad disaster in this city on Thursday on last week, the occurrence as related to us being as follows: As the train which leaves this city at 5:40 o'clock P. M. for Great Falls and Wolfeboro' was nearing the bridge which connects Noble's island with the main land, the engineer noticed that the switch was misplaced, but saw it too late to stop the train, which ran off the switch but was thrown on to the main track by the patent frog, which fortunate circumstance averted a probable horror. The gatekeeper we are informed has since been discharged, and the engineer of that train laid by for the present.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Sturtevant vs. Davis and al. Complainant obtained an injunction restraining the defendants from making or vending any machine for cutting shoe pegs in violation of his patent. The injunction is still in force, but the complainant alleges in a petition that the injunction has been disregarded and that the defts. are in contempt, and asks for the usual remedy. The fact of the use of the machine referred to is admitted. The patent under which Sturtevant claims, expired Dec. 27th last. The question is whether, the patent having expired, the injunction is still in force, and has had since the expiry a binding force. The defts. contend that if they had violated the injunction they might have been liable in damages, but are not to be proceeded against after the expiration of the patent, but only during the life of the patent. Hyde, Dickinson and Howe for pltf.; Wadleigh and Fish for defts.

A PRUDENT ORDER.

When the air-brake for railroad carriages was introduced some years ago, it was assumed that the liability to accidents would be reduced in a very material degree, the engineer being able instantly to apply a great checking-power to his train, without waiting for the slower application of the hand-brakes by men who might quite possibly be some distance from the brake-wheels at the moment when brakes were called for by the whistle. There can be no question that giving the engineer power to stop, within a comparatively short distance, a train going at high speed, has prevented many collisions and other disasters; but on the other hand it has created a liability to accident which did not before exist, at least not to any great extent. A natural result of the possession of the power referred to, is to make the average engineer more venturesome in his approach to a crossing or a station —to influence him to keep the speed on until the last moment, and then rapidly reducing it, bring the train to a standstill just at the right moment.

This answers all right, ordinarily; but the air-brake, like all other of man's inventions, is liable to be disordered just when its proper working is most requisite. The anchor that has gone down clear, and held safely, for a hundred times in scores of harbors, at last goes down foul when it is let go as a last resort to keep too ship off a lee shore, and a disastrous wreck results. The watch that never was known to be out of the way, some day loses a half-hour, and its owner in consequence arrives at his friend's wedding ten minutes after the ceremony has taken place, or fails to reach the bank in time to transact some important business. And the air-brake, ordinarily so effective, once in a while refuses to work when called upon, two instances of which we will mention, they having come under our personal observation.

Shortly after the air-brake was adopted by the Eastern railroad we took a notion to go to Boston. Now experience has taught us that when we decide to go anywhere by rail, it would be economy on the part of the railroad officials to hire a buggy and driver to transport us, as the chances are about three to one that an accident of some kind will happen to the train before we arrive at our destination; there will be a collision, or a cow run over, or a car will run off the track, or the engine will break down exactly midway between two small stations, with no telegraph office anywhere near. The trip we are now speaking of was one of our unlucky ones; our train went into the depot at Lynn at a good rate of speed, the brakes did not work as anticipated, and an engine which was standing on the track received a good thump, both engines being somewhat broken up, and the passengers considerably shaken up and scared; the effect upon our nerves being such that instead of attending to business that evening, as we had intended, we went to the theatre to see the Black Crook.

More recently, before the Eastern railroad adopted the plan of running their engines through from Boston to Portland, an engine was standing on the track to the eastward of the depot in this city, ready to hook on to the train then due from Boston, and haul it to Portland. Soon the train approached at a rapid rate, and just at the time it should have commenced to slow down, a sharp hoot followed by a prolonged whistle gave the then stationary locomotive warning to get out of the way. The engineer and fireman were at their stations, and no time was lost in heeding the warning, but for a few moments the spectators thought a collision inevitable, the train rushing through the depot and closing fast with the fugitive engine; but the latter soon gathered speed, then it held its own, and then it went scampering over Noble's island bridge at a rate that defied pursuit. The train was stopped and backed into the depot, the runaway locomotive returned and hooked on, and no harm was done; yet it was really a narrow escape from a possibly serious disaster.

Were the hand-brakes depended upon for ordinary use, the air-brakes being reserved for emergencies, an additional element of safety would be conferred upon railroad travel. The Boston & Maine railroad has recognized this to a certain extent, and has ordered its locomotive engineers to make use only of the hand-brakes when coming to a stand before crossing other railroads at grade, holding the air-brakes in reserve, instead of depending primarily on the air-brakes, and having only the slow-acting hand-brakes to fall back on in case of dire need. This order might well be extended to the approaching of stations also, by that road and others, the few additional minutes which would be occupied in a fifty-miles run being more than compensated for by the decreased liability to accident.

—The other night, at the Mission in San Francisco, while Moody was dilating on the gratifying results of his preaching and his approaching departure to other fields of labor, a rough-looking listener in the gallery said: "Where are you going, Mr. Moody?" "I am going to heaven," said the evangelist promptly, "and I've been on the way for twenty-two years." "Well, if you've been on the road to heaven all that time and haven't got any further than 'Frisco, you'd better give it up, pard."

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Turbercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tubercular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

John P. Sweetser,

A Few Sharp Words.

"Hester!" exclaimed Aunt Susan, ceasing her rocking and knitting and sitting upright, "Do you know what your husband will do when you are dead?"

"What do you mean?" was the startled reply.

"He will go and marry the sweetest tempered girl he can find."

"O, auntie!" Hester began.

"Don't interrupt me till I have finished," said Aunt Susan, leaning back and taking up her knitting. "She may not be as pretty as you are, but she will be good-natured. She may not be as bright as you are, but she will be good-natured. She may not be as good a housekeeper as you are, in fact, I think she will not, but she will be good-natured. She may not even love him as well as you do, but she will be more good-natured."

"Why, auntie—"

"That isn't all," continued Aunt Susan. "Every day you live you are making your husband more and more in love with that good-natured woman who may take your place some day. After Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left you the other evening, the only remark he made about them was, 'She is a sweet woman.'"

"But, auntie—"

"That isn't all," composedly said Aunt Susan. "To-day your husband was half across the kitchen floor bringing you the first ripe peaches, and all you said was to look up and say, 'There, Will, just see your muddy tracks on my clean floor, all tracked up.' Some men would have thrown the peaches out of the window. One day you screwed up your face when he kissed you, because his moustache was damp, and said, 'I never want you to kiss me again.' When he empties anything you tell him not to spill it; when he lifts anything you tell him not to break it. From morning till night your sharp voice is heard complaining and fault finding. And last winter when you were so sick, you scolded him for allowing the pump to freeze, and took no notice when he said, 'I was so anxious about you, that I could not think about the pump.'"

"But, auntie—"

"Hearken, child. The strongest, most intellectual men of them all care more for a woman's tenderness than for anything else in this world, and without this the cleverest woman and the most perfect housekeeper is sure to lose her husband's affection in time. There may be a few more men like your Will, as gentle, as loving and chivalrous, as forgetful of self, and so satisfied with loving that their affection will die a long, struggling death; but in most cases it takes but a few years of fretfulness and fault-finding to turn a husband's love into irritated indifference."

"Well, auntie—"

"Yes, well! You are not dead yet, and, that sweet-tempered woman has not been found; so you have time to become so serene and sweet that your husband can never imagine that there is a better tempered woman in existence."

—Acording to Tourgee, there is a generally accepted tradition at the south that the last words of Washington were, "Never trust a nigger with a gun."

—The wise daughter is the pride of her father; her mother also doth delight in her; but the foolish maiden bringeth sorrow. She tippeth up her hat over her left ear. Her eye is full of the Old Nick. She glanceth over her shoulder when she promenades the streets. Her handkerchief also is seen. Then the dry goods clerk says, "Ha! ha!" He smileth to himself; he makes mistakes in the measure of calico.

—Nearly all the burial places in Philadelphia are systematically robbed, including even the Roman Catholic cemeteries, where the church discipline is most rigid. Grave diggers are in league with the grave robbers, and place the bodies in specified positions for robbers. The deaths in the almshouse for the past twenty-three years have averaged thirty per week. Allowing that one-third of these, or ten per week, were delivered to the anatomists, it would aggregate 520 a year, and in twenty-three years at least 11,960 bodies are cut up. Probably there is not the vestige of a bone in Blockley cemetery, the bodies all having been stolen. Bodies are shipped to neighboring cities in barrels, packed in sawdust, and labelled "apples."

From Centennial Headquarters.—I find Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup excellent, having a ready sale and rendering more satisfaction than any cough syrup I have ever sold." A. B. Maloney, M. D., Fifteenth and Carpenter streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

The inauguration of President Garfield is to be celebrated in Portland, Me., by a "non-partisan" ball, and Governor Plaisted, his staff and executive council, and General J. L. Chamberlain and staff, are to be present.

That's a Fact.

A man can't work unless he feels well. The hard times have made plenty of people sick simply by worrying them almost out of their wits about money and business. Trouble of mind has brought on trouble of body. There is indigestion, heaviness in the head, and all that. Are you afflicted in this way? Go and invest one dollar for a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and it will make a new man of your. It takes the bile out of the blood, and is worth a trip to Rondout, N. Y.,—the doctor's home—on foot, if you can not get it more easily. First, however, see if your druggist hasn't got it.

An Iowa republican says that building school-houses within a mile and a half of one another all over the state is what has enabled Iowa to roll up 30,000 republican majority.

Fees of Doctors.

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post.

The charred body of George Mitchian, a Leadville, Col., miner, was found in his cabin last Thursday. A lamp explosion caused his death.

Of the various forms of administering phosphorous and phosphatic preparations in use, none have been found so completly adapted to the requirements of the age as Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount? If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

Daily Chronicle.

The Czar and the Press.

There is no longer any need of boasting of the power of the printing press; its potent influence is acknowledged in every quarter of the globe where dwell men that can read, no matter what language. Tyrants have come to fear it quite as much as our patriotic native orators told us they would, on the recurring Fourths-of-July all the way from 1815 to the outbreak of the war for the Union.

While the printing presses make despots tremble, the malignant tyrants make it as uncomfortable as possible for the printers. The autocrat of all the Russias, whose life has been made uncomfortable for many years past by plots against his life, has waged, and is waging, a retaliatory warfare on newspapers and printers. His secret foes have corresponded with each other, and stirred up strife, through the medium of newspapers which the mighty czar, with all his power, tried in vain to suppress; finding that editors and publishers, whose editorial rooms and publication offices were everywhere in general and nowhere in particular, constantly eluded the vigilance of his police, and tauntingly defied him by circulating their objectionable papers in his palaces, serving copies thereof in his private apartments.

After much searching after, and persecution of journalists, it occurred to the Russian emperor that newspapers could not be made without type and printers; he therefore had every printing office in St. Petersburg placed under rigid surveillance—a strict censorship which is still in force. The new system of preventing the printing of journals opposed to the irresponsible rule of the czar was inaugurated by compelling the printers of St. Petersburg to weigh their stocks of type, and give the figures to the police authorities. Agents, delegated by the latter officials, make the rounds of the printeries at irregular intervals, and reweigh the type; should any be missing, the proprietor is forthwith arrested on the charge of having furnished the wanting type to parties printing papers against the czar. No excuses or explanations are received. One unfortunate proprietor, whose stock of type was a few pounds short, in vain tried to account for the missing metal by stating that his apprentice boys had a bad habit of carrying off "pi" and throwing it away. His office and contents were confiscated; he thrown into prison, and the lads who might have carried off the type placed under the espionage of the police. It is not a pleasant thing to own a printing establishment in St. Petersburg, or anywhere else in Russia, at the present time. Type may be stolen in the night by conspirators desirous of issuing a paper; the owner of the abstracted metal, though entirely innocent and suffering pecuniary loss, is punished as though he were the arch-conspirator. Under such oppressive conditions, printing offices are likely to diminish rapidly in St. Petersburg and all the leading cities and towns of Russia.

That's a Fact.

A man can't work unless he feels well. The hard times have made plenty of people sick simply by worrying them almost out of their wits about money and business. Trouble of mind has brought on trouble of body. There is indigestion, heaviness in the head, and all that. Are you afflicted in this way? Go and invest one dollar for a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and it will make a new man of your. It takes the bile out of the blood, and is worth a trip to Rondout, N. Y.,—the doctor's home—on foot, if you can not get it more easily. First, however, see if your druggist hasn't got it.

Fees of Doctors.

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Boyton Thought to be Dead.

Paul Boyton, the celebrated swimmer, who made the voyage down the Merrimac two years ago, is believed to have lost his life in the war between Chili and Peru. The Pittsburg (Pa.) Commercial says: "Last fall Boyton entered into contract with the government of Peru to superintend a torpedo service, for which he received a magnificent remuneration. Nothing has been heard from him since Christmas, although previous to that time he wrote weekly to an intimate friend in this city. In his last letter he inclosed his will, and said that he believed he would not survive the impending battle. The long silence has filled his friends with alarm."

News and Notes.

Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody, so long connected with Harvard college in the two-fold capacity of Plummer professor of Christian morals and preacher to the university, has sent in his resignation, to take effect at the close of the present college year. His present position he has held since 1860. He proposes to go abroad and make a somewhat extended stay.

Charles Peterson, alias Thomas Alston, a Gloucester fisherman, was before the police court in Newburyport on Monday, the 21st inst., charged with having on the Friday previous stolen fish from the traps of Alexander Thurlow and John H. Pike. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs, which he paid. The witnesses for the defence testified that it is a common custom for the Gloucester fishermen to take what they pulled up, and that they did not intend to rob other people of their property. The witnesses are fearful of losing their business. The value of the fish that was about $[illegible], if all who have lost fish in business do not [illegible] value of the production at the same price per can will be over $2,500,000, a difference in value of $1,800,000; good chance for loss there for somebody.

At an amateur go-as-you-please contest of twenty-four hours in New York, ending on the evening of Feb. 22d, a boy of fifteen, Thomas Smith, Jr., was one of the contestants. After covering ninety-eight miles the boy was taken to his tent in an exhausted condition, and in a short time was half-carried by his father from the tent to the track, where he fainted. The boy is now in a critical condition, and the inhuman father has been arrested under the cruelty-to-children act.

At Washington, Feb. 22d, the jury in the case of John S. M. Johnson, white, indicted for the murder of James E. Johnson, colored, brought in a verdict of manslaughter. The United States attorney said in court that he had hoped the time for equal justice had arrived in the district, but he was forced to submit to the verdict. There was much indignation among the colored men present, as the killing was unprovoked, and followed closely after the Hirth murder, for which two colored men were recently hanged, the victim being white.

The British government has decided not to prohibit the importation of American pork at present, for there is no evidence that it is diseased to a greater extent than other imported pork. The extraordinary concessions demanded by the government before accepting Coasters' Harbor island for a naval training station is the prominent topic of conversation at Newport, R. I., and a great deal of opposition to the scheme is being developed. A member of the beard of aldermen states that if the question was put to tax payers again to give the island for the purpose named, without condition, it would have less than ten hundred votes. It is now thought that New London, Conn., will secure the training school.

A GOOD WORK.

Among the most marked evidences of the progress which the present age is making in the direction of an enlightened civilization, is the steadily-spreading influence acquired by societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Their work in behalf of dumb beasts can be prompted only by an unselfish interest in the cause of abused and suffering creatures, who are incapable of either making their distresses known or of rewarding their voluntary defenders.

It is creditable to human nature that the brave example of the heroic Bergh has awakened such a wide-spread sympathy for the creatures whom God has created a little lower than men. The "fellow feeling" which should make us kind to them, is only beginning to be felt; but, thanks to the well-directed efforts of a few humane persons in every community, the "Gospel of Love" is now so interpretated that every creature from the lowest to the most exalted is made a partaker of the blessings it confers upon the world.

New Hampshire, which has always enjoyed an enviable reputation among the enlightened communities of the age, was one of the first states to enact laws for the protection of its voiceless and voteless subjects, thereby recognizing its obligations to the brute creatures through whose toil, in great measure, its sterile soil has been rendered inhabitable and productive.

The good effect of the S. P. C. A. is perceptible to the most casual observer, in the improved methods of feeding, training, clothing and sheltering horses and cattle, in city and country. A. C.

Political.

The republicans of the Pennsylvania legislature, after an almost interminable squabble, on the 22d inst. made choice of John J. Mitchell as their candidate for United States senator. He is a member of the present Congress. He has never been heard of to any great extent, but the democratic and "independent" papers appear to be very much displeased with his advancement, so his selection is probably a good one.

The New York Tribune believes there is a good prospect of electing a republican as a successor to Fernando Wood. His majority in November was only 1,500, and no other democrat can have anything like his personal strength in the district.

When Schuyler Colfax was speaker of the House he was once compelled to publicly censure Fernando Wood for speaking of a reconstruction measure as "one of the most infamous acts of this most infamous Congress."

NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE

Contains more original matter

TO ADVERTISERS

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a weekly visitation to customers, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is received much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

The birthday of the father his country was very quietly observed in this city. The bells were rung, morning, noon and evening; and a salute was fired on the navy yard at noon. Business generally was suspended at twelve o'clock.

A select party of ladies and gentlemen attended the bicycle and skating matinee in the upper Franklin hall, in the afternoon; several ladies donned the skates, and the opinion was general that this invigorating and graceful exercise should and would become one of the popular amusements of the day.

The walking match in Franklin hall was well patronized, there being between two and three hundred spectators present in the afternoon, when a ten-mile walk took place between Daniel Collins, Jacob Burns and John Morrison of this city, Archy Jenness of Rye, and Dio Lewis of Kittery. Collins took the lead at the start, made some good spurts, and came in ahead by fifteen laps; time, one hour and forty minutes. Lewis held second place nearly all through the race, but was pressed by Jenness, who on the last mile passed him and came in second; time, one hour, forty-nine minutes and two seconds. Lewis' time was one hour and fifty minutes. Burns withdrew on the first mile, and Morrison on the ninth. In the evening a five-mile go-as-you-please race was won by Dobbin, of Dover. The two-mile race, for firemen only, was won by George Hooper of Kearsarge engine company; and in a jumping match, A. Callahan was the winner. The five-mile walk between Dennis Driscoll of Lynn and five competitors who relieved each other every mile, was easily won by Driscoll, who was heartily applauded; his principal competitor was Daniel Collins of this city.

In the evening a large audience assembled in Music hall, where the Jollities combination presented the "Electrical Doll." The piece is styled a "musical absurdity," but unlike many others of its class, it has a definite plot, which is cleverly worked out. It deals with the attempt of Cornelius Twist, an old toy maker, to manufacture for his son a doll wife, and his joint attempt with the devil to give life to the doll. He finds that he has created a female fiend instead of an angel, and he sets to work to build another, and gets into innumerable complications, which create no end of fun. Five people constitute the company, (Messrs. Stanley Felch, Frank A. Daniels and J. C. Bartlett, Miss Lillian Brown and Miss Lou Bickford,) and these five do more funny acts, say more funny sayings, and sing more humorous songs in the course of two hours and a half than would suffice for a dozen ordinarily amusing entertainments. The music, of which there are some twenty-five numbers, is finely sung, and is one of the best features of the entertainment.

There was a political meeting at Grange hall in the evening, when and where measures were taken to form a greenback club.

AROUND HOME.

Schooner Margie, Capt. Hoyt, which has been laid up at this port, is getting ready for sea. She will go to Portland, and take a cargo of lumber from there to New York.

Strawberry Bank and Mount Sinai Encampments of Odd Fellows are to celebrate their anniversary with a dramatic entertainment, supper and dance, at Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening next.

The schooner Grace Choate came across the river from the navy yard on Tuesday, and on Wednesday morning started out to pick up her trawls, intending afterward to proceed to Gloucester, where she will go on the railway. The only injury done to her by her striking Peirce's island ledge, was the knocking off of a piece of her fore shoe.

Mr. E. W. Cochrane sold out his livery stable stock to the Stoddard brothers on Wednesday morning.

Ticket No. 427 drew the gold watch and chain at the "Jollities" performance at Music hall, Tuesday evening, it being the last entertainment in the Star Lyceum course for this season.

It is rumored that the Amoskeag Mills company of Manchester will rebuild the Kearsarge mills and make extensive additions, if the citizens of this city will assist them by taking stock to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars.

Among the visitors to our city on Washington's birth-day was a party of young scholars who were driven from Newburyport in a barge drawn by four horses, and who announced their arrival by blasts from a huge tin horn. The youngsters dined at the Rockingham house, and started on their return at four o'clock P. M., having evidently had a fine time.

The New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has investigated the charge against M. V. B. Dickerson of Goshen, who is accused of having starved seven cattle to death, out of a herd of twenty. The surviving cattle are now being properly cared for by the selectmen of Goshen. Proceedings are being instituted before the probate court of Sullivan county to have a guardian appointed for Dickerson, who is thought to be insane.

The fishing arrivals on Tuesday, Feb. 22d, were as follows: Schooner Christie Campbell, with 5000 lbs. of fish; Julia A., 2500 lbs.; Azalia, 800; Celia, 2000; Ev Nichols, 2000; Flying Eagle, 2000 lbs. The Azalia found her trawls badly chafed by the rocks on the bottom; the Lucy did not find her trawls at all. On Wednesday the Defiance (netter) arrived with 12,000 lbs. of fish; the Flying Eagle, Mary E. Caswell and John H. Smart, 2000 lbs. each; Helen F. Tredick, 800; Bonita, 140.

About twenty-five members of Temple Lodge, K. of H., of Manchester, visited Gov. Goodwin lodge of this city on Wednesday evening of this week, by invitation; work in the third degree was exemplified, after which a supper was served. The officers of Temple Lodge are: Dictator, Samuel F. Drew; vice dictator, William A. Perry; assistant dictator, Edwin H. Hall. The visiting lodge had as guests S. C. Gould, P. G. D., and Thomas W. Lane, G. V. D., the latter of whom is chief of the Manchester fire department.

Riverside Council, American Legion of Honor, was instituted Tuesday evening, Feb. 22d, by D. S. C. Oliver M. Knight, and the following officers were installed by D. D. S. C. William P. Walker: Past Com., F. E. Dearborn; Comdr., O. M. Knight; Vice Comdr., S. R. Marston; Orator, Wm. R. Foster; Sec., Floron Barri; Treas., Chas. E. Batchelder; Collector, John H. Lowd; Guide, Geo. E. Burt; Warden, James Sanborn; Sec., H. D. Marston; Examining Physician, B. Dearborn; Trustees, F. E. Dearborn, J. Sanborn and J. Janvrin.

A school in one of the towns not ten miles from this city must be a close imitation of "Minnie Palmer's Boarding-school," if one-half of the stories in circulation concerning it are true. Pistols are fired, snowballs and paper "spit-balls" are hurled at the teacher's head, the girls and boys sit together and change seats at will—all being done in school hours. On a recent afternoon all the scholars but five left the school, and went skating and sliding on a pond near by, where they spent the whole afternoon, all efforts of the teacher to get them to return proving abortive.

In accordance with the previous notice, a meeting was held in Grange hall on the evening of Feb. 22d, to form a Union Greenback Labor club. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Gardner J. Greenleaf, club-organizer for New Hampshire, who read the constitution and bylaws of the organization, as revised, and then introduced Mr. Weaver of Nashua, who spoke for about an hour, and was followed by A. J. Hoyt of Exeter. Several persons then signed their names as members of the new club. Mr. John E. Roberts was chosen president pro tem of the club, and the meeting adjourned to his call.

Rockingham Lodge, I. O. G. T., of this city, and Whipple Lodge of Kittery, by invitation of Strawberry Bank Lodge partook of a supper in the hall of the former on Pleasant street, on Wednesday evening, 23d inst. There have been several courtesies of this kind extended by the various temperance organizations of this city and vicinity to each other, which have drawn together a large number of young persons, who have made the weekly meetings a source of enjoyment, and kept many young men from places where they might have yielded to influences of a nature far from beneficial.

The sale of tickets for "The Guv'nor" at Franklin theatre Saturday evening, has been brisk, but good seats are still to be obtained at Stavers' store. Over 400 seats were sold up to Wednesday evening.

Washington's birth-day, as far as fine weather and good sleighing could contribute, was an enjoyable day. Persons who drove to Dover were surprised to see the banks and places of business open just as if it was not a legal holiday. A Dover man explained it that the people in that city had not recovered sufficiently from the loss occasioned by the departure of Col. Bracewell, and they could not at present be expected to conduct like other folks.

C. T. Garland, Esq., formerly of Rye but now of Austin, Texas, as counsel for Emile Francois (a white man sentenced to Texas penitentiary for five years, for marrying a colored woman) has secured from the circuit court of the United States an important anti-state-supremacy decision, in the shape of a peremptory order directing the writ of habeas corpus to issue for the prisoner's release, on the ground that the article in the criminal code of Texas making miscegenation a penal offence was abrogated by the 14th amendment to the national constitution. This decision overrules the extreme state-supremacy decisions of the Texas courts in several similar cases.

DEATH OF AN OLD INHABITANT.

Mrs. Mary W. Goodrich, whose death occurred on Tuesday, Feb. 22d, was the widow of Col. John Goodrich, who once kept a grocery store and was wharfiger of Langdon's wharf, which was just north of Pier wharf at the foot of Daniel street. For many years Capt. Goodrich was master of one of the Boston packets, the fine schooner Mary Gay, which was named for his wife. When the Eastern railroad reached Portsmouth he engaged in teaming the freight which came from Boston by rail, and continued in the teaming business nearly to the close of his life in 1870.

Mr. Goodrich was a sergeant of Capt. Neal's company of artillery, detached from the first brigade of New Hampshire militia, and stationed at Fort McClary in this harbor in the war of 1812. He served from June 29th to Nov. 30th, 1812. The company was composed principally of residents of Portsmouth, with a few members from Rye and Stratham. Of the Rye members were Richard R. Locke and Joseph L. Locke.

He was lieutenant colonel of the first regiment of New Hampshire militia in 1821, serving under the late Col. Joshua W. Peirce, and upon Col. Peirce's retirement in 1823, was appointed colonel, serving under Gov. Levi Woodbury. He was succeeded in this position by the late Col. Samuel Gookin.

Mrs. Goodrich was married March 21st, 1815, and has drawn a pension since 1878. Had she married a few days earlier, or before February 17th, 1815, she would have been entitled to have drawn a pension from Feb. 14th, 1871. One of her surviving children is Rev. Massena Goodrich of Pawtucket, R. I., while two daughters have remained under her roof to this time. She was greatly beloved by a large circle of relatives and friends, and was of most amiable disposition and kindly traits of character.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The Maine senate on Feb. 22d passed to be engrossed an act for the protection of fish in Barrell's mill-pond in the town of York.

There was a social assembly in Trefethen's hall, Kittery, Tuesday evening; the attendance was very large, and the occasion was a most enjoyable one.

Christ church in Biddeford and Trinity church of Saco, at a meeting of both parishes, have voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev Edwin F. Small of St. Mark's Mission, Waterville.

The grave of Mr. John Main of York, whose death was announced some weeks ago, was opened Feb. 22d, as from the sinking in of the earth on one side, it was feared that the body had been removed. The examination showed that there had been no disturbance of the corpse.

The cry for more negro labor in South Carolina is pretty general. Labor is scarce and dear, even where the colored population is heaviest.—Charleston, (S. C.) News.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tubercular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons affected as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

SOUTH SEABROOK, Feb. 22d.

The scholars of the East Salisbury high school recently gave an entertainment at the vestry here, the Atlantic cornet band furnishing the music. School gymnastics, recitations, dialogues, chemical experiments, blackboard drawing and penmanship made a very pleasant evening's entertainment. Although the evening was stormy, nineteen dollars were taken at the door. The proceeds were divided between the band and the East Salisbury library. Mr. E. Y. Turner, the teacher of this school, is about to give up teaching for the study of law. We understand the school will soon give an exhibition in Hampton, in aid of the library.

Your life is in danger when you allow a severe cough or cold to go unchecked. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a cheap, harmless and reliable remedy.

No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are guaranteed to cure; for particulars see wrappers and pamphlets. They are reliable, have not sprung into popularity in a week or month and gone out of favor as rapidly, but being sustained by merit, have won a world-wide reputation, necessitating a branch in London, to supply foreign countries, while the home sales are enormous throughout the United States. Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood, preventing fevers, and curing all skin and scrofulous affections, stimulating the liver to action, relieving biliousness, and curing consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs. If the bowels are costive take Pierce's Pellets (little pills). Both sold by druggists.

CHICAGO, ILL., May 5th, 1879.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION:

Gentlemen—For years I have been a great sufferer. My troubles first started with terrible ague chills and constipations. This left me in 1878 with a racking cough and frequent bleedings from the lungs. Since this time I have been continually doctoring, consulting physicians without number. From them I received no benefit or encouragement. The most noted physicians of our city who last visited me expressed their opinions in the brief but hopeless words, "Take good care of yourself the few days you have to live; we cannot help you." I grew steadily worse under their treatment. One day, through reading your memorandum book I learned of the Golden Medical Discovery. With but little hope of relief, I purchased a bottle and took it. To my surprise and satisfaction it did me more good than all the drugs I had taken the year around. I am now steadily using it with benefit, and recommend it to all to be just what it is advertised.

Sincerely yours, JAMES P. MCGRATH, 50 Wight Street.

A Capital Substitute.

Once a man searched through what is now the state of Florida to find a fountain he had heard was there, which was able to make an old person young again. He failed. We can't be boys or girls again. Age and infirmity are sure to come, but God did not ordain sickness. That is our fault. There is no fountain of youth, but there is a fountain of health, and its other name is Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It comes from nature—from the fields and flowers, and like them is "very good." Try it for complaints of women, blood troubles, and pains and aches everywhere. If you can't get it at the store, send one dollar for a bottle to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

I have had the liver complaint twenty-five years and my blood became poisoned, and abscesses formed on my limbs, ten of them at one time, and discharged like ulcers. Was given up to die by sixteen different doctors. Twelve bottles D. R. V. G. has caused all sores to fill with new flesh and heal; I am thirty pounds heavier in my flesh than I ever was, and sound and well; age 47. D. R. V. G. saved my life.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

ODE TO A HOG.

Thou art not handsome looking, I allow;
For 'tis thy dinner hour and thou dost fill
Thyself, as full as thou canst hold, of swill.
The statement, that thou lov'st not, makes me wroth,
For even now I see thee plight thy troth.
Oh, hog, three times to-day, thou from thy pen
Did'st break, and had to be returned again.
The last time thou got caught beneath a gate;
Then thou lamented at a fearful rate,
So that the neighbors came upon the run,
Thinking some murder foul was being done.
I lift the gate; thou run'st with all thy might,
And I pursue thee, till exhausted quite.
And then a different course with thee I take,
A man stands by the pen with club to shake,
As if he did not mean to let thee in.
Thou lookest on that plan as very thin;
So for the pen thou rushest, like a shot,
Woe to the man who in thy way has got!
Thou dodgest 'twixt his legs, and, with a thud,
He goeth down head foremost in the mud,
He cleeth and doth vigorously swear,
While cleaning out the mud from mouth and hair.
While with the gate behind thee closed once more,
Thou calmly lieest down and soon doth snore.
O hog, thou causest men such things to say
As will disturb them on the judgment day!
Yet hog, I'm fond of thee! And like thee most
As chops, though well I like thee as a roast.
I leave thee, hog, to slumber in thy pen—

A Senatorial Damon and Pythias.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Times says:

With a few of the republicans Senator Thurman has always been on the most intimate personal terms. This has been particularly true as regards Senator Edmunds. Both gentlemen are members of the judiciary committee, and the republican giant in constitutional law has always, but especially since Thurman's service on the electoral commission, had great respect for his legal ability. This respect, which was, of course, returned, has in late years ripened into a warm personal friendship, which develops itself in many odd ways. For instance, the two senators almost invariably take in company that refreshment and little stimulant which they may find necessary during a long and tiresome session. On such occasions their movements are quite as eccentric as they are amusing, and to the initiated well understood. When the opportunity offers or the spirit moves, one or the other of them—it is sometimes one and then the other—will solemnly and slowly rise in his place and look slyly and significantly toward his "brother senator." Then the latter will in a moment be seen also to rise in his place. Then they go out of the chamber, from different doors, always solemnly and slowly. In the same manner they go, by different stairways, down to their committee room. There they meet, enter together, and the door is closed upon the outside world. What they do upon the inside can only be surmised, but it is noticeable that when they have been so closeted for a few moments they invariably return to the senate chamber, looking very much refreshed and strengthened. Sometimes one returns before the other. At such times, if it happens that a vote be in progress, and Edmunds being absent, Thurman's name is called, that gentleman, with the utmost gravity, though a close observer may notice a sly twitch in his eye, always replies:

"Upon this question, Mr. President, I am paired with my honored friend, the senator from Vermont. If he were present he would vote no—I should vote yes."

Exactly in the same fashion, if the great republican senator be the first in the chamber and Mr. Thurman absent during roll call, the tall, straight form of Edmunds may be seen slowly rising, and then comes in deep tones from the closeted and scarcely moving lips, the words:

"Upon this question, Mr. President, I am paired with my honored friend, the senator from Ohio. If he were present he would vote yes—I should vote no."

Then, slowly, again, the senator from Vermont takes his seat, and shortly after, when his "honored friend," the senator from Ohio, is again in his place, and has used his now historical bandanna handkerchief, they exchange glances and go back to work. At such times he is an unfortunate man who attempts to contradict either of them in regard to a question of constitutional law. Allen G. Thurman, his rugged red face, portly form, clear-cut speeches, sound law and grim humor, will be greatly missed in the United States senate. Most of all, however, will he be missed by his friend, the senator from Vermont.

That's a Fact.

A man can't work unless he feels well. The hard times have made plenty of people sick simply by worrying them almost out of their wits about money and business. Trouble of mind has brought on trouble of body. There is indigestion, heaviness in the head, and all that. Are you afflicted in this way? Go and invest one dollar for a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and it will make a new man of your. It takes the bile out of the blood, and is worth a trip to Rondout, N. Y.,—the doctor's home—on foot, if you can not get it more easily. First, however, see if your druggist hasn't got it.

Carl Jansen, suffering with delirium tremens, was found on a cake of ice in the Hudson river at New York, Feb. 21st. A policeman tried to rescue him, when he fired six shots from a revolver and jumped into the river. He was rescued, but is dying in the hospital.

An El Paso special states that a party of Mexicans from Corrales, Mexico, report that about 200 Indians attacked a settlement on the outskirts of Corrales, and murdered several women and children.

Ash-Tonic;
A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

Death of Senator Carpenter.

Hon. Matt. H. Carpenter, United States senator from Wisconsin, died at his residence in Washington at 9:30 o'clock in the morning on the 24th inst. He was a native of Vermont, and studied law with Rufus Choate in Boston. He made his home in Wisconsin since 1848.

Judge Isaac W. Smith, in his eulogy on Judge Wm. H. Bartlett, said that the deceased judge "Never failed to show that he had the courage of his convictions whenever the occasion called for it." That is the kind of courage which judges should possess, and will prevent them from going down into their boots when placed in a position requiring nerve and judicial stamina.

Hon. Charles H. Burns of Wilton has been sworn in as United States district attorney for the district of New Hampshire.

James Thurston, secretary of the Hedding camp-meeting association, claims that the recent statement relative to fourteen cottages being obliged to be removed is entirely inaccurate. He says suit has been brought against only one cottager by a person who claims the right of way, and that this suit is still unsettled. The situation of the one cottage in dispute is such that should a decision be given against it, it would by no means follow that the other fourteen cottages and the well belonging to the association will have to be removed forthwith.

The agricultural department at Washington credits New Hampshire with raising last year 2,309,800 bushels of corn, an increase of about half a million bushels over 1879.

Fifteen years ago there was little or no coal used in Laconia, and now 2,500 tons are annually marketed there.

A few days ago a Madbury man assaulted his wife, as he had often done before, but this time she got a club and bravely turned on him, and exerted herself so successfully that he cried for mercy. She made him promise never to assault her again, before she would let up.

The bullet with which Lawrence of Chester shot his wife has been removed, and the lady will recover. The ball, which was 22-caliber and minie shape, passed through the lower part of the abdomen, near the groin, a distance of eight and one-half inches, and was taken out on the hip by making an incision of three-quarters of an inch.

The State Encampment, G. A. R., met at Plymouth on Wednesday, the session holding over on Thursday. The meeting was for the election of officers.

Barton G. Towne, seventy years old, died at Lancaster, Feb. 21st. Hattie Bugbee, his grandaughter, died last July, as did her mother and the servant girl; and in September Mr. Towne's son, Dr. Towne, also passed away—all from blood poisoning. After the death of Mrs. Bugbee, a thorough examination into the condition of the premises was made, and reported excellent. As all of the persons named assisted in the care of Mrs. Bugbee and Hattie during their sickness, it is believed that their systems became impregnated with the virus of the disease, and that death, although at so distant a day, was the direct result. Mr. Towne was the father of Dr. Francis L. Towne, a surgeon in the United States regular army.

The prosecution in Manchester of parties for fast driving is creating a flurry among owners of speedy horseflesh.

News and Notes.

At Danville, Va., a few evenings ago, a spiritualist and clairvoyant seance was given by a travelling spiritualist calling himself J. Foster of New York, which was attended by a large crowd. The performance was generally regarded as a swindle, and after its close Dr. R. V. Barksdale, a prominent physician, swore out a warrant against Foster, charging him with obtaining money from the sale of tickets under false pretences. Foster, however, had taken the night train and escaped.

While Mrs. O'Donovan Rossa was reading in Nordheimer's hall in Montreal, Monday night, Feb. 22d, a bullet was fired through the window, and fell in the hall without hitting anyone. The miscreant who fired it escaped.

Louis Alfredo, an acrobat, fell from a trapeze at Tony Pastor's theatre in New York on the evening of Feb. 23d, and was seriously injured. The accident caused great excitement in the house.

Some one has made the Agricultural society of Paris believe that the United States government has prohibited the importation of French wines on the ground that they were prejudicial to the health of the people, and the French ministry is appealed to.

John Taylor, a steamboat engineer at Chattanooga, Tenn., quarrelled with Capt. John Fletcher, Feb. 23d, on the river bank, when without provocation Taylor shot Fletcher three times, causing instant death. Taylor is a desperate character. Fletcher was an aged man, and highly esteemed. The murderer escaped.

Considerable excitement is caused in and about Chatham, Va., by the discovery that nearly all of the colored people living in the vicinity of Pleasant Gap are joining a newly organized league, the constitution of which forbids the members from hiring themselves as laborers to white farmers. The object of this organization is to force all landowners to work their land on shares with the colored people.

A despatch from Lisbon reports that thirty-six successive shocks of earthquake have occurred at St. Michael's in the Azores. One church and two hundred houses have fallen in, and several persons have been killed.

In Tompkinsville, Ky., Feb. 22d, after dark, a stone was thrown against the door of a house occupied by James Feller. As Feller opened the door he was shot through the heart. Thirty-seven slugs were found in the body. Wm. Smith is now in jail charged with the murder. The wife and daughter of Feller have been arrested as accessories. The wife is a pretty woman of twenty-four, and her stepdaughter is nineteen. Smith ran off with Feller's wife a year ago, and hard feelings have existed between them ever since. The wife is educated but bears a bad reputation.

Later reports of the fighting at Lima say that the Chilian loss at both battles reached from 8,000 to 10,000, and that of the Peruvians about the same. The explosion of mines and automatic shells caused terrible havoc in the Chilian ranks.

Hereafter the United States troops are to be equipped with spiked and plumed helmets. The foot troops wear the spikes, while the cavalry and mounted artillery wear the horse-hair plumed helmet as at present. The helmets are to be made of cork and covered with black cloth.

A few days before the recent cold snap in the south, the owner of an extensive orange plantation on Orange Lake, Florida, was offered $35,000 out of hand for the crop of oranges then on the trees. He refused it. The cold of the next few days killed all the fruit.

The celebration over the return of the flags of the Twenty-seventh Massachusetts Regiment, which were captured at Drury's Bluff, Va., Jan. 16th, 1864, and have but just been recovered, called over 200 members of that regiment together at Springfield, Feb. 22d. The address of the day was by Chaplain C. L. Woodworth of Boston, and there was a parade and dinner. The flags were given to Mayor Haile to be placed in the city library. After dinner speeches were made by officers from various regiments.

Schooner David Sherman, owned by James Tarr & Bro., arrived at Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 22d, minus her captain, John P. Wolfe. He sailed for Georges, Feb. 11th, and the Tuesday following the owners had a telegram from the cook at Liverpool, N. S., stating that the captain had obtained $200 from a merchant of that place on account of the vessel, and had decamped. He had hitherto borne a good character, and from the fact that he left his watch and best clothes at home, is seems the flight was not premeditated.

Political.

Thomas B. Swan was expelled from the Maine house of representatives, Feb. 23d, by unanimous vote.

Senator Blaine appeared in the national senate on Wednesday, Feb. 23d, for the first time since his sickness. He was congratulated by his brother senators, with the exception of Mr. Conkling.

Mr. J. M. Campbell, a former well known Manchester editor and publisher, but now a Florida farmer, recently occupied two columns in the Lowell Times to prove that Gen. Grant was a poor general and a worse president. This is the same writer whose favorite hobby sit through the war and following was that free labor would ruin and eliminate the negro. The first decade of free labor at the South shows an increase in the blacks of 1,401,888, or thirty-three per cent. If free labor is to prove the black man's ruin, it is evident that he can stand it as long as the white man whom he outruns in replenishing the earth with his progeny.—Nashua Telegraph.

AROUND HOME.

Mr. Thomas E. Call lost a horse last Thursday night, from a tumor.

Schooner Margie, Capt. Hoyt, sailed for Portland, and schoner B. Frank Nealley, Capt. Handy, for New York, on the 24th inst.

The fish arrivals on the 24th were the schooners Flora Temple with 3800 lbs.; Comet, 3000; Rover's Bride, 4000; Flying Cloud, 5000 lbs.

Messrs. Herbert & Newton, who bought the fish of the netter Defiance, on the 23d inst., in weighing them out found eight cod-fish on the scale at one time which weighed a trifle over five hundred pounds.

Capt. Levi Downs, of schooner Mary E. Caswell, moved his family in from Star island on the 23d inst. This leaves, of the old residents of that sea girt island, only Mr. William Downs, wife and daughter, now residing there.

A correspondent of the Concord Statesman, writing from Farmington, speaks in the most commendatory terms of Mr. E. J. Goodwin, who recently resigned the position of principal of the high school in Farmington, which he had held nearly nine years, to become principal of the Portsmouth high school.

The ship William H. Marcy, previously reported as having experienced heavy weather on the passage from New York to Liverpool, was boarded by a heavy sea on the 27th of January, during a violent gale, and had her decks swept of everything movable, all her boats and four water tanks carried away, rails smashed, and other damage done.

Denman Thompson played "Joshua Whitcomb" in the new opera house at Manchester on Wednesday evening, and every seat was taken. The Union says that "'Josh' himself, like good wine, improves with age," and that the play "was as heartily enjoyed as ever, and in the completeness of representation that comes with practice hardly anything was left to be wished for." Joshua Whitcomb will be presented at Music hall on Saturday evening, and tickets are now procurable at Preston's; though the sale has been large, there are plenty of good seats left yet for prompt callers.

The engagement of Dion Boucicault at the Boston Museum will demand the services of the whole company; hence the opportunity of seeing the talented young actress, Miss Norah Bartlett, will not be presented here again this season, after Saturday evening. We notice with pleasure the comments of the press upon her spirited delineation of the character of the young and fascinating wife of the old "Guv'nor." The Providence Journal says that in that city, when the Museum company recently performed there, Mrs. Vincent and Miss Bartlett carried off the chief honors, though there was not an inferior actor in the entire cast.

The Times of Feb. 24th says: "The CHRONICLE of this morning in its report of the walking match made one slight mistake, which certainly needs to be corrected. It says that 'Daniel F. Collins was Driscoll's principal competitor.' He was one of Driscoll's principal competitors, but not the principal one. Mr. Chas. G. Locke made his mile in the quickest time, seven minutes and fifty-eight seconds, while D. F. Collins made his in eight minutes and four seconds." Mr. Rogers, the time keeper, informed Mr. Collins at the close of the walk that he could not tell by a second whether he (Collins) or Locke came in first. We prefer this authority and our own observation to any statement made to the Times.

The President has signed the bill for the removal of the terms of the federal courts from Exeter to Concord.

In Dover, Feb. 24th, a double house belonging to Barnard McKone and James Quinn was burned. Loss $1500. Quinn had $700 insurance. Loss on furniture, $600; no insurance.

It is stated that the White-water railroad of Indiana will consolidate with the Fort Wayne & Muncie railroad. There is a large amount of stock in the former road owned by persons in this city.

The fishing boats that were outside on Wednesday night of this week report a heavy snow squall, the wind blowing a gale. The schooner Iris, which at the time was in the vicinity of the Rover's Bride, had not arrived at this port or in York harbor up to Thursday evening.

Two young men of this city were driving through Deer street on Wednesday last when their horse become unmanageable and ran down on Sise's wharf, stopping when within a foot of the lower end. One of the men jumped out; the person driving kept in the sleigh, and thus saved himself and team from injury.

Mr. D. Foxwell Stoddard, who has bought out the livery stock of E. W. Cochrane on Vaughan street, says he shall have some fine teams on the road this summer. Mr. Cochrane had the reputation of having some of the best turnouts in the city, and has sold out to take a position on one of the railroads.

The Eastern Railroad Co. has civil engineers at work upon the proposed extension of the Gloucester branch railroad from Pigeon cove to Ocean View point, which is one of the most attractive seaside resorts upon the Massachusetts coast, having elegant grounds laid out, and every inducement for summer residents to locate upon the spot.

Mr. George B. Shannon was wrestling with a companion in Stoddard's livery stable on the evening of the 23d inst., when the two fell into one of the stalls under the horse's feet. The horse not liking such unceremonious visitors shew his displeasure by striking out with his hind feet. Shannon received some slight bruises on the head, and says he shall have to buy a new hat.

On Thursday the leading pair of horses of a team belonging to Mr. John Hobbs of North Hampton, in starting from Randall & Caswell's wharf with a load of fish offal parted the connecting chain, and ran up the wharf into Water street, barely escaping running into a window in the Jones block, and brought up in Mr. Philbrick's front yard. The only damage done was the breaking of some parts of the harness.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, Feb. 24; Batchelder, J.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, Feb. 24th:

Records of last meeting were approved, and a message was received from the Common Council that that board was in session.

Mayor Sise read a communication from F. Jones, C. H. Mendum, F. E. Potter, B. F. Webster and E. H. Winchester, stating that they purpose erecting a cotton manufactory at an expense of $500,000 or more, and asking the city government to exempt the same from taxation for a term of ten years, agreeably to the act of the legislature, and the city government's vote of April 19th, 1877. Ald. Slater offered a joint vote granting the exemption asked, which was passed under suspension of the rules, and sent to the Common Council for concurrence. The latter board also passed it under suspension of the rules.

The mayor stated that some person had cut down trees on the public highway, and Ald. Sanborn was appointed a committee to investigate the matter, and report.

A communication was received from J. W. Johnson, stating that a team driven by his daughter was damaged to the amount of $9 through the horse falling on the ice in Bow street, in front of C. Sullivan & Co.'s store. Laid on the table.

A communication from James DeNormandie and others, trustees of the free library, was received; it reported the number of volumes in the library to be 1600, and that in fifty evenings 3000 books had been taken out; and offered the library to the city, on the condition that it be kept open as a free public library. On motion of Ald. Hall, the mayor was authorized by a joint resolution to accept the library on behalf of the city, with the condition specified. Sent to the Common Council, and concurred in.

[In convention, the two boards elected F. W. Rogers a surveyor of wood. The convention then rose, and the aldermen resumed.]

The committee on city lands and buildings were empowered to replace the eagle which was blown off the ward four ward-building some time ago.

The committee on school-houses were empowered to build a new fence at the Academy when a suitable opportunity arrives.

Ald. Hall, from the committee appointed to confer with the Eastern railroad authorities concerning the location of the railroad work shops, reported that the president of the road had not been seen, but that the superintendent thought the shops would not be removed further from Boston than Salem, and possibly not further than Chelsea. The matter was continued in charge of the same committee.

The mayor announced the city accounts for 1880 ready for auditing and printing, and the committee on printing were authorized to call for tenders for printing 1000 copies, the job to be awarded to the lowest bidder.

Adjourned for two weeks.

CIRCUIT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

[Dist. of New Hampshire: Lowell J.]

In two very important railroad cases, heard on demurrer, the court has handed down opinions as follows:

Ogdensburgh & Lake Champlain Railroad Company vs. the Northern Railroad Company of New Hampshire and al.

This bill is brought upon the same contract which was under consideration by this court in the District of Massachusetts in a case heard by Mr. Justice Clifford and myself, Ogdensburgh & Lake Champlain Railroad Company vs. Boston & Lowell Railroad Corporation, 4 Fed. Rep. 64; we then gave a construction to this very singular and difficult contract, and held that the four railroad companies who are its parties of the third part, had agreed severally with the plaintiff corporation to repay to it the large sum which it had advanced to the extent of the gross proceeds of the business in said contract mentioned and provided for; and only to this extent. The demurrer to the bill in that case was sustained because there was no allegation as to the amount of gross earnings, and because it did not appear that Smith & Stark, the trustees of the sinking fund, had no fund in their possession applicable to the payment of the debt. In the present case the bill has been amended to meet the objections which were sustained in the other case. The principal point made in support of the demurrer is that the Nashua & Lowell Railroad Company, against whom a separate suit is pending, being within the State of New Hampshire ought to have been made a party defendant.

It was intimated in the former decision that if all four of the borrowing corporations had been found in one district, a single suit might properly have been sustained against them; but we held that they were not necessary parties. The amended bill demands only one-fourth of the debt from this defendant, and if its gross earnings are equal to that sum, I do not see that the other corporations are even proper parties to that inquiry. At all events, there is no advantage in joining two out of four of the accounting parties, each account being several and distinct.

Ogdensburgh & Lake Champlain Railroad Company, vs. the Nashua & Lowell Railroad Company.

The bill in this case is like that passed upon in Ogdensburgh & Lake Champlain R. R. Co. vs. Boston & Lowell R. R. Corp'n, (4 Fed. Rep. 64,) and has not been amended to meet the objections sustained in that case. The order must therefore be, Demurrer sustained.

Sidney Bartlett and Wallace Hackett for pltf.; F. A. Brooks for deft.

—"I thought you took an interest in my welfare," said William. "No, sir," replied Susan; "only in your farewell."

—Old Mrs. Walker was reading the market reports in a Charleston paper. "Cotton is declining!" exclaimed the old lady. "Well, I thought as much—the last thread I used was remarkably feeble."

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tubercular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout, N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

John P. Sweetser,

At It Again.

Vennor, the Canadian weather prophet who has made such a mess of things for a year past, has been getting up another assortment of weather, for March. This is what he says:

March will come in like a lion. The beginning of the month will be characterized by storms of wind and heavy gales throughout the United States. On the 2d there will be very heavy storms in Quebec and Montreal, which promise to be the severest of the season. On the 8th snow storms are probable in St. Louis, Kansas, Indian territory and Arkansas. On the same date storms of wind and snow may be expected in the Canadas, followed by rain and slush. This condition of things will terminate in a cold dip about the 13th or 14th. On the 13th cold weather may be expected in Toronto, Sarnia, and other points west. On the 9th and 10th, gales are probable around New York, Boston, and intervening points, and snow storms pretty generally. The 16th and 17th days will be the centre of the storm period, which will be severe while it lasts. This will be followed by balmy and spring-like weather, with indications of rain and snow for the remainder of the month. The old adage about March when it comes in like a lion will not be falsified, as the month will probably end lamb-like.

Keeping Eggs.

I have found little or no trouble in keeping eggs so fresh that when used they are as good as the day they were taken from the nest. The whole secret lies just here, namely; when they are collected in the evenings they should be placed in an upright position, the small end downward, on shelves with holes made to receive them, because in this position the yolk does not come in contact with the albumen, the yolk, as it were, being suspended in the centre of the albumen; if otherwise placed—that is, on their sides—the yolk would then come in contact with the shell and naturally spoil, every egg being porous. The common mode of keeping eggs among farmers is either to pack them in straw, sawdust, chaff, oats or bran, none of which ways will keep the eggs fresh for any length of time. As they will perspire, you must find some method that will entirely close the pores of the egg and keep them closed. My plan is simple, and not at all expensive. I melted together tallow and mutton fat, then took wing feathers of the fowl and greased every egg, being careful to replace them in the same position as at first, and keep them in a dry and dark place. By this method you can at any time sell to the grocer or private family, fresh eggs, as they do not lose their flavor.—The Fruit Recorder.

I have used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and found it the best cough remedy I ever tried. W. P. Clarke, 920 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, November 27, 1875.

The sentences of the three Narbonnes of Montreal, father, mother and son, who were to have been hanged Feb. 25th, have been commuted to imprisonment for life.

The highest hopes and interests of the race rest on the purity, health, and strength of womanhood. We take pleasure in referring our readers to the remarkable efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in all that class of diseases from which women suffer so much.

Minnie Arnold, a mill girl lately from Lowell, died in Providence, R. I., Feb. 22d, of self-administered poison. She had become infatuated with a married man, and tried to kill him; failing in which she took poison herself.

A Capital Substitute.

Once a man searched through what is now the state of Florida to find a fountain he had heard was there, which was able to make an old person young again. He failed. We can't be boys or girls again. Age and infirmity are sure to come, but God did not ordain sickness. That is our fault. There is no fountain of youth, but there is a fountain of health, and its other name is Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It comes from nature—from the fields and flowers, and like them is "very good." Try it for complaints of women, blood troubles, and pains and aches everywhere. If you can't get it at the store, send one dollar for a bottle to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

At Brenham, Texas, Feb. 22d, Robert Henry (colored) was shot dead while returning home, by an unknown assassin.

I have had the liver complaint twenty-five years and my blood became poisoned, and abscesses formed on my limbs, ten of them at one time, and discharged like buckets. Was given up to die by sixteen different doctors. Twelve bottles D. R. V. G. has caused all sores to fill with new flesh and heal; I am thirty pounds heavier in my flesh than I ever was, and sound and well; age 47. D. R. V. G. saved my life.

Mrs. A. C. Wakefield, Agan Block, Syracuse, N. Y.

Dr. Tulio S. Verdi, of Washington, D. C., the a uthor, commissioner of the National board of health, etc., etc., says, the Liebig Co's Antiseptic Extract of Witch Hazel "is invaluable," cures piles, salt rheum, catarrh painful periods, rheumatism, colds and neuralgia. Beware of cheap counterfeits. The Liebig Company offers no cheap goods. It offers only honest perparations at honest prices. Sold in fifty cents and dollars sizes.

Silas M. Waite of Brattleboro, Vt., charged with forgery and defalcation, will not be tried at this term of court, now being held at Burlington, his physician having forwarded a certificate that to remove him at present would endanger his life.

The most expensive building in this country, when completed, will be the Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City, the cost of which is estimated at $27,000,000.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

Insurance at Hartford.

It was a bitter cold day when the travelling combination which I have the honor to feed, gathered its solitary valise and stepped ashore at Hartford. The Dutch found this beautiful city here nearly two hundred and fifty years ago, and the first thing they did was to establish Colt's armory and go into the insurance business. You can get insured here in any way and for anything you wish—Mutual, endowment, Tontine, accident, intentional, nomadic, differential, Baptist, old school Presbyterian, Congregational, Bob Ingersoll, renaissance, Gothic, Byzantine, greenback, composite, Corinthian, Scotch, cheviot, gossamer, seamless, new Wheeler & Wilson, barbed wire, liver pad, and hard finish. It is the central and distributing point for the entire insurance business of America. No insurance company is genuine unless "Hartford" is blown on the bottle. I believe there are about twenty-five insurance companies in the city, and they all live in very comfortable cottages. The Connecticut Mutual kind of scrimps along and manages to keep house in a granite lodge costing a trifle less than $8,000,000. The site of the building just opposite State-house square was very reassuring and consoling to me, because it looked so solvent in case I should freeze to death while waiting for the train. The Charter Oak has a building that cost very little less than the home of the Connecticut Mutual. And I do not think there is an insurance company in Hartford that does business in a tent.—Burlington Hawkeye.

That's a Fact.

A man can't work unless he feels well. The hard times have made plenty of people sick simply by worrying them almost out of their wits about money and business. Trouble of mind has brought on trouble of body. There is indigestion, heaviness in the head, and all that. Are you afflicted in this way? Go and invest one dollar for a bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," and it will make a new man of your. It takes the bile out of the blood, and is worth a trip to Rondout, N. Y.,—the doctor's home—on foot, if you can not get it more easily. First, however, see if your druggist hasn't got it.

The supreme court of Massachusetts has disallowed the exceptions filed by the counsel of Stearns Kendall Abbott, lately convicted of murder.

Dr. Tulio S. Verdi, of Washington, D. C., the a uthor, commissioner of the National board of health, etc., etc., says, the Liebig Co's Arnicated Extract of Witch Hazel "is invaluable," cures piles, salt rheum, catarrh painful periods, rheumatism, colds and neuralgia. Beware of cheap counterfeits. The Liebig Company offers no cheap goods. It offers only honest perparations at honest prices. Sold in fifty cents and dollars sizes.

Edwin C. Hayden, who was convicted at Irasburg, Vt., in September, 1877, of the shooting of his wife at Derby Lane the year previous, was hanged in the state prison at Windsor on Friday last.

Invaluable to families, and owners of horses Sold everywhere.

John Vonderheide was hanged at Shelbyville, Ky., on Friday, for the murder of a little colored girl named Rebecca Johnson last July. Vonderheide exhibited a stolid indifference to his fate, and maintained his innocence to the last, though the evidence as to his guilt was conclusive and overwhelming.

Castoria.

Stephen Burke shot himself through the head in a concert hall at Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 25th, inflicting a probably fatal wound. The reason of his acting so like a fool is not given.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

Thirty-six sheep owned by Chas. True of East Haverhill were injured last week by dogs.

My wife has been a great sufferer for years with dyspepsia and cramps in the stomach, like spasms, and at times thought she must die. All trouble has ceased since the use of D. R. V. G.

Coffee-pot Wallace Reports.

Senator Wallace, from the select committee to enquire into election frauds during the late elections in New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, on Feb. 25th submitted to the national Senate a strongly partisian majority report. The republican members of the committee were indignant, as the report was submitted without their knowledge, and without their ever have seen it. We think their indignation misplaced; we can see no reason why Wallace should take counsel of any person concerning election frauds, for if anybody in this country knows more about such frauds than "Coffee-pot Wallace," he has not yet been discovered.

A. S. P. C. A.

By a copy just received of the fifteenth annual report of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, of which Henry Bergh of New York is president, we perceive that the work of the society is being vigorously prosecuted, and that its influence is rapidly extending. Some idea of the extent of its operations can be gained from the statement that in the cities of New York and Brooklyn alone sixteen hundred and thirty-two cases of cruelty called for their interference during the past year.

The services of the agents were called into requisition to destroy one thousand five hundred and nineteen (1519) animals, rendered unfit for use by accidents, abuse and old age. One hundred and seventy horses suffering from that terrible disease, glanders, were mercifully killed, to end their sufferings and to prevent the spread of the fatal malady.

The name of Ex-President Grant heads a list of fifteen honorary members, which also includes the names of Mrs. John J Pickering of this city, and Mrs. William Appleton of Boston. The Right Hon. the Earl of Harrowby, President of the Royal Society P. C. A., of London, England, is also ex-officio a member.

Congress.

The Senate on the 25th passed the agricultural appropriation bill.

The House spent the day discussing the sundry civil appropriation bill, but did not reach a vote. The attempt to force through the partisan apportionment bill, (the contest on which was concluded at seven o'clock in the morning on the 25th, after an all-night session, by the appointment of a conference committee of the two parties,) was not renewed. Mr. McMahon, democrat, endeavored by innuendo to make it appear that President Hayes had improperly attempted to influence a committee of the House in favor of an appropriation for a naval coaling station at Chiriqui, Central America, but was compelled to ackhowledge that all the ground he had for thus intimating was that the president's private secretary, Rogers, had openly appeared before the committee, without any attempt at secrecy, and argued in favor of the appropriation, at the same time explicitly stating that he represented only himself and the Chiriqui company.

The British Quarterly, London Quarterly, and Edinburgh Reviews, for January, have been recently received from the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay St., N. Y., and closely following them comes Blackwood's Magazine for February. This number will be found unusually attractive, as in there it is an article devoted to George Eliot, whose early works were published in this magazine. This article is both a tribute to her memory and a valuable contribution to the story of her early literary career. There is another charming essay by Helena Faucit Martin, in continuation of the series of Shakespeare's heroines, in which she has selected the character of Portia for analysis. The "Private Secretary" is continued, and we have two other narratives, "Mr. Cox's Protege," and "The Salmon of Clootie's Hole," a very gamey fish, remarkable for being probably the only fish that rose to a fly without leaving his weight recorded. There are also reviews of Trevelyan's "Early History of Charles James Fox," and Trollope's "Life of Cicero." The current numbers of these periodicals are up to the highest standard of periodical literature, and this fact must surely commend to the public, independent of the liberal premiums offered for new subscribers. The periodicals reprinted by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co. are as follows: The London Quarterly, Edinburgh, Westminister, and British Quarterly Reviews, and Blackwood's Magazine. Price, $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the publishers.

"The United Service" for March is equal in interest to any of the previous numbers, which is saying a great deal. The first paper, "A remarkable episode of the late war," tells of the capture of William Orton Williams, a cousin of Gen. Robert E. Lee and a lineal descendant of Mrs. Washington, while acting as a spy for the confederates in company with his friend Walter G. Peter, and of the execution of the unhappy pair within twenty-four hours of their capture. Other articles are, "Steam boilers;" "Confederate documents relating to Fort Sumter," with notes by Montgomery Blair; "Hannibal's army of Italy," the "Argentine armor-clad corvette Almirante Brown," etc. L. R. Hamersly & Co., publishers, Philadelphia; fifty cents per number; $5 per year.

The Government Chemist's Report on Baking Powders.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24th, 1881.

To the Editor of the Chronicle: The recent publication of the report giving the comparative merits of various Baking Powders, according to tests made by the Government Chemist, has induced some of the manufacturers of brands whose inferiority was thus brought to light, to resort to various means and publications in order to rid themselves of that unfavorable exposition of their inferiority.

That the public may fully understand the matter, and to avoid any misconception arising out of statements of our competitors, seeking to break the force of the report, I herewith subjoin the main part of the report, in which the comparative values are correctly given.

Dr. Love's tests were made to determine what brands are the most economical to use. And as the capacity lies in their leavening power, tests were directed solely to ascertain the available gas of each powder.

Name of the Baking Powders.	Available Gas, Cubic inches, per cash oz. Powder.	Comparative Worth per lb.
"Royal" (cream tartar powder)	127.4	50 cts.
"Rumford's (phosphate) old	85.7	33 "
"Hanford's None Such"	121.6	47½ "
"Redhead's"	117.0	46 "
"Charm" (alum powd ?)	116.9	46 "
"Amazon" (alum powder)	111.9	44 "
"Crex"	106.8	42 "
"Price a Cream"	10.6	40 "
"Lewis'" condensed	85.2	33½ "
"Andrew's Pearl"	71.2	28 "
"Hecker's Perfect"	92.5	28 "

The government chemist also adds: "I regard all alum powders as very unwholesome. Phosphate and tartaric acid powders liberate their gas too freely in process of baking, or under varying climatic changes suffer deterioration."

It is proper to state that all the powders examined were from the open market, and that the original labels were in every case broken by Dr. Love himself. He also informs me that he, himself, purchased the can of Royal Baking Powder at the store of Park & Tilford.

I have only to add, that for twenty years the Royal Baking Powder has been before the public, and it is to-day the standard for purity and excellence throughout the world. Because of its intrinsic merit, and by virtue of honorable enterprise, the Royal Baking Powder has taken this rank, and I am therefore not surprised to fined adventurers in the business anxious to assume their preparations to be its equal.

J. C. HOAGLAND,
President Royal Baking Powder Co.

News and Notes.

A letter received in New York from Cadet Engineer Smith, on board the United States ship Lackawanna, now cruising along the coast of Peru, states that Paul Boyton, the famous swimmer, surrendered to the Chilians on the 20th of January.

The trial of Young Kalloch for the murder of Charles De Young, which was in progress in San Francisco, last week, develops an intention on the part of the defence to show that De Young fired the first shot. The indications are that certain witnesses will be called to support this theory. It will be remembered that the only such testimony given at the inquest was by Clement Shaw, who was subsequently convicted of perjury, and sentenced to fourteen years' hard labor in the state prison.

Alderman Murphy of New York had a fight with Thomas Farrell in a barroom on Friday evening, and the latter's finger was badly bitten by the alderman. A warrant has been issued for the ruffian's arrest.

Over eleven million dollars of circulation had been surrendered by national banks up to the evening of Nov. 25th, in consequence of the clause in the funding bill compelling them to buy three per cent bonds to secure their circulation.

The Irish coercion bill passed the British House of Commons on Friday, by a vote of 281 to thirty-six.

Texas prohibits by law the opening of telegraph offices on Sundays. The Detroit Free Press expresses the hope that the good state will go a little further, and make it a misdemeanor to murder a man on Sunday.

J. A. Beers, proprietor of a steam mill at Bolton, Vt., was caught in a fly wheel, Friday, and had one leg and one arm torn off. He probably will not recover. He has a wife and child.

Joseph Beach, employed at chopping in Roxbury, Vt., was felling a tree last week when it lodged on another, and a huge limb came down upon his head, crushing his skull, from the effects of which he died in a few hours. He was about twenty-two years of age.

Quite a number of operatives at Fall River, Mass., are leaving for their homes in England and Canada, impelled by the labor troubles in Fall River.

The British schooner Bugh arrived at Gloucester, Mass., last Friday, from Pubnico, Nova Scotia, bringing sixty passengers, the first recruits of the season for the fishing fleet.

The statement from Milwaukee to the effect that Senator Carpenter's last wish was that his remains should be cremated is pronounced incorrect by the family physician, Dr. William Fox of Milwaukee. It is further stated that the deceased expressed no wish relative to the disposal of his remains. His family authorize the statement that the senator had always expressed himself as being opposed to cremation.

Tuesday night of last week, in the eastern part of Bartholomew, Ind., a mob, masked and armed, seized Samuel Ewing, hung him till nearly dead, and stood over him with a pistol trying to extort from him a confession that he poisoned Dr. Biddinger's horses, of which the doctor recently lost seven by poisoning. The mob utterly failed, and finally abandoned the prisoner. Agents of the law are now after the mob.

The heel question is assuming some prominence in the fashionable world, and even among the doctors. The projection of an artificial heel forward on the flat of the foot, or high and narrow ones anywhere, is an imputation on the wisdom of nature, and an absurdity. How the fashion originated does not appear, but probably it was inaugurated by some lady of quality to hide a natural deformity.

Austin E. Moriarty of Providence, R. I., a fireman on the New York & New England railroad, left town on Wednesday of last week for the west, through fear of being arrested for bigamy. He has a wife in Providence, to whom he was married two or three years ago, and while stopping at Willimantic, Ct., about three weeks ago, it is stated that he was inveigled (while intoxicated, according to his account,) into a marriage with a Miss Brown of Putnam, Conn. He professes great affection for his Providence wife, with whom he has lived happily, and himself told the story of his Willimantic adventure.

It is said that the Concord railroad would like to purchase a new locomotive to take the place of the demolished "Stickney," but this cannot be accomplished for some time, as all the railroad shops are now overrun with orders.

The job of fitting the schooner Mary E. Caswell with a new set of standing rigging fore and aft, was commenced last week, Mr. Carl Benson being boss of the job. She is virtually a new boat, and well worthy a new fit-out.

Mr. Michael Reagan, employed in Mason's mill on Green street, on the 21st inst. fell through a trap-hatch in the building on to a bed of sawdust, and rolled off into the water. Mr. Reagan is now more averse than ever to salt-water bathing out of season.

The good sleighing on Saturday was improved by our suburban friends. The streets in the vicinity of Market square were lively with sleighs, and the evening entertainments drew very many to the city. In one stable there were forty-five horses put up for the evening.

In the river and harbor bill last week reported to the national Senate, the appropriation of $5000 for the improvement of Exeter river was increased to $10,000, of which sum $750 may be used to purchase land for the cut-off at the "Ox-bow." An appropriation of $10,000 is added for the improvement of the Lamprey river below Newmarket.

The steamer Clara Batemen, Capt. Rand, started for the Shoals at a very early hour on Sunday morning, to bring in a son of Capt. Levi Downs, sick with diphtheria. A schooner with the boy on board started in from the Shoals on Saturday evening, but was becalmed within two miles of the islands, and Mr. William Randall left the schooner in a dory and pulled in to get the steamer.

A correspondent at North Hampton writes us that the report published concerning the prevalence of scarletina and scarlet fever in that town, and the closing of the schools in consequence, is incorrect, only one school having been closed, and that one not because the scarlet fever has had many victims. He says: "I think there has been but one real case of scarletina in the town this winter. There have been numerous cases of a kind of rash, but many of those troubled with it have been able to go out of doors, which they could not have done had they had scarlet fever or scarletina."

Mr. Lewis Holmes, who during the summer season keeps a large fleet of sail and row boats for hiring out by the hour, day or week, is rebuilding his sailboat "Rattler," which was sunk in the river last year by collision with the steamer Clara Batemen, and afterward had her whole bottom ground off through the tide sweeping her along over the rocky bed of the river. The question of damages was amicably settled with Capt. Rand, owner of the steamer, who was not in charge at the time of the accident; and the Rattler will be on the river again as soon as the season opens, in better condition than when she was first floated.

Hoyt's shoe firm at Epping is sending away daily from sixty to seventy cases of shoes, and employs from 300 to 400 hands.

Another specimen of the so-called nurse fish was brought into this port on Saturday evening in the schooner Cosmos, of Swampscott, Mass. Its length is between fifteen and sixteen feet, and though in appearance it is quite formidable, yet it was brought up from the bottom with a common trawl line. It took ten men with three sets of tackle to hoist the fish on board the vessel; its weight will probably reach 2500 pounds, and it is valued at one hundred and fifty dollars. Some parties in this city are contemplating purchasing this curiosity for exhibition; if not disposed of here it will be taken to Boston and sold there for the same purpose.

SATURDAY EVENING'S AMUSEMENTS.

The largest audience ever in Franklin theatre, and a most brilliant and refined audience as well, assembled there on Saturday evening to witness "The Guv'nor" as presented by the Boston Museum Co.; every seat in the theatre was sold, most of them being taken by Portsmouth people, and the late comers, of whom there were not a few, many of them from neighboring towns, were compelled to accept "standees" or go elsewhere. The interest of the play depends mainly on three male characters—Butterscotch, a retired confectioner; Freddy Butterscotch, his son, a "rowing man" with a remarkable stutter; and Macclesfield, a deaf old boatbuilder. These parts were taken by Messrs. Warren, Charles Barron and Geo. W. Wilson, and were of course well taken, though we think some of the adjectives used by Mr. Barron might well be omitted. The female parts in the play are of subordinate importance; and yet had any member of the company other than Miss Norah Bartlett been announced for the part of Aurelia, the jealous old ex-confectioner's young and fascinating wife, "The Guv'nor" would hardly have stood an even chance with "Joshua Whitcomb." Miss Bartlett made all that was to be made of the part, and her graceful and lady-like rendering of the character merited the hearty applause it received; but her numerous friends and admirers feel deeply disappointed that she did not appear in a role more worthy of her known ability as an actress. They had been promised an opportunity of seeing her as Parthenia, the central character in the fine old drama of Ingomar the Barbarian; and to be put off with seeing her in a secondary part was, as we have before said, a decided disappointment. The play was well received, and Miss Bartlett and the old favorite, Mrs. Vincent, were greeted not only with hearty applause at each appearance, but with many choice floral tributes.

If the Portsmouth people repaired in large numbers to the Franklin theatre to welcome the gifted daughter with their generous applause and hearty greeting, our neighbors from the country round about sent liberal delegations to Music hall. Never be it said again that Saturday night is not a good "show night" in Portsmouth. Of visitors from Exeter, Hampton, Greenland, Rye, Eliot, Kittery, Newcastle and other towns in the vicinity was the audience to a considerable extent composed, and Mr. Thompson was received with a hearty welcome. The part of Joshua Whitcomb is a faithful portrayal of the substantial, honest, outspoken farmer, homespun but cute, generous and indeed noble. The piece—we should not designate it a play—has the pathetic and comic, the moral and mirthful well blended, and the representation of Uncle Josh is not a caricature but a delineation. While at Franklin theatre the scenes were upon the Thames, in Music hall the region of the Ashuelot was the locality where the best part of the performance was enacted. Swansey is a thriving town, near Keene, and the allusion to the Cheshire County bank, Gen. Wilson and like familiar names, carried us to the New Hampshire country home where the hospitable Joshua and his still single sister Matilda entertained the guests as the audience, until our suburban friends left, happy with their evening's enjoyment. The piece has of course many good hits, but far above every other feature is the accurate, judicious, not overdone delineation of the honest pumpkin-producer of Swansey, who seeks to right the wrongs of the metropolis, and never loses sight of that integrity of character which comes with birth among our New Hampshire Hills,—that consistent, big-hearted Jackson democrat, who could give three sons to his country, and was never tired of doing his duty to his fellow creatures. Amid the hilarity of the occasion, there comes constantly before us a view of that nobility of character which has marked the substantial men whom the Granite State has sent forth to develope and enrich other states, that material for which we have been so celebrated throughout the country as producing above that of any other state. Josh Whitcomb is a hearty, amusing and entertaining representation, and we enjoyed it as much on Saturday evening as when, with keen relish for its novelty, we witnessed it upon these boards a year ago.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The town of Kennebunk is not only out of debt, but has a balance in its favor of over $600.

Twenty-five thousand bushels of Baldwin apples have been evaporated at the establishment of D. F. Littlefield, Saco, since last autumn. Work was kept up until the middle of February, day and night, and the demand for the goods for exceeded the supply.

Gen. Sam. J. Anderson, demogreenbacker, who wasn't elected to Congress by the voters of the first district of Maine, last week commenced the taking of testimony at Saco, with a view of contesting the seat of Hon. Thomas B. Reed, republican, who was elected. Energy wasted; the next Congress will treat Gen. Anderson just as the voters of his district did—give him permission to stay at home.

Charles B. Hill, landlord of the Limerick hotel in Limerick, was recently the possessor of a large and ferocious dog, which one day about a month ago bit a boy named Ricker quite severely, and a few days later bit a young man named Mills in the face very badly. Hill still refused to kill the savage animal or to chain him up, and the brute next proceeded to bite both of Charles Holland's hands. Holland went off, got an axe, went back and smashed the dog's brains out. He might have given Hill a dozen or two thumps on the head with the axe, without doing much harm.

Tit for Tat.

An old lady of his flock once called upon Dr. Gill with a greivance. The doctor's neckbands were too long for her ideas of ministerial humanity, and after a long harangue on the sin of pride, she intimated that she had brought a pair scissors with her, and would be permit her to cut them down to her notion of propriety. The doctor not only listened patiently, but handed over the offending white bands to operate upon. When she had cut them to her satisfaction and returned the bibs, it was the doctor's turn.

"Now," said he, "you must do me a good turn, also."

"Yes, that I will, doctor," replied she; "what can it be?"

"Well, you have something about you which is a deal too long, and which causes me no end of trouble; and I should like to see it shorter."

"Indeed, dear sir, I will not hesitate; what is it? Here are the scissors, use them as you please."

Elephants Playing Possum.

"There are some very cunning fellows among our twenty elephants," said Mr. Durand, agent for the combined Barnum and London shows, yesterday. "The other day, Chieftain and Maudrie, the top mounters in the pyramids, and the most cunning in the flock, suddenly took a shivering chill at rehearsal. The keeper sent out and bought four gallons of whiskey, which the monsters devoured rapidly and with great relish. The bill came to Mr. Barnum, whose strong temperance predelictions you know. After paying the bill Mr. Barnum insisted that nobody in his employ, not even his elephants, should drink whiskey under any circumstances. In a little while the elephants, when the effects of the liquor had died away, commenced shivering again, and apparently had another chill. They looked longingly at the keeper, and attempted to caress him with their trunks, as much as to say, 'Give us another drink.' The keeper shook his head, and told them positively 'No.' In five minutes every appearance of ague had vanished, and the animals were quietly munching hay as usual. They had been playing possum."—*N. —River fish in India are said to taste like boiled wool; but as it has hitherto been regarded as impossible to transport sea-fish to the interior, Anglo-Indians had to be content with boiled wool, or dispense altogether with fish diet. Messrs. McHinch & Co., of Kurachee, however, have surmounted the difficulty, and are now sending fresh mullet and sea salmon from Kurachee to Delhi. The fish on being caught are suspended by twine in fresh water, which is gradually converted into solid blocks of ice three feet square and nine inches thick, which can be sent by rail for a thousand miles without melting.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tub regular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular disease of the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypo Phosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

It is Hard to Understand.

Why an endless procession of drinkers from a public dipper will, without exception, drink close to the handle.

Why people will go into society to get bored when they can get bored just as well at home.

Why the young lady who will eagerly chew boarding-house mince pie will carefully eschew boarding-house mince meat.

Why a woman will make excuses for bread when she knows it is the best she ever made, and knows her company knows it.

Why a "young gentleman" swears so much louder and more copiously when stranger ladies are within ear shot; or in other words,

Why the desire to make a fool of one's self springs eternal in the human breast.

Why we are so much angrier against him who shows us our error than against him who leads us therein.

Why people will get married, when courtship is so sweet.

Why a man who claims to have found marriage a delusion will again embrace that delusion upon the first convenient opportunity.

Why cold weather comes during the season when it is least agreeable.

Why it is so much easier to be polite to people whom we shall probably never see again than to those whose good opinion we have every reason to cultivate.

Why boys should run after girls when there is a whole houseful at home.

The Amended Bible.

According to statements, unofficial but apparently authentic, the revisers of the New Testament have made alterations which will excite some consternation and not a little regret among all those who are familiar with the authorized version. In the Lord's prayer, the concluding petition, "Deliver us from evil," is changed into "Deliver us from the evil one." Half a dozen of the most familiar texts in the New Testament will disappear altogether. The question "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" is metamorphosed into "What doth it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own life?" "Hades" is substituted for "hell" in two well-known passages: The inscription on the altar "to the Unknown God" will read "to an unknown God." Apart from these textual alterations and omissions, the revisers have abolished the divisions into chapters and verses, and printed the new version in paragraphs.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Curious Fact.

When we study the construction of our most important instruments we discover to our astonishment that the latter are copies of some part of our body, and simply a further completion of them. In the first stone-hammer, man unknowingly imitated his forearm with closed fist; in the shovel and spoon we see the forearm and hollowed hand; in the saw we find a reproduction of a row of teeth; tongs represent the closing together of thumb and fingers; the hook is a bent finger reproduced; the pencil is simply a prolongation of the forefinger; so we see in all instruments, from the simplest to the most complicated, only an improvement and completion of the human organs; and thus we find that all the intentional thoughts of men are directed toward the same aim as that toward which organic development tends.—Exchange.

A Capital Substitute.

Once a man searched through what is now the state of Florida to find a fountain he had heard was there, which was able to make an old person young again. He failed. We can't be boys or girls again. Age and infirmity are sure to come, but God did not ordain sickness. That is our fault. There is no fountain of youth, but there is a fountain of health, and its other name is Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It comes from nature—from the fields and flowers, and like them is "very good." Try it for complaints of women, blood troubles, and pains and aches everywhere. If you can't get it at the store, send one dollar for a bottle to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

The machine shop, foundry and other buildings of the Laconia Car Co. were burned Feb. 26th; the White Mountain Freezer Co., and Freeland Bros., job printers, were also burned out. Total loss $60,000; insurance $18,000.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount? If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

Shocking Tragedy in Maine.

On Saturday, Feb. 19th, a most atrocious murder was committed in China village, about twelve miles from Augusta, Me., a young man named Charles Merril killing his mother in a barn, by striking her on the head with a hammer. He concealed the body in the hay mow until it had frozen, and then cut it into pieces, a part of which he burned as well as possible in the stove and fireplace, throwing the charred remains into the manure heap. For several days his mother's non-appearance elicited no comment, but suspicion among the neighbors began to point toward young Merrill as the perpetrator of some foul deed. On Saturday, Feb. 26th, search was made and portions of the skull and body found. Merrill was arrested next day, and confessed all. He said that on the Saturday afternoon on which the deed was committed, he returned in a sleigh with his mother about dusk. He went into the barn to put up his horse, and while there his mother came out to get the sleigh robes. He deliberately crept up behind her, and struck her on the head with a hammer. The first blow did not kill her. She had strength enough to gasp: "Did you strike me, Charlie!" He then struck a fearful blow with the hammer, which crushed in the skull. She said no more, but fell upon the floor dead. On Monday, after having mutilated the body as previously described, he wrapped it up as well as he could, and placed it under a load of potatoes, when he started for Augusta, disposing of it in Barton's woods, between the two places, burying it in the snow by a stump. On being taken to Augusta, Sunday, he pointed out to the officers the spot where the mutilated trunk could be found. They dug in the snow with a shovel, while Merrill looked carelessly on, until they found the body with the head, arms and legs severed from it.

The motive for the horrible crime is not made public, if there was any motive.

—Somebody has said that old things are the best, and with the exception of girls we don't know but what we are prepared to indorse the sentiment.

Fees of Doctors.

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post.

Mr. Will S. Hayes, who is now an editorial writer on the Louisville Courier-Journal, has written and composed about three hundred and sixty songs, and there are ten of them that had a sale of 200,000 each.

Congress.

The Senate on the 26th passed the river and harbor appropriation bill. Various amendments for the improvement of small streams were rejected.

The House disposed of the sundry civil appropriation bill, leaving the only appropriation bill not considered the general deficiency bill. Speaker Randall thinks that the House will adjourn without leaving a single necessary measure unconsidered.

Fiery Horror in Pennsylvania.

In Scranton, Penn., Sunday night, a fire occurred in St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum, and fourteen boys and three girls were suffocated by the smoke. There were forty children in the institution, their ages ranging from six to twelve years, and the boys and girls occupied separate dormitories on the third floor. The sister of charity in charge put the children to bed at 8:30 o'clock, locked their dormitories, and on descending the stairs had reached the second story when she discovered smoke issuing from one of the rooms on that floor. Opening the door, she was driven back by a cloud of smoke. Fire was raging along the ceiling, and making its way to the upper floor. The sister darted up stairs, and found the girls' room full of smoke. She took the children to the lower floor, and started back to reach the boys' dormitory. The smoke was pouring into the hallway in blinding clouds, and when about half way up the stairs the sistermet a stranger, who refused to allow her to proceed, saying that the boys had been rescued and that it would be dangerous for her to go for them. An alarm soon brought the firemen, and in a short time the flames were beaten back, the door of the dormitory broken in, and the victims of the fire found beneath their cots. Only two of them were touched by the fire, and all had evidently been dead for some time. The cause of the fire is not stated.

Another British Disaster in Africa.

A despatch to London from Natal, South Africa, dated Sunday, Feb. 27th, says:

A severe engagement took place to-day between the Boers and Gen. Colley's force, and the latter was driven from its position at Spitzkop. There was great loss on both sides. Many British officers were killed and wounded. A later telegram from Colley's camp says all the wounded coming in agree in reporting that Gen. Colley has been killed, and that only 100 British have escaped. The Boers charged up the hill four times, and were about to retreat, when the British were forced to retire because the reserve ammunition had been taken to the extreme summit.

From other despatches it appears that Gen. Colley occupied Mejala mountain (probably identical with "Spitzkop") on Saturday night, with twenty-two officers and 627 men. This hill overlooked the Boer position, and the Boers attacked Colley's force at an early hour Sunday morning, carrying the hill shortly after noon. Col. Bond, commanding at Mount Prospect, telegraphs that there is no doubt of Gen. Colley's death. When the ammunition failed the slaughter was fearful. Finally the British made a desperate but unsuccessful rush. The Sixtieth foot fought their way back to camp. It is stated that only seven men of the Fifty eighth survive. Two companies of Highlanders remained on the summit of Spitzkop after the retreat, and began throwing stones down on the advancing Boers, and subsequently received them with the bayonet. The guns from Mount Prospect greatly checked the Boer pursuit of the British.

News and Notes.

At Bloomington, Ill., Sunday evening, a young man named William Lowery was cleaning a revolver, and as it was "unloaded" he "playfully" pointed it at his sister Mary, aged eighteen years, and blew her head half off. He afterward attempted to blow out the place where his brains would have been located had he possessed any, but was prevented by a bystander.

Faustine Guiterro, implicated in the murder of Colonel Potter, of Rhode Island, was taken into Albuquerque, N. M., on the night of Feb. 26th, by the sheriff's posse; but was taken from the jail the same night by vigilantes, and hung where several accomplices in the same crime were recently hung.

At Jamaica, Vt., one Davidson was some time ago caught running an illicit still. To avoid punishment, he promised if let off to expose a number of persons who had been engaged in working the still, and in consequence some of the most prominent men of Jamaica and Wardsboro' have been fined from $700 to $800 each. Davidson has been released.

A. F. Davis of Millbury, Mass., threw himself under the cars at Millbury on Saturday, and was instantly killed.

Dr. Arthur Clifford, a son of Ex-Gov. Clifford of Massachusetts, while returning from a short trip to New York with Dr. Ira Russell last week, shot himself through the heart in the Ware River train, between Barre Plains and Winchendon. He has been partially insane, and has been under Dr. Russell's care at the asylum at Winchendon for some time. He shot himself with a large revolver, which it is supposed he must have obtained in New York. Dr. Clifford has been a practicing physician in New Bedford, where his family now reside.

The Portland Advertiser says: "The Veazie bank of Bangor and the Casco bank of Portland have applied for charters under the state law. If all the national banks are driven into a reorganization under the local laws, how long will it before they will induce Congress to repeal the ten per cent tax on state bank notes, and restore the good old times when no bank bill was worth its face beyond the state line, and many of them were worthless at home? Is this what the majority in Congress is working for?"

Captain W. H. Waldron, editor of the Lewiston, Me., Gazette, died last Friday. He was fifty-nine years of age, and had been connected with newspapers in New Hampshire, Boston and Portland. He was a native of Dover, N. H., and was one of the six persons who in 1847 started the Boston Herald.

Miss Dobie, a young lady of twenty-six years, who has contributed sketches of New Zealand scenery to the London Graphic, was lately murdered in New Zealand by a Maori while on a solitary sketching excursion. The murderer confessed his crime.

The case of Mr. C. F. Bailey of Winstead, Conn., is peculiar. In 1868 he married, but was abandoned by his wife. He employed a lawyer to get him a divorce, and the lawyer reported to him that it was obtained, and he was free to marry again. He did so, and a few days ago discovered that he had been deceived. The lawyer had never procured a divorce. He was legally a bigamist. Furthermore, an illegitimate child of his first wife was thrown on the town for support, and he was made its legal father, though he had not seen the mother for seven years. He applied to the legislature for relief, and that body has passed a bill making him legally divorced in 1873, and legally married to his second wife.

A young man who committed suicide last Friday at the Albion house in Chicago, with arsenic and morphine, has been identified by Dr. Cohen of Milwaukee, Wis., as his brother, Morris Cohen. For six months he had been working upon a perpetual motion machine, which, when completed, of course failed to work. This was a great blow, and was succeeded by the news that his wife in Hungary had obtained a divorce from him. He wrote his brother, saying that his existence was unendurable and he would end it.

Dr. George A. Otis, surgeon in the United States army, and editor of the "Medical and surgical history of the war," recently died at Washington, at the age of fifty-one years.

A committee of the Colorado house of representatives has reported favorably upon a bill offering a bounty of $25 each for the scalps of either Indians or skunks.

The supreme court of Wisconsin decides that under the laws of the United States money received by a pensioner in payment of his pension, and remaining in his possession, cannot be seized on process against him.

—The Smith family recently held a reunion in New Jersey. Their principal sentiment was: "Pocahontas, the preserver of our race."

—"I swear," said a gentleman to his lady love, "you are very handsome." "Pooh," said the lady, "so you would say if you did not think so." "And so you would think," answered he, "though I should not say so."

AROUND HOME.

Sixteen dogs were see at one time on Market square, on Monday.

The annual parish meeting of the North Parish will be held this evening.

A robin was seen in the gardens near Richards avenue on Friday and Saturday last—poor thing.

Mr. Thomas S. Gay of this city is making a complete set of awnings for the Eagle hotel at Concord.

The meeting of the Kearsarge mills stockholders will be held at the Rockingham house this evening.

Monday was a very dark day. A heavy rain fell all the forenoon, and in the afternoon there was a thick fog.

Now that the city has established a free public library, what will be done with the money held by the trustees of the Jones fund?

For bathing use "Dreydroppel's White Borax Soap;" it softens the water. Especially use it for infants and children. Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

A window in the store of E. F. Tuttle, on Sunday of Exeter, was broken night, Feb. 20th, and a quantity of cigars, raisins and other articles stolen therefrom.

Mr. John Albee is lecturing in Indianapolis. The Sentinel of that city speaks of his first lecture as "instructive in matter, polished in form, and glowing with feeling and humor."

Schooner Wm. P. Hood, which took a cargo of apples from this port to Baltimore for $600, was rechartered to take a cargo of coal from the latter place to Providence, R. I., for $1200.

The steamer Lancaster, which arrived from Philadelphia on Sunday, on Monday commenced discharging a cargo of freshly-mined coal into the Portsmouth coal-pockets, No. 137 Market street, for J. Albert Walker.

Mrs. Catherine Sherry, of Dover, has entered suit against the town of Rochester for five thousand dollars damages, occasioned by her sleigh capsizing at the Nashua & Rochester railroad crossing in Rochester, by which her arm was broken.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Henry A. Yeaton, who for the past two years has resided in Detroit, Michigan, has concluded to return to Portsmouth and continue his connection with the firm of J. Brooks & Co., to which his business experience in the west must be of great advantage.

"Spud," the Hampton correspondent of the Exeter News-Letter, writes to that paper that "The specimen of sea spider, or spider-crab, which was recently caught on the trawl of the schooner Florence Nightingale, and caused such a sensation in Portsmouth, was nothing more nor less than an old-fashioned black shelled lobster." We know a lobster from a crab when we see one, our whole life having been spent in the immediate vicinity of the ocean, or upon it; we saw the creature (which caused such a sensation!) referred to by the News-Letter correspondent, and it was no more like a lobster than it was like the vegetable which old sailors call a "spud." By the way, what other kind of live lobster did "Spud" ever see, beside "black-shelled" ones?

Public-spirited citizens were removing the ice from their sidewalks on Monday.

Three new locomotives (which are of the largest size) recently added to the rolling stock of the Eastern railroad, will be used in drawing the Pullman trains between Portland and Boston the coming summer.

Miss N. A. M. Locke, of this city, will open a juvenile singing school at the Christian chapel on Court street this afternoon, March 1st, at 4:30 o'clock. An excellent opportunity is offered to to learn to sing. Terms, 75cts for twelve lessons.

Eight new passenger car and two new baggage cars are nearly completed in the Eastern railroad company's car shops at Salem. Many of the old cars are being repainted, and lettered in a uniform style, "Eastern." The shops present a busy appearance by reason of the preparation for summer travel.

If one must restrict his or her diet during the lenten season, we would recommend the canned salmon to be had of Butler & Laighton, as a good solace; green peas may be added, so that one may get through a dinner on a fish diet without much privation, and still observe the requirements in this respect. The lenten season begins on Wednesday.

Mr. Cyrus L. Brown of this city has evaporated fifteen thousand bushels of apples this season; he commenced Sept. 21st, and closed on Feb. 26th, for want of apples. He has given employment to thirty hands, who have worked continually in shifts night and day. The apples recommend themselves, and are mostly sold in foreign ports. Samples can be seen at his store on Market street.

Two young men of this city who do their sparking in Kittery, went over the river to see their true loves on Sunday evening. On their return, about half-past twelve o'clock, the sleigh capsized, pitching them over an embankment. The horse came over the bridge, ran down Pleasant street, and up Water street, and to his stable, where the young men found him on their arrival home. No injury was done to them or the horse; the sleigh got damaged eight dollars' worth.

One day last week the CHRONICLE contained an item about a school of the Minnie Palmer variety, "in one of the towns not ten miles from this city." A writer in the Times of Monday does what we did not do—he "locates" the school, and proceeds to say that our item was a big no-such-thing, he "having asked from the teacher, and from his neighbors the truth of the matter." The correspondent seems to have jumped very readily to a conclusion as to what town and what school was meant, at all events.

The fish arrivals on Monday were the schooners Telephone with 900 lbs.; Cosmos, 5000; Alfarrata, 4000; Cora Lee, 4000; Helen F. Tredick, 1000; Flying Cloud, 9000; Celia, 3000; Northern Eagle, (netter,) 10,000; Comet, 400; Breeze, 1800; John W. Smart, 5000; Bonita, 2000; Gen. Grant, 4200; Rover's Bride, 3300; Water Lily, 4500; Ev Nichols, 8000; Lucy, 3000; Christie Campbell, 18,700; Quickstep, 3000; Emma S. Osier, (netter,) 20,600; Flying Eagle, 2000; Morrill Boy, (netter,) 12,000; small boats 800 lbs.

Complaint was made to the city authorities last week of the unbearable stench which proceeded from the south pond. Persons residing near the bridge were the greater sufferers, as the poison got in the houses, the pond scattering enough of it to kill a whole community. One man was set at work on Saturday to clear the ice away from the gates, which had not been open for some weeks, but he breaking his tools was unable to complete the work. The recent high tides disturbed the water, which was black from stagnation, and bushels of dead and decayed minnows has been carried over the gate. The flats outside of the bridge appeared to be in a most filthy condition. It was hoped that the gates would be opened by Monday evening.

CHANGES AT THE NAVY YARD.

John H. Flagg, Esq., of this city has been appointed foreman of machinists in the steam engineering department of the navy yard, succeeding Mr. A. W. Rix, removed. The appointment takes effect March 1st. Mr. Flagg had for several years served as quarterman in this department previous to his appointment as an inspector in the custom house, and is a practical mechanic, well qualified for the position; and the appointment gives general satisfaction.

Mr. Samuel W. Keen, secretary to the commandant of the yard, has resigned that position. His successor has been designated, but has not yet reported.

RITE OF MEMPHIS.

On Monday evening, Feb. 28th, Portsmouth Rose Croix Chapter, No. One, Egyptian Masonic Rite of Memphis, the first in the state, was instituted here by Sir Knight O. M. Knight, 95th Degree, Deputy Grand Representative, who also installed the following Sir Knights as officers:

Eugene M. Grant, Most Wise;

Washington Freeman, Treasurer;
Florin Barri, Archivist;
Charles H. Marston, Capt. of Guard;
Marcus M. Collis, Guard of Tower;
Amos Pearson, Organist;
E. M. Grant, Wm. R. Martin, Newton Johnston, Trustees.

The first-named three officers are of the 95th degree, and the others of the 90th degree.

RYE, Feb. 28th.

Rev. W. A. McGinley, who has previously been announced to deliver a lecture under the auspices of the Martha Washington society, on Monday evening, March 7th, at the Congregational church, will on account of another engagement on that date, appear here on Thursday evening, March 3d. The lecture will be without doubt able and interesting, and taking also into consideration that for half an hour previous to its commencement the organ will be played by Mrs. C. O. Philbrick, there ought to be a full house.

Erven W. Marden, our town clerk, went to the West school-house on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 23d, after his sister; and on his return when at the foot of Lang's hill, the bit broke, and his horse evidently knew it, for he commenced to run. Mr. Marden undertook to guide his course into a drift, thinking the deep snow would prove an effectual barrier to his further progress, but instead it only accelerated it, one reason perhaps being on account of the sudden lightening of his load—for the inmates of the sleigh found themselves tumbled into the snow in a very uncerimonious manner. The horse ran as far as Oren Green's, where he was stopped, and the damage ascertained to be a somewhat dilapidated pung, and some breaks in the harness. The horse was not injured to any extent, and Mr. Marden and his sister escaped without any serious damage.

The sleighing never was better than at the present time, and on Saturday evening about one hundred of our pleasure-loving citizens, male and female, taking advantage of it, went to Portsmouth to see the "Guy'nor" and "Joshua Whitcomb." The majority went to Music hall, as it was difficult to secure seats at the Franklin theatre, and if some were disappointed in not seeing the Guy'nor, they did not in consequence fail to be richly repaid for coming out in the cold to see Uncle Josh; at least that's the opinion of the nine "Martha Washingtons" who rode up in one big sleigh, and said opinion was unanimously pronounced to be correct by the other nine occupants of the sleigh, who happened to have civil and religious rights to be called their Georges.

The democrats have a caucus on Saturday night, and it is pretty safe to say that whoever is nominated at that caucus will be elected.

The semi-monthly sociable of the Christian society came off at the town hall on Wednesday evening of last week, and was attended by a good audience. The entertainment presented was creditable and gave satisfaction.

Look out for a good time and plenty of it on the 15th and 16th of March, when the Martha Washingtons have their festival.

John S. Remick, Abram Perkins, Richard P. Goss, Irving W. Garland, and other heavy men of the town, are hauling lots of logs to the steam mill at Greenland depot, and it is evident that something must be "going up" in the building line when spring opens. There is also an accumulation of logs at the Jenness & Sanborn mill at the south end.

Rev. Mr. Kingsbury has been somewhat indisposed during the past week, and in consequence the afternoon service at the Congregational church was omitted yesterday.

Rev. Ira S. Jones, of the Christian church, is to take a trip to Florida to be absent a few weeks, and expects to start on Tuesday, March 1st.

Any controversy with "Harry" on the colored question is not on the docket this term—not if the court knows itself, only just this—a look at the census returns seems to indicate that the "d— niggers" thrive vigorously notwithstanding the profuse use of small "g's" and big "D's;" so to me, for one, it seems of no use at all to try to annihilate them in that way. Still, there have been times, and probably will be again, when human nature can't stand it, and the only relief as yet discovered, "the old way," is to use the superfluous "g" and be as mild as possible in applying the profanity. NAT.

Trains both ways on the Concord & Peterboro' railroad were delayed Saturday morning by large rocks having fallen on the track at West Hopkinton. Cars were reported smashed on the southern bound mixed train.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

FELLOWS' Compound SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

TUBERCULAR DISEASE OF LUNGS AND BRONCHITIS.

Tubercular consumption of the lungs is that form of the disease most common, most fatal, and until recently considered incurable. Tubercle, from which the name is derived, is a morbid product, deposited from diseased blood in various parts of the body; and in proportion as that fluid is impure, and length of time it remains so, will tub rcular diathesis continue.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

Dear Sir: About three years ago I was attacked with bronchitis and tubercular deposit in the left lung, and suffered for two years so severely that I was unable to attend to business. About a year ago I was advised to try Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites, and before I had finished one bottle my appetite and strength were greatly improved; my cough became less troublesome, my sleep was sound and refreshing, which had not been the case for over a year. I had suffered from nervousness and difficult breathing all the time I was sick; but your Syrup has cured it all. I advise all persons afflicted as I was to use Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. (Signed)

JAMES H. STEWART.

An endless chain of good effects is formed by Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and we are safe in saying, from a long experience in medicine, its virtues are not possessed by any other combination.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. G. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to Changing Vessels' Names.

Both houses of Congress have passed a bill, which will undoubtedly receive the President's signature, authorizing the secretary of the treasury to change the names of vessels where it can be lawfully done. The act provides that the secretary of the treasury shall be authorized to permit the owner or owners of any vessel duly enrolled and found seaworthy and free from debt, to change the name of the same, when, in his opinion, there shall be sufficient cause for so doing. He shall establish such rules and regulations and procure such evidence as to age, condition, where built, and pecuniary liability of the vessel, as he may deem necessary to prevent injury to public or private interests; and, when permission is granted by the secretary, he shall cause the order for the change of name to be published at least in four issues in some daily or weekly paper at the place of registry; costs to be defrayed by owners of vessels. Heretofore, whenever it was desired to change the name of a vessel, a special act of Congress authorizing the change had to be procured. There are a number of bills pending now, granting permission to make desired changes. Upon every consideration day they form almost one-tenth of the bills passed. The new act enables changes to be made expeditiously and quietly, without causing delay in congressional proceedings.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conductive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Boston wants pure milk, but can the citizens have it until they obtain better water?

Edwin Clay, M. D., of Nova Scotia, writes: I know of no better medicine for persons suffering from exhaustion of the powers of the brain and nervous system, from long continued study, or the cough following typhoid fever, &c., than Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites.

Choice shipping apples are in demand in Boston market at $2 per barrel, and common fruit at $1.25 to $1.50.

Buy "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" if you want a pure wiskey, and take no other. The genuine bears the signature of Chester H. Graves & Sons on the label and over the corks. Druggists and grocers have it.

I have had the liver complaint twenty-five years and my blood became poisoned, and abscesses formed on my limbs, ten of them at one time, and discharged like ulcers. Was given up to die by sixteen different doctors. Twelve bottles D. R. V. Nervous, sleepless and overworked find rest and nourishment in Malt Bitters.

The indifference with which so many people regard a cough or cold is truly unpardonable. These affections often lead to consumption, and should be checked in time by use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Thomas Hay, a New York rough of the worst kind, was shot through the head on Sunday by a policeman, the latter acting in self-defence.

No Cure No Pay.

Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines are guaranteed to cure; for particulars see wrappers and pamphlets. They are reliable, have not sprung into popularity in a week or month and gone out of favor as rapidly, but being sustained by merit, have won a world-wide reputation, necessitating a branch in London, to supply foreign countries, while the home sales are enormous throughout the United States. Golden Medical Discovery purifies and enriches the blood, preventing fevers, and curing all skin and scrofulous affections, stimulating the liver to action, relieving biliousness, and curing consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs. If the bowels are costive take Pierce's Pellets (little pills). Both sold by druggists.

CHICAGO, ILL., May 5th, 1879.

WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION:

Gentlemen—For years I have been a great sufferer. My troubles first started with terrible ague chills and constipations. This left me in 1878 with a racking cough and frequent bleedings from the lungs. Since this time I have been continually doctoring, consulting physicians without number. From them I received no benefit or encouragement. The most noted physicians of our city who last visited me expressed their opinions in the brief but hopeless words, "Take good care of yourself the few days you have to live; we cannot help you." I grew steadily worse under their treatment. One day, through reading your memorandum book I learned of the Golden Medical Discovery. With but little hope of relief, I purchased a bottle and took it. To my surprise and satisfaction it did me more good than all the drugs I had taken the year around. I am now steadily using it with benefit, and recommend it to all to be just what it is advertised.

50 Wight Street.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Guard Against Small Pox.

The violent outbreak of small-pox in various parts of the country calls for renewed vigilance on the part of the authorities to prevent its spread. Cold weather always brings favorable conditions for the propagation of the disease, and once started in a city or town its spread is very rapid unless heroic efforts are made to check it. Meanwhile renewed attention should be called to the necessity of vaccination for public as well as for private protection. The provisions for the vaccination of school children are presumably well observed in this state, but the need of renewing the process in grown people, at periods of about seven years, is not as generally recognized as it should be. In small-pox, above all things, an ounce of protection is worth a pound of cure.

Drunken Beasts.

Two French savants have, for the last twelvemonth, been keeping nine pigs in a state of habitual drunkenness. This has been done with a view to testing the effects of different kinds of alcohol on these animals. The absinthe-drinking pig is at first gay, then irritable and combative, and finally drowsy; the brandy-drinking pig is cheerful all the time until he falls asleep; the rum-drinking pig sleeps at once; and the pig who takes gin conducts himself in eccentric ways, grunting, squealing, tilting his head against the sty door, and rising on his hind legs, as if to sniff the wind. There really seems no need of trying these experiments on innocent animals, while so many men willingly make themselves illustrations.

—Times ought not to be hard when twenty-eight girls can eat up $1,800 in two hours, and that was the expense of a New York luncheon party the other day.

—A mother had taught her little girl to repeat, for a Sunday school concert, the text, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters!" When evening came, she very calmly, with perfect self-possession, said, "Every one that hoes, come and get a drink!" Her astonishment was great when the laughter broke out.

—"I don't think a majority of the members of church choirs ever get to heaven," observed an old lady who was accustomed to construe her bible very literally. This opinion very naturally occasioned some surprise, and she was asked why she thought so. "Because," said she, "all angels are required to sing, and that's something most members of church choirs can't do."

—A young lady recently married read Mother Shipton's prophecy for the first time the other day. "Just my luck!" she exclaimed, throwing down the paper. "Here I am newly married, and now the world's coming to an end!"

Health and Happiness.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It has proven itself to be the best blood purifier ever discovered, effectually curing scrofula, syphilitic disorders, weakness of the kidneys, all nervous disorders and debility. It corrects indigestion. It makes the old feel young, and the young feel gay; and will invariably drive out of the system the many ills that the human flesh is heir to. It acts like a charm, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

—It was a self-made doctor in Michigan who wrote to John Bright asking him how his disease got along, and he is justly indignant that his letter was never answered.

General B. F. Butler!

Still lives, and so do hundreds of others who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia, by the great blood purifier, Sulphur Bitters. Send for testimonials.

—"I never thought but once," said old Deacon Webbing, "that it was a sin to steal an umbrella." "And when was that?" asked a friend. "It was when some pesky thief stole my new silk one," answered the deacon.

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, billiousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

—The Irishman had a correct appreciation of the fitness of things who, being asked by the judge, when he applied for a license to sell whisky, if he was of good moral character, replied: "Faith, yer honor, I don't see the necessity of a good moral character to sell whisky!"

Myself and wife having been afflicted for years with dyspepsia, and during the time continued dosing with bitters, and other nostrums, with no benefit. Four bottles of D. R. V. G. has cured us both.

Dr. J. W. C. Gould.

Syracuse, N. Y.

Guaranteed by all druggists.

—"Come right into the house, children!" shouted Mrs. Shuttle. "You're making more noise and uproar than a session of Congress. What do you suppose the neighbors think?"

Vitalizing, nourishing and stimulating, without intoxicating, are Malt Bitters.

A house in Quincy, Mass., was struck by lightning on Monday evening, Feb. 28th, and was damaged to the extent of $400.

They have been investigating druggists and doctors in a legislative committee in Boston. One witness showed a scrap-book in which were orders for "gross of supplement" (corrosive sublimate,) "cataract" (cathartic) pills, "gum mary bac" (gum arabic.) A skilled pysician had sent a prescription for twelve grains of sulphate of morphia, —enough to kill three or four men. He had meant to write for twelve pills of an eighth of a grain each.

Miss Laura Horner of Osceola, Clearfield county, Pa., in bidding good night to two male friends who had been visiting her one evening last week, refused to allow one of them to kiss her. A playful struggle ensued, during which she was thrown down, and striking her head, a blood-vessel was ruptured, which it is thought will prove fatal.

Walter Paine, the Fall River mill treasurer who embezzled several hundred thousand dollars, and is safe from extradition, in Canada, has offered himself for membership in a Montreal Baptist church.

Cora Bloom, a twelve year-old orphan girl, ran away from a farmer named Neigh, near Columbus, Ohio, a few days ago, after having been badly beaten. Neigh was threatened with arrest, and agreed to pay the doctor's bill and give Cora $1,500 in reparation for her wounds.

Steamship Oregon, while going up Columbia river to Portland, Oregon, Monday night, Feb. 28th, ran down and sank steamboat Clatsop Chief. Four lives were lost.

The honeymoon of a newly married couple, who have been residing for a few weeks at Hamilton, Ont., has terminated rather suddenly. During the husband's absence from home on the 26th ult., the young wife eloped with a young man named Harry Williams, of Buffalo.

Sunday night, Feb. 27th, Mr. E. P. Smith, a member of the Chicago board of trade, on retiring carefully placed a roll of $2,000 and a diamond pin, valued at $450, in the pillow case on his bed. He was discovered insensible Monday morning, the diamond pin and money missing; and the whole house ransacked from top to bottom. Smith did not recover consciousness till afternoon. There is no clue to the burglars.

Schooner D. S. Wolf was run down and sunk in Chesapeake bay on the night of Feb. 25th, by steamer Leverson. The captain and there seamen of the schooner were drowned.

Deforrest Mead, an extensive dry goods dealer of Meadville, Penn., with branch stores at Titusville, Bradford, Warren and Jamestown, has failed, with liabilities of $250,000.

Geo. C. Speyerer, president, and Ino Graebing, secretary, of the Rochester (Penn.) insurance company, were arrested March 1st on a charge of perjury in making false statements of the finances of the company.

Another shocking murder in Maine! Will the legislature, now in session, go quietly home and allow this epidemic of crime to rage unchecked for two years longer? Capital punishment is not abolished. Charles Merrill is not to be hanged; but his gray-haired mother has been condemned to death by our humane law, without judge or jury. Is it not time to protect the victims instead of the murderers?—Portland Advertiser.

Political.

The supreme court of the United States has decided, in the case of Hallett Kilbourn vs. John G. Thompson, for false imprisonment, that Congress has no right to punish any person by imprisonment for contempt, without regular process of law.

Judge Moran, of the United States circuit court at Chicago, on Feb. 28th denied the application of Moy Sam, a Chinaman, to get naturalized, on the ground that a Chinaman is not "a white person" within the meaning of the act of Congress.

Congressman Murch has resigned his position as chairman of the national greenback committee, to take effect March 15th.

Some admirer of Judge George, who is to succeed Bruce, of Mississippi, in the United States Senate, says "he has strong jaws." His jaws were the jaws of death at the time he was chairman of the democratic committee and director of the shotgun campaign that "redeemed" the state from republican rule.

Mr. James H. Marr, the chief clerk of the postmaster general, whose salary was recently increased by Congress, is a monument to civil service reform. He has served under all administrations since his appointment by General Jackson to an ordinary clerkship.

The Gloucester Fisheries.

Ex-Warden John C. Pillsbury of the state prison at Concord has settled actions brought against him by Mrs. Ella F. Bowers and Miss Clara E. Gould, two young women ex-prisoners, whom it was alleged he caused to be stripped and whipped by the prison matron while they were in his charge. The sum of $150 has been paid to each, rather than have the cases come to trial. Pillsbury's counsel claim that friends of the ex-warden made up a purse and settled the case without his knowledge.

A movement is on foot at Concord for the establishment of a new express company in opposition to the United States & Canada company, which now has a monopoly of the business.

Bertha, a one-year-old child of Norman B. Howard, of Alstead, met with a fatal accident recently. She was sitting between the table and stove in a chair when an older child tipped her over on the stove, and the coffee-pot tipped from the stove on to her, badly scalding her, but it was thought that her head striking the stove so hard was the immediate cause of her death.

A farmer in Hillsborough recently bargained his farm to another for $2,000, but when the day and purchaser arrived, informed him that his wife was in hysterics about the trade, and guessed he would back out. "But," said the purchaser, "I have come a long distance, want the farm and must have one. How much more would induce you to sell it?" "Well," replied the agriculturist, "give me $250 more, and let her cry." The offer was refused.—Hopkinton Times.

False Reports.

Secretary Evarts on the 1st inst. informed the national board of health that the British consul at Philadelphia had reported to his government that an epidemic of hog cholera was now prevailing in the United States. The national board of health, in reply, stated that no information indicating the prevalence of an epidemic among hogs had been received. A prominent government official, speaking on the subject, referred to the numerous sensational reports which were being sent to London regarding the existence of disease in American cattle, hogs, etc., as very suggestive of a systematic attempt to depreciate the value of American provisions in Europe, adding that such reports of late had been of quite common occurrence.

A Yacht Race.

The New Bedford Standard of March 1st gives the following account of a race in which two steamers and a schooner yacht were engaged:

Yacht America was hauled off L'Hommedieu shoal on Saturday by steamer Hunter, the price agreed upon for the service being $400. The America after being hauled off made extra sail, and when Capt. Davis, of the Hunter, (not knowing the name of the yacht, her master having told him she was an oyster vessel bound to Virginia,) hailed her and asked the captain if he wasn't coming aboard to make a settlement, the man replied that "he'd be damned if he would." Capt. Davis caught sight of the name on the stern of the schooner, and found it to be "America," and he recognized it as Gen. Butler's celebrated yacht. In reply to a question the captain of the yacht said he was bound for the West Indies, and in a defiant manner invited Capt. Davis to come on. The Hunter started in pursuit, but could not keep up with the yacht, and was about to give up the chase when the revenue cutter Samuel Dexter was sighted, and Capt. Davis ran down and told his story to Capt. Irish, of the cutter, asking him to bring the America to and examine her papers. The cutter was near Tarpaulin Cove and the yacht off Cuttyhunk, but the Samuel Dexter overhauled the clipper after a long chase. Capt. Irish hailed the America and ordered her to come to, but no attention was paid to the hail, and a gun was fired. This had no effect, but a second one brought the America to, and Capt. Irish boarded her. Her papers were found correct, she being bound from Boston to Baltimore, where Gen. Butler is to join her and make a trip to the West Indies. While Capt. Davis was on board with Capt Irish, the master of the yacht offered a small sum settlement, but Capt. Davis refused, and will commence a suit to recover the sum agreed upon for his services.

"The King's Missive, and other poems, by John G. Whittier." Boston; Houghton, Mifflin & Co.; price $1.00. This volume comprises the poems written by Mr. Whittier during the last two years. The opening poem, the King's Missive, was originally written for the memorial history of Boston, and describes a noted incident in the annals of the city. The Quaker poet always delights to sing of the Bear-camp region in New Hampshire, and the "voyage of the Jettie," written on the region of West Ossipee, with which the poet has so often familiarized his readers, will be appointed. The "Minister's daughter" shows the power of faith over the traditions of that hard and unyielding traditional religion which failed to recognize and describe other than the terror of God's wrath in sacred worship, and the beautiful incident of the little child leading the stern puritan to a closer walk with God is touchingly sung.

—The Egyptian emblem of a serpent with its tail in its mouth is the earliest historical reference to the garment still in vogue, known as the "swallow-tail."

—The United States grows 480,000,000 bushels of wheat, but this is not enough to furnish seed for the 470,000,000 acres of wheat lands within the limits of the United States. This is a big country.

—Cigars are going out and cigarettes are coming in. The latter were a novelty a few years since, and now they are entirely superseding cigars. A peculiarity about a cigarette is said to be, that those who smoke them get a distaste for cigars.

—The "unaccountable exacerbation and recrudescence of religious animosities and party feuds" was pathetically spoken of by Lord Dufferin a few days ago when he addressed an Irish benevolent society. "Recrudescence" would be a good word for young men who are occupying pulpits as candidates.

My wife has used the COCOAINE with equally as gratifying results. P. T. PLATT, with F. MacVeagh & Co.

Tickets for Miss Selma Borg's lecture on Saturday evening have been placed at Myer's book-store, where they can be procured at fifty cents each. There should not be a vacant seat in the hall on that occasion.

Mr. Harry S. Vanderbilt, formerly of this city, has accepted the position of secretary of the Empire Mining Co., with headquarters at Boston. Ex-Collector Simmons of Boston is president of the same company.

On Monday evening next, at Music hall, Oofty Goof't's New York Co. will appear in Augustus Daly's sensational drama "Under the Gaslight," with special scenery and mechanical effects. Seats now on sale; see advertisement.

The Universalist society of South Newmarket held a fair and turkey supper in their church on Thursday of last week, netting about $100. Miss Fannie Hoyt, the talented young violinist of Newington, played several pieces during the evening.

Capt. John J. Small, who is the father of Mrs. Fraser of the Cable station at Rye beach, is to command the new Anchor line steamer Furnessia, just completed at Glasgow, Scotland, and which is pronounced to be the finest ocean steamer running between this country and Great Britain.

Sheriff's officers on the 26th ult. raided the saloons of Oscar Jenkins and Eben L. Chapman in Epping, and also Bunker's hotel, finding liquor at each place. Frank Newman runs the bar at the hotel, but Bunker is not to go scot free, as he is to be prosecuted for letting a building for illegal purposes.

A branch of the Irish Land League was established in this city on Tuesday evening of this week, Wm. H. Palmer being chosen president. Over fifty men joined, and a considerable sum of money was subscribed. The meeting, which was held in the Catholic vestry, adjourned to the evening of the 8th inst. All persons in favor of the object which the Land League aims to effect, are invited to join the organization.

Sheriff Kent has attached a partially executed oil painting, the work of an artist who was called away before he could adjust all his indebtedness. The subject is a nude, statue-like full-length likeness of a lady. The sheriff was keen enough to know that if the subject had been properly draped, he could not have taken it, as the wearing apparel would not have been liable to be attached under the law. As there was no clothing attached, the sheriff unblushingly attached the work of art, which is now consigned to the cold clutches of the law.

J. Albert Walker has orders for coal sent by telephone, without expense to the buyer, from Moses' hat and fur store on Congress street. The dialogues sent over the wires are at times interesting. For example, witness the colloquy sent one day last week, when a customer talked to Fray's wharf, "Will you send me a ton of coal?" "Yes," was replied; "what kind do you wish?" "Send," said the buyer, "the kind for the cook-stove that comes two thousand pounds to the ton."

DR. BOLLES' LECTURE.

The date and subject of Dr. Bolles' lecture, which is to conclude the course given at the Methodist church, have been arranged. The lecture will be given on Thursday evening of next week, March 10th, the subject being "A May trip through England." The doctor is entirely conversant with his subject, having spent several seasons in England. It will be remembered that his course of Lowell Institute lectures in Boston, just concluded, and which have been called by the press "the event of the season," were on the general theme of "London." Our citizens may congratulate themselves on the opportunity of hearing Mr. Bolles on his favorite theme. The lecture will be illustrated by about seventy views, many of them taken expressly for this lecture from nature, and shown by aid of the doctor's powerful calcium light. It was not at first intended to have an illustrated lecture, but the managers are sure the ticket holders and the public generally will appreciate their efforts to give them an entertainment second to none.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

It is said that an extensive bed of Kaolin has been discovered on Spruce creek, Kittery; it is believed to be of fine quality, and in the spring measures will be taken to determine its value.

Mrs. Redford W. Sargent, of Kittery, has four incubators in operation at her extensive fowl yards. She has recently added to her previously very large and fine stock a lot of choice fowls from England and France.

A man giving the name of C. B. Franklin, and claiming to represent Shaw, Hammond & Carney of Portland, hired a horse and sleigh at North Berwick on Sunday, Feb. 20th, and was to have returned on the 23d. He had not returned up to the 1st of March, and the stable-keepers are anxious about him.

Samuel Shapleigh, Jr., of Eliot, has killed several foxes this season. These animals are reported as having been very numerous at Kittery point and Gerrish's island the past winter, and a number of them have been killed on the island. A gunner from York shot a fine silver-gray fox, a rare animal in this region, in the vicinity of Brave Boat Harbor recently.

According to the returns of the valuation commissioners of Maine, the whole number of oxen in the state is 34,849, of an average value of $40.76. York county has 4598 oxen, being beaten in this respect by but one other county, Oxford, which has 4796. York county also stands second on the list for the number of cows, of which it has 13,234, Penobscot county leading with 15,304. The total number of cows in the state is 141,206, of an average value of $20.94.

The Harbor district (No. 6) school at Brave Boat Harbor, Kittery, closed Feb. 25th with an exhibition which was largely attended by the parents and friends of the pupils, and was productive of the utmost pleasure. The school has for three winters been taught by Mr. Oliver L. Frisbee, of Bates college, who has given the best satisfaction of any person who ever taught in the district. The discipline maintained has been excellent; the scholars have obeyed him through love, and the parents all speak of him in the highest terms. At the closing exhibition there were dialogues, reading, singing, etc., by the older pupils, viz.: Hattie E. Williams, Ethlyn Tobey, Florence Whelpely, Hattie E. Grace, Maurice E. Riley, Alvah J. Tobey, Elmer E. Riley, Charles E. Phillips, George Williams, and William Raynes. The school has published a paper called the "Harbor Echo;" it was gotten up outside of school hours, and the committee consider that it would have been a good thing even if school time had been used for it. The teacher received some valuable gifts at the close of the school, and he has the highest esteem of the whole community. E.

Fashion Notes.

Linen Scotch plaid garments will be the popular novelty of the coming season.

Heavy surfaced camel's-hair goods, kerseymeres, and serges, will again be fashionable.

Turn-down Byron collars are imported extensively, in open work and Irish point embroidery.

Women who have dull light-brown hair, colloress faces, and gray or blue eyes, should never wear neutral tints, fawns, grays, or drabs. They will look best in black, dark brown, dark maroon, and creamy white.

The new cotton goods repeat all the rich colors and outre effects seen in woolens, while for their varied designs everything known to embroidery and to decorative art has been called into use. The loveliest outline designs used by needle-women have been copied in porcelain blues, olive, green, and rose on white grounds.

White muslin dresses for children are made in sacque shape, with three box pleats down front and back alike, with the Spanish flounce very deeply pleated instead of being gathered, and, as we have noted for pique dresses, with a separate embroidered ruffle falling over the top of the pleated flounce, instead of edging it below.

For children's colored dresses, the Scotch zephyr ginghams of solid color, or in fluest bars of single threads of blue or pink on white, will be made up in square-necked Gabrielle shapes, and worn over embroidered white slips or guimpes of muslin and needle-work. The whole front of some of these colored dresses is laid in narrow box pleats from the low neck to the frills at the foot.

A crape veil, long, with deep hem, is worn over the face at first in the deepest mourning, but is afterward draped on the back of the bonnet to hang on each side or else behind. Crape trimmings are folds lined with crinoline lawn. Fringe of crimped tape is sometimes worn in conjunction with crape, while many ladies do not use any kind of trimmings, either fringe or ribbon, until crape is left off.

The woolen fabrics for spring and summer dresses are twills of light quality, or else they have a scotch, even surface that is very loosely woven. To make such goods of the purest wool and of least weight has been the object with manufacturers this winter, as the various cotton goods have been brought to such perfection that they have almost driven summer woolens out of use. Hence there are many new stuffs as transparent as the sheerest muslins, yet of the pliant wools that make graceful clinging draperies. Bayonnaise is one of these fabrics that has long been a favorite in black for ladies who dress in mourning; this is now shown in white, drab, French gray, pale blue, and other delicate shades, for making the entire dress on a silk foundation. Nuns' veiling and the fine French buntings, with many qualities of what is called wool-muslin, are shown again in all the colors used last year, and in some new tints, such as maise, gray, and olive.

—A Frenchman is about to be beheaded. Under the guillotine a priest approaches him and says: "My friend, have you any last wish to make? The wish of a dying man is sacred." "Yes," replied the doomed man, "I want to learn English."

—A new invention is reported from Turin. It consists in the application of light-giving materials to printing ink, by which print becomes luminous in the dark, so that in future it will possible to read at night, in bed or during a journey, without the assistance of candle or lamp. A new daily paper, in which this luminous material will be used, is, it is said, about to be published in Turin.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She recoiled this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. C. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to Senator Brown's Dress Suit.

Senator Joseph E. Brown, of Georgia, is the wealthiest man in the state. He is a man of marked ability, but is plain and practical, and not at all given to frills and things. He dresses something like a Methodist minister; his smoothly-shaved upper lip and long white beard add to his clerical appearance. In his native clime Senator Brown always wore his Sunday clothes on all important social occasions, as well as to church. Until he went to Washington he never collided with the social requirements of a dress suit. And it was only about a week ago that he purchased one.

His colleague, Senator Hill, told him that he must stop wearing his frock coat out to dinners and swell affairs, and must get a swallow-tail coat. Senator Brown protested against it on general grounds, but particularly because the cloth put into dress coats was so thin. He suffers with heavy colds on the chest, and said he was not going to run any risks just for the sake of slinging a little style.

Senator Hill finally got a promise from his colleague that he would get a full-dress suit, and have it ready one evening last week, when both were to attend a swell dinner. Senator Hill called at the Metropolitan hotel for Senator Brown. The latter had an overcoat on, all ready to set out. Mr. Hill asked about the dress suit, and got an answer that "it was all right."

When the two senators pulled off their overcoats and marched into the parlor of the house where the dinner was given, Senator Hill was almost paralyzed. There was the swallow-tail coat on Senator Brown, to be sure, but it was a thing of magnificent proportions, and looked like an overcoat, cut swallow-tail fashion.

Senator Brown had ordered the tailor to make him a full-dress suit out of heavy beaver-cloth. The order had been carried out to the letter, and there was the senator arrayed in all his glory. Of course there was no "set" to the coat. It looked like a big bag. The rear pockets appeared as if the wearer had brought his dinner with him, equally divided between the two. Senator Brown had to sit on the coat tails all the time, to prevent their climbing up to his neck. It was truly a wonderful costume.

Upon leaving the house Senator Hill took Senator Brown to task about his suit, but could get no satisfaction. "I am not going to wear one of those thin things and catch my death of cold. If society demands a coat cut like a goose-quill, I have got one. If people don't like it, I can wear my frock coat. I have gone as far as I am going toward what you call a dress suit," said Senator Brown. That ends it, and Senator Brown will appear in his beaver cloth swallow-tail, his frock coat, or not at all.

Forgetfulness of People.

We would not, by enticing headings and other devices lead you into reading of the virtues possessed by Pierce's celebrated medicines were it not that we are aware of the forgetfulness of people, and that must be our excuse, dear reader, for again telling you that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is without an equal as a blood-purifier. It cures all humors from the common blotch, pimple, or eruption, to the worst scrofula, fever sore or ulcer. Dr. Pierce's Pellets are a pleasant but efficient cathartic. Sold by druggists.

ST. CLOUD HOUSE,

Hon. R. V. PIERCE, M. D.:

Dear Doctor—I have been using your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets for liver complaint and general debility. It is impossible to express the gratitude I feel. It is simply wonderful the effect your medicines have had upon me. I am in every way a thousand per cent better. I am, yours gratefully, J. C. DAVIDSON.

—The world is like a skating park—nice when you can glide smoothly over its surface, but cruel and cold to sit down on when you get your feet knocked from under you.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

—There is a painful rumor afloat that the ice crop has been touched by the frost, and that high prices may consequently be expected next summer. An ice story this.

Dr. H. L. Bowker, Massachusetts State Assayer, purchased himself from several wholesale druggists the samples he analyzed of "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey. It cannot, therefore, be said that the samples were different from the article sold by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. He pronounced it of remarkable purity and excellence. Buy it of your druggist or grocer.

—If Adam had been created a boy instead of a full-grown man, he would have clubbed all the apples off the tree before the serpent had a chance to get through the fence around the garden.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of these bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

—The Boston Herald tells the story of an enthusiastic veteran who, upon getting his pension papers entitling him to $1,600 arrears, remarked, as he left city hall, "By George, if I could meet the dastardly rebel that shot me, I would treat him."

I have taken D. R. V. G. with great benefit for general debility, and recommend it to all. Rev. D. W. Beadle,

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefitat once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large ventral rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 140th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respect ully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 45 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday; in Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

A Story of Steel Pens.

Few persons who use steel pens on which is stamped "Gillot" have any idea of the story of suffering, of indomitable pluck and persistence, which belongs to the placing of that name on that article.

A long depression in trade in England threw thousands of Sheffield mechanics out of work, among them Joseph Gillot, then twenty-one years of age. He left the city with but a shilling in his pocket. Reaching Birmingham, he went to an old inn and sat down upon a wooden settle in the tap-room. His last penny was spent for a roll. He was weak, hungry and ill. He had not a friend in Birmingham; and there was little chance that he could find work.

In his despondency he was tempted to give up and turn beggar or tramp. Then a sudden fiery energy seized him. He brought his fist down upon the table, declaring to himself that he would try and trust in God, come what would. He found work that day in making buckles, which were then fashionable. As soon as he made a pound or two he hired a garret and there carried on work for himself; bringing his taste and knowledge of tools into constant use, even when working at hand-made goods. This was the secret of Gillot's success. Other workmen trudged on in the old ruts. He was wide awake, eager to improve his work or to shorten the way of working.

He fell in love with a pretty and sensible girl named Mitchell, who, with her brothers, was making steel pens. Each pen was then clipped, punched and polished by hand, and pens were sold consequently at enormously high prices. Gillot at once brought his skill in tools to bear upon the matter, and soon invented a machine which turned out the points by thousands in the time that a man would require to make one. He married Miss Mitchell, and they carried on the manufacture together for years.

On the morning of the marriage the industrious workman made a gross of pens and sold them for thirty-six dollars to pay the wedding fees. In his old age, having reaped an immense fortune by his shrewdness, honesty and industry, Mr. Gillot went again to the old inn, bought the settle, and had the square on which he sat that night sawed out and made into a chair, which he left as an heirloom to his family, to remind them of the secret of his success.

—A San Francisco paper excuses a certain misstatement by saying that it was a typographical error in the manuscript.

—Every advertisement which appears in leading London papers for a short-hand clerk is alleged to elicit from one hundred to two hundred replies, phonography having become of late a branch of education very generally pursued, while the number of really qualified phonographers is everywhere small; in fact, the head of a large staff in London said that for verbatim reports he had but one assistant—quite a young man—whom he could trust implicitly.

A. W. Strange, Esq., Lynchburg Va., writes: "I use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup regularly for a tickling cough at night. It gives relief and puts me to sleep. It is much used here." Price 25 cents a bottle.

—Why is the money you are in the habit of giving to the poor like a newly-born babe? Because it's precious little.

An Honest Preparation.

The world is so crammed with swindles that a really honest man or honest thing is almost as scarce as robins in January. Yet Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., formerly captain of the Troy police, says Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is "an honest preparation." And the captain ought to know, for the medicine cured him of liver complaint. It is mean enough to cheat a well man, but to cheat the sick and the suffering deserves a short shrift and a long rope. Whatever sins Dr. Kennedy may be guilty of, misrepresentation of his medicine is not among them. Try it for one dollar, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—Judge Tourgee has been exceedingly fortunate as an author. His "Fool's Errand" has reached a circulation of 150,000 copies, and is still selling rapidly, while "Bricks without straw" has reached its sixtieth thousand.

Let the poor sufferers from female complaints take courage and rejoice that a painless remedy has been found. We refer to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is prepared at 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass. Send to Mrs. Pinkham for pamplet.

—Frank Millett, the brilliant artist and correspondent, says that eighty correspondents started in at the beginning of the Turco-Russian war, and but five saw its close. He was one of them.

The palate is gratified and the system fortified by the benign vitalizer and remedy for marasmus, malaria, dyspepsia, liver complaint, anemia, hysteria, ect., the Liebig Co.'s Coca Beef Tonic.

—The man who gets the maddest at a newspaper squib is usually the fellow who borrows the paper he reads it out of.

Myself and wife having been afflicted for years with dyspepsia, and during the time continued dosing with bitters, and other nostrums, with no benefit. Four bottles of D. R. V. G. has cured us both. Dr. J. W. C. Gould. Syracuse, N. Y. Guaranteed by all druggists.

—New Orleans is to have a mill for the manufacture of paper from sugar-cane after the juice has been crushed out.

Congress.

The Senate on the 2d inst. devoted most of its time to the consideration of appropriation bills.

The House finally passed the three per cent funding bill as it came from the Senate, all the amendments being concurred in without change. No division was taken on the final passage of the bill.

The Funding Bill Vetoed.

Soon after twelve o'clock on the 3d inst. a message was received in the House from President Hayes, vetoing the funding bill.

In this message the President says the short time intervening before he goes out of office prevents him from giving his views at length. He says he would not interpose his objections to the bill if it were not for the 5th section of the bill, which strikes down the national banks, and this section is not a proper or essential part of a refunding bill, and its adoption would prevent the organization of new national banks in localities where they may be needed. This section proposes a radical change in the banking law, and is a step towards the destruction of the whole national banking system. The bill would be a disturbing element in the financial prosperity of the country.

The Fighting Boers.

A correspondent of the London Standard, who was captured by the Boers at Spitzkop and subsequently released, writes as follows:

One lesson taught us is, that it is useless to attempt to fight the Boers with numerically inferior forces. In such warfare they are man for man equal and more than equal to our own. They are as courageous, infinitely better shots and are marvellously skilled, taking advantage of every cover. Their coolness under fire is perfect. While fighting individually, all work in concert and obedience to orders. They openly express contempt for our infantry, but fear our cavalry and artillery.

New Hampshire Items.

The Nashua post-office was damaged to the extent of $2000 by fire and water on the 3d inst.

Elias Chamberlain of Westmoreland has, at the age of eighty-three, never had but four teeth extracted, which operations were performed by four different doctors, in as many different states.

The new shoe factory of the Wallaces, in Rochester, is completed with the exception of putting in the shafting.

Samuel R. Truell a few days ago felled a birch tree in Grafton, adjoining Enfield line, which was three feet in diameter at the ground, and forty-four feet high, the top having been broken off nine years ago. The remaining top was somewhat decayed, and partly imbedded in it was found a cradle-scythe, three feet five inches long, and three inches wide at one end and running to a point at the other end. How it came there is the conundrum, and the solution advanced by some is that it was carried to the top of the tree, when attached to the cradle, in a tornado many years ago.

News and Notes.

It will be President Garfield after twelve o'clock to-day.

South Carolina will put about $25,000,000 worth of cotton and $3,000,000 worth of rice into the market this year.

The worst gale for many years raged along the coast of the British provinces on the 28th of February. At St. Johns, Newfoundland, the three-masted schooner Irving G. Hall was lost with all hands, nine in number; the schooner Rome was wrecked, and every boat in the harbor destroyed. At St. John, N. B., there was an immense fall of rain, and much damage was done by the wind.

A passenger train on the Hannibal & St. Joseph railroad in Missouri ran off the track, March 1st, and went down a bank, killing several persons. A wrecking train on its way to the scene of the disaster went through a bridge, and several men were killed. Ten persons lost their lives outright by the two accidents; many more were badly wounded, and a number of them will die of their injuries.

Advices from Honolulu, Sandwich islands, report a deplorable condition of affairs there. Small pox is epidemic, many houses are quarantined, no one is allowed to enter or leave the city, and communication between the islands is stopped. The city is in a very bad sanitary condition; not a single sewer within its limits, and the ground honeycombed with vaults which have not been cleaned in a quarter of a century.

Joseph E. Bartlett and Ernest M. Bartlett, jewelers, and M. Phoenix, an engraver, were arrested at Philadelphia on the 2d inst. for forging the trademarks of the American and Elgin watch companies, on the works of watches made by the three prisoners. They were held for trial.

Philip Truschel, aged eighteen years, employed by a greenhouse proprietor at Flatbush, L. I., on the 1st inst. opened the grate of the furnace, crushed his head, one of his arms and as much of his body as possible into it, and burned himself to death. He left a note saying he was tired of life.

Mrs. Erastus Ryther of Leyden, Mass., eighty-four years old, and nearly blind, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. L. P. Chapin, somehow set fire to her dress while the family were absent, the other day, and was so badly burned that she died in a few hours.

At Fitchburg, Mass., on complaint of the agent of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, Henry O. Woodward has been fined $25 and costs for failing to provide proper food for his horse, and in default of the same is serving the time in jail.

A little daughter of John McGrooy of Medfield, Mass., while returning home from a neighbor's residence Monday evening, Feb. 28th, got lost. The village was alarmed and a force of 100 men turned out with lanterns, and made a vigorous search. Tuesday morning the body of the child was found in a pond near her home.

An autopsy on the remains of the late Col. Waldron, of the Lewiston, Me., Gazette, disclosed a large leaden slug, considerably flattened, partially imbedded in the lower part of the right lung. It was a bullet which he received in the action at Gettysburg, and which probably caused his death; and he had carried it about with him for seventeen years. His heart and liver were found to be disordered.

Collector Babson of Gloucester has received $100 from the Direct United States Cable company, as compensation to Mr. Geo. Steele, owner of the schooner Oliver Eldredge, which vessel had her anchor caught in the company's telgraph cable on the banks, and cut the anchor adrift rather than injure the cable. The collector has also received from Hon. Edward Thornton, British minister at Washington, two magnificent stem-winding English watches, to be presented to James Lord and Dean Crockett respectively, two of the crew of the schooner Laura Sayward of Gloucester, who, on Sept. 11th last, in the midst of a fearful storm on Georges bank, went in a dory from their vessel and rescued the captain and mate of the British schooner Maggie Blanche. The rescued men were lashed to the vessel's side, and the sea was running so high that the dory had to be cut from her lashings, with the men in her, for fear of swamping. The watches bear suitable inscriptions.

Books, Magazines, Etc.

"Early Spring in Massachusetts, from the journal of Henry D. Thoreau, author of Walden, etc.; edited by H. G. O. Blake." Boston; Houghton, Mifflin & Company.

Thoreau died in 1862, in Concord, Mass., and the greater part of his life was spent in that town, much of it as a recluse on the shores of Walden pond, where he provided for his simple wants by hunting and gardening. His journal, from which the selections now printed were made, was bequeathed to the editor of the volume by Thoreau's sister in 1876. Mr. Blake has arranged the dates, by bringing together passages under the same date in each year. Thoreau was a student of nature, and as very many of our readers well remember, in 1848 built a hut in the woods near Walden pond, and for two years lived a self-contained life there. He walked to Concord village over the track of the Fitchburg railroad, and occasionally appreciating friends called at the hermitage. In 1845, "Walden," being a record of Thoreau's life in the woods, was published. In this work, Thoreau records his sights and sounds, and tells of animal life, nature's beauties, and subjects suggested in the long season of his musings.

The notes on the Early Spring are made from Feb. 24th to April 11th, a period when most people in Massachusetts would not seek out-of-door fascinations, but the gifted writer of Walden pond here notes everything indicative of the opening spring, in the action of nature in the preparation for the coming season; indeed, so much that seems new and yet patent, commonplace perhaps and yet fresh and inviting, that we concede that none but he, who had a mind capable of appreciating the abundance in nature of which the busy man of to-day loses sight, could have seen, remembered and described so much and in such attractive form.

The book is sold by all booksellers at $1.25, and will be greatly appreciated by those who have been fascinated by the early publications of the author.

No. 50 of the octavo form of the Standard Series published by I. F. Funk & Co., of New York, and sold at fifty cents, is "Culture and Religion," being five lectures delivered by Prof. J. C. Shairp, principal of the United College of St. Salvator, St. Leonard & St. Andrews. The lectures treat of the relation of culture to religion and the scientific and literary theory of culture, and kindred subjects.

The Fuel of the Future.

We shall soon be able to announce a wonderful stride in the mechanical appliances for using liquid fuel for generating steam in both marine and land boilers. The matter is in the hands of practical men, who will soon demonstrate they can make from 28 to 30 gallons of crude petroleum, costing from 85 to 90 cents, to do the work of a ton of coal, costing from $4.25, without dirt or smoke, and when, as in the cause of a large steamer carrying from 40 to 45 men in the fire-room, one man in each will be abundantly able to keep up a uniform pressure of steam at all times. Liquid fuel is the intervening step between coal and electricity, which will in due season furnish motion for the world. For when we arrive at a thorough knowledge of this subject and of motive power, liquid fuel will have had its day and generation, wiping out the last remnant of barbarism, coal. The fireman of the future can wear broadcloth in the fire-room, while the coal-passer will have laid down his "shovel and hoe," to become one of the memories of the past. This condition of things is near at hand.—Nautical Gazette.

—Of 500,000 volumes lent from the free library of Manchester, England, only seventy-four were lost.

AROUND HOME.

The public library had an addition of over three hundred volumes on the 2d inst.

The tide on Wednesday was the highest of the season, rising some three feet above the common run of tides.

For washing woodwork, windows, and oil cloths, and without injury to paints or colors, use "Dreydroppel's White Borax Soap;" Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

Dr. Bolles' lecture on "A May trip through England," Thursday evening of next week, will close the course given in the Universalist church—not the Methodist, as was stated in the first announcement.

We were gratified on Thursday with a brief call from Mr. Daniel K. White of Manchester, deputy sheriff of Hillsborough county, and an active and energetic agent of the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

The Federal Fire Society held its ninety-second annual meeting at the Rockingham house on Thursday evening, when the annual dinner was enjoyed with the customary zest of this ancient and honorable association.

Wm. Hurd of Dover recently visited Newcastle, on the invitation of the reform club of that town, and for five evenings held meetings in the Congregational church, giving an illustrated lecture each evening on the evils of intemperance.

Ex-Gov. Goodwin and other prominent gentlemen have asked the new President to appoint as a naval cadet at large the son of a gallant Kentuckian who as an officer in Garfield's regiment shew his loyalty and courage during the rebellion.

The schooner W. H. Y. Hackett, of this port, which put into Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 26th, from an offshore fishing trip, was obliged to make port sooner than she had intended, owing to the loss of a topmast, an anchor and seventy-five fathoms of cable.

The sundry civil appropriation bill, which the lower house of Congress was debating on the 2d inst., includes an appropriation of $5000 for water works at Portsmouth navy yard, and $1000 for salary of a superintendent of life-saving stations on the coasts of Maine and New Hampshiae.

Several parties in Gloucester have fitted out their vessels with cod-fish nets, on the same lay as when going to the banks, receiving one-half of the proceeds. It is said that the owners of one of the boats hereabouts now being supplied with nets, claim one-half of the proceeds, and out of the half that goes to the crew there is to be deducted one-half of the "grub-bill," and to pay for the repair of torn nets. Fishermen say there is no show for them to make a cent on such terms, and they prefer to fish with trawls.

The Dover Democrat of March 2d says; "Considerable excitement exists on Dover neck in consequence of the prolonged absence of Mrs. Oliver Nute. Nine days ago she left home, stating that she was going to Portsmouth to sell some candy which she manufactures. She left her husband in the house, telling him she would be back the same evening. Since then he has neither seen nor heard from her, and is very anxious to hear of her whereabouts. Some think she may have gone to visit relatives residing in Manchester, while others are of the opinion that she may have been lost in the woods, or drowned."

An extra freight train laden with coal from Walker's coal pocket for dealers in Concord and Manchester whose stocks needed replenishing, sent over the Concord & Portsmouth railroad this week.

There is one consolation to be derived from the damp and foggy weather of late. If day by day materially lessens the thick coat of snow and ice on the sidewalk on the east side of the North church which has been so dangerous since the front snow slide of the winter.

The arrivals of fish on Thursday were the schooners Northern Eagle, netter, with 2200 lbs.; Maud Gertrude, netter, 3000; Dart, 4000; Eagle, 2000 lbs. The few fishermen who ventured out on Wednesday met with a rough reception and put back for the nearest port; the fish had the bay all to themselves.

THE NINE O'CLOCK BELL.

One of our most valued exchanges, under the heading of "Stop that nine o'clock nuisance," thus summarizes the annoyance attending the keeping up of this ancient custom:

When there was but one time-piece in any family, and that was a clock that needed regulating every day, or an hour-glass that must be turned every hour, there was an excuse for ringing a town bell every night at nine o'clock, else old people did not know when to go to bed, and young men and maidens could not tell when to begin "setting up;" but in these days, when there are more timekeepers in most houses than there are people, and when nearly everybody carries a watch, there is no sort of an excuse for keeping up this antiquated custom, and it should be abolished. It is not only of no earthly advantage, but it is in many respects an aggravating nuisance. It adds to the noise, of which there is certainly no lack in our modern cities. It interrupts meetings and entertainments,—it startles timid people whose ears are trained to listen for fire alarms; it seriously disturbs the sick, to whom quiet is indispensable, and it annoys everybody with sensitive nerves. Let it be abolished, and then if there is anybody who don't know enough to go home seasonably without being jogged, let the police show him the way.

It is the usually good-tempered editor of the Manchester Mirror who talks thus disrespectfully of the curfew. We never happened to hear the nine o'clock bell rung in any other city but Portsmouth, or to notice such ringing if we heard it. We have sometimes heard it here, when at concerts or prayer-meetings, for instance, when we wished it would keep silence; but ordinarily we rejoice in it, with the rest of the people, and trust it will be a long day ere it ceases its diurnal proclamation that the proper hour for retiring has arrived.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

Trefethen's hall, at Kittery foreside, has lately been greatly improved in appearance, by frescoings and new designs in painting. On Friday evening it will be re-opened by the republicans of that town who will give an inaugural ball, with other social amusements.

The steam yacht built on Badger's island year by Mr. Charles Duncan, has been sold by him to persons at Eastport, Me. Mr. Duncan will put an engine in the boat, and fit her for service, before delivering her to her new owners. The petroleum engine which was built in Newmarket for her is to be taken out, and the one originally purchased is to be put in. It is said she will be used for carrying the mail, probably to some place in the vicinity of Eastport and accessible only by water.

TEMPERANCE IN YORK COUNTY.

There was a lively temperance meeting in Biddeford on Sunday evening, the 27th ult.

One of the speakers was Rev. Mr. Merrill, who laid the blame for the liquor traffic in the city upon the present city officials, for their non-enforcement of the law. City Marshal Andrews, who was in the audience, rose to his feet and asked the reverend gentleman if he had the records of the last term of the supreme court. Mr. Merrill said he had. Mr. Andrews then asked him how many names of liquor dealers he had that were indicted at that term of court? Mr. Merrill replied that there were twelve. The marshal then asked him if the complaints were not all brought by the city officers? Mr. Merrill replied that they were, or words to that effect. The marshal then asked why he didn't give the officers credit for what they had done, and to explain why he blamed the city government? The reverend gentleman then partly admitted that the blame was with the county attorney. The questions caused quite a sensation in the audience.

Rev. Mr. Chase then came forward, and said he had heard that the city marshal had received a bribe of one hundred dollars for allowing a certain man to sell rum. The marshal replied that the man who said so was a liar, and that the man who would peddle such a libel was no gentleman. Rev. Mr. Chase said he believed it was true, and that furthermore the office of city marshal had been put up and bid off to the highest bidder. Shortly after this the meeting broke up.

City Marshal Andrews has commenced a suit against Mr. Chase for libel and slander, suing him for $10,000 damages.

Paymaster E. N. Whitehouse is detached from the New York navy yard as inspector of flour, and ordered to the Ashuelot.

At League island, work on the Essex has been suspended for lack of funds. The training ship Constitution is receiving some repairs, preparatory to being sent to New London. The Ossipee is expected at League island shortly from Boston, to be fitted out in the same manner as the Juniata, the work on the latter vessel having been done under the able supervision of Constructor Hichborn.

Pilfering from Corporations.

The Manchester Mirror says the agents of the several manufacturing corporations in that city are determined to prosecute and bring to justice the many parties that have been filching from the mills. This pilfering has been going on uninterruptedly for years, until the operatives have become possessed of the idea that it was a harmless matter, and that the overseers did not care if they did take away odd bits of cloth and balls of yarn. The practice seems to have become general to do this, and the operatives talked the matter over among themselves, stating what they had taken or they proposed to take with the utmost nonchalance. This was shown by a case where a young girl was called before an agent, and on being interrogated, it was ascertained that she was the daughter of respectable American parents who reside in Maine, both of whom are alive, and she also possesse brothers and sisters. It was the first time the girl had been away from home, and the first time she had worked anywhere. On being asked about her stealing she burst into tears, and said it was her first offence. On coming to the city from a country town she had acquired the habit of taking almost what she wanted of the cloth, from her sister employes who did the same thing, and she thus gained the idea that there was no harm in committing the offense. The police court record of the Mirror contained the following on the 2d inst:

Mary Bebergon fell a victim to the vigilance of Capt. David Perkins, the special officer in the employ of the manufacturing corporations, and pleaded guilty to two complaints of larceny, one charging her with stealing yarn from the Manchester mills and the other with stealing from the Amoskeag company. She was fined $10 and costs on each, which with the search warrant cost her the sum of $33.86.

A Lucky Accident.

The origin of blue-tinted paper came about by a mere slip of the hand. The wife of William East, an English papermaker, accidentally let a blue-bag fall into one of the vats of pulp. The workmen were astonished when they saw the peculiar color of the paper, while Mr. East was highly incensed at what he considered a grave pecuniary loss. His wife was so much frightened that she would not confess her agency in the matter. After storing the damaged paper for four years, East sent it to his agent at London, with instructions to sell it for what it would bring. The paper was accepted as a "purposed novelty," and was disposed of at quite an advance over the market price. Mr. East was astonished at receiving an order from his agent for another large invoice of the paper. He was without the secret, and found himself in a dilemma. Upon mentioning it to his wife, she told him about the accident. He kept the secret, and the demand for the novel paper far exceeded his ability to supply it.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive hennery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to Good Habits.

Men are born with the power of making themselves what they please. The habit of doing well or poorly is but another name for willing to do so. A man may habituate his muscles to idleness and inaction till they are worthless in accomplishing any physical good. So he may by inattention or worse. All this is traceable to the fact that he is willing to do so. And when one wills to become industrious, form good habits, attain to method in all he undertakes, commonly called "turning over a new leaf," his bad habits are found to have become a great burden to him. It all began with his will that it should be, and hence the importance of comprehension of this will power. A writer has said that the habit of self-control is but the accumulation of continued acts of self-denial for a worthy object, the repeated authority of reason over impulse, judgment over inclination, sense over desire. One who can govern himself with judgment and intelligence, and without fear, has the secret of all true power. Such a one can boast of liberty. He is a free man. The will of self-control does not diminish, but constantly increase in strength, and there is scarcely any limit to its attainments. Too few men seem to realize this important truth.

Suppressing the Mosquito.

Professor Fontaine gives some hints for abating the mosquito pest, which is sure to come with the advent of sunny days. First, he says, mosquitoes require water for the deposit of their eggs, and the rearing of their larvæ or wiggle-tails. Therefore, all cisterns should be made close, and covered with close-woven brass wire-netting, to prevent their laying in them. No old tubs, barrels, or receptacles of water ought to be permitted stagnant pools left undrained within a mile of any dwelling. Then they can be killed by the cheapest and most abundant of all alkalies, common lime. Therefore this ought to be poured into every cesspool and spring. A pound of strong lime to every 100 gallons of stagnant water is sufficient. But even a pound to 1000 gallons of a cistern of drinking water will kill them, although it will probably give the water an unpleasant flavor and make it too "hard" for most domestic uses.

For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

What is Behind It?

No amount of money can stand in the stead of a good name. It is a blunder everywhere and every time to suppose the loss of character can be paid for. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., proprietor of the great medicine called "Favorite Remedy," would have but little confidence to recommend the public to buy and use if his own good name were not behind it. But the fact that he has staked his reputation upon it ought to be, and is, better than a thousand cheap certificates—in the opinion of the people. The doctor is a regular physician-surgeon, and despises a humbug as heartily as any man. If you are sick with any complaint of the blood, kidneys or liver, invest one dollar in the "Favorite Remedy," and it will speak for itself.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large external rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1883, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 71 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their gaping, irksome, despiriting, and life-sapping trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Daily Chronicle.

Friday Inaugurations.

James A. Garfield was inaugurated President of the United States on Friday, and some weak-headed, superstitious people forebode dire calamities to the country or administration on that account.

John Quincy Adams, a strong man, and Franklin Pierce, a very weak man, were both inaugurated on Friday. Adams' term was one of peace and national prosperity, and during Pierce's weak administration no dire national disaster occurred, however much his feebleness may have contributed toward their later happening.

It is suggested as ominous for Garfield that neither of the other presidents who were inaugurated on a Friday were re-elected, Adams and Pierce serving each but one term. To make things all right, President Garfield's second inauguration will occur on a Wednesday.

Base music. To be aroused from sweet and delicious slumber by a "cat serenade," is on a par with being annoyed in church by the steady hacking and coughing of individuals, who neglect to take Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

—The last Montana yarn is to the effect that the cold was so intense last week in Madison valley that the wind was unable to blow, and ducks, prairie chickens, and other feathered game, in endeavoring to reach the Geyser basin, were frozen solid in the air, where they will be compelled to remain until the spring thaw.

We would not, by enticing headings and other devices lead you into reading of the virtues possessed by Pierce's celebrated medicines were it not that we are aware of the forgetfulness of people, and that must be our excuse, dear reader, for again telling you that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is without an equal as a blood-purifier. It cures all humors from the common blotch, pimple, or eruption, to the worst scrofula, fever sore or ulcer. Dr. Pierce's Pellets are a pleasant but efficient cathartic. Sold by druggists.

ST. CLOUD HOUSE,

Hon. R. V. PIERCE, M. D.:

Dear Doctor—I have been using your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets for liver complaint and general debility. It is impossible to express the gratitude I feel. It is simply wonderful the effect your medicines have had upon me. I am in every way a thousand per cent better. I am, yours gratefully, J. C. DAVIDSON.

—An observer remarks that the man who stops his paper to economize is like a man who goes barefoot to save his shoes.

Dr. H. L. Bowker, Massachusetts State Assayer, purchased himself from several wholesale druggists the samples he analyzed of "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey. It cannot, therefore, be said that the samples were different from the article sold by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. He pronounced it of remarkable purity and excellence. Buy it of your druggist or grocer.

—The card craze has another victim in Frederick Ross, a letter-carrier of Cambridge, Mass., who has been detected and arrested for pilfering fancy and advertising cards intrusted to his care. The card-snatcher is twenty-five years of age, is a member of the Baptist church, in which he is a Sunday-school teacher, and has heretofore borne an unblemished reputation.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of these bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

SATURDAY, MARCH 5. 1881.

The Inauguration.

In the Senate, on the 4th, no business was done after ten o'clock. The chamber was filled with a brilliant assemblage. At twelve o'clock Chester A. Arthur was sworn in as Vice President of the United States, Vice President Wheeler administering the oath. Mr. Arthur called the Senate to order, and the new senators were sworn in, all answering to their names except Mahone. The Senate then adjourned to the east portico of the capital, where James A. Garfield was inaugurated President. The President's message was quite long, and at its close he was escorted to the White House. The sun shone brightly after ten o'clock in the forenoon, and over 100,000 persons witnessed the procession.

Congress.

The Senate and House both prolonged their session on the 3d through the night into the 4th. In the House, after the receipt of the President's veto on the 3d, the apportionment bill was passed, fixing the number of representatives at 319. The deficiency bill was increased in the Senate by $800,000; and that bill and the sundry civil bill were finally passed by both houses in time to become laws before the expiring of the 46th Congress. Shortly before twelve o'clock on the 4th the House passed a vote of thanks to Speaker Randall, and at noon he declared the House adjourned without day.

A Mining Horror.

There was a gas explosion in a coal mine at Almy, Wyoming territory, on the evening of the 3d inst., throwing the flames many hundred feet up the main slope, carrying away the building around the mouth of the shaft, and setting the machinery and building on fire. Shortly before the explosion fifty Chinamen and between ten and thirty white men went into the mine on the night shift. At two o'clock next morning seventeen Chinamen had been got out, all badly hurt, many having broken limbs and severe burns; twenty dead Chinamen had been found, but not brought out.

Great Storm.

The worst snow storm ever known in the northwest raged all day Thursday, and through the night. All business and travel is suspended, and the storm may truthfully be called a great calamity. Many of the principal railroads will probably be blockaded for many days, and the smaller lines are abandoned altogether. At Madison, Wis., three feet of snow fell, and the drifts were in many places from fifteen to eighteen feet high; and reports from all over the state, wherever the telegraph was working, announced the snow-fall as from three to six feet deep on a level, and badly drifted. Iowa and Minnesota are also literary buried in snow, and it is feared that actual starvation must ensue in cases where persons and families are isolated.

News and Notes.

A freight train and a working train on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad collided near Caldwell station, Va., on the 3d inst., at high speed. Both engines were smashed to atoms, and the two engineers and two firemen killed, as was also Dr. Caldwell of White Sulphur Springs. The cars were piled up four deep.

Incendiaries, who have set four fires in Northampton, Mass., within a few months, started two more Wednesday night, the 2d inst., one of which destroyed a large ice-house, and while the department was engaged there the town engine-house was fired. This, however, was saved with slight damage.

In the Gloucester fish market, for the week ending the 3d inst., fresh halibut sold at 10 1-2 and seven cents per lb. for white and gray; frozen herring at 65 cents to 70 per hundred; mackerel, No. 1, at $16 to 17 per bbl. Mackerel have been seen off Georges. The first catch of mackerel last spring was on the 24th of March, but farther south. The southern mackerel fleet are already fitting out at Gloucester.

The schooner Morrill Boy, Capt. Gill, of Gloucester, recently landed 319 codfish weighing 9,570 lbs., averaging thirty lbs. each. They were caught by the new net process, and the average size of the fish is unprecedented.

Political.

The final defeat of the funding bill is not to be attributed to the low rate of interest proposed, but to the compulsory clause relating to the circulation of the national banks. This idea was not essential to the measure, but was inserted as a pet scheme for punishing the banks. Had the amendment proposed by Senator Blair been adopted there is no doubt the president would have signed the bill, and the people would have approved. The senator's proposition was that three per cents should be the only bonds receivable as security for bank circulation issued after the first day of May next. It would then have been optional for the old banks to issue more circulation, as it would be for any capitalists to establish new banks and call for circulation, for the terms would be understood. But the democratic majority were not satisfied with so just and honest a proposition, and insisted upon the original plan that nothing but three per cent bonds should be received as security for all circulation after July 1st.

Secretary Sherman tendered his resignation as secretary of the treasury on Thursday, to take his seat in the Senate on the 4th inst. His administration of the treasury department has been admirable, and second to none since the foundation of our government. First Assistant Secretary H. F. French will be acting secretary until President Garfield names Mr. Sherman's successor.

Gen. Winfield S. Hancock was at Washington on the 4th inst. as the invited guest of the inaugural committee. Certain enthusiastic but very soft-headed democrats proposed to make his visit the occasion of a grand political demonstration, in which the horses were to be removed from the general's carriage, and the vehicle drawn from the depot to the hotel by men; but Gen. Hancock very sensibly declined to consent to such an act of flunkeyism, and the silly scheme was given up.

Five Lucky Bostonians Who Now Shout in High Glee—How and By Whom it Was Drawn.

Life is a lottery, with few prizes, but many blanks, and when now and then some fortunate individual draws a much-coveted prize in the form of some well-merited position in life, all but an envious few cry out their congratulations. There were the thoughts which instantly arose to a Globe reporter's mind upon learning that, at the recent drawing of prizes of the Louisiana State Lottery, held in New Orleans, two of the prizes were captured by Boston people. The $3500 prize was drawn by ticket No. 27,612, which is owned by four of the workmen in the Boston Co-operative Cigar Company, No. 70 Sudbury street, named J. J. Cronin, M. Simmons, N. Sickles, and S. Segar, who, in return for their investment of 50 cents each, received the magnificent sum of $250 apiece. Mr. Henry Schrenpel, a fellow-workman of theirs, and the gentleman who transacted the business for them, speaks in the highest terms of the company. The money was paid over to him on last Tuesday week by the agent of the lottery in this city, and by him handed over to the winners. The winners are steady men, and have not been careful enough by their almost unexpected good luck, to foolishly spend their prize, as is too often the case. They have not acted upon the old adage, "easy come, easy go," but have wisely hoarded up their little treasure for a rainy day.

But on Kingston street can be found one who has been more fortunate than these four gentlemen. Some time during the latter part of January, Mr. Winslow C. Fisk, of the firm of W. C. Fisk & Co., 55 Kingston street, having some superfluous cash, became the possessor of one-half of ticket No. 26,789, the other half being owned by a party in New Orleans. Whether or not Mr. Fisk believed that there was luck in odd numbers does not appear; but so it proved, for in this particular case the odd number drew the prize of $5000, and a week ago yesterday Mr. Fisk sent his half of the ticket by the Adams Express Company to New Orleans, for the collection of his share, $2500, and he is hourly expecting its receipt in this city. These facts, and the additional one recently published in these columns relative to the $20,000 drawn by a lady in Chelsea, show that the Louisiana State Lottery must not be classed among the wild-cat lottery schemes whose circulars are constantly flooding the country. —Boston Globe, March 2d.

A Wonderful Printing Ink.

From Turin, in sunny Italy, we have news—not altogether reliable—of the invention and successful use of a printing ink, which, if it is as represented, will bankrupt all the gas companies in America in far less time than the electric light can possibly accomplish that feat, and discount the illuminating inventions of Edison and all the rest of the aggressive electricians. The entirely new and unquestionably wonderful printers' ink is so compounded as to become luminous in the dark. Books, magazines and newspapers printed with this ink may be easily read in the darkest room without any assistance from artificial light. Just as soon as the sunlight, or any other light, vanishes, this ink beams as bright as burnished silver; so much so that whatever is printed with it may be read without the assistance of any other light. Only the printed words become luminous, which is all that is required by any reader; it is not claimed that the light-emanating ink illuminates aught but the immediate words which were impressed by its agency.

Our information, taken from an Italian journal, goes so far as to say that a daily paper is soon to be published in Turin on which this luminous ink will be used exclusively. No doubt we shall be favored with a copy of it, and, after its receipt, will be in a position to inform our readers whether the wonderful ink is all that it has been represented to be by those who have written it up so ardently. If really successful, it will work a revolution in reading after dark; students' lamps will be relegated to back sheds, along with stage coaches. Fifth and sixth editions of popular novels will be printed in luminous ink; enterprising business men will, after nightfall, cause to be distributed luminous circulars; all the go-ahead evening papers are sure to be printed in the self-lighting ink. Reading in bed is going to be as safe as perusing books in a well-appointed library at midday. Political transparencies will no longer need candles or gas jets inside. Names of streets, figures on watch dials, house numbers, etc., will all alike be displayed in the wonderful luminous ink. Of the ingredients of this astounding compound we know nothing, much to our sorrow; its existence reads like a paragraph clipped from the "Arabian Nights." Just so read the first accounts of the electric telegraph to our grandfathers. There may be something in the luminous printers' ink of Turin; if only a joke, it is a light one, even in the dark.—Printers' Circular.

—He opened the door into the Indianapolis Leader room cautiously, and poking his head in in a suggestive sort of way, as if there were more to follow, inquired, "Is this the editorial rinktum, sinctum, sanctum, or some such place where the editors live?" "This is the editorial room; yes, sir; come in." "I wanted to see what a rinktum was like, that is all. Looks like our garret, only wuss. Good day."

NEURALGIA.

It has been ascertained that the most invete a e cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

The town report of Exeter shows that the town has made good progress in the payment of the debt. The town indebtedness on March 1st, 1880, was $51,070, with a balance of $4500 in the treasurer's hands. The indebtedness March 1st, 1881, is $42,340, with a balance of $6,300 in the hands of the treasurer.

Capt. Charles H. Salter has been appointed an inspector of customs at this port by Collector Howard, to fill a vacancy caused by the acceptance by John H. Flagg of the appointment of master machinist in the bureau of steam engineering at the navy yard. Capt. Salter was sworn into office on Friday, the 4th inst.

Prof. Oscar Faulhaber, who is to deliver his lecture on the German empire next Tuesday evening in Franklin theatre, and that on the French republic at the same place on the Tuesday evening following, has been invited by many of the prominent citizens of Exeter to give the lectures in that town, and has consented to do so.

The cause of the bilge-water odor that has emanated from the south pond of later has been entirely removed by forcing open the gates, and letting the water flow in and out freely. The high tides of Thursday and Friday must also have reached the farthest inlet of the marshes at the head of the pond, and have given the flats a good and much-needed cleansing. The effluvium from the dead fish that had got clogged beneath the gates at the bridge caused the fence of Mr. James Nutter to be greatly discolored, so that at least two coats of paint will be needed to give it its former appearance. This stench it is claimed was occasioned by the failure to provide a wicket gate in the large gates, at the time of the alteration at the bridge.

On Thursday evening last the moon was in conjunction with Venus, Jupiter and Saturn at nearly the same time. The moon, which was only three days old, passed about one degree north of Venus at eight o'clock, having already passed its nearest point to Jupiter and Saturn, during the daytime. Had the weather been pleasant a spectacle would have been presented that will never offer itself to any now living; but unfortunately an overcast sky and driving storm prevented even a glimpse of the grand celestial gathering.

DOGS AND BOOKS.

The dogs! It was a great trial of my patience a few days ago to see a young lady almost tumble over a great dog which persistently stood in her way in one of our streets. A man might be excused for using a stronger expletive than I have when he sees a lady's right of way hindered or endangered by such a brute. Now I like a dog—in his place. But there are several hundred running round loose, with the full freedom of the city. A few are useful and valuable, but the larger number are nuisances to timid people, some are terrors to women and children, and all are dangerous. I have been told that there is an ordinance requiring their owners to take out licenses for them, and that the time was when a large number were licensed, and quite a revenue was derived from that source. No dogs are licensed in this city now. I have recently read in one of the monthlies of a nice public library sustained in one of our New England towns entirely from a license or tax on dogs. The same thing might be done here. Let the license be increased to the lawful sum, and collected on all dogs, and the whole sum used for the new library. A book for a dog! A sufficient sum could thus be raised to pay for a room, and reasonable expenses besides. To what a noble use would the brutes be put. B.

KEARSARGE MILLS.

All citizens who are willing to aid in the rebuilding of the Kearsarge Mills by subscribing to the stock of the new corporation which it is proposed to organize, and all who favor immediate action to that end, are requested to meet in the Common Council room on Monday evening, March 7th, at eight o'clock.

Franklin, and claiming to represent Shaw, Hammond & Carney of Portland, who hired a team at North Berwick on the 20th ult. and failed to return it, was arrested in Portland this week on suspicion, and fully identified by the North Berwick stable keepers, who were at once sent for. He refused to give any information about the stolen team. He had in his possession when arrested another team, no doubt stolen; dark sorrel mare, fine black-mounted harness, and nice sleigh and robes. This team also he would give no account of.

BURNETT'S COCOAINE FOR LOSS OF HAIR.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11, 1880.

Three years ago my hair was coming out very fast, and I was nearly bald. I was also troubled with dandruff. I begun using BURNETT'S COCOAINE, and my hair immediately stopped coming out, and has constantly been getting thicker. My head is now entirely free from dandruff. My wife has used the COCOAINE with equally as gratifying results. P. T. PLATT,

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and we long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

A Costly War.

The endeavor of the democrats in the late Congress to destroy the national banking system by forcing the banks to buy hundreds of millions of bonds which they do not want, will cost the country a good deal of money. The republicans were willing to pass a bill providing for the issuing of bonds bearing three per cent interest, and did endeavor to pass such a bill. The democrats showed that their aim was not to lower the rate of interest the government must pay, but to destroy the national banks, for they refused to pass the three per cent funding bill without the clause compelling the banks to take a large part of the loan—a bald attempt to make the banks buy a bond which it was suspected the people at large would not purchase. This last typical performance of "the democratic Congress" will compel President Garfield's secretary of treasury to sell $106,000,000 of four per cent bonds, instead of raising all the money required at three and one-half per cent. It is some satisfaction to reflect that the last democratic Congress will continue to be the last one of that kind.

The Great Telegraph Monopoly.

Judge Blatchford, in the United States circuit court in New York, on the 3d inst. denied the motion of the directors of the French Cable companies to continue the injunction restraining the consolidation of the Western Union and other telegraph companies. Judge Blatchford entirely refuses to grant to either of the two complainant companies any relief whatever on their bills filed to restrain the sale of other telegraphs to the Western Union company. He also refuses to grant to either of them upon anything that had been said up to that date, any relief on their amended bills asking an order to restrain the Western Union telegraph company from violating any of the conditions of the cable contracts made with the two land companies to which it now succeeds. He will hear argument on any form of order embodying such relief. Judge Sedgwick is reported as having ruled that the Western Union can issue its certificates of indebtedness for 48 1-2 per cent; this, the officials claim, practically accomplishes all that is required to complete consolidation.

Health and Happiness.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It has proven itself to be the best blood purifier ever discovered, effectually curing scrofula, syphilitic disorders, weakness of the kidneys, all nervous disorders and debility. It corrects indigestion. It makes the old feel young, and the young feel gay; and will invariably drive out of the system the many ills that the human flesh is heir to. It acts like a charm, especially when the complaint is of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

Hon. Stillman B. Allen, of Boston, who has been ill with pneumonia for some days, is better.

General B. F. Butler!

Still lives, and so do hundreds of others who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia, by the great blood purifier, Sulpher Bitters. Send for testimonials.

At a special meeting of the aldermen of Gloucester, Mass., last Thursday evening, it was voted not to license the sale of liquors.

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, billiousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

F. Murphy, aged six years, while coasting on the Spickett river, at Lawrence, Mass., last Thursday, broke through the ice and was drowned. The body has not yet been found.

I have no hesitation in stating that Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites ranks foremost amongst the remedies used in the treatment of incipient phthisic, chronic bronchitis, and other affections of the chest.

While the Methodists of Adrian, Mich., were giving their pastor, Rev. Mr. Dawls, a donation on Saturday evening, the parsonage took fire and was destroyed, with all of Mr. Dawls' effects and library.

General Grant has visited every civilized country, yet in all his travels he has never seen a more effectual remedy for coughs and colds than Adamson's Botanic Balsam. Sold by druggists and dealers at 35 cts. Trial size, 10 cts. Large bottles, 75 cts.

Congress has passed a special act placing Mrs. Elizabeth Upright of Rockland, Ia., on the pension rolls, because she had eleven sons in the federal army. There is no other instance in the country of a mother having eleven sons in the army.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large rectal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind, was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you at a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, in manis are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the millution makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the authorand inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photographic pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 41 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S INAUGURAL.

Fellow Citizens: We stand to-day upon an eminence which overlooks a hundred years of national life, a century crowded with perils, but crowned with the triumphs of liberty and law. Before continuing the onward march let us pause on this hight for a moment to strengthen our faith and renew our hope by a glance at the pathway along which our people have traveled.

THE NATION'S CENTENARY.

It is now three days more than a hundred years since the adoption of the first written Constitution of the United States, the articles of confederation and perpetual union. The new republic was then beset with danger on every hand. It had not conquered a place in the family of nations. The decisive battle of the war for independence, whose centennial anniversary will soon be gratefully celebrated at Yorktown, had not yet been fought. The colonists were struggling not only against the armies of a great nation, but against the settled opinions of mankind, for the world did not believe that the supreme authority of government could be safely intrusted to the guardianship of the people themselves. We cannot overestimate the fervent love of liberty, the intelligent courage and the saving common sense with which our fathers made the great experiment of self-government. When they found, after a short trial, that the confederacy of States, was too weak to meet the necessities of a vigorous and expanding republic, they boldly set it aside, and in its stead established a national union founded directly upon the will of the people, endowed with future powers of self-preservation and with ample authority for the accomplishment of its great objects. Under this Constitution the boundaries of freedom have been enlarged, the foundations of order and peace have been strengthened, and the growth in all the better elements of national life has vindicated the wisdom of the founders and given new hope to their descendants. Under this Constitution our people long ago made themselves safe against danger from without and secured for their mariners and flag equality of rights on all the seas. Under this Constitution twenty-five States have been added to the Union, with constitutions and laws framed and enforced by their own citizens to secure the manifold blessings of local self-government. The jurisdiction of this Constitution now covers an area fifty times greater than that of the original thirteen States and a population twenty times greater than that of 1780. The supreme trial of the Constitution came at last under the tremendous pressure of civil war. We ourselves are witnesses that the Union emerged from the blood and fire of that conflict purified and made stronger for all the beneficent purposes of good government.

PRESSING FORWARD.

And now, at the close of this first century of growth, with the inspirations of its history in their hearts, our people have lately reviewed the condition of their nation, passed judgment upon the conduct and opinions of political parties and have registered their will concerning the future administration of the government. To interpret and to execute that will in accordance with the Constitution is the paramount duty of the Executive. Even from this brief review it is manifest that the nation is resolutely facing to the front, resolved to employ its best energies in developing the great possibilities of the future. Sacredly preserving whatever has been gained to liberty and good government during the century, our people are determined to leave behind them all those bitter controversies, including things which have been irrevocably settled, and the further discussion of which can only stir up strife and delay the onward march.

THE SUPREMACY OF THE NATION

and its laws should be no longer a subject of debate. That discussion which for half a century threatened the existence of the Union was closed at last in the high court of war by a decree from which there is no appeal, that the Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof are and shall continue to be the supreme law of the land, binding alike upon the States and the people. This decree does not disturb the autonomy of the States nor interfere with any of their necessary rules of local self-government, but it does fix and establish the permanent supremacy of the Union. The will of the nation speaking with the voice of battle and through the amended Constitution has fulfilled the great promise of 1776 by proclaiming "Liberty throughout the land to all the inhabitants thereof."

EMANCIPATION.

The elevation of the negro race from slavery to the full rights of citizenship is the most important political change we have known since the adoption of the Constitution of 1787. No thoughtful man can fail to appreciate its beneficent effect upon our institutions and people. It has freed us from the perpetual danger of war and dissolution. It has added immensely to the moral and industrial forces of our people. It has liberated the master as well as the slave from a relation which wronged and enfeebled both. It has surrendered to their own guardianship the manhood of more than 5,000,000 of people, and has opened to each one of them a career of freedom and usefulness. It has given new inspiration to the power of self-help in both races by making labor more honorable to the one and more necessary to the other. The influence of this force will grow greater and bear richer fruit with the coming years. No doubt the great change has caused serious disturbance to our Southern community. This is to be deplored, though it was unavoidable. But those who resisted the change should remember that under our institutions there was no middle ground for the negro race between slavery and equal citizenship. There can be no permanent disfranchised peasantry in the United States; freedom can never yield its fullness of blessings so long as the law or its administration places the smallest obstacles in the pathway of any virtuous citizen. The emancipated race has already made remarkable progress; with unquestionable devotion to the Union, with a patience and gentleness not born of fear, they have "followed the light as God gave them to see the light." They are rapidly laying the material foundations for self-support, widening the circle of intelligence, and beginning to enjoy the blessings that gather around the homes of industrious poor. They deserve the generous encouragement of all good men. So far as my authority can lawfully extend they shall enjoy the full and equal protection of the Constitution and the laws.

THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION.

The free enjoyment of equal suffrage is still in question, and a frank statement of the facts may aid its solution. It is alleged that in many communities negro citizens are practically denied the freedom of the ballot. In so far as the truth of this allegation is admitted, it is answered that in many places honest local government is impossible if the mass of uneducated negroes are allowed to vote. These are grave allegations. So far as the latter is true, it is the only palliation that can be offered for opposing the freedom of the ballot. Bad local government is certainly a great evil which ought to be prevented, but to violate the freedom and sanctity of the suffrage is more than an evil; it is a crime, which, if persisted in, will destroy the Government itself. Suicide is not a remedy. If in other lands it be high treason to compass the death of the king, it should be counted no less a crime here to strangle our sovereign power and stifle its voice. It has been said that unsettled questions have no pity for the repose of nations. It should be said with the utmost emphasis that this question of the suffrage will never give repose or safety to the States of the nation until each within its own jurisdiction makes and keeps the ballot free and pure by the strong sanctions of the law. But the danger which arises from ignorance in the voter cannot be denied. It covers a field far wider than that of negro suffrage and the present condition of that race. It is a danger that lurks and hides in the sources and fountains of power in every State. We have no standard by which to measure the disaster that may be brought upon us by ignorance and vice in the citizens when joined to corruption and fraud in the suffrage. The voters of the Union who make and unmake Constitutions and upon whom will hang the destinies of our Governments can transmit their supreme authority to no successor save the coming generation of voters, who are the sole heirs of sovereign power. If that generation comes to its inheritance blinded by ignorance and corrupted by vice, the fall of the republic will be certain and remediless. The census has already sounded the alarm in the appalling figures which mark how dangerously high the tide of illiteracy has risen among our voters and their children. To the South this question is of supreme importance, but the responsibility for the existence of slavery did not rest upon the South alone. The nation itself is responsible for the extension of the suffrage, and is under special obligations to aid in removing the illiteracy which it has added to the voting population.

UNIVERSAL EDUCATION.

For the North and South alike there is but one remedy. All the Constitutional power of the Nation and of the States, and all the volunteer forces of the people, should be summoned to meet this danger by the saving influence of universal education. It is the high privilege and sacred duty of those now living to educate their successors and fit them by intelligence and virtue for the inheritance which awaits them. In this beneficent work sections and races should be forgotten, and partisanship should be unknown. Let our people find a new meaning in the divine oracle which declares that "a little child shall lead them," for our little children will soon control the destinies of the Republic.

THE GOSPEL OF RECONCILIATION.

My countrymen, we do not differ in judgment concerning the controversies of past generations, and fifty years hence our children will not be divided in their opinions concerning our controversies. They will surely bless their fathers and their fathers' God that the Union was preserved, that slavery was overthrown and that both races were made equal before the law. We may hasten or we may retard, but we cannot prevent the final reconciliation. Is it not possible for us now to make a truce with time by anticipating and accepting its inevitable verdict? Enterprises of the highest importance to our moral and material well-being invite us, and offer ample scope for the employment of our best powers. Let all our people, leaving behind them the battlefields of dead issues, move forward, and in the strength of liberty and the restored Union win the grander victories of peace.

THE NATIONAL PROSPERITY.

The prosperity which now prevails is without a parallel in our history. Fruitful seasons have done much to secure it, but they have not done all. The preservation of the public credit and the resumption of specie payments, so successfully attained by the administration of my predecessor, have enabled our people to secure the blessings which the seasons brought. By the experience of commercial nations in all ages, it has been found that gold and silver afford the only safe foundation for a monetary system. Confusion has recently been created by variations in the relative value of the two metals, but I confidently believe that arrangements can be made between the leading commercial nations which will secure the general use of both metals. Congress should provide that the compulsory coinage of silver, now required by law, may not disturb our monetary system by driving either metal out of circulation. If possible, such an adjustment should be made that the purchasing power of every coined dollar will be exactly equal to its debt-paying power in all the markets of the world. The chief duty of the National Government, in connection with the currency of the country is to coin and declare its value. Grave doubts have been entertained whether Congress is authorized by the Constitution to make any form of paper money legal tender. The present issue of United States notes has been sustained by the necessities of war, but such paper should depend for its value and currency upon its convenience in use, and its prompt redemption in coin at the will of the holder, and not upon its compulsory circulation. These notes are not money, but promises to pay money if the holders demand it. The promise should be kept.

THE NATIONAL DEBT.

The refunding of the national debt at a lower rate of interest should be accomplished without compelling the withdrawal of the national bank notes and thus disturbing the business of the country. I venture to refer to the position I have occupied on financial questions during a long service in Congress, and to say that time and experience have strengthened the opinions I have so often expressed on these subjects. The finances of the Government shall suffer no detriment which it may be possible for my administration to prevent.

THE AGRICULTURAL INTEREST.

The interests of agriculture deserve more attention from the Government than they have yet received. The farmers of the United States afford homes and employment for more than one-half our people, and furnish much the largest part of all our exports. As the Government lights our coasts for the protection of mariners and the benefit of commerce, so it should give to the tillers of the soil the lights of practical science and experience.

THE TRANSPORTATION QESTION.

Our manufactures are rapidly making us industrially independent, and are opening to capital and labor new and profitable fields of employment. This steady and healthy growth should still be maintained. Our facilities for transportation should be promoted by the continued improvement of our harbors and great interior water-ways and by the increase of our tonnage on the ocean. The development of the world's commerce has led to an urgent demand for shortening the great sea voyage around Cape Horn by constructing ship canals or railways across the isthmus which unites the two continents. Various plans to this end have been suggested and will need consideration, but none of them have been sufficiently matured to warrant the United States in extending pecuniary aid. The subject, however, is one which will immediately engage the attention of the Government with a view to a thorough protection of American interests. We will urge no narrow policy nor seek peculiar or exclusive privileges on any commercial route, but in the language of my predecessor, I believe it to be the right and duty of the United States to assert and maintain such supervision and authority over any inter-oceanic canal across the Isthmus that connects North and South America as will protect our National interests.

THE MORMON INIQUITY.

The Constitution guarantees absolute religious freedom. Congress is prohibited from making any law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof. The Territories of the United States are subject to the direct legislative authority of Congress, and hence the General Government is responsible for any violation of the Constitution in any of them. It is therefore a reproach to the Government that in the most populous of the Territories the constitutional guarantee is not enjoyed by the people, and the authority of Congress is set at naught. The Mormon Church not only offends the moral sense of mankind by sanctioning polygamy, but prevents the administration of justice through the ordinary instrumentalities of law. In my judgment it is the duty of Congress while respecting to the uttermost the conscientious convictions and religious scruples of every citizen, to prohibit within its jurisdiction all immoral practices, especially of that class which destroy the family relations and endanger social order. Nor can any ecclesiastical organization be safely permitted to usurp in the smallest degree the functions and powers of the National Government.

THE CIVIL SERVICE QUESTION.

The civil service can never be placed on a satisfactory basis until it is regulated by law. For the good of the service itself, for the protection of those who are entrusted with this appointing power against the waste of time and obstruction to the public business caused by the inordinate pressure for place, and for the protection of incumbents against intrigue and wrong, I shall at the proper time ask Congress to fix the tenure of the minor officers of the several executive departments, and prescribe the grounds upon which removals shall be made, during terms for which incumbents have been appointed.

CONCLUDING OBSERVATIONS.

Finally, acting always within the authority and limitations of the Constitution, invading neither the rights of the States nor the reserved rights of the people, it will be the purpose of my administration to maintain its authority, and in all places within its jurisdiction to enforce obedience to all laws of the Union in the interests of the people, to demand rigid economy in all the expenditures of the Government and to require the honest and faithful service of all executive officers, remembering that the offices were created, not for the benefit of the incumbents or their supporters but for the service of the Government. And now, fellow citizens, I am about to assume the great trust which you have committed to my hands. I appeal to you for that earnest and thoughtful support, which makes this Government in fact as it is in law, a government of the people. I shall greatly rely upon the wisdom and patriotism of Congress and of those who may share with me the responsibilities and duties of administration, and above all upon our efforts to promote the welfare of this great people and their government, I reverently invoke the support and blessings of Almighty God.

What is Behind It?

No amount of money can stand in the stead of a good name. It is a blunder everywhere and every time to suppose the loss of character can be paid for. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., proprietor of the great medicine called "Favorite Remedy," would have but little confidence to recommend the public to buy and use if his own good name were not behind it. But the fact that he has staked his reputation upon it ought to be, and is, better than a thousand cheap certificates—in the opinion of the people. The doctor is a regular physician-surgeon, and despises a humbug as heartily as any man. If you are sick with any complaint of the blood, kidneys or liver, invest one dollar in the "Favorite Remedy," and it will speak for itself.

The New Cabinet.

James G. Blaine, of Maine, to be secretary of state;

Robert T. Lincoln, of Illinois, to be secretary of war;

Samuel C. J. Kirkwood, of Iowa, to be secretary of the interior;

The nominations were all confirmed by the Senate, without the reference of any of them to a committee.

The Forty-Sixth Congress.

The late Congress, strongly democratic in both branches, will be remembered as the most inefficient and incapable one in the country's history. Among its marked failures may be mentioned the repeal of the federal election laws for securing a full and free ballot, the restoration of Fitz John Porter to the army, and the wiping out as with a sponge of all the war legislation,—all which it promised to do, and none of which it did. The attempt to destroy the national banks resulted in another conspicuous failure, thanks to the firmness and patriotism of President Hayes.

But this democratic Congress did manage to do some things. It passed the biggest steal yet in the shape of a river and harbor bill; it kept in their seats as members, almost until the last moment, democrats who had early in its existence been proved to have failed of election; it turned out republicans who had been elected, and gave their seats to defeated democrats; and it distributed scores of thousands of dollars to democrats as "expenses" for the contesting of seats in Congress, going back fifteen years to find objects of such charity.

One really meritorious act was performed by the late Congress; at twelve o'clock, noon, March 4th, 1881, it expired.

Ex-President Hayes in Peril.

Ex-President Hayes and wife, their sons, and a number of companions of both sexes, left Washington at one o'clock Saturday afternoon for Baltimore, on their way to their home in Ohio. When twelve miles from Baltimore, as the train swept around a curve it was met by two locomotives going north at high speed, and a terrible collision took place. The two wild engines were hurled from the track, the engine attached to the train was smashed, and the car next the engine was badly shattered. J. Wayne Young, a merchant of Shamokin, Pa., was killed, as was also a baggageman; the engineer of one of the wild engines was fatally hurt, and it is feared the engineer of the ex-president's train will also die. Nine other persons were hurt, but none seriously; Mr. Hayes' party escaped injury, and the ex-president and his sons worked actively in aiding to extricate and help the wounded.

Disastrous Wreck.

The Italian barque Ajace, Capt. Morice, from Antwerp for New York with a partial cargo of kerosene barrels, became waterlogged last Thursday night off Rockaway beach. The crew numbered fifteen men, including the captain, and when it became evident that the barque could not be saved a panic took place among the crew. The captain tried to keep the men under discipline, but was unable to restrain them. The heavy seas broke over the vessel, washing one by one from the wreck. Four of the men, in despair, against the earnest protestations of the captain, committed suicide by cutting their throats, and their bodies were washed overboard. The remainder of the crew, with the exception of one man, who alone remains to tell the tale, were gradually exhausted, washed overboard and lost. The vessel struck on Rockaway shoals. She gradually broke up, and the poop deck, cabin house and one mast were first seen Friday morning at four o'clock, off Manhattan beach about two and one-half miles. Captain Biberson, of the life saving station, with a crew, launched a lifeboat and went to the rescue. From the wreck one half-drowned man, who could speak English very imperfectly, and who gave his name as Peter Sallace, was rescued, and told the story of the disaster. The sea in front of Coney island was covered with kerosene barrels and parts of the wreck. No bodies had come ashore.

The Apportionment Bill.

A curious incident of the closing day of the last Congress was the passage by the House of the apportionment bill—not the one advocated by Mr. Cox, fixing the number of members at 307, but the bill advocated by the republican minority of the census committee. Through Mr. Cox's efforts it was agreed that the rules should be suspended, and votes taken on the numbers 322, 319, 315, and 307. The first number was rejected by a vote of 119 ayes to 132 nays, a strict party vote. The roll was then called on the number 319, and that number was adopted by a vote of 136 to 123, twelve democrats voting with the republicans. The result was loudly applauded by the republicans. The bill was then passed by a vote of 145 ayes to 113 nays, all of the republicans and eighteen democrats voting in its favor.

The bill provides that after March 3d, 1883, the House shall consist of 319 members, apportioned as follows:

Alabama	8	Mississippi	7
Arkansas	5	Missouri	14
California	6	Nebraska	3
Colorado	1	Nevada	1
Connecticut	4	New Hampshire	2
Delaware	1	New Jersey	7
Florida	2	New York	33
Georgia	10	North Carolina	9
Iowa	10	Ohio	21
Illinois	20	Oregon	1
Indiana	13	Pennsylvania	28
Kansas	6	Rhode Island	2
Kentucky	11	South Carolina	6
Louisiana	6	Tennessee	10
Maine	4	Texas	10
Maryland	6	Vermont	3
Massachusetts	12	Virginia	10
Michigan	11	West Virginia	4
Minnesota	5	Wisconsin	8

Political.

President Garfield's inaugural is a plain, out-spoken and dignified address, and shows a degree of soundness in his political and financial ideas which augurs well for his administration of the affairs of the country.

The Delaware house of representatives on the 4th inst. "resolved" that Samuel J. Tilden was elected President of the United States in 1876, and that it is too bad that Gen. Garfield was elected in 1880! It need hardly be added that this ridiculous effusion was passed "by a strict party vote"—though it might have been expected by some persons that even Delaware would have had at least one democratic legislator possessing common sense.

The inaugural procession on the 4th inst. was the most imposing demonstration ever seen in Washington on any similar occasion, there being over 20,000 troops in line. The ball in the evening was a grand affair, the attendance being about 6000; Gen. Hancock, next to President Garfield, was the person who attracted most attention.

News and Notes.

A six-days' foot-race in New York last week was won by Panchot. But little interest was taken in the affair, and the receipts were small.

While the Boston Lancers were at Centralia, Ill., on the 3d inst., on their way home from New Orleans, an engine got off the track, and in getting it back a rope broke, and one end of it struck Wm. Dailey, a member of the Lancers, and injured him so that he died in a few hours.

The steamer Sultan, from Hamburg, bound for the United States with one hundred emigrants, was run into and cut to the water's edge by a steamer in the Humber, on the 4th inst., and sunk. It is believed that all on board were saved.

Nine vessels which sought shelter in Raritan bay, N. J., on the 4th inst., were washed high on the meadows, swamped in Matawan creek, or sunk by being driven against a railroad embankment. Several fishing vessels were sunk at their anchors, and many oyster vessels were lost; ten oyster sloops were driven ashore between Keyport, N. J., and Port Monmouth.

After a Mrs. Buford of Kansas had walked two miles to a river to commit suicide she remembered that the oven was full of bread, and she at once hastened home to save the loaves.

The Penobscot lumbermen are in high spirits now that the most prosperous logging season for years is near its close. It is estimated that 150,000,000 feet of logs will be driven into the boom this year.

A deficiency of $85,000 has been discovered in the accounts of the Springfield Silk company of Springfield, Mass., and they are unable to meet the liabilities. The treasurer is said to be a defaulter to the amount of $60,000.

A duplicate bond of $1,000 of the city of Cincinnati has been discovered. The holders have sued to recover. A bond of the same number has been redeemed. There is no means of deciding which was the original and which the duplicate.

John Demey, who now earns a scant living by sawing wood in Detroit, was a millionaire a few years ago. He went to Mexico after the war, and marrying the daughter of General Emil Tontoreta, engaged with his father-in-law in the mining business. He made a fortune which he invested in bonds or cash securities, and left Mexico for New York. In New York he gave himself up to festivity, in the midst of which his wife stole every penny he possessed and eloped with a Cuban.

Ex-Attorney General Williams, now of Oregon, who when he was in office used to take his family about Washington in a carriage that belonged to the department, and who for this terrible crime was ridiculed, slandered, and held up to public scorn and contempt, and finally driven out of public life by the tempest of suspicion and abuse that swept over the country at that time, found himself at the close of his term as poor as poor could be. He settled down to work in his profession, and is now worth $75,000, and it is though he may be the next senator from Oregon, as he certainly ought to be. It is about time that some of the cruel and costly mistakes by which the characters of some of our ablest and best public men have been assassinated, were rectified.—Mirror.

Mr. Charles M. Green, clerk of the Rockingham house, becomes the owner of the horse that was raffled for at Newman's saloon on Saturday.

A meeting of all citizens willing to aid in the rebuilding of the Kearsarge mills is to take place this evening in the Court House. See notice in another column.

A session of the Rockingham County Temperance Association was held at Newmarket junction last Thursday, when it was decided to attempt to secure an amendment to the state constitution, prohibiting the manufacture or sale of liquor in the state.

A report was spread in this city on Saturday by some one from Rye, that the covered-way of the White island lighthouse could not be seen, and it was supposed that during the storm of last week it had been blown over or otherwise removed from its position.

The stock of groceries in the store of N. F. Gilson on Market street, was sold on Saturday to Messrs. Edmond Whalley and John Mitchell, at 79 1-2 per cent of the appraisal. The goods will be removed to the store formerly occupied by Mr. William Alton on Islington street.

At low tide on Saturday hundreds of dead eels, some of them very large ones, could be seen on the flats of the south pond, near the bridge, and many of them remained there on Sunday, though large numbers were carried off by the tide Saturday night. There is nothing left alive in the pond except possibly the clams.

This evening at Music hall the sensational drama "Under the Gaslight" will be presented by a company of which Gus. Phillips ("Oofty Gooft") is the star, Mr. Phillips taking the part of Snorkey, a German veteran. The play will be put upon the stage in the most thorough manner possible, new scenery and mechanical effects being introduced, among them the railroad and East-river bridge scenes. See advertisement.

The schooner Elizabeth M. Smith, of this port, Raymond master, from Providence, R. I., Feb. 14th, with a cargo of iron and steel, was cut through by the ice on the 1st inst., and sunk in seven fathoms water south of New Haven light. The captain and crew took to the boat, and with much difficulty succeeded in reaching Cutchogue, Long Island, on the 2d, all being badly frost-bitten and exhausted on landing. The schooner registered 59.70 tons, and was owned in equal parts by her captain, Francis Raymond, and William Downs & Son.

Mr. Matthew Earing died at his residence on Court street at an early hour on Sunday morning. Mr. Earing was one of the most worthy, as he was one of the elder, of our citizens, and all through his long life he retained the respect and good will of those who knew him; he was honest and industrious, and had a pleasant word for every one. In the days of brisk shipbuilding on the Piscataqua he was a rigger. His wife died on Thursday, the 3d inst., and her decease utterly broke down the old gentleman, already much enfeebled by age; his only remaining wish was that he might speedily rejoin the partner of his life, and his death was but the gratification of his earnest desire. His age was seventy-nine years.

The inaugural ball, which was to have come off on Friday evening at Trefethen's hall, Kittery, on account of the storm was postponed to this evening.

Alexander Robinson has built a double house for renting purposes, upon the street leading by the end of Daniel J. Norton's store on Islington street.

Some of the fishing vessels went out on Saturday. It is supposed that the storm of last week demolished most of the fishing gear and lobster pots that were left on the fishing grounds.

Miss Celia Quint, daughter of Rev. Alonzo Quint of Dover, has been appointed to a position in the treasury department, and left Dover for Washington last week to begin her duties.

On Monday evening, March 13th, Rev. John A. Goss of this city will lecture in the Middle street church at Newburyport, on "Wit and humor." Rev. Charles A. Beck of Kittery will lecture in the same place on the 20th, his subject being "Divine disclosure.".

In the supreme court at Dover last week, an action of True W. McDaniel of Barrington against the selectmen of that town was tried. McDaniel was doomed by the selectmen for not seasonably returning an inventory of his taxable property, and he sought to punish the officials accordingly. A non-suit was ordered, the case going to the law term of the court for decision of legal points.

Mr. Editor: It is possible that men seeking to obtain better positions under the new administration, may be able to temporarily convince the appointing power of their consequence by obtaining a notoriety by means of seeming criticism in the democratic organ at home, but the process is too transparent and has been too often resorted to, to be of any service save to the journal which for a consideration may be willing to insert such reading notices.

VETERAN RESERVE.

By the town report of Newmarket it appears that the liabilities of the town amounted on March 1st to $28,504.26, and cash in the hands of the treasurer and collector to $2,069.98, leaving as the net indebtedness of the town $26,434.28, being an increase of the debt during the past year of $776.91. This increase is owing to the expense incurred in repairing the town hall, and for the proposed new highway.

Miss Borg in describing one of the theatres in Finland in her lecture at Miss Morgan's school on Saturday, paid a high tribute to the drama as a means of elevating character, and in its portrayal of vice and virtue being capable of producing more good than twenty churches! The spirit in which the enthusiastic lecturer gave vent to her sentiments in this respect as well as the portrayal of the good results of the representation of good plays and operas, elicited a round of applause from the audience.

YACHT UNA.

This celebrated craft, so noted for her spendid sailing qualities, will come out this spring like a new vessel. During the winter the Una (which is now owned by Fred Eckstein, Jr., Esq., of Cincinnati, the well known white lead manufacturer, who for several years has made his summer quarters at the Isles of Shoals,) has been thoroughly overhauled. New decks have been laid, and a new trunk house put on, by Warren Keon. The cabin is now being finished by Luther E. Martin, in cherry and oak, and it will be attractive and convenient in every respect. New masts have been made by William R. Martin, Esq., the well-known spar maker, the vessel being now schooner rigged. She was formerly a sloop, but was fitted with two masts several years ago. The wire rigging is to be fitted by Jos. C. Muchmore, and the painting will be done by W. J. Sampson. The Una is lying in the dock near the steamer Appledore at Jones' wharf, and when completed will be one of the finest and fastest sailing yachts on the coast. It may be a new thing for a Cincinnati gentleman to keep a yacht for ocean sailing, but in these days of steam and electricity the world moves. The Una will be completed in season for use early in the summer.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a sizable hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

An Editor's Dream.

The editor fell asleep after a time, and lo! he dreamed a dream. And it seemed to him that, having armed himself with certain papers and books, he turned his steps once more to heaven and knocked at the gate.

"Hello! is that you again? What do you wish?" said Peter.

"Let those persons again come forth," replied the editor; and Peter made them all pass through the gate and stand outside.

They came as before, and uttered the same cries as before.

"Why did n't you notice the big egg I sent you?" yelled the first.

"It was rotten," replied the editor.

"Why did n't you write up my soda fountain?" said the druggist.

"Why did you write about old Tomlinson's hens, and never speak of my new gate?" shouted a third.

"Old Tomlinson paid for his advertising and you didn't. Here's the bill," said the editor.

"Why did you spell my name wrong in the programme?" groaned the local talent.

The rest of the company yelled out their complaints in unison, and the editor calmly sorted out a pile of bills for unpaid subscriptions and presented each with one; and it was so when they received them they all tore their hair and rushed violently down a steep place to the sea; and St. Peter, taking the editor by the hand, led him within the gate, and said:

"Come, friend; these chaps managed to slip through here in spite of us, but thanks to the press, we know now what sort of fellows they are. Come in and stay; we need a few such men as you in here."—Schoulerville Standard.

An Honest Preparation.

The world is so crammed with swindles that a really honest man or honest thing is almost as scarce as robins in January. Yet Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., formerly captain of the Troy police, says Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is "an honest preparation." And the captain ought to know, for the medicine cured him of liver complaint. It is mean enough to cheat a well man; but to cheat the sick and the suffering deserves a short shrift and a long rope. Whatever sins Dr. Kennedy may be guilty of, misrepresentation of his medicine is not among them. Try it for one dollar, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefitat once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, disgusting, and Rupture-producing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost every one.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. tap8

Daily Chronicle.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4th.

Mr. Editor: Goodness! what a crowd! Where all this vast throng of people are stopping to-night, if they do stop, puzzles the metropolitan and the provincial alike. At this hour (10 P. M.) Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Capitol is filled with a surging mass of humanity, upon which even the grandest inaugural ball ever given on the American continent fails to make a perceptible impression. Yet the Museum building is full—too full for comfort and the display of toilets—the speculators reaping a rich harvest in the advance in the price of tickets, so great is the demand for these handsome souvenirs.

James A. Garfield, the "tow-path boy," the "hero of Chickamauga," the "scholar in politics," has been grandly inaugurated. Never since the formation of the Republic has Washington witnessed so brilliant a spectacle as that of to-day. Forty thousand men georgeously arrayed in every conceivable kind of uniform, one hundred bands of music, thirty-eight triumphal arches resplendant in bunting and flowers, the flags of the Nation and every state floating proudly in the breeze, the exclamations and waving of handkerchiefs of two hundred thousand spectators, the salvos of artillery, the joyous peals of bells,—all in honor of the man and the occasion, made a scene which no pen could describe or brush portray.

In striking contrast was that memorable inauguration of twenty years ago this day, when Lincoln the immortal, with bared head, the angular contour of his homely but honest face sharpened by the bleak and piercing winds, rode majestically through Pennsylvania avenue, the crossings picketed, while mounted guards rode before and behind the carriage, and orderlies were placed at each street corner to summon at a moment's notice the troops disposed at secret points by the vigilance of Gen. Scott. Every loyal heart breathed easier when the news flashed over the country that Abraham Lincoln had been successfully installed as the Moses to guide the Republic through the Red sea of rebellion. The unswerving loyalty of the great leaders of the north at that time made this day, and the the principles enunciated by President Garfield in his address, possible.

Washington believes in omens. When the howling northeast snow-storm broke over the city last night, making sad havoc with the bunting and decorations which had taken so much time and money to put in position, and a large portion of which lay in the mud and slush this morning, the inauguration managers and everyone else were in despair; and to add to the general disgust the Republican published this morning a letter of Vennor's dated Feb. 14th, 1881, in which he predicted direful weather for "your festive season, March 4th." "Friday always was an unlucky day," said the superstitious; but when the sun came out of the leaden pall, and the brisk northwest wind dried up the wet streets, the change in the appearance of the city and its denizens was wonderful. From every avenue and street issued bands of music and bodies of troops, many of them showing that they had spent a night of discomfort. The line was speedily formed, only one division doing escort duty in the inaugural ceremonies proper. I'll not worry your readers with a description of the military organizations in the line—some did splendidly, others worse than nothing.

The plaza in front of the eastern portico of the capitol was filled with an immense throng, estimated at 30,000 as early as eleven o'clock A. M., the crowd extending as far back as the statue of Washington, and in front of the whole length of the Capitol building. It was a good-natured sort of a crowd, cheering every prominent personage appearing on the grand stand. A few minutes past twelve the white head of Stephen A. Douglas, marshal of the District, was discerned emerging from the great entrance beneath the dome, followed by Chief Justice Waite, Hayes, Garfield, and a host of dignitaries and their ladies. Then went up such a shout as had not been heard in Washington since the grand review in 1865. Prominent among the ladies were President Garfield's mother, a short, fleshy woman enveloped in a fur cloak, with silk bonnet and white fur trimmings; Mrs. Hayes, in a rich seal-skin sacque, with an elegant white bonnet and plumes, her raven hair making her bonnet all the more conspicuous; and Mrs. Senator Blair, in maroon-colored velvet sacque, fur lined, with bonnet to match. The President's wife, Mrs. Senator Logan, and other distinguished ladies were pointed out, but not being in so conspicuous positions as the first-named, their toilets were not observed.

Rising to deliver his inaugural, Garfield first shook hands with Hayes, this incident calling forth tremendous cheers. The address was splendidly delivered; and when in some of his most eloquent passages, the vast audience waving handkerchiefs and hats, some enterprising photographers obtained good views, intended for illustrated papers. Closing his address, Garfield was sworn in by Chief Justice Waite, after which his first act was to kiss his mother and wife, which called forth loud cheers.

The grand review took place this afternoon, the President, Ex-President Hayes, Generals Hancock and Sheridan, and ladies, occupying a stand in front of the White House. Mrs. Hayes looked especially happy, while Mrs. Garfield looked grave and thoughtful.

On the official programme of the visiting military organizations, are the names of the Peterboro' Cavalry and Strafford Guards of Dover; I have yet to see the reporter who saw those companies here.

The grandest pyrotechnic display ever seen in Washington was given in front of the treasury building and on the grounds adjourned; to the Washington monument in the evening. R.

To the humble and credulous as well as to the rich and skeptical, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a true and welcome friend. Price 25 cents.

Three white men and twenty-six Chinamen were killed, and one white man and twenty-five Chinamen wounded, by the explosion in the coal mine at Almy, Wyoming territory, last week.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

The selection of such a man as Thomas L. James of New York for postmaster-general is a recognition by the President of the theory of the right man in the right place.

Dr. H. L. Bowker, Massachusetts State Assayer, purchased himself from several wholesale druggists the samples he analyzed of "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey. It cannot, therefore, be said that the samples were different from the article sold by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. He pronounced it of remarkable purity and excellence. Buy it of your druggist or grocer.

Hon. James G. Blaine on Saturday sent to Gov. Plaisted of Maine his resignation as United States senator, to take effect at once.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of these bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

The manager and treasurer of the Bernhardt troupe had a quarrel on the cars one day last week; the treasurer hit the manager a bat on the nose, knocking him down, and pistols were drawn. The foolish men were separated by Miss Bernhardt and the ladies of the company, who jumped from their berths and threw themselves between the would-be homicides.

I have taken D. R. V. G. with great benefit for general debility, and recommend it to all. Rev. D. W. Beadle, Chaplain Penitentiary, Syracuse, N. Y.

The Pennsylvania insane hospital at Danville, Pa., was nearly destroyed by fire Saturday night. Nearly a hundred patients were in the institution, all of whom were removed without confusion or loss of life. The building cost $600,000, and was insured to the amount of $225,000. There were 350 persons in the building when it took fire, but no lives are reported lost.

TUESDAY, MARCH 8, 1881.

The New Secretary of the Navy.

William H. Hunt, secretary of the navy, was born in South Carolina. When a boy he went to Louisiana with his father's family, and has since lived there. He adopted the legal profession, and made a reputation in the south as an effective speaker. Before the war he was an old line whig in politics; during the war he was a supporter of the Union cause. In 1876 Mr. Hunt was the candidate of the republican party in Louisiana for attorney-general, when Packard was elected governor. The Packard government having been overthrown, Mr. Hunt was not allowed to take office. Several years ago he was appointed to be one of the judges of the court of claims, which position he now resigns. "Judge Hunt," says a gentleman who knows him, "has the respect of the southern republicans more completely than any man who could be named for a cabinet position. His uprightness and courage during many years when southern republicans had a hard time of it won for him the admiration of his political opponents." He is regarded as very able man by those who know him.

News and Notes.

Senator and Mrs. Blair had a reception in Washington on Saturday evening, at which Gov. Head and staff, W. E. Chandler, Senator Rollins, Representatives Hall, Briggs and Ray, Cols. T. P. Cheney, C. H. Roberts, W. O. Sides and other notables were present.

On Monday a double race for a stake of $10,000 commenced at Madison Square Garden, New York, half the money to go to the winner in a heel-and-toe walk of six days between O'Leary and Henry Vaughan of England, and the other half to the winner in a go-as-you-please race between Rowell, the English champion, and James Albert of Philadelphia. Nearly 7000 people were present at midnight on Sunday, when the race commenced.

The Gloucester market for fresh fish last week was quite firm. The stock was limited and prices high during the week. At wholesale, fresh halibut was ten and 10 1-2 cents per lb. for white, and seven cents for gray; market cod-fish at three and 3 1-2 cents per lb.; haddock at three and 3 1-2 cents; hake, cusk and pollock, at one and 1 1-2 cents; fresh tongues at five and six cents per pound; frozen herring at sixty and seventy-five cents per hundred. The market is quite bare, owing to the bad weather of last week.

At Georgetown, Ohio, Saturday night, Edward Young, son of W. W. Young, a prominent attorney, shot and instantly killed George Ashmore, and fatally wounded James Ashmore and Clinton Campbell. James Ashmore and Young had often quarrelled during the last political campaign, and had frequently fought with fists. It is represented that all the men who were shot approached Young with threats, when Young entered a grocery where they were.

Reports from Rome say the earthquake in the island of Ischia was an appalling affair. One hundred and two bodies have been recovered from the ruins of Casamaciola, where vast fissures opened in the streets; and many other bodies are under the ruins of the three hundred buildings destroyed, or swallowed up by the earth. In the village of Tacco thirteen houses were destroyed, and five persons killed. Many wounded have been sent to the hospitals.

Archibald Anderson was found dead at the Charlestown navy yard, Friday night, it was at first supposed from heart disease, but an examination on Saturday revealed a bullet hole in the right side of the body. The police believe it is suicide, and the medical examiner thinks it is murder.

A telegram from Gothic, a new mining town in Gunnison county, Col., says a Chinaman named Wang Foo was hanged there on the 5th inst. He went to Gothic a week ago and started a laundry, but was warned to leave. Failing to get out, he was called upon by a "committee," and hanged. No excitement over the affair is reported.

Some of the prominent land leaguers in Ireland have made themselves conspicuous by their absense, dreading the effect of the iron-clod coercion law. Pending the passage of the coercion bill and arms act, about twenty Americans in the counties of Cork, Limerick and Kerry have applied to Col. Brooks, United States consul at Queenstown, for advice and protection. All express fears of arrest. The consul informed them that, if they were of good behavior, there was no fear of arrest, but he had no power in the matter.

The British barque Botsford was wrecked at Bermuda, Feb. 3d. Of eighteen men who went in three boats from Bermuda to rescue the crew, thirteen were drowned by the swamping of their boat. After remaining on the wreck two days the crew of the Botsford succeeded in getting ashore in their own boats.

A barque is on its way from Calcutta to Salem, and is now over due and anxiously expected by the old shipmasters. The arrival of an Indiaman is one of the events which have not occurred for a generation in Salem.

The democrats of the United States Senate held a caucus on Saturday, and decided not to attempt to organize the Senate until the three vacancies now existing in the delegations from republican states are filled.

Naval Affairs.

A general order was issued Feb. 24th by Secretary Goff, conferring and fixing the relative rank of the civil engineers of the navy. By this order Wm. P. S. Sanger receives the relative rank of a captain in the navy; B. F. Chandler and Norman Stratton that of commander; Calvin Brown, P. C. Asserson and M. T. Endicott, that of lieutenant commander; A. G. Menocal, U. S. G. White, H. S. Craven and F. C. Prindle, that of lieutenant.

A Non-Committal Captain.

Sea captains are generally prepared for any emergencies; at least, subject the of our sketch seems to have been.

Captain Ward of Salem, Massachusetts, was an eccentric of the first water, and one of his peculiarities was that he never gave the desired answer to a direct question. Here is an amusing instance of his habit:

One morning four of his friends, who were aware of this trait in his character, observed the captain going to market, and after some bantering, entered into a bet as to the practicability of learning from him the price paid for his purchase.

They accordingly settled the preliminaries, and stationing themselves at different points along the street which which he must past on his way home, awaited his coming.

Very soon, the bluff old gentleman made his appearance, with a bunch of pigeons in his hand. As he approached, the first questioner accosted him with:

"Good morning, captain. What did you give for pigeons this morning?"

"Money," said the captain, bluntly, as he moved up the street.

The second gentleman, a little further on, addressed him and asked:

"How goes pigeons this morning, captain?"

"They don't go at all. I carry 'em," was the equally unsatisfactory reply.

Shortly after that he met a third, who passed the time of day, and inquired:

"How much are pigeons a dozen, captain?"

"Didn't get a dozen; only bought half a dozen," said the old gentleman, still plodding on his way.

Finally, the fourth and last of the conspirators cottoned to the wary old salt, by observing, in the blandest tones:

"A fine lot of pigeons you have there, captain. What did you get them for?"

"To eat," was the pertinent and emphatic rejoinder.

He Could Be Trusted.

Rev. Richard Cecil, who lived to be a gratly useful minister, was born in London, in 1748. When a boy he was strong-willed, but brave, straightforward and thoroughly to be trusted, hating all that was mean, shuffling or deceitful. One day his father, who had business in the city, took little Dick with him and left him at the door, of the East India House, telling him to wait there till he should finish his business and return to him. Taken up with other matters his father forgot all about him, and left the house by another door. Richard, in the evening, was missed by his mother. His father now remembering where they had parted, said: "Depend upon it, he is still waiting for me where I left him." Immediately returning to the spot, there, to be sure, he found poor Dick faithfully waiting, as he had been for hours, and as he had been ordered to do.

The farmers along the seashore are harvesting a fine crop of kelp, thrown on the beaches by the recent storms.

Hon. William Senter, formerly of this city, has been unanimously renominated for election as mayor by the republicans of Portland, Me.

Boatswain Francis Butland, U. S. N., a native of York county, Me., and formerly a resident of this city, died in the naval hospital at Mare island, California, on the 20th ult.

The delay of the train from Boston due here on Monday morning at ten o'clock was owing to the bad condition of the engine, it refusing to supply the required steam. No. 75 will have to go to the machine shop.

The assessors are now distributing little sheets of paper containing blank spaces which require the most conscientious cyphering the tax-payer is capable of executing, to properly answer the questions propounded.

Mr. Samuel S. Frye had a severe ill turn at his store on Congress street, Monday forenoon, and was taken home; he was attended by Dr. Whittier, and was more comfortable in the afternoon. Mr. J. E. Ham, who has been confined to his house for several days, was reported on Monday to be somewhat worse.

The offices of the Western Union and the American Union telegraph companies in this city are to be consolidated, and the business placed under one manager Mr. C. C. Bedlow, superintendant of the Maine division, was in town on Monday to ascertain and determine which of the present offices the interest of the consolidated companies would be best sustained by maintaining.

The fishing arrivals on Monday were the schooners Julia A., with 500 lbs. of fish; Telephone, 2500; John W. Smart, 1200; Comet, 1500; Magellan Cloud, netter, 4000; Norma, 800 lbs. The schooner Magellan Cloud had her nets wound in with kelp, and the Northern Eagle and Josephine each lost one string of nets. There are very few trawlers but what lost more or less of their trawls.

On Sunday morning last, while preparations were being made by the family to attend church, volumes of smoke were seen to issue from the second story windows of the house of Mr. Cyrus Ford, at the corner of Pickering and Water streets. The neighbors who discovered it rushed into the threatened house, and warned the occupants of their danger. The latter had already discovered it, however, and were making vain attempts to reach the chamber where the fire was supposed to be. It was finally done, however, and the fire found in a clothes-press where it had burned nearly through to the ceiling, consuming a full wardrobe of dresses and other garments belonging to Mrs. Clark, the daughter of Mr. Ford. A few buckets of water, together with the presence of mind of the inmates, prevented an alarm and saved the dwelling, altho' by an exceedingly narrow chance. It is said that the family were apprised of the fire by the fall and crashing of a mirror that hung against the partition inside of which the fire was burning, and which so scorched the cord that held it that the glass dropped and was shivered to atoms.

Robert Todd Lincoln, President Garfield's secretary of war, was fitted for college at Phillips academy at Exeter. He is thirty-seven years old, and the only surviving child of Abraham Lincoln.

Three young candidates for state prison were before the police court on Monday for disturbing the Bow mission service last Sunday afternoon, but owing to lack of evidence they escaped the punishment they deserved.

A fire in the picker-room of Cocheco mill No. 1, at Dover, on Monday morning, did about $500 damage to the machinery and cotton. The automatic sprinklers worked to perfection, and perhaps prevented a serious fire.

John M. Clark, Esq., president of the common council, and Geo. W. Guppy, Esq., late proprietor of the Daily Times, have both been confined to their homes for some time past with rheumatism, but we are glad to learn are nearly through with the uncomfortable complaint.

The sleighing has pretty much disappeared, although one Newington farmer came in from the Bay-side road on Monday afternoon in a sleigh, and reported the sleighing over Rockingham avenue to be good, but from the city farm in to Market square it was a thing of the past.

This evening, at Franklin theatre, Prof. Faulhaber will deliver his lecture on the German empire. He is a highly educated gentleman and a careful student of history, and in his lecture tonight there will be more information than could be gained by a long course of reading.

The Pullman train from Boston, due here at nine o'clock Monday evening, had not arrived at eleven o'clock, being detained at North Hampton by a freight train, several cars of which were off the track. A wrecking train left this city at nine o'clock for the scene of the accident. The track was cleared before midnight.

The new naval regulation regarding the assimilated rank of civil engineers gives Civil Engineer M. T. Endicott, stationed at the Portsmouth navy yard, the rank of lieutenant commander; and to Civil Engineer B. F. Chandler, formerly for many years stationed at the same yard, but now at New London, Conn., the rank of commander.

A man calling himself Frank Palmer, and pretending to be an advance agent of the "Banker's Daughter" company, was arrested in this city on Monday afternoon. He says his real name is Frank C. Gardiner, and confesses that he "beat" persons in Lawrence, Mass., out of meals and a night's lodging, by pretending that he was an agent for Tony Pastor.

Mr. George Herbert at the close of last week forwarded twenty boxes of large cod-fish, freshly packed in ice, to Philadelphia, each box containing five hundred pounds. This was the closing up of the fishing from this port for several days, on account of the storms and heavy seas. It is said that when fishing is easy the fishermen pay less attention to the care of their fares than at other periods, otherwise fish would bring better prices.

The Rogers Mission Circle, an organization of the North church Sabbath-school which annually pledges for foreign missions sufficient money for the education of two native girls in India, proposes an entertainment this (Tuesday) evening at their chapel on Middle street to raise the balance of the quota pledged for this year, the greater part of which has already been raised. Besides recitations and singing by the little folks, there will be vocal and instrumental music by friends of the cause who have kindly volunteered, making up a pleasing programme. A slight admission fee will be charged at the door, and all interested are invited. The exercises are to commence at 7:30 o'clock.

The Salem people are anxious that the south mill pond in that city shall be filled and turned over to the Eastern railroad company as a site for the latter's shops. The first of the elegant new passenger cars now building by the Eastern railroad at the company's shop in Salem is about ready to go upon the road. The car is of the same pattern as those built last year. It is painted a light straw color, with rich crimson lake letter-board and gilded corner posts. Inside there is the same interior Eastlake finish, the wood used being chiefly black walnut, with lighter trimmings. The car head lining is of a beautiful shade of green, frescoed in brighter tints. The whole effect, though plain, is very elegant. The remaining seven cars now building will be of the same pattern.

Mr. Charles M. Green, of the Rockingham house, after receiving the congratulations of his friends upon his good luck in drawing the lucky number which gave him the horse on Saturday evening, sold the animal to Henry R. Stoddard. We knew that Mr. Green by his gentlemanly deportment was capable of drawing guests to the hotel, but that he could draw a horse shows him possessed of powers of which we did not dream. Charles is a good fellow, and everyone rejoices at this little stroke of luck.

PUBLIC MEETING.

Quite a large meeting of citizens took place in the court house on Monday evening, agreeably to a published call, to consider the matter of rebuilding the Kearsarge mill. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Sise; James W. Emery, Esq., was chosen chairman, and D. J. Vaughan secretary.

The chairman briefly stated the object for which the meeting was called, and that Mr. Thompson, the treasurer of the old mill, was present by invitation of the committee appointed at a previous meeting, and would answer any questions asked.

Mr. John Stavers gave a short history of the starting of the old mill, from the first meeting of the committee to obtain subscriptions.

Mr. Thompson being called upon said that capitalists in Boston were willing to assist in rebuiding the mill, and if the citizens of Portsmouth would take stock to the amount of about $100,000, the Boston parties would increase the amount to $800,000, the amount necessary to build and equip a mill of 40,000 spindles, which would employ 500 hands, and pay out ten or twelve thousand dollars a month. The old mill employed about 300 hands, and paid out about $7000 a month. The property of the old company could be bought for $25,000 or less. If the mill was to be built, promptness of action was necessary on the part of the citizens of Portsmouth, as a mill would be built somewhere during the summer by the Boston parties, and some of them thought more favorably of the inducements offered by other places than of those held out here.

It was voted that a committee be appointed to solicit subscriptions, to commence immediately, and the former committee were chosen, Messrs. F. Jones, E. H. Winchester, F. E. Potter, C. H. Mendum, Joseph Sise and B. F. Webster. Some stock was taken at once, the Portsmouth Gas Co. subscribing for $3000 worth.

BOW MISSION SERVICES.

All the services held at the Mission hall during the past month have been as usual of a very interesting character, and though we have not been able, through sickness, to give our usual reports, yet we have had the satisfaction of knowing that the meetings have been well sustained by a noble band of workers.

The gospel temperance meeting last Saturday evening was well attended; it was in the hands of the ladies. Among others Mrs. Hammond, a lady from Boston, made a few remarks for the good of the cause.

The bethel service Sunday afternoon was also well attended, and was in charge of the city missionary. Special prayer was offered for the benefit of the seafaring men. "The Lord is my shepherd" was the theme for the service, and a goodly number participated in the exercises.

The reform club held a social service Sunday evening, with a good attendance, and had an interesting meeting.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union holds a social service at the hall each Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The services at the hall are free to all; those who do not regular attend any place of worship, and seafaring men, are especially invited.

The Woman's Temperance League will have a sociable and supper at Grange hall this (Tuesday) evening. Admission 15 cents, including supper, clam chowder and a good time. All are invited. Friends who will contribute eatables may send them to the hall during the afternoon.

Ready for Heaven.

Rev. Dr. Allen Tibbetts, aged seventy-seven years, who now lives at Coldwater, Mich., makes this remarkable statement: "I never swore an oath, never took a chew of tobacco, never smoked pipe or cigar, never drank a drop of whiskey, never sang a song, never played cards, billiards, checkers, croquet or any game except the innocent games of childhood, never struck a blow, never met with an accident, though I have travelled 100,000 miles, and never did a thing of which I felt ashamed. I can repeat more of the Bible than any man living of whom I have any knowledge. I have given away more real estate in this city (Coldwater) than all its other inhabitants. I preached for over fifteen years, and travelled more than five hundred miles attending funerals, and all the salary I ever received was a pound of tea, worth seventy-five cents." This man would make more money by exhibiting himself than by preaching.

NEURALGIA.

It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive bonery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to Catching Cold.

Colds are generally believed to be the exciting cause of a very large proportion of the diseases to which the race is prone, and therefore any light upon the subject is well worth considering. I have known a whole family to have severe colds in their heads the day after dining on roast goose, a dish of which they were especially fond. Since then I have studied the subject largely from a dietic point of view, and with great advantage. I had always enjoyed good health, except that symptoms of dyspepsia were increasing in number and severity; for, being a "good feeder," like all the world about me I ate as much as I wanted of all the good things to be found on Thanksgiving, Christmas and other festive occasions, together with a daily fare quite up to the standard. I soon found myself entirely exempt from "colds" so long as I practiced intelligent moderation in my diet, and kept clear of pastry and all indigestible substances; but so sure as I "let myself out" for a few days, so sure was I of having some sort of a cold. I found, however, that by skipping a meal or two the severe symptoms speedily abated, and then moderation would effect a complete cure. Whether these so-called colds are simply evidence of a cloggy system from over indulgence, or from eating indigestible substances, or whether unhygienic living is only a predisposing cause, and damp feet, carelessness, atmospheric changes, etc., are exciting causes, are debatable questions.—Journal of Chemistry.

An Unfortunate Answer.

Says the Richmond Register: Lucien Young's noble action a few years ago, in saving several lives from a wrecked vessel, will be remembered; also, the action of the Kentucky legislature in publicly recognizing his service. A few weeks since he was in Frankfort, and while there visited the penitentiary, where he met Sam Holmes, confined for the murder of Colonel Napier. Young and Holmes were boys together at school, and fast friends. Young was greatly moved by Holmes' unfortunate condition, and determined to make an effort for his release. To this end he called on the governor, and made an earnest appeal for a pardon. The governor relented, and the pardon was made out and signed. With the document in his pocket, Young hastened back to the prison to tell the good news to his friend. Before telling him, however, that he had come to make him a free man, Young quietly commenced a conversation, and, after talking a while upon other subjects, finally said:

"Sam, if you were turned loose and fully pardoned, what would be the first thing you would do?"

The convict very quickly responded:

"I would go to Lancaster and kill Judge Owsley, and another scoundrel who was a witness against me."

Young uttered not a word, but turned mournfully away, went outside the prison walls, took the pardon from his pocket, and tore it into fragments.

—Pastor Marsden said to his Methodist congregation at Yarker, Ontario, that if certain members persisted attending dancing parties they must withdraw from the church. Six persons instantly stood up and asked for dismissal.

Health and Happiness.

It seems strange that anyone will suffer from the many derangements brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup will restore perfect health to the physical organization. It has proven itself to be the best blood purifier ever discovered, effectually curing scrofula, syphilitic disorders, weakness of the kidneys, all nervous disorders and debility. It corrects indigestion. It makes the old feel young, and the young feel gay; and will invariably drive out of the system the many ills that the human flesh is heir to. It acts like a charm, especially when the complaint is not of an exhaustive nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system.

Still lives, and so do hundreds of others who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia, by the great blood purifier, Sulpher Bitters. Send for testimonials.

Joshua L. Smith recently committed suicide at Fond du Lac, Wis., on his 99th birthday. He had long declared that he did not wish to become a centenarian.

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, billiousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

A gig belonging to the Corberus, a vessel stationed at Melbourne, Australia, for the defence of the colony, has been blown up a torpedo and five of the crew killed.

I have no hesitation in stating that Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites ranks foremost amongst the remedies used in the treatment of incipient phthisic, chronic bronchitis, and other affections of the chest.

The London Standard says it is stated that the British cabinet council on Saturday settled terms of peace with the Boers, which were telegraphed to Gen. Wood on Sunday night.

Myself and wife having been afflicted for years with dyspepsia, and during the time continued dosing with bitters, and other nostrums, with no benefit. Four bottles of D. R. V. G. has cured us both.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment, I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you well know, was similar to that of Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. Will at any time be happy to answer inquiries.

Yours respectfully,

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 24th, 1880.

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their galling, irksome, destroying, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of this precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 45 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

Preparing for Gardening.

A large portion of the vegetables cultivated in gardens depend for successful growth on a very rich soil. Hence the importance of providing plenty of manure, and of applying it properly. Old or rotted manure is always recommended as best by gardeners, and is generally pronounced indispensable. But fresh manure, if not buried with litter, and if well pulverized and thoroughly diffused through the soil, will answer an excellent purpose. Thrown on the ground carelessly and left in lumps, it is worthless. A good growth of fine vegetables has been made where it has been thoroughly ground into the soil, finely intermixed with it, and the surface kept clean and mellow through the season. And yet so many do all the work by halves, that it may not be best to recommend it, unless for autumn application, when it will be well dissolved during the several months before it is drawn upon by growing plants. It may also answer well for crops that are not set out or sown till approaching midsummer, such as winter cabbages or turnips, if applied previously, and thoroughly broken and worked in with harrow or rake in good season. Land which is made rich by successive manurings every year, will of course be best, and manure should not be applied for gardening, especially if in large quantities, without thorough pulverization and intermixture. The more completely these two requisites are attended to, the larger may be the application. Its effect will be greatly increased by frequent and perfect stirring of the soil through the season.

Farmers' gardens will not get sufficient cultivation if not laid out so as to be chiefly dressed by horse labor. If the spade and hoe are expected to do the work, nine-tenths of such gardens will not be cleaned once a month, and the soil will become crusted and weedy. The remedy is to plant every crop which will admit it, in drills or rows for the horse to pass between as often as once a week through the entire season. This will accomplish as much work in half an hour as a whole day or more with the hand-hoe, and do it better and break the soil finer. Before you begin spring work, lay out your garden, so far as may be practicable, for this horse dressing. Some crops may be planted in drills two feet apart, and still be cultivated by using a steady horse; and if the cultivator is not of the kind to contract, take out the outside teeth. When you wish to go deep, use but few teeth; when mellow and superficial treatment is wanted, use a larger number.

To secure early as well as good vegetables, it is of vital importance to have perfect drainage. A wet soil may be unfit to work for weeks, and then give you a hard, or crusted, or lumpy surface. Well drained land may be worked at once, and be warm and mellow. If the ground needs it, put in pipe-tile a rod apart, and three feet deep. It will make the season a month earlier than with a water-soaked soil, and be equivalent to three degrees farther south in latitude.

To sum up then; provide in season plenty of manure. Let it be thoroughly intermixed with the soil. Arrange for all the horse-cultivation practicable. Avoid the common mistake of occupying more ground than you can keep in perfect condition. Have complete natural or artificial drainage. If all these requisites are attended to, your vegetable garden will be found to be the most profitable part of your farm; or, in other words, its products will give you supplies for the table at cheaper rates than anything else you consume; and then, if this truth is properly appreciated, you will give the earliest and best attention to it in arranging your labors for the season, instead of falling into the error of leaving the garden to the last chance of being dressed on some spare occasion when you have nothing else to do, and to become filled with weeds.—Country Gentleman.

An Honest Preparation.

The world is so crammed with swindles that a really honest man or honest thing is almost as scarce as robins in January. Yet Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., formerly captain of the Troy police, says Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is "an honest preparation." And the captain ought to know, for the medicine cured him of liver complaint. It is mean enough to cheat a well man, but to cheat the sick and the suffering deserves a short shrift and a long rope. Whatever sins Dr. Kennedy may be guilty of, misrepresentation of his medicine is not among them. Try it for one dollar, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

A Fatal Mistake.

On Friday night of last week Dr. James H. Robinson of New Haven, Conn., fifty years of age and for many years a practising physician of that city, by mistake administered to a patient a dose of yellow jessamine, from the effects of which the patient died in a few hours. The unfortunate patient was Dr. Robinson himself, who leaves a widow and one daughter.

Political.

Washington despatches say that Hon. Wm. E. Chandler is to be solicitor of the treasury, and not assistant secretary of State as has been announced. The former is a more important position. The salary is four thousand dollars per year. Levi P. Morton, formerly of this state, it is said will have the French mission.

President Garfield on Monday nominated Nathan Goff, Jr., ex-secretary of the navy, to be United States district attorney for West Virginia, the position he held previous to entering the cabinet of President Hayes.

General Grant made a personal appeal to the late Congress to pass Senator Eaton's bill for the repayment of the Japanese indemnity. This is a sum exacted from Japan many years ago, under a misapprehension caused by incorrect representations; and the money ought long ago to have been repaid. Every president and every secretary of state, from Mr. Lincoln and Mr. Seward down, has recommended the restoration of this money, which is still held as a special deposit by the department of state, and nearly every Congress has done as the late one did—passed the bill through one house, and let it die in the other.

Were t'other dear charmer away."

Senator Mahone received invitations to attend and participate in both the democratic and the republican caucus on Monday, but went to neither.

News and Notes.

Ex-President Hayes and party had a hard time of it getting home. Besides the fatal collision on the railroad between Washington and Baltimore, there was another accident, at a tunnel near Altown, Pa. The springs under one side of a car containing horses gave way, letting the car lean to one side, and it struck against the masonry at the entrance to the tunnel. The side of the car was torn away, and the presidential party shaken up and considerably frightened, but no life was lost.

John Vansaw's house at Gouldsboro', Me., was burned last Friday night, and Mrs. Vansaw lost her life in the fire.

At East Barnard, Vt., Sunday morning, the dwelling of Mrs. Levi Belknap was burned, and Mrs. Belknap perished in the flames.

Adin B. Davis, of Millbury, Mass., committed suicide on the 26th ult. by throwing himself before a locomotive. His mother, sixty-nine years old, on the 4th inst. committed suicide by cutting her throat, her reason having given away under her grief.

The body of Frederica Wilde was found in Beaver brook, Dracut, Mass., on the 6th inst. She and her husband disappeared from their home in Dracut some weeks ago, leaving a little daughter in the house, and their tracks were traced to the stream. It is supposed they committed suicide, and that the man's body will be found in the brook.

The place of honor in "The Art Amateur" for March is occupied by Frederick A. Bridgman, whose genius and industry have won him, at the early age of thirty-three, a high repute in two hemispheres. An entertaining sketch of the artist by Edward Strahan, a fellow pupil in the atelier of Gerome, is illustrated by a portrait and a number of drawings by the artist, while the frontispiece, drawn by Camille Piton, represents Bridgman's "Lady of Cairo Visiting." A special feature of the number is Caryl Flotio's long review of "Billee Taylor," the new English comic opera, giving the vocal score of the four principal songs, some of which are likely to become as popular as the airs of "Pinafore." There is also a page of sketches of the leading characters in the opera drawn by Geo. R. Halm. In the department of "Decoration and Furniture" the achievements of Alfred Stevens, an eminent English art worker, are described and illustrated, and numerous practical articles for making the home beautiful are given. In "Ceramics," "Needlework" and "Industrial Art" there are, as usual, profusely illustrated articles. Full-size designs for outline embroidery for a tea cosy in crewel work, and for a large and remarkably beautiful plaque of birds and flowers for china painting, are given in the supplement, together with smaller designs for panels and borders. Price $4 per annum; single numbers, 35 cents. Montague Marks, publisher, 23 Union square, New York.

MATTERS IN RYE.

RYE, March 7th.

There is going the rounds of the papers some reminiscences of the inaugurations of the former presidents, and in noticing that of Gen. Jackson, which occurred in 1829, it is stated that there was "a military procession, barrels of punch, and a big smashing of glass ware at the White House."

Jona. T. Walker, Esq., the well known postmaster of this town, was present at that inauguration, and his recollection of the event differs somewhat from these reports. He says Gen. Jackson came out of Gadsby's hotel with his arms linked in with two other gentlemen, with his head uncovered, and walked with them on the sidewalk to the Capitol. There was no military or other escort. The crowd, including Mr. Walker, fell in behind, and walked along in that way with him. After the inauguration the General mounted a horse, and accompanied by one or two other men, also mounted, rode to the White House, where after a short time the crowd proceeded, and all who wished went in and shook hands with him, among them being Mr. Walker. At the time he did so the President was eating a cracker. In regard to the "barrels of punch," Mr. Walker does not recollect of seeing any, and certainly did not get any himself; but he says the colored waiters, with trays filled with glasses which they held up over their heads, were forcing their way through the crowd to get at some ladies who were in one of the rooms, but before they could succeed some of the crowd reached up their hands, seized the glasses and appropriated the contents, and probably were not particular about replacing the empty tumblers on the tray, so that it is more than probable that there was some broken glass scattered about during the day.

Query. How many men are there living in New Hampshire to-day, who saw and shook hands with Gen. Jackson on the 4th of March, 1829?

The debt of the town has been reduced the past year $864.63. The present indebtedness is $9280.30, and there is $1370.90 cash on hand. The town received from the state as savings bank tax $1952.21, which goes to show that some of our citizens have laid by a little portion for a rainy day, or some other purpose. Receipts from taxes amounted to $5139.37; the collector is only $7.16 behind, which is a credit to his ability as a tax-gatherer. The treasurer had to disburse $18 for damages on account of dogs, which in the opinion of some folks is a good deal more than all the dogs in creation are worth.

Uri H. Jenness, who is famous for having fine stock, has at the present time one of the best matched and largest pairs of oxen ever seen in this locality. They are beauties, and no mistake, standing five feet high, eight feet girth, and weighing anywhere from thirty-five hundred to two tons; and so near alike in size, color, and general appearance, that it is hard to tell one from the other when unyoked. Mr. Jenness has had them two years and they are six years old. He has been offered $825 for them, but intends keeping them a while longer. The butcher who does succeed in getting them will have some beef for his customers which they will probably not object to paying a trifle extra for, when they see it displayed in all its magnificence and tenderness.

Rev. W. A. McGinley lectured as per announcement, on Thursday evening; he had a small audience, but as large as could be expected on such an inclement night. It was an exceedingly fine lecture, and it was a matter of regret to many who desired to hear it, that it was so stormy as to prevent them from coming out.

Both inspections passed off acceptably.

A boy named Witherell broke through the ice on the north millpond, Monday evening, and got a thorough ducking. A gentleman who went to his rescue also broke through, and the urchin was finally pulled out by means of an eel spear which was reached to him. It is risky business venturing on the ice now that it is so much weakened.

Of "All the Rage," which is to be played at Music hall next Wednesday evening, the 16th inst., the Norwich Bulletin says: "It is a play made up of absurdities indescribably funny, and, from the beginning to the end of the performance, the audience was kept in a roar of laughter. It was the most humorous entertainment ever given in this city." The Woonsocket Reporter calls it "decidedly the raciest farcial comedy of the day," and the New Haven Palladium says it is "brimful of fun from beginning to end." The company that will play it has played no other piece for a long while, so that every member is perfect in his or her part.

The beginning and the end were illustrated in a novel manner on Market street, Monday forenoon, by one of our Second Advent friends, who held a baby's cradle in one hand while the other was employed in assisting to explain the prophecies which are assumed to predict the conclusion of all sublunary things.

Two Langsham roosters, one eight months old and weighing fourteen and a half pounds, and the other five months old, and valued at thirty dollars apiece, were sent out west by express from this city, on Monday. They came from the henery of R. W. Sargent at Kittery, who has twenty-six varieties of imported fowls.

On Tuesday forenoon Mr. Frank Bean, of Newington, milkman, was turning from Vaughan street into Elm street when the forward wheels of his wagon got locked, capsizing the vehicle and sending the empty milk cans in all directions. This is the second time within a few weeks that Mr. Bean has met with a similar mishap in the same locality.

A large dog belonging to a Mr. Colley broke through the ice on the north millpond near the bridge, Tuesday, not a great way from where a boy broke through on the day previous. Mr. Henry H. Ham, Jr., who also broke in on Monday in an attempt to extricate the boy, launched a boat upon the ice and tried to save the drowning brute, but the unlucky creature perished before he could be reached.

Messrs. George Raitt and Benning Moore, two well known stevedores at the north end, being at leisure on Monday started on an amateur clamming expedition with a great flourish of trumpets, promising their friends a grand clam chowder from the results of their enterprise. The chowder has not yet been served, the clammists on their return announcing that they had to eat the entire proceeds of their industry to keep from famishing. The disappointed chowder awaiters do not believe the hunters got a single clam.

At the late regular monthly meeting of the directors of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, a contribution of $20 "from a friend" was received through a member. How such assistance is appreciated can only be realized by those whose acquaintance with the work of the society has brought to their knowledge the great number of cases, in many parts of the state, calling for the intervention of the humane, and the number which the society, notwithstanding its extreme economy, is absolutely unable to attend to satisfactorily, simply from want of pecuniary means.

THE PROPOSED NEW FACTORY.

We should suppose there could be no reasonable doubt as to the erection of the new mill with which it is proposed to replace the burned Kearsarge mill; when outside capital to the amount of $700,000 stands ready to come here if the citizens will contribute $100,000, it would seem an absurdity to question the speedy raising of the required sum. Of course it is not out of charity that Boston or other out-of-town capitalists are ready to put $700,000 into a mill located here; capital doesn't work in that direction to any great extent, and if they did not have confidence that it would prove a safe and remunerative investment, they would not put a dollar into the proposed enterprise. If profitable to outside capitalists, it must also be profitable to the citizens of Portsmouth who participate in it, and the stock which the latter are asked to take we believe will be promptly subscribed for.

The committee appointed at the citizens' meeting on Monday evening met with encouraging success on Tuesday, the subscriptions for stock being liberal on the part of the capitalists and business men waited upon. There may be persons of whom the committee do not know, who are desirous of taking stock in the new mill; hence they have arranged that any person having money to invest, from a hundred dollars up into the thousands, can secure stock, and learn all particulars about the terms of payment for the same, etc., by calling upon Mr. Charles H. Mendum, at the store of Ayers & Locke, Market street. The investment offered is as well worthy the attention of the man with a hundred dollars to invest, as of the man of much larger means.

Mr. Editor: I was pleased to see in your valuable journal, Tuesday morning, a report of a public meeting originated to bring about the reconstruction of the Kearsarge mills. I learn that by subscribing for one-tenth of the capital stock required to be raised we can have a large establishment erected in Portsmouth, which shall give employment to a considerable number of hands, and in the result, if the stockholders are not remunerated, the business portion of the city will be gainers.

No one hesitates, I trust, to render all possible aid and encouragement to the undertaking. The fact that we need an addition to our laboring, producing, industrial population is not to be gainsaid. The proposition, however, is worthy of consideration—"What kind of labor shall we have?"

The men and women, boys and girls who worked in the factories of New England thirty-five years ago, when some of the fathers of the town aided in building the Portsmouth Steam Factory, were a far different class from the kind of mill operatives of the present day. The industrious natives and the ingenious and steady-going English operatives seem to have been succeeded by the French Canadians, who live upon the smallest possible sum, in a not-at-all healthful, or as far as the community is concerned, profitable manner; hoard up their earnings, and hie off for Canada. In olden times the savings banks of our factory towns received large sums from the aggregate savings of local operatives. To-day, everything saved after a mere cheap mode of existence is sent to Canada, and the greater amount paid for labor by the New England cotton factories is drained into the coffers of Canadian residents. The operative does not grow with the place in which he lives, does not buy land and build houses, but temporarily stays, giving no support in taxes, or aid to religious or like society duties.

Now while I want everything done for the welfare of our dear old town and for the benefit of our merchants, real-estate owners and others, and consequently, in the end, for us all, the inquiry suggests itself, "Is there not some kind of skilled labor which we can invite which is better for us than cotton manufacture?" I may be wrong, but I have only to compare the mill operatives of thirty years ago, some of whom in Portsmouth are prominent to-day in our business, political and social relations, with the kind of men and women one to-day sees emerging from the gates of a large establishment in a manufacturing city, to believe that the element from beyond our border so largely employed, and which shows itself in strikes and kindred troubles, is not the most profitable one to invite to our city. Contrasted with the kind of persons seen in our shoe establishments, they bear no comparison. It may be that as "it takes all kinds of persons to make a world," we must have the Canadian beside our own mechanics, to increase our productions. But here and now is the proposal to invest a hundred thousand dollars to build up the city, to develope business that is to pay men and women for their labor, who in turn will expend a portion of their earnings in our stores, and perhaps invest the savings in our banks or land, or at least keep it somewhere in our community.

There should be a study then in regard to the class of labor more likely to prove beneficial to us. There should be deliberation upon this subject, whose whole end and aim appears to be an improvement in the condition of our affairs.

PROF. FAULHABER'S LECTURE.

The professor was greeted by a highly intellectual and attentive audience, who enjoyed the sketches of the political and military history of Germany, with descriptions of the manners and customs of her people, their mode of life, habits, etc. The closing part of the lecture was most eloquently rendered, and elicited hearty applause.

The next lecture, upon the Republic of France, will be given on Tuesday evening of next week. These lectures contain much valuable information, which the professor seems to have the happy faculty of compressing within the prescribed hour, and he receives throughout the gratified and undivided attention of his audience.

Prof. Faulhaber lectures at the town hall in Exeter on Thursday evening of this week.

SAWYER'S MILLS.

Charles H. Sawyer, Esq., who by the way is one of the best business men in the state, has just recovered from an attack of measles.

Mr. Sawyer is known far and wide as one of the proprietors of Sawyer's Mills, one of the most successfully conducted establishments for the manufacture of woolen goods in the country. The fabrics of the company find a ready sale in the market, and the business during the past year has largely increased. Large as is the production of Sawyer's Mills, we hear that it is contemplated by the sagacious proprietors to make a very large addition to their productive capacity, in fact it is said that it is to be doubled. Some of our far-sighted capitalists are in favor of inviting the Sawyers to build a mill at Portsmouth, where their foreign wool could be brought by water, and remain in bond till ready for consumption. Such an establishment would doubtless be a profitable addition to our industry. It could be operated in connection with the Dover works nine miles distant, and our city would doubtless be ready to exempt the mill and machinery from taxation, and if needed our citizens would promptly subscribe a sufficient sum to make it an inducement for the Sawyers to locate part of their business here, although the capital of others is the last thing this concern seeks to use, as it is strong enough to increase its works without asking the outside public to contribute anything whatever to that end.

YORK COUNTY ITEMS.

The repairs on the tug Ann will be completed this week, when the steamer Fearless will go on the ways.

Another tug boat will probably be put on the river this summer, as parties are negotiating for a boat belonging in Salem. She is to be used for towing vessels bound for Exeter and Newmarket.

The republicans of Saco re-elected Mayor Clark by 386 majority; they also elected all their candidates for aldermen, and all but two of the councilmen. This makes the fourth election for Mayor Clark.

The roads in Kittery, Eliot and York are at present in such a condition that travel is very difficult. The main roads are deep with mud, and the cross roads filled with "slosh" from melting snowbanks.

It has been asserted that the beautiful floral harbinger of spring, the trailing arbutus, would not thrive if transplanted from its native soil, but Capt. H. W. Trefethen, of Kittery, gathered a large quantity of it last autumn, after the buds had formed, and this spring he has three thousand clusters, fully equal in beauty and fragrance to those gathered in their forest homes.

Two bills have been introduced into the Maine legislature looking to a change in the charter of the Ocean Park association at Old Orchard. The change asked for is that they may locate at Old Orchard, at Ferry Beach park, or at any other place in the state. A hitch has come about which may take the location away from Old Orchard. The title to some of the land they wish to purchase is not so good as they wish, and other land which they would like to obtain is held too high.

—Slightly sarcastic was the clergyman who paused and addressed a man coming into church, after a sermon had begun, with the remark: "Glad to see you, sir. Come in. Always glad to see those here late who can't come early." And decidedly self-possessed was the man thus addressed in the presence of an astonished congregation, as he responded: "Thank you. Would you favor me with the text."

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

"Make a Vacancy, or I Will."

During the late administration of Grant there chanced to be a young man in one of the departments, who like many others, then and now, had entered on that horrible declivity which begins with the gilded tippling saloon and ends—who shall say where? He was a capable clerk, and his sprees and shortcomings were condoned for the sake of the memory of his honored father, Senator——. But the road was sure; and in time, with a discharge in his pocket and a drunkard's record behind him, step by step he passed the down grade of dissipation, until wife, children and friends cut loose, and the quondam gentleman slept in the parks and lived on charity. He was abandoned by all—save the angel of mercy hovering near, though unseen. A temperance reform movement claimed him as a trophy, and he began the upward struggle. Wife and children came back; but who believes in a "reformed drunkard?" It was a struggle for years to find bread for his little ones, but he fought bravely, and disappointing those who looked for his failure, he held on, and even saved others from going over the precipice. President Grant, who had known his father, heard of his struggle, and sent for him. Congratulating him upon his reform, he said:

"I want to help you; what can I do?"

"I want work," was the reply.

The young man said: "Send me, sir, where I left a blackened record. It may encourage others if I regain a good name, and I would be more useful in my former position."

The President wrote a note to the secretary of that department and handed it to the young man, who left, but ere long returned with an anxious face.

"The secretary sent out word that my application would go on file!"

The President with an iron-clad expletive, said: "You can't put your wife and children on file, can you?" Writing another note and handing it to him, he said: "Give this in person, and bring me an answer." Armed with this missive he confronted the awful presence beyond the baize doors, and met an impatient refusal.

"What shall I tell the President?" he calmly inquired.

"That there are no vacancies."

When this was delivered at the White House the imperturbable Grant, biting the end of a cigar, seized a red-ink pen and wrote across the face of his former note: "Make a vacancy, or I will!"

"Take that and bring his answer!"

Yet again did the young man return unsuccessful. The President obtained employment for his friend, taking him in person to another department, and awaited the cabinet meeting the following day. Here the President seemed as quietly imperturbable as a sphynx. As the members left the room the President followed Secretary —— to the door, and said: "By the way, Mr. Secretary, whom would you recommend for your successor?" The astonished gentleman replied, and passing into another department wrote a hasty resignation and sent it back. He was believed of his portfolio the following day.

That young man made excellent use of the faith shown in him by this wonderful judge of character, and rose to a position of eminent usefulness and respectability, which he occupies to-day in one of the largest cities of our land. So did the friendless stranger win his place and the honorable secretary lose his, because the warrior chief traced his course in lucid characters, not with word but with pen, "Make a vacancy, or I will;" and now, as of yore, to say was to do, and the man who "would fight it out on this line," etc., undeviatingly kept his word.—Washington Republican.

What is Behind It?

No amount of money can stand in the stead of a good name. It is a blunder everywhere and every time to suppose the loss of character can be paid for. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., proprietor of the great medicine called "Favorite Remedy," would have but little confidence to recommend the public to buy and use if his own good name were not behind it. But the fact that he has staked his reputation upon it ought to be, and is, better than a thousand cheap certificates—in the opinion of the people. The doctor is a regular physician-surgeon, and despises a humbug as heartily as any man. If you are sick with any complaint of the blood, kidneys or liver, invest one dollar in the "Favorite Remedy," and it will speak for itself.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 35 an annual premium of $16.31 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels sure he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large recidal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This body had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She never uttered a murmur, but suffered quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

THREE ANGELS.

They say this life is barren, drear and cold;
Ever the same sad song was sung of old,
Ever the same long, weary tale is told,
And to our lips is held the cup of strife;

They say our hands may grasp but joys destroyed,
Youth has but dreams, and age an aching void,
Whose Dead Sea fruit long, long ago has blighted,
Whose night with wild, tempestuous storms is rife—
And yet a little hope can brighten life.

They say we fling ourselves in wild despair
Amidst the broken treasures scattered there,
And stab ourselves with sorrow's two-edged knife—
And yet a little patience strengthens life.

Is it then true, this tale of bitter grief,
Of mortal anguish finding no relief?
Three angels share the lot of human strife,
Three angels glorify the path of life.

Love, hope, and patience cheer us on the way,
Love, hope, and patience form our spirit's stay,
Love, hope, and patience watch us day by day,

The Hollis Flea Case.

A citizen of Hollis, acting as the agent of the selectmen, informs us that Mr. Geo. T. Patch and family were visited, yesterday, by a responsible physician, who upon examination declares that they have entirely recovered from the affliction which has been upon them, and also that the public need have no further fear. Our informant says the trouble and suffering of the four inmates of the family have been very severe. It commenced last September; and since October, until recently, not one of them has slept in a bed. They have spent the night together having as little fire as possible, and slept upon a lounge, one assisting the other in removing the cause of suffering when it was upon that part of the body where the individual could not reach it. Every imaginary remedy has been tried, and the family has bathed in salt-brine and other decoctions until their flesh was nearly raw. Mr. Patch tells our informant that several times members of his household were driven almost to the desperation of suicide. The insect that has done the mischief is called a West India jigger. Mr. Patch is a well-known and highly regarded citizen of the town, and feels very keenly the notoriety which he has received through the papers.—Telegraph.

The Irish National Land League.

A meeting is called to form a branch of the Irish National Land League of the United States, to be held at the Court house on Friday evening at eight o'clock.

The land league in Ireland was formed for the purpose of removing the cause of famine, the extortions of the landlords, and for bringing about such changes in the law as would make the Irish laborer the owner of the land he tilled. No country can be truly prosperous under any different system of landed proprietorship.

Ireland has 20,327,764 acres; of this 4,643,986 are in bog, waste and water. From the 15,683,778 acres of arable land, about five millions of people are expected to gain a living, while the landlords take ninety millions of dollars a years in rents, to be sent off the island to a greater or less extent, and the government kindly relieves the Irishmen of sixty millions more in taxes and dues of various sorts.

In a year of comparative plenty the country manages to get on under this incubus; and in years of famine the Irishmen must have help from America, or starve.

It is stated that eighty per cent of the cultivators of the Emerald Isle are tenants at the will of the landlord, and but three per cent own their lands in fee! Of the three millions of dollars annually sent to the peasantry of Ireland by their friends and relatives in other nations, not less than two-thirds comes from this country, and the question comes home alike to the native and adopted citizens of America, how to stop this drain upon our finances.

Certainly by removing the cause. In other words, by giving the Irishman a chance. Let him become a land holder, and enjoy the fruits of his toil upon his own acres. To do this there is need of the aid and countenance, not only of every son and daughter of Ireland, but of every lover of liberty, every friend of the oppressed.

The land league of the United States is an auxiliary to that in Ireland. Let the men who live comfortably in Portsmouth remember their countrymen in the "Gem of the sea." The world moves. The Irish people one day will be released from their thraldom, but the support, encouragement and generous sympathy of adopted and native-born citizens of this country are needed to hasten the work. The League will co-operate to this end, and every man of whatever sect or nationality in our community here has an opportunity to assist in compelling England to abolish slavery in Ireland, as effectually as John Bull years ago sought to have slavery abolished in our southern states. We have no doubt the sons of Erin will be alive on Friday evening to lend a helping hand in this grand work of progressive reform.

News and Notes.

A despatch from Rome says 140 dead bodies have been taken from the ruins of Casamacciola, in the island of Ischia. The number of deaths is estimated at three hundred.

The report of an accident to the train of cars in which Ex-President Hayes and party were travelling, through one of the cars striking the masonry of a tunnel near Altoona, Pa., is pronounced a canard. Mr. Hayes and party arrived home in Fremont, Ohio, on the evening of the 7th inst., and were met at the depot by over 1000 citizens, who gave them a hearty welcome.

Charles M. Thomas, who was discharged from prison at Buffalo, N. Y., on the 8th inst., was immediately arrested on a requisition from the governor of Massachusetts for forgeries committed in Boston twelve years ago, amounting to $70,000, while engaged as agent for the Hope Envelope company. He was sentenced to the New York penitentiary for a year for forgery committed in Buffalo, and is a first-class scoundrel of the polished kind. While a resident of Buffalo he married a highly respected lady, whom he deserted when it became necessary for him to leave the city. Circumstances have transpired which indicate that he has not only another wife but a son and a daughter at Springfield, Mass., and he may yet have to answer to a double charge.

Maj. Baker has arrived at Fort Assiniboine, and reports that in an interview with Sitting Bull the latter said he was anxious to surrender to the United States authorities, but was afraid he would be hung. He wants any white chief sent to him except Gen. Miles, whom he calls "Buffalo coat." Sitting Bull has no idea of disturbing the United States soldiers, especially Miles' troops.

The Charles Albro cotton mill at Taunton, Mass., was partially destroyed by fire on the 8th inst, and one hundred and twenty-five persons are thrown out of employment. The loss to the corporation will be over $20,000.

At the recent annual meeting of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, Ex-Gov. Person C. Cheney and Judge Clinton W. Stanley of Manchester, N. H., were elected members of the board of directors.

The son of a wealthy New York merchant confesses having lost $23,000 at the gaming table, and has been arrested for obtaining $62 under false pretences.

A bill is pending in the Connecticut legislature to make railroad companies responsible for fires originating from locomotive sparks.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad company, held at Philadelphia on the 8th inst., it was announced that the company had obtained control of the Philadelphia, Washington & Baltimore railroad. The price was not stated, but the directors were authorized to issue $20,000,000 of new stock, with which to pay for the road.

Bishop Faire of Montreal has condemned the practice of swearing Roman Catholic witnesses on the Prostestant Bible as a sin.

A despatch from Pierre, Dakota, says the first train from Chicago for forty days arrived at Pierre on the 5th inst., and it is calculated that half the cattle in that section have perished of cold and starvation.

Henry W. Mason, managing partner of the extensive mercantile firm of Henry W. Mason & Co., of Winooski, Vt., has fled, and is alleged to be a forger and defaulter to a large amount, the sum being estimated at $40,000. Stock gambling is given as the reason of his downfall.

Afflicted Ireland.

In Ireland, on the 8th inst., the first arrests under the coercion act were made. Joseph Walsh, a merchant of Castlebar, was taken to Kilmainham jail, which has been specially prepared for such prisoners. A large number of land leaguers were arrested in Kerry, and others in Limerick and Tralee. Michael P. Boyton, a league organizer and one of the men tried with Parnell some time ago, was arrested in Kildare on a charge of inciting to murder and acts of violence; he declared himself an American citizen, and claimed the protection of the United States. Numerous other warrants have been issued, and arrests are expected everywhere.

Cremation.

The New York Cremation Society was organized in Cooper Institute, New York, March 7th, by twenty-five gentlemen and three ladies. Rev. John D. Beugless, a chaplain in the navy, was elected president. The objects of the society are to disseminate sound views in relation to incineration as a means of disposing of human dead, and to encourage its practice among all classes. All active members will be cremated free of charge, after death. Instructions were given for drafting an act of incorporation for the United States Cremation Company, limited, a business concern which it is proposed to start at once in that city. The object of the company is to cremate the dead in the quickest and cheapest manner. Capital stock to the amount of $50,000 will be issued.

New Hampshire Items.

Mary Reagan, a mill operative at Manchester, was lifted on the cow-catcher of an engine at a street crossing in that city on the 7th inst., and carried a long distance before the train could be stopped. She was but little injured, apparently, and was able to walk home.

Moses Pomeroy, an employe of the Boston, Lowell & Nashua railroad, was knocked off a train by his head coming in contact with the door of the freight depot at Nashua on the 7th inst., and run over by the train. He was about thirty years old, belonged in Groton, Mass., and had been employed on the road about two weeks.

The city marshal of Manchester has detailed four extra officers for duty on Sundays, to suppress the sidewalk-loafer nuisance.

Frank Currier, a man about twenty-eight years of age, was captured in Lewiston, Me., a few days ago, and taken to Manchester, being charged with stealing a harness from Joel Lund of the latter city. He has a record of three state prison terms, two in New Hampshire and one in Vermont, and was only released from the prison in this state in August last. He was taken to Suncook on the 8th inst., for trial, as Mr. Lund, from whom the harness was stolen, lived in Merrimack county at the time. Currier is supposed to have been implicated in burning of buildings in Goffstown a few years ago, and is a noted ruffian in that section.

Political.

The republicans of the Maine legislature on the evening of the 8th inst. unanimously nominated Hon. William P. Frye as a candidate for United States senator, to fill the vacancy occasioned by Mr. Blaine's resignation.

No extra session of Congress is anticipated by persons in Washington. The only subject which any one has thought rendered such a session necessary is funding, and the President thinks the new session would commence to wrangle where the old one left off wrangling, and he hopes that something will turn up before the regular session in December next which will instruct senators and representatives on the subject.

Judge J. W. McDill of Iowa has been appointed by Gov. Gear to the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Kirkwood. Judge McDill was a member of the Forty-third and Forty-fourth Congresses, and also of the electoral commission.

AROUND HOME.

The eagle on the spire of the ward building at the south end, which was blown off in one of the late storms, has been repaired, and was again placed in position on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

The Newburyport Herald announces, as a "short local," that "The square of the hypothenuse equals the sum of the squares of the other two sides of a right-angled triangle." It is just the same in this city.

The wreck of the schooner Union Flag, formerly of this port, was seen in latitude thirty-nine north, longitude fifty-five west, by the barque Farewell, which arrived at Antwerp last month from New York. One of the schooner's masts was standing, and the name could be plainly made out.

Mr. William P. Peaslee of this city, who has been for the past ten years in the employ of Messrs. C. E. Laighton & Son, has taken the agency of a very useful household article and will call at the houses of our citizens. We can assure our readers that Mr. Peaslee is a perfectly reliable person.

A man who one night last week assisted home an acquaintance whom he found on the street in a very discouraged condition, says he will never play the good Samaritan again, the kettleful of hot water with which he was soused as he was putting the discouraged individual through the doorway having so diluted the milk of human kindness in his soul that it will never more be fit for use.

Emil Ingebredson, Julius Ingebredson, John Caswell, Josiah Haley, Frank A. Cook, Clarence Caswell, H. Butler Caswell and Lars Nelson, are fishing in the vicinity of the Shoals, in wherries. Elvin Newton, Elvin Newton, Jr., and Sherman Newton are fitting out for the spring wherry fishing. There will be a large number of small boats employed in the fishing business this spring and summer, as it is considered by many of the fishermen to be more profitable than going in schooners.

The town officers of Greenland elected on the 8th inst. are as follows: Wm. O. Junkins, town clerk; John E. Seavey, Jethro Howard and Geo. W. Weeks, selectmen; Nathan Berry, R. W. Weeks, Walter B. Norton, James Y. Whiteborn and Andrew J. Norton, assessors; Edwin A. Peterson, treasurer; William H. Packer and Nathaniel Simpson, auditors. All the officers chosen are democrats, as usual in that town. The republicans made no contest, but the eleven greenbackers in the town voted a straight ticket throughout.

Newington's town debt is now $1100, it having been reduced $600 during the past year. At the election on the 8th inst. Israel S. Hoyt was elected moderator, and James B. Pickering town clerk, both democrats. H. H. Downing and Joshua B. Pickering, Jr., democrats, and Benjamin S. Hoyt, republican, were elected selectmen; Jackson M. Hoyt, dem., and Henry Bean, rep., auditors. The salary of the town clerk was fixed at $15, and of the town treasurer at $10; the board of selectmen will receive $50, with extra pay for extra duty. The election of treasurer, collector, board of education, superintendent of burials and janitor of town hall, was left with the selectmen.

The new church in Eliot was dedicated on Wednesday afternoon, the 9th inst.

The two funny men are unanimously in favor of starting a factory. That settles the question definitely.

The gunners in Hampton killed three hundred and forty-four hawks last year, the bounties on which amounted to $66.80.

Always have "Dreydoppel's White Borax Soap" in the house. Unequalled for general household purposes. Use it once and you will always have it. Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

Hampton elected town officers on the 8th as follows: Morris Hobbs, moderator; John M. Akerman, town clerk; George W. Lane, treasurer; William E. Lane, John F. Marston, William Blake, selectmen.

The supreme court of Strafford county finally adjourned on the 7th. Judge Blodgett has returned home carrying with him a good sized cane as an evidence of the estimate in which his services as judge have been held in the county.

Mr. Martin Garrity, at No, 18 1-2 Daniel street, is making an enlargement of his facilities for bottling Malwaukee and Cincinnati lager beer. Mr. Garrity is agent for Gahm's Milwaukee lager, which is claimed to be the best article of the kind made in this country.

The fish arrivals on Wednesday were the schooners Iris, with 1500 lbs.; Julia A., 1500; Flying Eagle, 2500; Bonita, 2000; Christie Campbell, 3500; Lizzie D. Saunders, 4000, (haddock); General Grant, 3000; Celia, 2500; Can't Come It, 700; Nettie Adams, 500; Flying Cloud, 5000; Comet, 5000; Breeze, 4500.

Chief Engineer B. F. Garvin, U. S. N., with Mrs. Garvin, left Portsmouth on Wednesday morning of this week for Philadelphia. During his term of service at the navy yard Chief Engineer Garvin has made many friends in this vicinity, and their best wishes accompany the detached officer. Chief Engineer Garvin has been relieved by Chief Engineer D. B. Macomb.

The Dover Republican now furnishes for the benefit of the stock operators in that city the daily quotations of the New York and Boston stock exchange received at the close of the board sessions in either city. A good many of the Dover people are interested in the daily changes in the stock market, and the Republican thus gives the latest reports in advance of the receipt of the Boston papers.

Miss Mary Pike was buried at South Newmarket on Monday, March 7th. She was the oldest and last of the three children (all daughters) of the late Capt. Abraham Pike, and granddaughter of Capt. Robert Pike, who raised a company at the beginning of the revolutionary war, and remained in the field seven years. She died on the Pike farm, which has been in the Pike family for many generations.

"All the Rage" enjoyed a large house at the Park theatre last evening. The company is one of the strongest ever organized in this country for comedy, and the comedy itself is justly named, for it is certainly "All the Rage." It is impossible to witness it and not grow enthusiastic. The fun is irresistible. To all who would enjoy the most enjoyable play of the times, the Sentinel would say: Go and see "All the Rage.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

This play will be produced at Music hall on Wednesday evening next, by the same company.

The mails for this city close at the Dover post office at 4:10 P. M., or just a little too early for us to receive, by the train arriving here at 5:30 P. M., the copies of the evening dailies of that city on the day of their publication. For cities so near to each other the mail accommodations between Dover and Portsmouth are not what they should be. A postal clerk ought to be put on the road to go on each train, but we presume Mr. Cheney would find a difficulty in prevailing upon any one to accept the position.

As announced in our advertising columns, the firm of Clarke & Dixon, jewelers, have leased, refitted and remodeled the store lately occupied by H. H. Ladd & Co., 877 Elm street, and have stocked it with a very complete and valuable assortment of goods. The interior furnishings are elegant, and well calculated to display the goods to their best advantage. Among the notable fixtures are a large and handsome mirror and a regulator. The members of the firm come here from Portsmouth with the highest recommendations, and with plenty of capital to back their business they ought to succeed. Their store is new and bright, their goods attractive and stylish, and with an abundance of executive ability to manage their affairs the firm starts out under most encouraging aspects, and with the likelihood of very soon winning its way into the respect and confidence of the public.—Manchester Mirror.

DR. BOLLES' LECTURE.

The last lecture in the course at the Universalist church will be given this (Thursday) evening. The subject will be "A May trip through England." Dr. Bolles is worth hearing on any subject, but this seems specially good, inasmuch as he has made England a special study during several vacations spent there for the purpose. He made many new additions to this lecture during last summer when he was abroad preparing for his Lowell Institute lectures on London, which created such a sensation in Boston this winter. This lecture will be illustrated by about seventy magnificent views, many of them taken from nature on purpose for this lecture. It was not at first thought to have the doctor bring his stereopticon, because it adds very greatly to the expense of the lecture; but the managers desire to fully satisfy their patrons, and hope to fill the house with those who feel it a privilege to hear Dr. Bolles. It is an opportunity which may not occur soon again. Remember, the lecture is to-night, at the Universalist church.

POLICE COURT.

WEDNESDAY, March 9; Batchelder, J.

James Calen, for drunkenness, was sent to Brentwood for thirty days, costs being taxed at $6.90.

RYE TOWN MEETING.

Moderator, David Jenness;
Town Clerk, George S. Walker;
Treasurer, David Jenness;
Selectmen, Charles D. Garland, Albert C. Locke, Irving J. Seavey;
Collector, Aaron Rand;
Superintending School Committee: Charles J. Brown.

It was voted to raise seven thousand dollars.

Appropriated $2000 for highways, and $1300 for schools.

SEABROOK TOWN MEETING.

Although election day was fine, overhead, the vote was light; John M. Weare, democrat, was chosen moderator; James W. S. Tucker, republican, town clerk; David F. Boyd, rep., Thomas A. Dow, dem., and William H. Walton, rep., selectmen. A. J. Sanborn, John B. Manser, Cyrus Walton, Sumner Beal and Calvin Eaton were elected fish and game wardens; Robert Collins and Albert J. Sanborn, auditors; Calvin Eaton, constable.

For schools $1250 was appropriated; $200 for the poor; $2000 toward paying off the debt and interest; $500 for roads and bridges; $16 for labor on highways. The school money is to be divided among the districts according to the number of children of school age in each. John M. Weare then sold the income of Dow's island to Albert Gove for $15, and the income of Dow's marsh to James W. Dwight for $14. Voted to license dogs.

At quarter past four o'clock the meeting dissolved, much gratification being manifested that the business was all finished in one day. The meeting was very quiet, although there was evidence of a disturbing element present in the stomachs of some; any attempt at a fuss was quickly checked by the police.

The check-list bore the names of 466 voters, but the highest vote cast was 253. It is evident that future elections of town officers will be conducted on the citizens' ticket plan, with no strict adherence to party lines.

The Cabinet.

The secretary of the navy, Hunt, is fifty-two years old, and living with his fourth wife. Blaine is fifty-one years old, Windom fifty-four, James fifty, MacVeagh forty-eight, Kirkwood sixty-eight, and Lincoln thirty-seven. Blaine, James and Hunt were originally whigs, and Kirkwood a democrat; Windom and Lincoln have always been republicans, and MacVeagh was always a "kicker."

The latest foolhardy act at Niagara was the work of three employes of the Erie railway. There is a log in the rapids in the middle of the river, forty rods above Goat island bridge, which has been there four years or so, and in that time no one has been within reaching distance of it. These men crept out to it on the ice and spiked up a twelve foot sign on it reading, "Go East via Erie Railway." Crowds of people stood on shore and looked at them, and the usual number of cold-blooded bets were made, that they wouldn't get back alive. In putting on the sign they moved the log; this shook the ice a little, and it began to break up in all directions. They had a lively time paddling back to shore again, and say they wouldn't try it again for one thousand dollars apiece.

DIED.

OTIS. In Kittery, Me., March 8th, Mrs. Sarah Otis, daughter of the late Joshua and Mary Mendum, aged 78 years. A kind and affectionate mother, true friend and Christian, a worthy member of the 2nd Christian church, always aiding liberally in its support. She will be sadly missed by her sons and friends.

Children's Dress.

No child is prettier for an elaborate design of dress. A single ruffle at the edge of the skirt does very well, but it is quite as well without it. And to cut up the tiny space of a child's dress with loopings and trimmings and ornaments seems to us to make them look like monkeys. Not even the sash is beautiful for a child. A child is constructed first of all to eat that it may grow, to receive impressions that it may learn; therefore the head and the stomach are large in proportion to the rest of the body. When the little figure is made, so that the soft fleshy forms can be well seen, all this is beautiful; but to emphasize in the draped form of the child the large stomach by a broad sash, is utterly against all rules of beauty. The legs and arms are often beautiful, but to show the legs by cutting off the dress at the hips is immensely awkward, and seems chiefly to serve to display the drawers, which are not a beautiful garment and should be entirely hidden. Besides this, in winter our climate is wholly inappropriate for any such exposure, and we shall best see the beauty of a healthy child in its easy, untrammeled motion as it moves about in a simple dress (of as handsome a material as you like, provided that it is untrimmed) which is long enough to be warm, and loose enough to be comfortable. If you want your children to be graceful, let them be unconscious; if you want them to be healthy, let them be sufficiently warm. No woman can have a fine complexion who as a child has been habitually chilled, and we see in the winter many children who seem literally to have nothing on from the waist down. They could much better afford to put it the other way, and wear nothing from the waist up, the lungs and heart being at less expense to warm the upper portion of the body than the legs, which are further away from them. —Harper's Magazine for March.

—There is a story of a captive who was brought before an Asiatic prince, and doomed to die. The scimitar of his executioner was already raised above his head when, oppressed with thirst, he begged for water. A cup was handed to him, but he could hardly drink, so fearful was he that the blow should fall while he was drinking. "Take courage," said the prince, "your life will be spared till you drink that water." With a gesture of triumph the captive dashed the cup to the ground, and held the monarch to his word. He trusted that promise, and was not disappointed. The prince had passed his word, the captive was released, and went on his way rejoicing.

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—A leading resident of Clark's Mills, N. Y., went to Utica with his wife on a shopping tour. After finishing their purchases the husband deposited them in his vehicle and drove off home, leaving his wife in the store, forgetting to take her along.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

—Oh, protoplasm! Oh, bioplasm! Oh, mystic depth of the unknowable! Herbert Spencer has the dyspepsia, and it was brought on by eating peanuts. Thus does philosophy fail us in the most common interests of life while unfolding before us the illimitable.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of Hop Bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

—Mr. Ragbag said to Mr. Gallagher: "If I were in your place I would go out to the woods and hang myself." Said Gallagher: "We all wish you were in my place."

—A crushed youth's revenge: Ambitious boy: "Mother, may I go out west and fight Indians?" Mother: "No, my son, but you may go down to the cellar and fetch up a scuttle of coal." Thereupon the heart-crushed lad swore eternal hostility to society, and forthwith became a plumber's apprentice.

I have been afflicted with nervousness and dyspepsia, flatus in the stomach and bowels, wakeful nights, etc., for years, until I took D. R. V. G.; that has cured me. Chas. E. Stevens, Attorney. Syracuse, N. Y.

—It is insisted by many that oleomargarine will spoil the European market for American butter.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large double rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my treble condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. Wishing the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, humanity is are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their gripping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precious affliction and drag the days of misery all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the only inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under the reduced rate, within the reach of almost every one.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his superior treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She recoved this terrible intelligence quietly, decined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

Daily Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

Mr. Editor: Washington has changed wonderfully and magnificently since I entered it as a "boy in blue," March 12th, 1862. Where now stands one of the most elegant blocks in the city, called Grant Row, in which by the way are domiciled Senator Blair and Congressman Hall of New Hampshire, was then an open field, on which was encamped the 1st Maine Cavalry. Beyond to East river was then rough pasture land, dotted here and there with rough barracks, intended for temporary protection and shelter for troops then rapidly entering the city, and as rapidly leaving for the front in Virginia. Now all this immense area is closely built over with stately buildings, and is laid out with some of the finest avenues and streets in the world. East Capitol street, on which are the houses of Senators Blair and Rollins and Representative Hall, is the finest of all these new streets. A double street-car track runs through the middle, flanked on either side by fifty feet of asphalt pavement smooth as glass, tiled sidewalks twenty feet in width, street gardens beautifully laid out with shrubbery, fountains, statuary and colored lanterns. This street then was a narrow lane, a perfect slough of red mud, through which toiled many mules dragging army wagons loaded with subsistence for man and beast. The Capitol, now the finest building on the face of the earth, was then yellow and grimy with the steam from the immense bakery going on beneath the rotunda; the new wing unfinished, with many huge and unsightly derricks; the Goddess of Liberty, in eleven sections lay over half buried in the mud on the east front; a rickety, wooden spiral stair case, half covered with handbills of patent medicine nostrums, extended from the rotunda to the dome; the Capitol grounds were one huge store yard, filled with debris and paraphernalia of war. Pennsylvania Avenue was then little better than a country road—wide of course, but unpaved, while huge mud puddles showed themselves along its entire length, after every slight rain. There were no buildings on its south side for more than half its length; while pigs in swarms, goats and mules roamed at will along the gutters, eating the garbage that the citizens, regardless of the dreadful malaria, threw out to fester and rot in the scorching sun.

All this has changed. The bakery surrendered with Lee's army. The derricks are rotting at the navy yard, or are in use on that magnificent structure, the war and navy department building. The Goddess, united, looks proudly to the rising sun, from the loftiest building in America. The rotunda is cleared of the unsightly trestle work and bill boards. The grounds, beautiful in their terraces, parterres, fountains, fish-ponds, shrubbery, and walks, are now putting on their garments of green, and are the delight of the countless visitors here. "The Avenue," as it is called here, thanks to Boss Shephard is the most beautiful promenade in America. Three hundred thousand people can stand on its side-walks from Capitol hill to the treasury building; while the bed of the street, smooth as a floor, and as level, is to-day the resort of hundreds of boys and girls on parlor skates, skimming along like birds, and the Arlington and Capital bycicle clubs are going through wonderful manuevres on their wonderful machines. The greatest changes have been wrought at the west end, but of these I have not time to speak at the present writing.

The reception given to Gov. Head on Saturday evening by Senator Blair was a grand success—a perfect jam, so to speak. Senator and Mrs. Blair, and Governor and Mrs. Head, received the guests, among whom were the entire governer's staff and their ladies, Senator and Mrs. Rollins, Congressmen Hall, Briggs and Ray, with their ladies, Rev. Mr. Ruland and wife, formerly of Greenland, Hon. William E. Chandler and Land Commissioner Eaton, and Hon. J. H. Ela. Among those from Portsmouth, or who resided there formerly, were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Tullock, Miss Tullock, Israel Kimball, Israel Kimball, Jr., and wife, Miss Helen Kimball, Frank W. Hackett, Esq., Major David Urch, Joseph L. Meloon, Capt. William O. Sides and others.

Gov. Head and party left for home tonight; they intended to have gone Sunday, but the smash-up on the Baltimore & Potomac road on Saturday afternoon made the ladies nervous; hence the delay.

The city is still crowded with strangers, though the clubs and soldiery disappeared during Sunday. All the hotels are crowded, presumably with office seekers, and senators and congressmen are having a hard time of it. A lot of South Carolina politicians met in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association on Saturday, and parcelled out all the offices of the government in that state. Nothing small about "them fellers"—not even their feet. The same is nearly true of New Hampshire; there are about a dozen applicants for every office in the state, and the pressure is tremendous. When the "crash" commences it is likely to be general, but who will carry off the prizes is another thing.

Secretary Blaine and Hon. W. E. Chandler are the most sought after of any public men in Washington, of course excepting the President. Nearly a bushel of cards have been left at the residence of each since the inauguration. It is thought here that Mr. Chandler will be assistant secretary of state; if he takes it, it will be to please Blaine.

The new cabinet assembled at the White House this morning, and received their appointments. It is not considered especially strong here, with the exception of Blaine, Windom and James.

The New Hampshire delegation have a meeting to-night to talk over appointment matters throughout the state. In this connection, I noticed the arrival of Deputy Collector Young this morning; he is as genial as ever; he happened in New York on Sunday, and thought he would run down here for a day.

Donn Piatt, in his valedictory in the Sunday Capital of the 6th says: "The beautiful structure fabricated by the fathers lies like a stranded whale rotting in the sun, wolves and buzzards fattening on one end, while sharks are feeding upon the other."

Ingersoll gives the following parting shot to the Ex-President: "Hayes came in by a majority of one vote; he goes out by unanimous consent." R.

What is Behind It?

No amount of money can stand in the stead of a good name. It is a blunder everywhere and every time to suppose the loss of character can be paid for. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., proprietor of the great medicine called "Favorite Remedy," would have but little confidence to recommend the public to buy and use if his own good name were not behind it. But the fact that he has staked his reputation upon it ought to be, and is, better than a thousand cheap certificates—in the opinion of the people. The doctor is a regular physician-surgeon, and despises a humbug as heartily as any man. If you are sick with any complaint of the blood, kidneys or liver, invest one dollar in the "Favorite Remedy," and it will speak for itself.

Jotham Truell of Campton has just celebrated his 100th birthday. He is the oldest person in town.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. Edgar F. Hall's house at Belmont was burned on the 9th inst., through the breaking of a kerosene lamp. Insurance $500.

I have been afflicted with nervousness and dyspepsia, flatus in the stomach and bowels, wakeful nights, etc., for years, until I took D. R. V. G.; that has cured me. Chas. E. Stevens, Attorney. Syracuse, N. Y.

FRIDAY, MARCH 11, 1881.

A New Aid to Navigation.

An automatic buoy, having a ten inch whistle and a glass globe for an electric light on the top, has been moored in thirteen fathoms of water near the Sandy Hook lightship. The inventor of the buoy claims that it will show an intermittent electric light, the generator being operated by the action of the waves. The lighthouse board has permitted this buoy (the private property of the inventor) to be placed where it is, in order that its practical advantage, if any, may be tested, and that its operations may be observed and reported upon by the people on board the lightship. The lighthouse board is not responsible for it as an aid to navigation.

Political.

Hon. Lot M. Morrill was on the 9th inst. re-appointed collector of the port of Portland, Me., by President Garfield, and was at once confirmed by the Senate.

D. B. Perry, republican, has been elected representative to the Maine legislature from the Poland and Minot district by a large majority, to fill the vacancy caused by the expulsion of T. B. Swan, the fusionist swindler.

The joint resolution passed by the Delaware house of representatives on the 4th inst., declaring that Mr. Tilden was elected four years ago, reprobating the inauguration of President Hayes, and regretting the inauguration of President Garfield, was called up in the senate on the 8th and indefinitely postponed.

News and Notes.

We regret to learn that James T. Furber, general superintendent of the Boston & Maine railroad, is dangerously ill at his home in Lawrence, Mass. Mr. Furber is one of the most energetic and farseeing men connected with the railway interest of New England, and he has done more than any other man to keep the Boston & Maine railroad in its position of importance.

Joseph Payton murdered Nettie Stickley at Cincinnati, and a jury found him not guilty by reason of insanity. Now two experts in insane cases testify that he is perfectly sane, so he goes scot free.

Henry W. Mason, the forger and defaulter of Winooski, Vt., returned to the town March 9th. He was not arrested, and next day assisted in the work of straightening out his falsified books; but on the 10th he took an evening train, and fled to Canada.

Wesley Harrison Smith, a gigantic negro, was shot and killed near Campbellsburg, Henry county, Ky., by a band of ten masked men, when in the act of setting a barn on fire, Monday night, the 7th inst. Ten fires by incendiaries have occurred in that vicinity in twelve months. Some of the "vigilantes," who were masked and secreted in the barn, and who shot Smith, were members of the coroner's jury which held an inquest on the body!

A vast increase in the emigration to the United States from Germany is reported.

Wm. Trotter and wife have been arrested at Oldtown, Ohio, on a charge of murdering their son William. The boy had been fined $5 for disturbing a religious meeting. Trotter beat him severely after the lawsuit, and struck him a blow that knocked him down a flight of stairs. The mother was arrested as accessory.

The body of Andrew Reid, a member of the New York exchange who has been missing since early in November last, was found in the Hackensack river near the Newark & New York railroad bridge, on the 9th inst. A man supposed to have been Mr. Reid was knocked off the bridge by an engine on the day he disappeared.

It is stated that several witnesses from Swampscott have been summoned before a magistrate, and their depositions taken concerning Ex-Gov. William Sprague of Rhode Island. They say that in the summer of 1878, about the middle of July, there came to Swampscott Mrs. Mary E. Anderson, a beautiful blonde of thirty-five summers, the wife of Capt. O. A. Anderson, then of the bark Daniel A. Preston. She rented a cottage there and it is alleged was visited by Gov. Sprague, and the governor and Mrs. Anderson held high carnival at the house, both being intoxicated. It is said the woman was afterward taken away by her father, and is now in an insane asylum.

The American Rapid Telegraph company, at a meeting of stockholders in New York on the 9th inst., voted to increase its capital stock to $10,000,000, and to extend its lines to the principal cities in the United States. They also authorized the president and executive committee to make contracts for extension at once.

There is a great excitement among dealers in pork in England and America, over the false reports sent by the acting British consul at Philadelphia in regard to the prevalence of disease among the swine of the western states. It is asserted that he was imposed upon by designing speculators, to their own selfish interests, and the incalculable injury of legitimate commerce.

A fight occurred in a cemetery at Chicago, March 9th, between the relatives and friends of a man named Michael Calahan, who died of small-pox, and whose remains were being taken in for burial, which was finally participated in by all present. Picks and shovels were used, and a number of the mourners were badly injured. The coffin was broken open, and the corpse rolled down an embankment.

A balloon carrying an aeronaut and eight passengers, ascended from Nice on Sunday afternoon, the 6th inst. It rose to a great height, and was carried out to sea. The voyagers experienced a heavy storm. It was pitch dark, and while they were fumbling with the valves the gas escaped and they came down with a run. The balloon was dashed against the waves and carried along the surface of the water for a mile. Three passengers fell out of the car and were drowned. The others succeeded in closing the valves, and the balloon rose from the water, and landed on Monday morning, the 7th.

AROUND HOME.

Three brothers, named McCloud, of Gloucester, and all skippers of fishing vessels, came into this port on Thursday with fares of fish.

About $60,000 of stock in the proposed new mill had been subscribed for up to noon on Thursday last, and but little apprehension is felt as to the success of the movement.

Charles W. Warren, a lawyer at Northwood, was arrested in Boston on Monday, the 7th inst., being wanted for neglecting to return a horse and sleigh hired of Charles G. Towle of Exeter on Jan. 15th. He is now in Exeter jail.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick sighted the barkentine Henry Norwell on Wednesday evening of this week, when about ten miles outside of the Shoals, and placed one of her crew, Christopher Killenback, on board, who brought the barkentine into the harbor; otherwise she might have had a hard time of it.

The arrivals of fish on Thursday were the schooners Florence Nightingale with 2000 lbs.; Telephone, 1200; Vanguard, 2000; Flora Temple, 9000; Magellan Cloud, 6000; Helen F. Tredick, 6000; Eva May, 3500; Rover's Bride, 2500; Grace Choate, 4500; Martha Jane, 6000; Water Lily, 3500; Rising Star, 8000; Addie & Hattie, 3000; Zephyr, 2000 lbs.

Schooner Olio, of St. John, N. B., bound from Boston to St. John with a cargo of corn and meal, made this harbor on Wednesday night, and came to an anchor between Whalesback and Fort Point lighthouse. Having but one anchor on which they could rely, and fearing the gale was too strong for it hold the vessel, the crew abandoned her and were brought up by the schooner Rising Star. They afterwards returned to the vessel in the U. S. S. Leyden, and the schooner was towed alongside of the U. S. S. Plymouth.

The annual meeting of the Musical Association was held on Wednesday evening of this week, when officers for the ensuing year were elected, and other important business transacted. By the report of the secretary it is learned that the active membership of the association numbers about one hundred and thirty-five. Following is a list of persons elected to the various offices: President, Rev. E. M. Grant; secretary and treasurer, Wm. P. Benedict; conductor, S. W. Cole; executive committee, Dr. R. C. Grant, L. E. Staples and L. S. Butler, with the president and conductor, ex officio, added. The board of vice presidents of last year, including many of our most influential citizens, was re-elected.

Some excitement was occasioned along the wharves on Thursday last, by a report that the barque Henry Norwell, Allen master, from Mobile for this port with a cargo of cotton, was anchored in a dangerous position near Stillman's rock buoy, and had a signal of distress flying; and that a schooner belonging to a port in the British provinces was close in to the spindle on Jerry's point, on the rocks, and abandoned by her crew. The tug Clara Batemen not being in a condition to render aid, in face of the furious gale blowing at the time, the navy yard authorities were appealed to, and the government tug Leyden, in charge of Lieut. Comdr. Charles J. Barclay and Mate John L. Vennard, was promptly despatched to the assistance of the vessels. The schooner proved to be the Olio, of St. John, N. B., which was found at anchor between Fort Constitution and Whalesback, and was towed in. The Barque was at anchor off Fort point, and the steamer went down to her in the afternoon.

An unusually large amount of logs has been hauled to the Winnicut Mills at Greenland this winter, to be sawed into boards and dimension lumber.

At the election in Newmarket, on the 8th inst., Albert M. Priest was elected town clerk; Benjamin Mathes, Edward Richardson and Robert G. Bennett selectmen.

"Dreydoppel's White Borax Soap" will wash either way; by rubbing it on the clothes, in usual manner, or dissolving it same as the so-called labor saving soaps. Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

The steam yacht Pinafore was launched on the morning of the 10th inst., from the spot where she has spent the winter. She will at once be employed in re-establishing steam communication between this city and the hotels at the Shoals.

The schooner Helen F. Tredick drifted from her mornings on the night of the 9th inst., and went against the schooners W. B. Keen and Lily Dale. The W. B. Keen had her jib-boom broken, and some slight injury was done to the Lily Dale.

The Newcastle election resulted in the choice of Howard M. Curtis for town clerk; Frederick Bell, George W. Towle and N. P. Campbell, selectmen; John Ed. Yeaton, overseer of the poor; Albert H. White and Chandler Martin, assessors.

Mr. E. S. Fay's name was inadvertently omitted from the list of gentlemen appointed by the recent citizens' meeting to solicit subscriptions to the stock of the proposed new mill, he having been added to the committee after our reporter left the meeting.

On Monday evening next, at the Middle street church, Mr. S. B. Whitney of Boston will give an organ concert, and will be assisted by Mrs. Ella C. Fenderson, the contralto singer who was so marked a favorite at the Musical Convention. Reserved seats can now be secured at Preston's.

Mr. Joseph F. Kennard and wife, of Eliot, were surprised on the evening of March 7th by a visit from over one hundred of their friends and neighbors. A banquet was served, after which there was a dance, music being furnished by Nason & Hodgdon's quadrille band. The welcome intruders retired at a late hour, leaving behind a fine lounge, a very handsome set of chamber ware, and other valuable gifts.

Mayor Murphy of Dover wears a brand new suit won from Col. W. A. Tower, of the firm of Tower, Giddings & Co., on a bet that Frank Jones would not be chosen governor at the November election. The shrewd mayor also sports a beaver hat which some indiscreet democrat, who went short on the brag game so well played by the democrats who predicted Mr. Jones' election, has had the privilege of paying for.

The schooner Gipsey Queen, of Swampscott, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week took 14,000 lbs. of codfish on trawls, using razor clams for bait, while the whole Newburyport fleet of fishermen took only 10,000 lbs. in the same time, using frozen herring for bait. The schooner Magellan Cloud, of Gloucester, took 10,000 lbs. at one setting of her nets Tuesday night. All these fish were taken within two miles of Newburyport bar. On Wednesday the schooner Ella F. Johnson made an unusual catch, bringing up on her trawls one of the latest improved codfish nets. So says the Newburyport Herald.

Of "All the Rage," which is to be played at Music hall on Wednesday evening, the Boston Journal says: "It is really a farce in four acts, the humorous and ridiculous elements almost completely overshadowing the sentimental. To unravel them by describing them, or to attempt to give an outline of the story of the piece, with its relative and interweaving complications, would require a lengthier notice than we can give. Mr. Hardenbergh kept the house in good humor every moment he was on the floor, his personation being in every respect an excellent one, the exaggeration with which the part has been drawn being very well hidden by the easy consistency with which it was carried out to the end. The ladies all did admirably, and the remainder of the support was such as to make the performance one of much merit."

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, March 10th:

The records of the last meeting were read and approved.

The mayor reported that Mr. J. J. Pickering wished to compromise with the city in regard to disputed taxes, and he (the mayor) had requested the presence of the city solicitor to explain the matter. Solicitor Foster said Mr. Pickering requested all the suits to be dropped, half the doomage abated, and each party pay their own costs; the matter is now before Judge Clark; the amount Mr. Pickering wishes the city to abate is about $375, including interest. Ald. Sanborn thought the city should get the whole amount of the bill; it had a valid claim for the whole, if for any part. The solicitor said the city's expenses so far had been about $50. Ald. Hall thought the city had better accept Mr. Pickering's proposition, and settle the affair. On motion of Ald. Shannon, the matter was referred to the committee on finance, to report.

Bills amounting to $5122.22 were ordered to be paid.

The resignation of Peter Pray as a police office was accepted, and his bondsmen relieved from further liability.

James F. Shannon was elected watchman, constable and police officer, by a vote of six to one.

Ald. Sanborn enquired of the city solicitor as to the city's proprietorship in the public library. The solicitor said there is no property to which the city has a more absolute claim, so long as the library is kept open to the public; when it fails to do this, the library reverts to the donors.

It was reported that the judges of the courts objected to the occupancy of the tenement under the court house. Referred to the committee on city lands and buildings, to report. A communication from the Portsmouth savings bank was referred to the same committee.

The resignation of James F. Shannon as an assistant engineer of the fire department, was accepted, and William H. Deverson was elected to fill the vacancy thus created.

Ald. Noyes reported the engine house of fire engines No. 3 and No. 4 in bad condition; chimney, tower and floor settling, new sills needed, etc. Referred to the committee on city lands and buildings, with powers.

The report of the committee on public instruction, and reports of various subcommittees, were referred to Ald. Shannon and Sanborn as a special committee.

Ald. Sanborn reported that he had attended to his duty as a committee to investigate the cutting down of trees on Miller avenue. He did not know who cut down the trees, but if the person could be found out he should be punished if possible. Report accepted.

Ald. Hall thought the matter was in the hands of the mayor, and that it had best be left with him; and that he should ascert ain if the city had any power to protect the trees in the streets.

Adjourned for two weeks.

LET THEM COME.

Mr. Editor: In a recent communication in your paper, relative to the attempt of some of our enterprising citizens to secure the rebuilding on an enlarged scale of the Kearsarge mill, "Economist" suggests that some other industry might attract to our city a more desirable class of laborers than a cotton manufactory would do, and a contrast is drawn between the employes of our shoe factories and those of the mills in the great cotton manufacturing centres, to the great disadvantage of the latter. The principal objection which "Economist" has to a cotton manufacturing population appears to be, that in other places in New England such a population often includes a large proportion of French Canadians, who are held up as a very undesirable accession, as they live in the cheapest possible manner, "hoard up their earnings, and hie off for Canada." This argument it seems to me will hardly hold water, for economy is surely not a fault, and some of the most trusted, trustworthy and enterprising of the employes of our shoe factories are French Canadians; and that these people do not "hie off for Canada" to any extent with the proceeds of their industry and economy is shown by the constant wailing of the Canadian papers over the depletion of the population of the British provinces by the emigration to "the States" of the industrial classes, who take their families with them and cut loose from the provinces entirely. Though a cotton mill might induce a few scores or hundreds of French Canadians to settle in Portsmouth, it would still be of great benefit to the city, and no serious blow would be given to the foundations of society. OLD HAND.

MICAJAH C. BURLEIGH.

Micajah C. Burleigh, who was a nephew of the late John A. Burleigh, died at Somersworth on Monday night, the 7th inst., after a painful illness of long duration. In early life he sailed from this port in some of our Portsmouth ships, and subsequently left the sea and engaged in the operation of the Somersworth Machine Co., of which successful corporation he has been agent. He was president of the Somersworth savings bank, a director of the Great Falls national bank, and connected with other important enterprises, and was also a part owner in ships hailing from this port. He has been a state senator, and served as representative from his town in the House. He was a man of firm and resolute character, shrewd in business matters, and generous in hospitalities. He was a Past Eminent Commander of St. Paul Commandery of Knights Templar, of Dover. His age was sixty-three years.

CALUMNY.

Mr. Editor: Is it not singular that persons of either sex, from jealous motives, will be induced to spread reports injurious to the reputation of their neighbors? A man succeeds in his profession or in the accumulation of wealth, and lo! what sensational stories do we hear regarding his character, etc. Of course the accusations made behind the back of the subject, traceable to no responsible source, denied by all who can have the means of knowlege, go far and wide, and the public at once divides upon the question. The credulous, gossip-loving, jealous and talking portion believe, add to and give speed to the scandalous reports. The thoughtful, intelligent and refined portion of the community are not duped by this wicked attempt of jealous rivals or busy libellers, but they look at the character, habits, associates and surroundings of the person assailed, and when with a look of conscious innocence and innate purity he comes among us, let us protect his character from those vile assailants who seek to rear their own fabric upon the downfall of others.

JUSTITIA.

—Simon Short-lightning, Smoaker, Martha Shaker, White-shell, Second-born, Charles-they-hear-him-singing, Builds-no-house, Amos-clothed-in-mystery, and other Christian Indians at Devil's Lake, Dak., have petitioned the American Broad to build them a church.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and are long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to WILLIAM H. HACKETT.

—A wise man ought to hope for the best, be prepared for the worst, and bear with equanimity whatever may happen.

—With reference to the number of people who will be saved in the hereafter, Rev. DeWitt Talmage says: "Well, my friends, I have not much admiration for a life-boat which will go out to a ship sinking with a thousand passengers, and get one off in safety and let 1,999 go the bottom."

An Honest Preparation.

The world is so crammed with swindles that a really honest man or honest thing is almost as scarce as robins in January. Yet Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., formerly captain of the Troy police, says Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is "an honest preparation." And the captain ought to know, for the medicine cured him of liver complaint. It is mean enough to cheat a well man, but to cheat the sick and the suffering deserves a short shrift and a long rope. Whatever sins Dr. Kennedy may be guilty of, misrepresentation of his medicine is not among them. Try it for one dollar, or write to the doctor at Roudout, N. Y.

"Has produced more satisfactory results in my practice than any other of the numerous articles in the market," says Professor Egbert Guernsey, M. D. "Cannot afford to be without your elegant and thoroughly satisfactory preparations for a day," says Professor M. W. Noxan, M. D. ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large double rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, his rooms are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, with a little reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture contains convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 42 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. tap3

Funny Names of American Postoffices.

There are more than forty-three thousand postoffices in the United States, and the whimsicalities of the American people are nowhere more strongly illustrated than in their selection of names therefor. The following names taken from the United States official postal guide display at least a remarkable variety of taste:

In Alabama we find Blowhorn, Buckshort, Gi, Gnatville, Lubbub, Quid Nunc, Rawhide and Shinbone. In Arizona, Bumble Bee, Snow Low, Tip Top and Tombstone. In Arkansas, Oil Trough, Sub Rose and Tomahawk. In California, Bogus, Uncle Sam, Yankee Jim's and Zem Zem. Colorado boasts of Greenhorn, O. Z., You Bet and Troublesome; Baby Mine and Tenderfoot are in Dakota. Florida rejoices in Padlock, Scrub and Sopchoppy. Georgia has in her borders Alligator, Cheap, Clinchem, Crackling, Crane-Eater, Dark Corner, Dirt Dove, Doboy, Hot House, Iceberg, Persimmon, Pistol, Rock Pile and Ty Ty. Illinois turns out with Fish Hook, Half Day, Preemption, School and Zif. Indiana adorns the list with Bean, Blossom, Big Foot, Buckskin, Dice, Nogo, Polk Patch, Pucker Bush, Soonover and Zulu. Odd, Unique, What Cheer, Yankee and Zero are in Iowa. Kansas furnishes Free Will, Haphazard, Og, Rattlesnake, Terrapin and Zenith. Kentucky produces Eighty-eight, Seventy-six, Backbone, Marrowbone, Devilshoal. Headquarters, Humpy, Jamboree, Nobob, Pig, Scrabble, Scufflestown, Slickaway and Tip-top. Louisiana contributes Happy Jack and Jump. Pattagumpus is in Maine. T. B. and Gunpowder in Maryland. In Tennessee are A. B. C., Dabbs, Forty-eight, U Bet, Zed, Zero, Skull Bone, and Calf-killer. In Texas, Blowout, Gunsight, J. Bob, Jeboy, Jimtown, Nameless, Straddle, and Vox Populi. Pennsylvania chooses Nine Points, Seven Points, Six Points, Seventy-six, Sabbath Rest, Scalp Level, and Shickshinny. Nine Times and Ninety-six are in South Carolina; Seventy-six in Missouri, and Fourteen is in West Virginia. Dubbs, Rarn Avis, and O. K. are in Mississippi, and Dakota and Michigan each have a Stump. Washington Territory prides herself on Muck, Kumtax and Skookumchuck; Virginia on Chuckatuck, Non Intervention, Pen Hook, Skingnaster, Tan Yard and Wolf Trap. Antiquity is in Ohio; Shoo Fly is in Iowa, also in North Carolina; Sleepy Eye is in Minnesota, and Wide Awake in Kentucky. None Such is in Michigan, Nix in Alabama. Last in North Carolina, and Last Chance in Iowa.

Tennessee blushingly produces Sweet Lips to be promptly saluted by a Buss from Manifest county, Michigan. Fillmore county, Minnesota, boasts of its Clear Grit, while Bay county, Michigan, shows a White Feather. Blue Eye, Clapper, Greasy, Protem, Tribulation and Zig are in Missouri. Fair Chance is in Pennsylvania. Fair Dealing is in Kentucky, but she finally pleads guilty to a Trickum, and so does Georgia. New York and Indiana each have a Big Indian while Nevada has nothing better than a Sheepshead. North Carolina has a Day Book, a Hanging Dog, a Meat Camp, Old Hundred, Sandy Mush, Short Off, Tally Ho and Why Not. Ohio comes to the rescue with Aid (also Gratis), and Democracy is the name of one of her postoffices in Knox county. Monday, Roundhead and Zuck also embellish Ohio's list. With the inordinate desire that characterizes Ohio to monopolize things, she points with pride to a postoffice named Sodom, which stands alone in its glory as the only one of that name in the forty-three thousand in the United States. A crusty Bachelor is in Missouri, and a blushing Maiden in North Carolina. Bachelor's Hall is in Virginia, and we find Widows in Alabama. South Carolina furnishes a Bachelor's Retreat in Oconee county, but she equalizes things by establishing a Ladies Island in Beaufort county. Mamma is in Cumberland county, Tenn, close to Daddy's Creek in the same county, while Bub is in Missouri, Sis in Pennsylvania, her Gent in Texas, and a horrid Boy in Campbell county, Tenn. Ohio has an entire Congress, of course, but the Speaker is in Michigan. Pennsylvania is well provided with rulers, having a President and the King of Prussia, to checkmate which Ohio and Mississippi each retain a Veto.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

The Newburyport Herald says: "At a manufactory in this city, a man employed, who had just been on a spree, drank a quart of raw alcohol, which is there used, in the space of one forenoon."

Caused by malaria, affections of the lungs, and imperfect digestion is speedily remedied by the Liebig Co's Coca Beef Tonic.

A mulatto barber has eloped with a pretty and tolerably wealthy white girl of Lancaster, Ohio. No trace of the fugitives has been discovered, and as his African blood is hardly discernible in his face, it is surmised that they intend to hide among strangers.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of these bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a

—Rev. Dr. Orville Dewey, of Boston, lately said of Ole Bull: He was a man of high thinking and of a profoundly religious nature, which did not take a precisely Christian form, either our own or any other. I remember that once, when I was representing to him the duty of forgiveness and love of enemies, enforcing it by the saying of Jesus, he cried out, 'But if I love my enemies, what shall I do for my friends?'"

Rescued from Death.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

—Wolf Blumberg stole a ring from Miss Miller in Brooklyn. Counsellor Parmentor, a veteran of eighty winters, appeared for the prisoner. While Miss Miller was testifying Blumberg became excited, and sprang to his feet several times and remonstrated. At last Councillor Parmenter lost patience, and stamping his foot he shouted: "D—n you, if you don't shut up and let me manage this case I'll break your jaw!" Blumberg immediately sat down, while the court and the audience roared with laughter.

I have been afflicted with nervousness and dyspepsia, flatus in the stomach and bowels, wakeful nights, etc., for years, until I took D. R. V. G.; that has cured me. Chas. E. Stevens, Attorney.

SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 1881.

Unprecedented Promptness.

Postmaster General James vacated his position as postmaster of New York city on March 6th, and became postmaster general on the morning of the 7th inst. His accounts as postmaster at New York were rendered to Sixth Auditor McGrew on the morning of the 8th inst. They were at once audited, adjusted and settled and found to be correct to a cent, and his sureties have been notified that their responsibility has ceased. This prompt settlement of the accounts of an office the receipts of which nearly equal one-ninth of the entire postal revenue of the government, is unprecedented in the history of the department.

Political.

We learn from the Washington correspondence of the Boston Advertiser that General Garfield does not intend to make general removals among officers now performing satisfactory service. The President says that whoever comes to Washington as an office seeker, looking for the removal of an officer against whom there is no charge of inefficiency or neglect, will come to no purpose.

The murderer was arrested, and is now lodged in the jail at Denver. The late Mr. Garland had not been heard from for sixteen years, and the first information of the tragedy was imparted by the authorities of Denver, who first wrote to the postmaster at Grafton, this state, to learn of the whereabouts of the murdered man's relatives, and to impart to them the circumstances of the tragedy. Mr. Garland resided in a cattle ranch nine miles out of Denver, and the authorities report finding $400 on his person, and $100 in gold in his cabin; he was also the owner of between 100 and 200 head of cattle.—Manchester Union.

The schooner J. P. Ames of this port, 81.30 tons register, owned by Rider & Cotton, Thomas S. Gay, Wm. Downs & Son and R. E. Rider, has been sold on private terms to parties in Rockland, Me.

"Hazel Kirke" will be presented in this city the last of this month, by the Union Square Theatre Co. of New York. The piece has been the success of the season in New York, having been played for three hundred and fifty nights.

Chief Engineer James W. Whittaker, of the navy, formerly on duty at the navy yard near this city as inspector, died in Brooklyn on the 10th inst., from an attack of erysipelas brought on by vaccination. He was a native of New Jersey, and was appointed to the navy in 1857.

The Newburyport Herald of March 11th says: "Colonel Levi Pearson, the well-known proprietor of the Pentucket house at Georgetown, Mass., died at his home yesterday. He was a member of Quascacunquen Lodge of Odd Fellows, of this city." Col. Pearson was a brother of Mr. Amos Pearson of this city.

The Journal of date March 12th says: "We were shown this week the result of the assoy of the ore of the Eliot mine. It resulted as follows: The croppings or surface rock assayed $9.93 per ton. The slate rock near the surface, of which there is but little, $7.10 per ton. Quartz rock farther down, of which there is more, $18.45 per ton. Blue or bed rock, eighteen feet from the surface, $52.38 per ton. The verdict of the assayer is that the yield is extraordinary, beyond expectation; it being the best showing in the state of Maine for the same distance down. It is all silver, with more or less traces of gold."

The sale of the Chase mansion, one of the fine old houses for which Portsmouth has been celebrated, is to take place today at twelve o'clock. The house was built in what was once a fashionable and prominent locality, where the merchant princes of Portsmouth dwelt in the days of its early commercial prosperity. The lot is large and the sale will doubtless attract the attention of buyers of real estate as well as of those who admire the houses built at a period of the history of Portsmouth when it was commercially prosperous. Besides, this was one of the houses in which the father of his country entered while on his visit to Portsmouth after he became President.

Steam fire engine No. 3 was employed on Friday in clearing the drain pipe which empties into the dock at the foot of Court street.

The barkentine Henry Norwell was towed up to the Eastern railroad wharf on Friday morning by the tug Clara Batemen and the steamer Mystic.

The fishing schooner Norma on Thursday drifted from the Kittery shore over to Newcastle. No one was aboard at the time, but no damage was done.

Schooner Velocipede, loaded with fish from the wharf of Mr. Valentine Doane, was lying in the lower harbor on Friday, waiting for fair weather to proceed to Boston.

A dividend of sixty-five dollars per share of the capital stock of the Kearsarge mills will be paid to the stockholders on the 15th inst, at the treasurer's office in Boston.

The schooner Flying Eagle received fifteen cod-fish nets on Thursday. Some of the crew not liking the terms required, have left the vessel. The schooner Mary E. Caswell will probably have her nets in a short time.

Schooner Oseo, of St. John, N. B., which was abandoned in the storm of Wednesday night and on Thursday was towed alongside of the U. S. S. Plymouth, had her foresail and mainsail so badly torn that they were unfit for use.

On Friday forenoon Mr. George Bilbruck, when taking a ladder from Mr. Silas Philbrick's stone and marble yard to Commercial wharf, slipped and fell backward upon a large rock. His injury, though not serious, will cause him some lameness for several days.

The organ concert at the Middle street church next Monday evening, at which Mr. S. B. Whitney of Boston will preside at the organ, with Mrs. Ella C. Fenderson, also of Boston, as vocalist, will be a musical feast indeed. We look to see a full house, for we are sure that the concert will be one of peculiar attractiveness.

The coal pocket of C. E. Walker & Co., to be built on Pier wharf, will be forty feet wide. Vessels on both sides of the wharf can discharge cargo directly into the pocket without its being carried in barrows, and the facilities thus gained for handling coal will be equal to those of any establishment of the kind in the country.

The lecture by Rev. Dr. Bolles in the Universalist church on Thursday evening last, was the most interesting and instructive lecture given in this city this season. The audience was a highly intelligent and refined one, and very fair in point of numbers, though not so large as was merited, many persons staying away on account of the stormy weather who would otherwise have attended.

The barkentine Henry Norwell will have her cargo of cotton discharged by Mr. Frisbee, the regular stevedore at the wharf of the Eastern railroad, who will employ Portsmouth men at the job. The mate of this vessel came very near taking a cold bath when she was coming up the river. He was standing on one of the martingale back-ropes, overseeing the running of a hawser to the buoy off the navy yard, when the eye-bolt to which the back-rope was attached drew out of the schooner's bow, letting him down by the run on top of a man in a boat underneath. No serious harm was done to either person.

The Eastern railroad's earnings for January show a decrease of $2,000, and an increase in operating expenses of $35,000. The increase is due chiefly to the payment for two new locomotives and other needed equipments, and to the fact that several items of expense, such as insurance, taxes and damage funds, which have heretofore been put in at the close of the year in the aggregate, were apportioned pro rata for the month, according to a plan just adopted by the company in keeping their accounts. Taking these things into consideration, the actual expenditures were no greater than in January, 1880. The decrease in earnings was due solely to the snow blockade experienced by the road during the month, and which badly interfered with its business.

BETTER MAIL FACILITIES ASKED.

Mr. Editor: I was glad to see by your paper that some one besides myself wants better mail facilities between Dover and Portsmouth. Why the Eastern railroad cannot affort to carry all the mails between the two cities, instead of their being sent twenty-five miles around by way of Newmarket junction, seems unaccountable.

But as to the postal clerk: One morning of this week I wished to send an important paper to Dover. I took it in a letter to the post-office just before a quarter to ten o'clock, and was told by the gentlemanly clerk that the mail-bag had been locked. It had not left the office, but the mail was closed. I went to the Eastern railroad station, and before I reached there the train had left for Dover. The paper was needed at Dover that forenoon, and I could not telegraph its contents because the document itself was required. The result was I had to send a special messenger by team over the road, in bad travelling, when if we had more accommodating officials, or a postal clerk on the route who would have taken my letter at the post-office and mailed it on the cars, I should have been saved much annoyance and no little expense.

Now let us have a postal clerk; and perhaps some of the applicants for other offices would be willing to commence public service in this useful capacity, and like Postmaster General James, merit subsequent high promotion. Who will move in the matter? COCHECO.

N. H. S. P. C. A.

The directors of the New Hampshire Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals held their meeting for March on the evening of the 7th inst., at the office of Dr. May.

Resolutions of respect for the memory of Mrs. Stanton Parker, late a vice president of the society, were offered, and unanimously adopted.

Mr. C. E. F. Davis of Franklin was appointed to act as agent of the society in his vicinity.

A donation of $20 was received, to be used in the prosecution of the work in out-of-town cases.

Reports were received from the several agents of the society, aggregating one hundred and seventy-seven, in which the interferance of the society was necessary.

The board passed a vote of thanks for a contribution of money, to a Portsmouth lady resident in Washington.

A sum of money was also contributed by "a friend" to aid in the prosecution of a man in the country who starved a part of his stock of cattle to death.

"	lame	13
"	neglected	1
"	blanketed by agents	72
"	taken from work	6
"	overloaded	27
"	poorly sheltered	4
"	sick on street	1
"	mercifully killed	2
"	starving condition	4
"	unloaded by agent	4
"	cruelly whipped by drivers	9
"	put in stable by agent	1
"	lame, taken from work	12
"	gulled	2
"	sick, cared for by agents	1
"	starved to death	1
Oxen	starved to death	7
Bull	starved to death	1
Calf	starved to death	1
Dog	scalded	1

The society has been influential in bringing about a marked change for the better in the treatment of horses and cattle in this city, and is rapidly extending its sphere of usefulness throughout the state. Deputy Sheriff D. K. White of Manchester has been particularly active and successful in preventing cruelty, and in the prosecution of offenders.

The society is also indebted to City Marshal Entwistle, of Portsmouth, for valuable services rendered.

The pertinacity with which the society has stuck to the work in spite of discouragements, is something remarkable in the history of modern societies.

THE LAND LEAGUE.

At the public meeting of citizens in favor of forming a land league, held at the court house on Friday evening, Mr. Dennis J. Lynch was chosen temporary chairman. The by-laws and the constitution of the Irish National Land League were read and adopted. The organization in this city is to be called the Portsmouth Branch of the National Land League. An initiation fee of one dollar for membership, and a monthly assessment of twenty-five cents, were voted. The permanent organization was effected as follows:

President, William H. Palmer;

Vice Presidents, Patrick Gallagher, Dennis J. Lynch;

NEURALGIA.

It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Sprup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer stands, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

W. E. Gilchrist, of Franklin, has in his possession a piano which John Hancock brought from England, over a century ago. It is an upright instrument, and bears the card of "William Stoddard, Golden Square, London, England, Maker to their majesties and royal family."

John H. Dearborn, a tramp printer, was arrested in the office of the Hopkinton Times at Contoocook on the 10th inst., on a charge of being the murderer of Mrs. Maria L. Crue of Groton, Mass., for whose murder Stearns Kendall Abbott is now under sentence of death. Dearborn went quietly with the arresting officers, and was taken to Manchester for safe keeping until transferred to Massachusetts. The "movement" against Dearborn will probably turn out to be merely a trumped-up scheme for prolonging Abbott's worthless life—worthless whether he murdered Mrs. Crue or not.

Ivory Chamberlain, at one time a leading editorial writer on the New York World, and at the time of his death on the editorial staff of the New York Herald, died March 9th. He was born in Wolfeborough, in 1824.

George D. Barnes of West Hopkinton is accused of cruelly beating his wife and young child. Barnes is a young man who is under bonds to keep the peace, having within a year been convicted of an assault and battery on his father-in-law, W. E. Philbrick of West Hopkinton. His conduct for some time past in his family is reported to have been unkind.

The First Daguerreotype Likeness.

It is generally believed that the first daguerreotype likeness was taken by the inventor of the art from which others have emanated, and which have now reached an admirable degree of perfection, as was shown at the Philadelphia Exposition.

The idea, however, though very natural, is not a correct one, as we learned from the late Mr. Bowles, of Portsmouth, N. Y.

The first likeness of the kind was taken in New York, by Mr. John Johnson, a native of Saco, Maine. While he was working in the above city, intelligence reached this country of Daguerre's invention, which was designed simply for taking views, and with such knowledge as could be gained of the process, he commenced experimenting, and ere long produced a likeness of himself upon a small, silvered plate.

When the art, at an early day thereafter, had sufficiently progressed to make it a business, with some invention of his own that greatly facilitated it, he made his way to London, where his rooms were visited by not a few of the notabilities of the English metropolis, including Dickens (then at the height of his popularity, and before his first visit to this country), whose pictures he brought with him on returning, after much pecuniary success abroad, to his native land.

Finding that the close application required in pursuing the art was detrimental to his health, he went into other business in New York, which he followed until retiring to his birthplace, a few years previous to his death.—Ex.

Still lives, and so do hundreds of others who have been cured of rheumatism and neuralgia, by the great blood purifier, Sulpher Bitters. Send for testimonials.

—The quiet of a church service in Lewiston was broken Sunday morning by the following exhortation from the little four-year old daughter of the parson — "Say, Miss —, when you'se a goin' to make that bunnet for my doll?"

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, billiousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

—According to the Denver Tribune the ground in Colorado is frozen so deep that the roots of the tea plants in China have been affected.

"G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey was introduced by Chester H. Graves & Sons six years ago, when it was approved by S. Dana Hayes, State Assayer, Massachusetts. It at once established a reputation as a perfectly pure Whiskey, and we learn it has just received a fresh endorsement from the present state assayer of Massachusetts. Leading druggists and grocers sell it.

—"Sir," said a vainglorious actor to Charles Kean at the Brighton theatre during a rehearsal, "you need not trouble yourself about me; I know the play backwards." "Probably you do," was the reply; "but that is not the way I play it."

From Frank J. Pierce, Periodical Depot, 138 Water street, Augusta, Me.

I am pleased to say that two bottles of your valuable Adamson's Cough Balsam has entirely cured me of a cough of nearly a year's standing. I have tried many mixtures during that time without success.

—Senator Carpenter used to tell with much gusto, says the Milwaukee Republican, a remark made by his son Paul several years ago. At a social evening gathering at the senator's house a guest inquired of the boy, "Paul, what do you intend to do when you grow to be a man?" "Well," answered the boy, "I should like to drive a hack, but I suppose I shall have to be a senator."

I have suffered with sick headache all my life, until six months ago. D. R. V. G. Dyspepsia Remedy cured me.

D. Bookstaver, ex-Mayor,

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for the same?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE
Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With my best wishes I remain your respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, the usually are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, degrading, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of the successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. tap3

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, declined to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

Raising Tomatoes.

The easiest and simplest way is to sow the seed in open ground as early as practicable, choosing a sheltered spot with southern exposure. The young plants are set out when danger from night frosts has passed, or late in May. Sometimes good plants come from the natural sowing on the tomato ground of the previous season of good sorts, and as early as any open-ground plants. By either method ripe tomatoes may be had early in August at the north.

Next is the common way of sowing in hot-beds about the first of April, and setting out the plants from this bed at the usual time. This mode will give ripe fruit about a fortnight before the last mentioned mode. Or if there is no hot-bed, the seeds may be sown in a pot or box containing fine mellow soil, and placed near a window so as to have plenty of light. The warmth of a kitchen stove on one side, and the light from the kitchen windows on the other, will bring the young plants forward. It is well to harden them for out-door planting by setting them out in the day time. If you find, when they are partly grown and before it will do to set them in open ground, that they are too thick in the pots, thin them out by transplanting into additional pots.

A still earlier supply of ripe tomatoes may be had by sowing the seed in an earlier hot-bed than above mentioned, rather thickly in the rows. When two or three inches high they are taken up and set out again two or three inches apart in an unoccupied or cleared portion of the same hot-bed; or better, in one newly made. When again doubled or tripled in size by growth, remove them to small pots and plunge these in the soil of the hot-bed up to the rims of the pots. The weather will now begin to grow warm, and they may be easily aired and hardened for open ground. When about to be finally set out, water them well to make the earth adhere to the roots.

The soil for tomatoes need be but moderately rich, but as this is a comparative phrase, as richness varies with localities, it will be well to experiment by trying moderate manuring, or none at all.—Country Gentleman.

An Honest Preparation.

The world is so crammed with swindles that a really honest man or honest thing is almost as scarce as robins in January. Yet Mr. J. H. Northrop, of Lansingburg, N. Y., formerly captain of the Troy police, says Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" is "an honest preparation." And the captain ought to know, for the medicine cured him of liver complaint. It is mean enough to cheat a well man, but to cheat the sick and the suffering deserves a short shrift and a long rope. Whatever sins Dr. Kennedy may be guilty of, misrepresentation of his medicine is not among them. Try it for one dollar, or write to the doctor at Rondout, N. Y.

—When we say of a shiftless fellow that he does not "earn his salt," we allude to an ancient custom among the Romans. Among them a man was said to be in possession of a salary who had his salarium, his allowance of salt-money, or of salt, wherewith to savor the food by which he lived. Thus "salary" comes from "salt," and, in this view of the word, how many there are who do not "earn their salt."

Liebig Co's Arnicated Extract of Witch Hazel. "I consider the best in the market," says Professor John M. Carnochan, M. D. "Has produced more satisfactory results in my practice than any other of the numerous articles in the market," says Professor Egbert Guernsey, M. D. "Cannot afford to be without your elegant and thoroughly satisfactory preparations for a day," says Professor M. W. Noxan, M. D. Hundreds of equally emphatic endorsements from leading physicians of New York City. Cures piles, haemorrhages, catarrh, salt rheum, rheumatism and affections of the eyes. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

—The simplest post-office in the world is in Magellan straits, and has been established there for many years past. It consists of a small cask, which is chained to the rock of the extreme cape in the straits, opposite Terra del Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to open the cask and to take letters out and place others in it. The post-office is self-acting therefore; it is under the protection of the navies of all nations, and up to the present time there is not one case to report in which any abuse of the privileges it affords has taken place.

Physicians' Testimony.

St. John, N. B. January, 1868.

Mr. James I. Fellows, Manufacturing Chemist.

Sir:—Fellows' Hypophosphites being an excellent nervous tonic, it exerts a direct influence on the nervous system; and, through it, invigorates the body. It affords me much pleasure to recommend a remedy which is really good in cases for which it is intended, when so many advertised are worse than useless.

A. S. Eagle, Jun., M. D.

I remain yours truly,

—The son of a clergyman was delivering a college valedictory, when in pulling out his handkerchief he pulled out a pack of cards: "Hullo!" he said, "I've got father's coat."

I have been afflicted with nervousness and dyspepsia, flatus in the stomach and bowels, wakeful nights, etc., for years, until I took D. R. V. G.; that has cured me. Chas. E. Stevens, Attorney, Syracuse, N. Y.

The Czar Reported Slain.

Fatal Explosion.

On Friday afternoon, at the Phenix Boiler Works in Buffalo, N. Y., an old boiler that had been in a tug-boat for eighteen years was being tested, when it exploded, levelling the building, which was one hundred feet long, eighty feet high and forty feet wide. Six men were instantly killed, one of them being one of the proprietors of the works, whose body was torn to fragments and scattered over a wide space. The force of the explosion was so great that the windows of a building nearly a half a mile distant were blown out, while many people in houses in the immediate vicinity were thrown down, tables overturned, windows demolished, and the adjoining buildings shaken to their foundations. The noise of the explosion resembled an earthquake, and was distinctly heard for miles away. A large piece of the exploded boiler was blown hundreds of feet in the air, and went through the roof of the Wells elevator situated nearly 500 feet away; and the dome of the boiler was thrown a half mile distant. Besides the six persons who were killed outright, nine others were injured, of whom at least three will die from their wounds. The pecuniary loss was about $15,000.

News and Notes.

Mr. Gladstone, on going into his house from his carriage after returning from a dinner with the Prince of Wales, on Thursday of last week, fell upon the pavement and injured his head. The English papers say the fall was caused by ice, but whether this was in the street or champagne we are in doubt. Those of us who have dined with Wales know his wines will take a man off his feet pretty effectually.

Samuel Green, foreman of the stables of the Middlesex Horse railroad in Malden, Mass., has been convicted by a jury of cruelty to animals, in causing a horse that was unfit for use to be attached to a street car.

On Tuesday of last week a lot of weavers at Gaza, R. I., got drunk and sailed in to clean out the town. Several people were thumped before officers arrived from Harrisville and arrested five rioters. On the way to Harrisville two prisoners tried to escape; both were shot, but one got away, and the other will recover. The prisoners were tried and fined.

The auction sale of the Evans Rifle Manufacturing company's machinery at Mechanic Falls, Me., on Friday, attracted fifty buyers from New Eenland and New York. The receipts of the sale amounted to $21,000.

A gang of counterfeiters who have been operating for some time, and flooded the country with counterfeit coin, were arrested in New York city last week.

In the Pennsylvania legislature, Friday, an act was reported affirmatively providing for the infliction of corporal punishment upon men convicted of beating their wives or other women.

A large mass meeting of sympathizers with the Boers was held at Chicago, Thursday night. Resolutions were adopted declaring that the English nation were determined to conquer the Boers only because they are naturally free men.

Miss Ann Carney, of Canton, Mass., died last week, it is alleged from the effects of ether administered in a dentist's room in Boston. A dentist in Canton had previously refused to give the young lady ether, on the ground that she was not in a condition to take it without injury.

An official statement published by the insurance commissioner of Maine shows that out of eighty-nine fire and marine companies doing business in that state in 1880, eleven paid out for losses more than their whole receipts in premiums.

John Kerwood of Kansas City, Mo., a printer, went home intoxicated, Friday, and began maltreating his wife. His stepson, Freddie, aged sixteen years, interfered. Kerwood struck him with a poker, whereupon the boy, to save himself and mother from the drunken fury of the man, shot him dead. The boy was arrested.

A daughter of John D. Hayden of New Bedford, sixteen years old, was prostrated while in attendance at a revival meeting in a colored Baptist church on the 4th inst., and remains in a trance-like condition. Her pulse seems to be in a healthy condition, but she is apparently unconscious, except that she is exceedingly susceptible to any sudden noise, which causes her to move in a slightly convulsive manner.

Dr. Orton has introduced a bill in the Ottawa House of Commons, to prevent agents of foreign railways from holding out inducements to persons to emigrate from Canada.

A youthful elopement is reported to have taken place in Sandersville, R. I., Wednesday evening of last week, the enamored couple being operatives in the Harris & Remington mill. The youth bears the name of Sandford King, and is seventeen years of age; Sarah Taylor, aged fifteen, was the maiden. They walked to North Scituate on the muddy road in the drizzling rain, a distance of a mile and a half, where the knot was tied by a clergyman. Then the wedded pair retraced their steps to the home of the husband, whose family it is affirmed were aware of the intended marriage. The parents of the girl are greatly agitated over the matter. She is pretty and ladylike, and has borne an excellent reputation; and King is an industrious youth.

SAWYER'S MILLS.

Foster's Democrat of March 9th, in speaking of the proposition to invite the Sawyers to locate a mill in Portsmouth, after reference to the article in the CHRONICLE of that day says:

From other sources we are informed that a movement is actually on foot in Portsmouth looking to the end indicated. The argument of inducement for the Sawyers is that "their foreign wool could be brought by water and remain in bond" at the custom house until needed for use. It must be admitted that there is plausibility, at least, in this view, and perhaps our Portsmouth neighbors and friends have an advantage in this respect which Dover cannot overcome. But still we must be permitted to doubt it. The same opportunities for freighting by water are open to Dover as are at the command of Portsmouth, and alike have all custom house facilities and benefits. And we don't believe it will cost any more to deliver wool by rail from Portsmouth to Sawyer's present location than it would to truck it from the wharf in Portsmouth to any site in that city upon which new mills could be built. So the water transportation argument is not so very strong and conclusive after all.

As for the tax exemption business, both cities stand precisely alike. Both can exempt if they choose, and it is not probable that Dover will refuse if it shall become necessary to act in the matter. We apprehend no difficulty on that score, and really, with all respect and admiration for the resolution and sagacity of the business men of Portsmouth, and they have one or two men there who have no superiors and very few equals anywhere, and we wish they or their like lived here—Frank Jones, for instance, a host and a city as it were, of himself,—with all due respect, we say, we are not able to see what overwhelming inducements they can offer the Sawyers to extend themselves to that city. We shall no doubt hear more of this subject in the near future, and we shall have more to say.

According to the returns, in York county there are 200,000 cotton spindles humming away every working day, representing a value of $2,857,500. This is 73,000 more spindles than there are in Cumberland and Kennebec counties combined. York county stands second in the state in its number of spindles, Androscoggin taking the lead with 314,366.

Ms. Benjamin Dugin, of Kittery, a few evenings ago lectured at Lee depot, N. H., to a very respectable audience, his subject being "The creation of the world and the generation of man." He is reported as saying that we are living in the latter part of the fifth generation, the sixth to be heralded by the coming of Christ, and the central government to be at Palestine; while those of Christ's followers who have long been expecting his second coming, will soon start on a pilgrimage to that holy land, which under this new order of things is to blossom as the rose, and become like unto the garden of Eden. He touched upon the perihelia of the planets nearest the sun; predicted the coming of the most terrible plague for the next five years that ever scourged the world, sweeping off more than three-quarters of its inhabitants, and also destroying the beasts of the field and the fishes of the sea. Mr. Durgin, it is further reported, announced that he intends to soon start for the holy land; and though admonished by his friends that there are lions in the way he says all these have no terrors for him, for he is "armed so strong in honesty that they pass by him like the idle wind," and go he must to that holy city; for though he is sixty-four years of age he wishes to lend a hand in building up this lovely paradise of the sixth generation of man.

—About one quarter of the Vermont towns elected women as superintendents of schools at the annual town-meetings last week, which shows that men do the voting up that way. Women don't elect each other.

—A certain story reminds the Port Jervis Gazette of an experience with an eminent dominie of Brooklyn, L. I., whom the writer once interviewed while on a paper in that city. We walked into the parlor, and the minister presently entered. "Ah," said he, "you have come for religious consolation. Let us pray." "Oh, no," we said, "it is for the purpose of interviewing you." "Well," he responded, "in that case, let us have a cigar."

Political.

John T. Rich has been nominated for Congress by the republicans of the 7th district of Michigan, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Omer D. Conger. Mr. Rich is a farmer, and has twice been speaker of the house of representatives of his state.

Henry G. Pearson has been appointed postmaster of New York city. He has for some time been assistant postmaster there, and is a son-in-law of Mr. James, late postmaster of New York, and now postmaster general of the United States.

Benjamin Burr, Esq., formerly of Maine, but a resident of the south for many years, has been elected mayor of Port Royal, S. C.

Howard Carroll, the highly imaginative correspondent of the New York Times, will shortly go on a Starin tour through the south. He is to wed Miss Starin, the daughter of an indulgent millionaire. Whitelaw Reid is to marry Miss Mills, whose bank account is said to amount to $1,500,000, and whose expectant possessions are rated at $10,000,000. How the good Lord does favor these wicked stalwart newspaper fellows. There must be some mistake about it.—Boston Post.

Tom Young of Ohio was the only member of Congress who voted against the resolution of thanks to Speaker Randall for fairness, courtesy, and other virtues too numerous to mention, which goes a long way towards showing that Tom is the only republican member who had the courage of his convictions. There was never a more unfair, arbitrary or unpopular man in the speaker's chair than Sam Randall, and voting him thanks, while it may have been according to time-honored custom, was about the silliest kind of self-stultification of which the republicans could have been guilty. They have either cursed him six years without cause, or they beslobber him now without excuse.—Manchester Mirror.

Probabilities for New England:—

Sky clear.

AROUND HOME.

Dr. David W. Cheever of Boston made a professional visit to his native city on Saturday.

Steamer Mystic was engaged on Sunday to assist the schooner Oseo in finding and regaining her anchors.

For cleansing woolens, muslins, flannel, silks, and laces, use only "Dreydoppel's White Borax Soap." Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

Rev. Joseph May of Philadelphia preached at the Unitarian church on Sunday. Mr. May was formerly pastor of the Unitarian society in Newburyport.

Capt. Joseph G. Chambers, whose death at South Boston is announced, was one of the charter members of the South Boston Yacht Club, and formerly commanded a Kittery schooner.

The arrivals of fishing vessels on the 13th were as follows: schooner Grace Choate with 2800 lbs.; Flora Temple, 4000; Breeze, 2500; Mary E. Caswell, 1500; small boats, 300 lbs.

Mr. Sawyer of Newburyport was in town on Saturday, on business connected with the Telephone Co., and measures will be at once taken to extend the lines in different sections of the city.

Charles W. Warren, who was arrested in Boston last week on a charge of larceny of a team, and taken to Exeter, was tried on Friday and discharged, but was re-arrested on a writ of trover.

The concert at the Middle street church this evening, by Mr. S. B. Whitney, organist, and Mrs. Ella C. Fenderson, vocalist, will afford a choice musical treat for all who attend. See advertisement.

A son of Portsmouth resident in another city, but full of appreciating admiration for the home of his ancestors, has expressed a willingness to go upon the local subscription for stock in the new cotton mill to the amount of five thousand dollars, a noble example for those similarly situated to adopt.

A Greenland correspondent says we were in error in stating that all the town officers chosen in Greenland at the late election are democrats. He adds: "The republicans presented no ticket; but they are represented in the board of selectmen and assessors, and very generally supported the mixed ticket put in nomination by the democrats."

Two elegant new passenger cars, being the last of six cars built by the Wason Manufacturing Co. of Springfield, Mass., for the Maine Central railroad, passed through this city on Saturday, en route for Portland. The cars are tastefully built and painted, lined with solid mahogany, equipped with all the modern appliances for safety and comfort, and have among other conveniences the best racks for light baggage we have ever seen.

At the town meeting in Newmarket last week it was voted to raise $1500 to pay the portion of the town's bonded indebtedness maturing during the year; also to raise $15,000 for current expenses, of which $150 is to be appropriated for the public library, fifty per cent in addition to the sum required by law for the support of schools, $1500 for repairing highways and bridges, and the remainder for charges arising in the town. Gay Post, G. A. R., was voted $50 to assist in defraying Memorial day expenses.

Our enterprising neighbor of the Times has a correspondent at Washington who predicts a clean sweep of the office-holders, in this state. This is doubtless the reliable person who so badly sold our contemporary upon the driving snowstorm which raged at the capital during the inauguration ceremonies, but which was seen only in the Times columns.

It is reported that Mr. C. Morris Tredick has leased Commercial wharf to extend his facilities for the fish business. If true, this will necessitate the removal to other quarters of Herbert & Newton and Sargent Lane, fish dealers, who have occupied the wharf the past winter. Another rumor is to the effect that Mr. Herbert will occupy the premises of the late John Dixon.

A building belonging to Mr. Samuel Staples, near Eliot depot, was burned on Saturday morning between the hours of one and two o'clock. It was occupied by Mr. A. F. Wiley for a grocery store, and by Mr. Staples for storage purposes, the latter of whom had at the time twenty-five tons of pressed hay in the building. Nothing was saved from the fire. Mr. Staples had an insurance on the house of $800, and $150 on the hay. Mr. Wiley had a stock of $1500, but was in doubt in regard to the time that his insurance policy expired. Total loss about $4000.

The title to the Londoner (or "Lunging") island, one of the Isles of Shoals, is in dispute, and is claimed by two parties. As the story goes, the island was at one time owned by the heirs of Nathaniel Folsom, who sold it some sixteen years ago to Mr. Thomas Leehee, who paid for it in part, and gave a mortgage bond for the remainder; he not paying anything since, Mr. N. F. Mathes claims the island for the heirs. The other claimant is Mr. Hatch, who advanced Mr. Leehee several hundred dollars, and has leased the property to Mr. Elvin Newton for five years. Further report says that last week Mr. C. Morris Tredick sent three men to take possession of the island, on which are two buildings containing goods belonging to Mr. Newton, and as the doors and windows were securely fastened a forcible entrance would have to be made. A lawsuit for the property seems probable.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, March 12; Batchelder, J.

John Hanscom and Phebe Hanscom were before the court for drunkenness; they were allowed to go on probation, as they promised to sign the pledge.

Jennie Grace, for drunkenness, was fined $5, costs $6.90. Brentwood.

"ENTIRELY ERRONEOUS."

The Boston Globe of Saturday says:

The Globe's Portsmouth, N. H., correspondent pronounces the report sent out from that city by the associated press, Thursday, to the effect that three vessels had gone ashore there or were in a dangerous position, entirely erroneous.

The associated press despatch of Thursday was as follows:

A very severe storm of wind and rain is prevailing off this coast. Three vessels are in distress off this harbor, and a bark laden with cotton is close on Stillman's rock, about 350 feet from shore. The other two vessels are schooners; one is an English vessel, and apparently light. The fourth vessel was driven on the rocks, but succeeded in getting off.

The special despatch to the Globe on the same date said:

Three vessels are in distress near this harbor. A bark laden with cotton is stranded about 350 feet from shore. The other two are schooners, one light, whose names are not known.

If the associated press despatch, which reported a cotton-laden bark "close on Stillman's rock," was "entirely erroneous," how much nearer correct was the Globe's despatch, which reported the bark "stranded about 350 feet from shore?"

A CARD.

Mr. Editor: Though we are reluctant to speak on a subject so delicate, we feel compelled publicly to state that we are fully satisfied that no cause of complaint exists against Dr. Donaldson on account of any member of our family. The disturbance of the mind of our daughter, arising as is now proved from a diseased condition of the brain, and not from any misconduct or fault of herself or of any other person, did excite our suspicions of some wrong; and at the request of Dr. Donaldson, we caused her case to be carefully examined by two eminent physicians, not supposed to be friendly to him. Upon their statement, and from our own observation of the health of our daughter, no doubt remains that every suspicion of wrong was wholly unfounded, and very unjust to her and Dr. Donaldson. We make this statement to contradict the cruel rumors and scandals that have grown out of the subject, and from a sense of justice to all concerned.

Signed { HENRY H. HAM, ELIZA S. HAM.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Capt. Allen, of the barkentine Henry Norwell, takes this method of returning his thanks to Commodore John C. Beaumont, U. S. N., commandant of the Portsmouth navy yard, for the prompt assistance rendered him on the 10th inst. in getting his vessel from her anchorage off Fort Point to a safe berth; and also to Mate John L. Vennard, in charge of the government steamer Leyden, for the coolness and judicious seamanship displayed by him on the same occasion.

A REMINISCENCE.

In the Portsmouth Journal of April 26th, 1845, we find the following, which will be of special interest just now:

PORTSMOUTH STEAM MILL.—So great is the interest taken by our citizens to stir the wheels of enterprise in this town, that in three days of the past week over 50,000 dollars stock was subscribed by the middling interest, for a cotton mill in this town; one individual subscribing $2,000, and no others over $1,000. A like amount of stock has been subscribed for by our more wealthy citizens, and probably much more will be subscribed. These are the preliminary movements; nothing will be matured until the meeting of the corporation.

AUCTION SALE.

The sale of the Chase mansion on Court street at auction on Saturday attracted a very large number of attendants, many of whom were present solely from motives of curiosity. The bidding started at $1000 and ran rapidly to $2000, the competition being between a well-known auctioneer of this city and a real estate operator from Lowell, Mass. Bids of fifty dollars each continued until the price reached $2400, when the advances dropped to $25, and the property was finally knocked down at $2500 to Henry F. Wendell, Esq., who it was stated represented a charitable organization in this city which is to own the estate.

At the same time four-tenths in common of a piece of land on Water street, at the head of Long wharf, was sold at $105 to A. C. Taylor of Lowell.

RETURN OF THE TOURIST.

Oscar Laighton, who has recently returned from a winter's tour in Europe, arrived in Portsmouth on Saturday afternoon, accompanied by his brother Cedric, who has spent the winter in Boston, and both sought hospitable comfort beneath the roof of the Rockingham. On Sunday the Brothers Cheerybie started for the rocky shores of Appledore in the steamer Pinafore, which had been made ready by Capt. Rand for their use. As Oscar rounded Fort Point, and the home of the Lords of the Isles came to view, he with fervent devotion repeated to his brother the lines of his favorite poet—

"Where' er I roam, whatever realms to see,
My heart untravell'd fondly turns to thee."

A CARD.

We print the following communication signed by two gentlemen of high professional standing in our city, although we can hardly be induced to think that any one could attribute to either of them any such motives as it seems they supposed it has been intended to suggest. To those who know these gentlemen and are familiar with their professional and social standing the idea even is propostérous, but lest any injustice should be done we willingly make room for their statement.

Mr. Editor: A communication appeared in the CHRONICLE of yesterday under the heading "Calumny," and if we understand the meaning of that word it was a most fitting term to apply to the lines which followed. Although it contained mere insinuations, it seems to be understood by the public to convey only one meaning, and that is a fling at the physicians, or some of the physicians, of this city. And we also infer that the article above referred to relates in no very doubtful manner to the present scandal which is disturbing the usual social quiet of this city. Now we unfortunately to some extent have been professionally concerned in this case which has caused so much abominable talk, and the most egregious lies have been circulated as to what we have said and done in the matter. And as we shall take to ourselves none of the insinuations, not however because the flimsy coat of "jealous rivals" fits or because we are "vile assailants," our names appear at the close of this letter for the purpose of making a suggestion, which if carried out will it seems to us do justice to the case and place all points and persons in their true light, and give satisfaction to an exacting public. We are as ready as "Justitia" to prevent the downfall of any man or woman, even if it is "Justitia" herself, and as we learn from a communication in the Times of the 10th inst. that "one gentleman against whom the insinuations of your correspondent are supposed to be directed, not only declares himself blameless of any offence but courts investigation," why not appoint a hearing before a committee? let it be of the clergymen of the city if you please, or a committee of other citizens who shall be satisfactory to all parties concerned, and before these gentleman let a full and impartial statement of all the facts be made by all persons who have any facts to state and which relate to this unpleasant business, and allow the conclusions of this committee to end the whole subject and thus vindicate and exonerate the person who claims to have been so basely vilified, or if proved guilty let the public know it, and permit "Justitia" to revel in her divine attributes of "conscious innocence" and "innate purity;" or if deemed proper, let the attorney general of the state, in view of the circumstances, officially investigate the case and determine what shall be done in the premises.

And further we hope that if there are any more taunts or false accusations to be thrown at the medical profession they will be made by some one who has honor and self-respect enough not to be ashamed of his or her name.

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

Woman's Triumph.

The case of Mrs. Edward Myers, of Rondout N. Y., furnishes an apt illustration of woman's power of endurance. This lady had been treated for months in the usual way for Erysipelas of the hand without benefit. Not until the hand had become a mass of putrified flesh, did she turn to Dr. David Kennedy, proprietor of the "Favorite Remedy," for help.

He at once informed her that it was impossible to save the hand—it must be amputated. She received this terrible intelligence quietly, decline d to take ether, stipulating merely to hold her husband's hand during the operation, and underwent the painful process without moving a muscle or uttering a groan. Dr. Kennedy then gave "Favorite Remedy" freely to cleanse the blood and prevent the return of the disease, and Mrs. Myers now lives and rejoices in her great deliverance.

"Favorite Remedy" is fast becoming a trusted household friend in all cases of Female Weakness and diseases of the blood. One dollar a bottle. Your druggist has it.

FELLOWS' Compound Syrup of HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

NEURALGIA.

It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The only satisfactory treatment of neuralgia is by strengthening the nervous system, as no person with strong nerves never suffers from this disease.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

Daily Chronicle.

Put Up or Shut Up.

[From the Manchester Mirror of March 12th.]

As regards our own circulation we have nothing to retract. When we do change the figures carried at the head of our columns it will be to increase and not to decrease. We have held and still hold ourselves ready to prove at all times to any fair-minded man the truth of our claims. In the event of our failure to do so, we stand ready to forfeit any reasonable sum of money for the benefit of any charitable object in this city.—Union, March 12th.

Well, now let's see how ready you are. The claims which you carry at the head of your columns are these:

We claim for the daily Union:—

1. That it is the only morning newspaper published in New Hampshire.

2. That it reaches more towns and post-offices in New Hampshire than any other paper.

3. That its regular circulation is larger than that of all other daily papers in the state combined.

4. That the circulation of the weekly edition is larger than that of any other paper in the state.

THE PROOF.

Personally appeared before me, J. G. Dearborn a justice of the peace for the city of Manchester, Howard L. Kelly, superintendent of the circulation of the daily Union, who on oath deposes and says that the circulation of the Union is now, and has been for the past two months, between 5,500 and 7,200 copies daily, and that the regular circulation of the weekly Union is in excess of 9,600 copies. HOWARD L. KELLY.

Subscribed, and sworn to before me,

J. G. DEARBORN, Justice of the Peace.

We say that every one of these claims is false; that the daily Union is not the only morning paper published in New Hampshire; that its regular circulation is not one-half that of all the other daily papers in the state; that the circulation of the weekly edition is not as large as that of the Concord Statesman or the Concord People, to say nothing of that of the Mirror and Farmer or of one paper published in Dover. We say, farther, that the affidavit of Mr. Kelly, as far it refers to your circulation of this week or this month or this year, is a lie; that you have not printed on any day in this year one-half the number of daily Unions (7,200,) which he mentions; and that you have not got, and have not had in any week this year, 9,000 yearly subscribers to the weekly Union, nor within 3,000 of it. In a word, we say that, with possibly one immaterial exception, every claim and every statement you make in this matter is false. Furthermore, since you are so anxious to contribute to the treasury of some benevolent institution we will give you a chance. We will deposit in any bank in this city which you may name $100 or $200 or $300, and you shall deposit an equal amount with the understanding and agreement, that, if you can prove your claims to be just and your statements to be true, our money shall be turned over to the Firemen's Relief Association and yours returned to you; but, if you are proved a liar and a pretender, your money shall go to the Relief Association, and we shall have ours again. And we will leave it to Hon. Chas. C. Pearson, publisher of the Concord People, Hon. Josiah G. Dearborn, the gentleman before whom your affidavit was made, and Hon. John M. Hill, or to any other honorable and competent democrats in this state, to decide the matter, you of course to give them an opportunity to examine your books and take the sworn testimony of your employes. In short, we will bet for the benefit of the Relief Association any amount you please that five out of the six statements you make as above are downright lies, and we will rest our case upon the verdict of your own political and personal friends. You won't bet of course. Probably you think it's wicked, and certainly you know it is foolish in cases like this, for you know better than we what a preposterous fraud and humbug your "claimed" circulation is; that it was never what it purported to be, and that all the basis of fact it ever had was the giving away of a few thousand papers, paid for by Frank Jones, during a single month of the last campaign.

You say this isn't any of our business. Perhaps not. It wasn't business that we cared to attend to until you poked your nose into ours, and even now we conceile that it concerns your victimized advertisers and readers more than us; but since you have invited us into the work, we propose to show just what an arrant humbug and shameless liar you are. If you think we won't or can't, put up your money and select your referees as we have invited you to do above.

Delicate Ladies!

Who have that tired and all gone feeling, and don't like to be disturbed, will continue to be troubled with this complaint until they renew their impure blood. Sulphur Bitters will cause new and rich blood to course through every artery and vein in the human system. See another column.

The New England brewers, to the number of ten or fifteen, held a meeting at the Quincy house, Boston, on Saturday.

Shrewdness and Ability.

Hop Bitters, so freely advertised in all the papers, secular and religious, are having a large sale, and are supplanting all other medicines. There is no denying the virtues of the hop plant, and the proprietors of these bitters have shown great shrewdness and ability in compounding a bitters, whose virtues are so palpable to every one's observation.—Examiner and Chronicle.

W. W. Colquitt, a brother of the governor of Georgia, seriously stabbed John H. Martin and E. A. McBee in a billiard saloon in Washington, D. C., on Friday. Colquitt fled.

I have been afflicted with nervousness and dyspepsia, flatus in the stomach and bowels, wakeful nights, etc., for years, until I took D. R. V. G.; that has cured me. Chas. E. Stevens, Attorney. Syracuse, N. Y.

TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1881.

The Czar Assassinated.

On Sunday afternoon at about two o'clock, as the emperor was returning from a military parade to his palace, in a closed carriage containing himself and the Grand Duke Michael, and escorted by eight Cossacks, a bomb was thrown under the carriage and exploded, blowing off the hinder part of the vehicle, and injuring several of the escort. The occupants of the carriage immediately alighted, when the man who threw the bomb aimed a revolver at the emperor, but was seized and disarmed. Another man, on the other side of the street, then threw a bomb which exploded between the emperor's feet, shattering both his legs, and fatally injuring an officer of the escort and several Cossacks. The wounded emperor was conveyed to the winter palace, where he died in about two hours. Besides the breaking of both legs, the physicians report that the lower part of his body was badly injured, and one eye blown from its socket. The bombs it is said were of thick glass, filled with nitroglycerine. Both the assassins were arrested. The Grand Duke Alexander was hailed as emperor immediately the death of his father was announced. The late monarch was sixty-two years old at the time of his death.

The Archbishop and the Land League.

The Archbishop of Dublin, in his Lenten pastoral, severely condemns the leaders of the Irish Land League, and says: "Unsound and untheological opinions on the mutual obligations which bind society are being industrously propagated by men who are untrustworthy guides of a Catholic nation." "These men and their agents, to forward their views, were not ashamed to calumniate a diocese whose prelates were formerly the glory of the Irish church, and who were not afraid to warn their people when misled by faulty friends and dangerous advisers. These are the sources whence come the great dangers to our faith. Let us pray to the Almighty that He may scatter the enemies of His holy cause; that His wisdom may direct the counsels of our rulers, and that He may bind together forever the priests and the people."

News and Notes.

A dastardly attempt was made early Saturday morning at Windsor Locks, Conn., to wreck the midnight express for Boston. Just north of the depot an iron, known as a "chair," was forced into a frog, and, owing to its peculiar shape, proved a dangerous obstacle to cross over. The engine passed over the obstruction without dislodging it, and it was not till the foremost sleeper struck the chair, tearing the frog open and forcing the iron from the rail, that the train was safe. No cars were derailed. The train was stopped, and the broken frog and demolished chair removed. The train was running at a speed of forty miles an hour when the obstruction was struck.

At Springfield, Ill., Friday night, by a vote of fifty-six to fifty-one, the Illinois house of representatives defeated the constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within the state.

The Tilestoe & Hollingsworth paper mills at Hyde Park, Mass., were damaged by fire on Sunday morning to the amount of $75,000. The insurance amounts to $45,000.

One man was killed and two fatally injured by a collision of freight trains in Pittsburg, Pa., March 13th.

The Manhattan Club of New York gave a dinner in honor of Gen. Hancock, Saturday evening.

There was another terrible snowstorm in the northwest on Friday and Saturday.

Charles H. Day, agent of the Forepaugh combination, up to Saturday had received 1,132 photographs in response to an advertisement offering $10,000 salary for the services of "the most beautiful woman in the world" in the grand pageant connected with the show, for thirty weeks this summer. A Chicago belle was the favorite up to that date.

New Hampshire Items.

A body taken from the river at Providence, R. I., March 11th, has been identified as that of Webster Kimball of Concord.

Robert Oliver of Nashua, an esteemed boot and shoe manufacturer, died on Sunday from a self-inflicted gunshot wound through the stomach, and laceration of the throat with a razor. He had been an invalid for many months.

City Marshal Stark of Manchester, with a squad of five policemen, raided a faro bank on Sunday afternoon, and captured a full set of implements, including 800 chips, the whole valued at from $300 to $500. Eleven victims were also caught, among them several well-known young men. The deal box was in position and a small sum of money on the tables when the officers broke in upon the game. Three saloon keepers were arrested for keeping open Sunday.

Naval Affairs.

Passed Asst. Engineer J. Butterworth is ordered to the navy yard at Portsmouth, N. H.

The board of naval officers appointed to consider the question has decided to purchase the steam whaler Mary & Helen, for the Jeannette search expedition, for $100,000. The expedition will sail about July 1st.

Col. Thomas Y. Field, U. S. M. C., who was tried by a court martial in Brooklyn last December, was found guilty, and sentenced to be suspended from rank and duty for one year, and to be paid during that time at the rate of $2,250 per year. The court martial however recommended him to executive clemency; and in view of all the circumstances of the case, and of Col. Field's age, length of service, and reputation as an able and zealous officer, the secretary of the navy remitted the sentence of the court. Col. Field has been relieved of the command of the marine barracks at Brooklyn, and placed on waiting orders.

Commodore G. H. Cooper, commandant of the New York navy yard, in a letter to Capt. Henry J. Bishop, U. S. M. C., at that date (March 10th) commanding the marine barracks at that yard, says: "Sir: I take great pleasure in informing you that, in a private letter from Capt. Richard S. Collum, U. S. M. C., who commanded the marine battalion on the 4th instant, when so large a number of troops formed the inaugural procession in Washington city, he states that no branch of the service, either the picked men of our regular army or the citizen soldiery, presented a finer appearance than the company of marines sent from this station, who by their general good conduct when in garrison and their perfection in drill, have won for themselves many friends. It is very gratifying for me to make these facts known to you in an official manner, and I desire you to promulgate the same to the men of your command, in order that they may know how good soldiers are appreciated."

Edward Berry died in the neighboring town of Salem last fall. He was a soldier in the war of the rebellion, and had made an application for a pension, which has not yet been granted. He had been living in an old house, the rent of which was given him. He had some sort of trade at which he worked, but was very poor. At his burial he had hardly rags enough to cover his nakedness, and the coffin was a roughly-painted board box. The town authorities, determined not to support this soldier's widow, induced her to go to Canada. She could get no employment there, and after a few weeks returned to Salem, and applied to the town for help, but was refused.

She then came to Newport, when all the work she could find to do was rough out-of-doors labor in the bitter weather, drawing logs to the steam mill! Finally the "selectmen" sent her to Richford to get rid of her, and the Richford magnates sent her back; and then they sent her to Derby, and the Derby people sent her back, and finally this poor soul, a woman with three small children, whose one friend had given his life in his country's service, in the extreme cold weather of week before last was taken by a kind merchant from the street where she was likely to freeze, and warmed and her wants supplied for the time. As the authorities were determined not to provide for her, a few of the citizens contributed enough money to pay for her keeping a few days, and she has since been provided for.

For a woman with three small children, the oldest not over twelve years of age, with nothing to eat, and clothes insufficient for protection, and nothing to procure any with, to be turned out of doors in the extreme of winter among comparative strangers is hard indeed, and it is not much wonder that it is hard for such victims to believe that this world is ruled by love and justice.

Light Land for Corn.

If the farmers would make the most of their lands, they would adopt the practice of keeping their moist soils successively in grass. These soils, if not wet, but retentive of moisture, are generally more productive than others, and naturally adapted to grass-growing. If wet, they should as a matter of necessity be drained.

But, says the farmer who has followed the old course, how shall I be able to grow my corn, my oats, and other crops on light land, and how shall I prepare moist soils for grass? We reply that the course to pursue with the grass crop is to keep that crop as near the manure as is possible; when the grass becomes so light as not to weigh but a ton or less to the acre, turn over the sod in summer time, soon after haying, work it up well with the disc or wheel harrow, putting in as much barnyard manure or chemicals as can be afforded, and seed down at once to grass. This will give a crop the next year, and two or three succeeding years; then apply top-dressing of chemicals or stable manure, so long as a compensating crop is harvested, when it will be necessary to repeat the plowing and seeding process.

The increased crop, if rightly managed, will enable the farmer to sell more hay, and prove a source of profit, while he may grow his corn on light lands, fertilize with chemicals in part, but mainly with manure, find easier work, a field for machinery, cheaper production, plenty of fodder to feed with concentrated foods, and bushels of corn to sell. He may rotate this crop with clover, sowing such as he can best grow on his soil, and reap an adequate supply, and have an abundance of clover to feed out with cheap hay, straw and stover.

Oats and peas will be an excellent crop for him to sow for rotation on his corn land, and one of the best for feeding stock or swine.

For his potatoes and a few turnips, he will have pasture ground that needs plowing, which will produce not only excellent products, but an abundance, if treated to a dressing of potash salts, or even good ashes. Here, too, when he returns it to pasturage, he may have a grain crop which will not be expensively grown.

In a few words, grow corn on light lands, manure moderately, go over wider areas, use machinery, and grow corn for half its market value.—N. E. Farmer.

How She Stopped the Train.

A day or two ago a lady on a Central railroad train, after depositing numerous bundles in the rack over the seat, hung her umbrella upon the cord connecting with the air brakes. A newsboy passing through the car noticed the suspended gingham, and politely informed the innocent owner that she must remove it.

"What's that string for if it ain't to hang things on?" inquired the old lady, as she dropped the umbrella in the seat. The boy answered in all earnestness:

"It's to call a waiter when you're hungry," and passed on.

Some time after there was vigorous pulling of the air-brake cord, and the train came to a standstill. The conductor rushed up to the old lady, and in a tone of amazement exclaimed, "What's the matter?"

"Bring me a plate of pork and beans," drawled out the ancient female with the umbrella, not in the least aware that she had stopped the train.

AROUND HOME.

The tug Ann came off the ways at Kittery on Monday noon, and was towed over to Jones' wharf by the steamer Mystic.

Some twenty residents of Newcastle have obtained a charter to form an order of the Knights of Pythias in that place, and will be instituted in this city by the officers of the Grand Lodge on Thursday evening.

Tenney has recently completed a finely executed portrait of Mr. J. Horace Jenness of this city, as well as a beautiful painting of a young miss whose handsome features are well delineated upon the canvas.

A disgraceful row occurred on Market street Saturday evening, which lasted over a half an hour, one of the parties getting badly punished. Another fracas took place on Water street, a female being the cause of the latter disturbance.

Steamer Mystic, Capt. H. W. Trefethen, made an ineffectual attempt to secure the anchor of the schooner Oseo Monday, but on account of the easterly blow was obliged to return with the schooner to the lower harbor. Another attempt will be made to-day with C. E. Benson's scow, in tow of the steamer. The anchors are badly fouled in the chains.

Haverly's New Mastodon Minstrels, numbering forty performers, will give an entertainment at Music hall on Thursday evening, the 17th inst. It is announced that everything connected with the show is new this visit, and that the entertainment is fully equal to anything of the kind ever put on the road by Mr. Haverly. See advertisement concerning your tickets.

The two democrats who were nearest President Garfield during the ceremonies of the inauguration, were General W. S. Hancock, U. S. A., and Michael Crowley late of the Portsmouth Heavy Artillery. The latter returned home on Saturday from the federal city, much pleased with his visit, and impressed that Garfield is a man who will make an excellent President.

The fishing arrivals on the 14th inst. were the schooners Julia A., with 1200 lbs.; Josie Johnson, 7000; Water Lily, 4000; George Upton, 1500; Comet, 300; Celia, 3000; Flying Cloud, 3000; John W. Smart, 1500; small boats, 1000 lbs. The Grace Choate brought in a cod-fish two and a half feet long without the head, nine inches through the back, and weighing seventy-five pounds. The Josie Johnson caught one weighing eighty-four pounds.

Of "All the Rage," which is to be played at Music hall to-morrow evening, the Boston Transcript says: "The plot is slight, but the fun abundant. An aspirant for political honor is enraged at the persistent attacks on his character by a young journalist and author, Will Goodwin. He smarts for revenge, and seeks the scribe with a view of chastising him. Goodwin has published a book which is 'all the rage,' and which wins the admiration of sentimental girls, but, being a sensible fellow, anxious to escape the attention they would gladly show, he takes refuge at Long Branch. Here, to gain further relief, he exchanges names with a friend. Here, too, appears a Dr. William Goodwin, a chiropodist, who is mistaken for the handsome writer, and receives all the admiration intended for the junior, as well as a whipping at the hands of the abused candidate, who has hunted him down. The confusion arising from the presence of three men claiming the same name continues for a long while, doctor and editor thinking each other an imposter. After comical scenes a satisfactory explanation of the misunderstanding is brought about."

Fish brought on Monday $2.75 to $3.00 per hundred weight.

The schooner W. B. Keen sold the last of her herring on Monday, and will go east for another cargo of them.

Mr. Walter I. Jones has just returned from Florida, where he spent the winter, and brought with him two live alligators.

Don't fail to try "Dreydoppel's White Borax Soap." Goes further, washes cleaner and is the best and cheapest. Chas. E. Laighton & Son.

The report that the house and barn belonging to Mr. Addison Carroll, on Jones avenue, were burned on Monday afternoon, was caused by the burning of some brush in that vicinity.

Prof. Faulhaber's lecture on the French republic is postponed. The sale of tickets will continue at Mr. Alfred Stavers' furnishing goods store, and the lecture will be delivered next week.

A fish team belonging to Messrs. Randall & Caswell broke down on Vaughan street on its way to the depot, Monday afternoon. Mr. Caswell says he is glad of it, so of course everybody should be pleased.

It was but a few years since that Postmaster General James was a weigher in the same department of the New York custom house with Winslow T. Perkins, Esq., the present station agent of the Easern railroad in this city, and at Dover.

Of "Hazel Kirke," which is to be presented at Music hall on the 28th inst. by the Madison Square Theatre Co. of New York, the New York Post says: "Hazel Kirke, at the Madison Square theatre, is likely to rival Mr. Tennyson's 'Brook' in its capacity of going on forever."

The tug L. A. Belknap left Boston on Sunday night for Portland, having in tow the schooner Dora S. Prindall, light. When off Boon island the weather became rough, and the tug put into this port with her tow, leaving the latter in the lower harbor, and coming up to the city Monday noon.

On Monday morning, Mrs. Ann Gilligan, an assistant in the restaurant at the Eastern depot, when stepping into the door of the refreshment room slipped and fell, breaking one of her legs between the ankle and knee. Mrs. Gilligan is a widow and a very estimable woman, and as she is obliged to provide for herself the accident is truly a misfortune.

One of the fire engine companies of this city, after the close of their last monthly meeting and when only one or two members were in the house, was visited by a delegation of ladies from the Bow Mission temperance society. The gentlemen belonging to the company are noted for their abstemiousness and gallantry, and have invited the ladies to call again when all the members are present.

The Eastern Railroad Co. will soon build a neat engine-house to contain the engine which pumps the water into the tank at their passenger station in this city, and a larger and more powerful pump than the one now in use will be put in. The experiment of running locomotives through on the trains between Boston and Portland has proved satisfactory. Two spare locomotives are kept at the round-house in this city, ready to be sent out at a short notice should an exigency require it. While the run between Portland and Boston is a long one, the engine men have a compensating season of rest, and are becoming accustomed to the change.

The Nautical Gazette of last week has the following in relation to a well known Portsmouth man: "Captain W. G. Shackford, formerly in command of the 'Acapulco,' goes out in command of the Pacific mail steamer 'Cresent City' this trip, his suspension having been revoked. His many friends will join as in congratulating him upon his reinstatement, and wishing him 'good luck.'" Capt. Shackford was suspended some months ago, in consequence of one of the officers of the Acapulco having been detected in smuggling bay oil. Nothing was discovered at the time to implicate Capt. Shackford, and his reinstatement indicates that all suspicion of complicity or culpable negligence on his part has been removed.

MANUFACTURES AT THE WEST END.

In Union street, the new shop of Mr. Thomas Kennedy presents a busy appearance. Here is seen a combination of steam and hand-power in weaving hosiery.

Everyone knows that the "Portsmouth hosiery" has been an article which has commanded a high price in the market because of its quality. Gradually the weavers have, to a greater or less extent, from time to time, disappeared. At one time it was expected that power looms might be built, ingeniously enough devised to do the work so long capable of being done only by hand looms. To some extent this is effected, and in Mr. Kennedy's shops we see both kinds of looms in operation—the power and the hand loom. The power is furnished by a small engine, and the building is heated by steam from the boiler. The power drives a winding machine, and six Pepper power looms for plain stocking-weaving. There are in another room eleven of the old-fashioned hand looms, such as have been in vogue in Portsmouth for many years. Upon these is woven a variety of woolen hosiery handsomely decorated in bright colors, in silk, making a style which has quick sale in the markets of Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. The yarn comes from Rhode Island, and the coloring is done at a place near Boston.

Mr. Kennedy gives his undivided attention to his establisement, which gives employment to quite a number of persons, and turns out a large stock of excellent hosiery, which through his Boston agent is put into the markets. The seaming gives employment to several persons outside the factory, who are glad of the opportunity to perform this kind of labor. Mr. Kennedy was educated to this business by his father, who has recently deceased after a long life during which he was, from his boyhood engaged in this branch of manufactures. The energy and industry of the present proprietor deserves encouragement, and we trust good success will crown his endeavors.

MONDAY EVENING'S CONCERT.

The announcement that Mrs. Fenderson was again to favor Portsmouth with a professional visit gave gladness to many persons; not that there was to be simply a gratification of the sense of hearing, in listening to fine singing of artistic and correct melody, and a fresh and charming voice, but Mrs. Fenderson possesses far above most others, it seems to us, in her vocal powers, something which in our unprofessional condition we cannot describe, but which from the moment she begins to sing goes right to the hearts of her auditors. The language of song has new beauty, and our enjoyment is not of the enthusiastic, demonstrative quality, but is in the rare happiness of heart-felt appreciation of the eloquence of her song, coupled with the knowledge that the gifted vocalist feels what she utters, and knows how to clothe her utterances as with a mantle, in pure and appropriate tone. Such was our anticipation on Monday evening. We welcome the gifted singer not because there is a celebrity attached to her name derived from the execution of difficult and rarely mastered kind of song, but because her singing strikes a chord in our hearts which others rarely seem to touch.

Mrs. Fenderson's selections, as given on the programme, were "The day is done," "O, Salutaris," by Rossini, and "The children's Kingdom," from Blumenthal. Applause does not come naturally from pews. The response is feebler from the nature of the association of the place, and expressions of pleasure are here of course less enthusiatic. Mrs. Fenderson was received with liberal manifestations of satisfaction, and was loudly encored in the first and last pieces. Her singing throughout was rich, melodious and expressive, and she fully sustained the great expectations of the auditors.

The various renderings upon the organ by Mr. S. B. Whitney were enjoyed to the fullest extent. Under his skillful hand the organ seemed to possess new power and become capable of producing sounds to which we are but little accustomed. "Le pre aux clercs," the overture, drew forth hearty applause, which Mr. Whitney appropriately acknowledged. The organ under the masterly manipulation of Mr. Whitney did everything but talk, and we even fancied we heard it once complain that it had not been so taxed since its creation.

The concert was well attended by a highly appreciative audience, and their interest in the various parts of the programme was evinced by the closest attention, as well as the generous evidences of commendation so freely bestowed.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, March 14; Batchelder, J.

Eben L. Chapman, of Epping, was brought up on a charge of keeping liquor for sale, the case having been continued from March 5th. He was ordered to pay a fine of $50, and costs amounting to $17.57 more, which he did. Mr. Chapman will have to put lots of water in his rum for the next six weeks.

BOW MISSION SERVICES.

Their was a very good attendance at the gospel temperance meeting, Saturday evening. Mr. Loyne and Mr. Goss opened the service with prayer; several ladies made remarks, also Rev. Mr. Goss, Mr. Eaton of Kittery, and several other friends of the cause.

Their was also a good attendance at the bethel service, Sunday afternoon. After the opening exercises, which consisted of singing and special prayer for the men of the sea, Mr. Daniel L. Randall conducted the social service. After a portion of the scripture was read, Mr. Randall read a little book which he claimed was very old, entitled "Zion's Bank," making excellent remarks on the same; after which several friends addressed the meeting.

The reform club held a social service Sunday evening, with remarks by a reformed man from Connecticut, and from several members of the club. L.

A Trouble-Maker.

The man-gossip is a most despicable creature—the tattler, the babbler, the tale-bearer, the mischief-maker. And yet some men are so constituted as to have an inordinate, burning desire to repeat what they hear, especially if there is some element in it likely to make trouble. Incautious words uttered in a moment of anger are eagerly caught up by them, and rehearsed in the very place where they will do the most harm. Ever so many pleasant things might be said which would never be repeated. But say a word that may possibly, distorted and disconnected, estrange a friend, and one of these mischief-mongers will carry it to him directly. Such men are a pest to any community. They will do more harm in a day than can be repaired in a year. One may criticise another in the spirit of the utmost friendship, yet if that criticism be repeated it will inevitably sound cold, calculating, and unfriendly. Chaucer says:—

"Who so shall telle a tale after a man,
He moste reherse, as neighe as ever he can,
Everich word, if it be in his cha ge,
All speche he never so rudely and so large;
Or else he must telle his tale untrewe
Or feinen things, or finden words newe."

But this rehearsal of every word, of the circumstances and the explanations, is precisely what your gossip cannot do. The perfume of the rose may fill the air, but for him the bush bears only a thorn. If there be anything which, segregated from its connection, will appear to be prompted by malice, rest assured that that germ will be carried by that gossip to whatever spot it may develop into the most malignant disease.

The Type of a Class.

There is a the man who has made up his mind to keep his health good by eating the right sort of food in proper quantities, and with the right kind of mastication. Resolution sits upon his brow, his eyes turn scornfully upon his fellow-men, and he deliberately and with malice aforethought sits in a restauraunt with superbly folded arms, painfully working his mouth as if he were a type of Samson's celebrated jaw bone engaged in the duty of slaying a bit of brown bread. He becomes a nuisance to his landlady or his wife; he buys a fish which he eats for his brains, and struggles in the morning with harsh oatmeal and sour baked apples, chewing, chewing, chewing, while casting contemptuous glances around at the disgusted people who are not so good and are not going to be so healthy as he is to be. He turns his toes out, abhors butter, and walks on the side of the street which is healthiest. His children receive no candy, and his wife receives only a scolding because she does not live up to the laws of health. He becomes pale, fretful and morose, and says of a healthy man, "He lives for his stomach," while he is dying for his.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale.

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and ere long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to Feminine Cynicisms.

The couples who want children have already grown apart, and hope to be reunited through their offspring.

The ultimate effect of marriage upon man is to make all women appear lovely except her he has married.

How many persons marry the second time to avenge themselves for what they have suffered in their first experiment.

No woman is a heroine unless she have her hero by her side; and the heroism is a pale reflex of the hero's virtues.

The fact that women who wed once and are widowed are apt to wed again only proves the force and the evil of habit.

The brightest idea we can have of heaven comes from thinking that there is neither marriage nor giving in marriage.

Pity is near akin to love, outside of wedlock; inside of wedlock it is another name for contempt, and soon destroys all hope of sympathy.

The way to Hymen's temple is over the grave of love. When a wife has a secret to tell you, be sure it is the uncovered secret that she hates her husband.

The reason a woman is always hopeful is because, never understanding herself, she never suspects that self-knowledge would reduce her to absolute despair.

The sin of Adam and Eve was eating of the fruit of the tree of knowledge, by which they learned for the first time that they were man and wife. After that they lost all capacity for happiness; the charms of Eden were in vain.

One of the greatest faults in woman is her cowardice. She is so cowardly that she cannot or will not appreciate courage in her sisters. This she declares indecency, and so discourages the brave of her sex from showing their bravery.

No wonder two persons feel abashed when they stand at the altar, and promise to love each other forever. They know they could not keep the promise if they would; that they would not if they could. And while they make their vows they are thinking of some delightful way to break them.

William J. Coughlin, of Somerville, Mass., says: "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a violent bleeding of the lungs followed by a severe cough. I soon began to lose my appetite and flesh. I was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the city hospital. While there the doctors said I had a hole in my left lung as big as a half a dollar. I was so far gone at one time a report went around that I was dead. I gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends, thinking that my case was incurable, but I got a bottle to satisfy them, when to my surprise and gratification, I commenced to feel better. My hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have the past three years.

I write this hoping you will publish it, so that every one afflicted with diseased lungs, will be induced to take Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs, and be convinced that consumption can be cured. I have taken two bottles and can positively say that it has done more good than all the other medicines I have taken since my sickness." Sold by all druggists.

Physicians' Testimony.

St. John, N. B. January, 1868.

Mr. James I. Fellows, Manufacturing Chemist.

Sir:—Fellows' Hypophosphites being an excellent nervous tonic, it exerts a direct influence on the nervous system; and, through it, it invigorates the body.

It affords me much pleasure to recommend a remedy which is really good in cases for which it is intended, when so many advertised are worse than useless.

I am sir yours truly,

Steamer James Howard was burned at St. Louis on Sunday evening; loss $75,000.

The Drain of Strength

John Murphy, a boiler maker of Newport, R. I., and Private O'Toole, of Fort Adams, are supposed to have been drowned Feb. 6th, by breaking through the ice on their way to the fort.

Maine News.

Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, billiousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus.

The loss caused by the breaking up of the ice on Republican river, Nebraska, will amount to $100,000. Many bridges were carried away, and manufacturing establishments ruined.

"G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon" Whiskey was introduced by Chester H. Graves & Sons six years ago, when it was approved by S. Dana Hayes, State Assayer, Massachusetts. It at once established a reputation as a perfectly pure Whiskey, and we learn it has just received a fresh endorsement from the present state assayer of Massachusetts. Leading druggists and grocers sell it.

Early Saturday morning a fire in the Cyrus Wakefield Rattan works at Wakefield, Mass., resulted in the destruction of nearly half the buildings, with a large portion of their contents, and a loss of about $200,000. The property was insured about $330,000.

I have suffered with sick headache all my life, until six months ago. D. R. V. G. Dyspepsia Remedy cured me.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE
Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort; and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, in-numbers are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their gripping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of these cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his peculiar system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing testimony from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 41 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

An Interesting Story--A Hopeless Case Cured--A Good Reason for Happiness.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as any in the country.

Since then I have recommended "Favorite Remedy" to others whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints, and, I assure the public that the "Favorite Remedy" has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the "Favorite Remedy," as I did."

Diamond Hunting.

A visit to the Kimberly mine of North Africa in 1871 would have found the field a wide, flat area, surrounded by a ridge of mounds and channelled with trenches of irregular depth with roadways between, where Kafirs and white diggers were busy lifting buckets full of soil, and carting it away to the edges for examination. A year or two later all this was changed.

The roadways have now disappeared, and the deep bottom is like a great buried city, where deep-dug claims by the side of others not so far worked present the appearance of walls of ruined houses. Up the sides of these houses we see ladders and ropes and rows of notches, where the shining skins of naked Kafirs or the white shirts of white laborers may be descried as they are clambering up and down, or busily filling buckets. The buckets are no longer lifted by hand. Power force of the mine is spread a web of glittering wire ropes, and up these the buckets are hauled by Kafirs working at windlasses fixed on the edge of the excavation. On the depositing-ground behind is the sharp-eyed sorter, whose movements have in these days to be watched by sharp-eyed overseers, for the Kafir has no scruple about stealing a diamond.

The town is still a town of canvas and galvanized iron. The structures are all of one story, the richest merchants and brokers contenting themselves in little iron shanties with two small windows and a small central door, and furnished with two or three chairs, or boxes instead, and a single table.

The busy day is followed by a night as busy,—not with work, for that is cast aside as if labor was ended forever, but with recreation and revelry. Along with passengers and their baggage the transport rider—for that is the name of the professional driver of the merchandise bullock-wagon—has brought loads of tinned provisions, among which cans of salmon with American and Canadian labels on them, and latterly St. Louis beef, figure prominently. With these have come inordinate quantities of cases branded "Hennesey" and figured with stars and crosses, and of course the billiard-tables and gambling-boards are ready.

Without law, limit, or license, impromptu bars are set up, and they swarm with diggers, who pay for their drinks with diamonds, and drink their liquors perhaps from tin basins. The canteen-keepers are, of course, among those who make the easiest and largest fortunes. Diggers of the early days who indulged in these revelries will tell you how, when the bar-keeper swept out his place in the morning, he might find half a dozen sovereigns scattered about the earth floor of his place, or how one of the guests might awaken from a drunken sleep to discover that his little bag of diamonds was missing,—a loss which would occasion little alarm, for the landlord would generally restore them untouched.

—A leading resident of Clark's Mills, N. Y., went to Utica with his wife on a shopping tour. After finishing their purchases the husband deposited them in his vehicle and drove off home, leaving his wife in the store, forgetting to take her along.

An Honest Medicine.

J. H. Northrup, of Lansingburgh, formerly captain of the Troy police, writes: "I firmly believe that Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' is a great, good, honest preparation; one that may be depended upon." And this is the testimony of thousands. Capt. Northrup suffered from liver derangement for years, and was cured by Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It is an honest medicine, and sold by all honest druggists at the honest price of one dollar.

The game laws are being enforced in Washington county, Me., with commendable vigor. At Goldsboro last week four men were arrested for killing deer, and bound over to the supreme court. At Machias two Indians were held to answer for the same offence.

Delay is dangerous. Do not longer cling to the old method of curing coughs and colds with rum and molasses, it is a dangerous remedy. Adamson's Botanic Balsam is a sure cure every time, pleasant to take and works like charm.

Thomas Motley, vice president of the Massachusetts Humane Society, called at Lime Rock lighthouse on Monday and presented Ida Lewis, the keeper, with the society's medal in reward for her heroism in saving the lives of two soldiers from Fort Adams, who broke through the ice in the harbor last month while on their way from the fort to Newport, R. I.

"Am delighted with it. I have no confidence in the colorless extracts. A pure article was greatly needed," says Dr. J. J. Youlin, (President Jersey City, N. J., Board of Health and Vital Statistics), of the Liebig Co's Acnicated Extract of Witch Hazel. Cures painful periods, leucorrhœa, female weakness, exhausting flows, sore breasts, and quickly relieves pains of any kind. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 16, 1881.

Vennor's Latest Manifesto.

Prof. Vennor, the Canadian weather manufacturer, writes as follows from Montreal under date of March 10th:

The winter of 1881 is not over yet by any means, and nothing in my opinion could render this more probable than the present term of mild weather. There are yet at least three storm periods in this month, namely, on the 12th, 13th or 14th, on the 16th and 17th, and lastly on the 20th or 21st. The last two periods will give us heavy snowfalls, one of which is likely to be the heaviest fall of the winter. This will be pretty general over a large part of North America, and is likely to cross over to Great Britain. There will be also one more "cold dip" of considerable severity. The month will end with rain and slush.

One of the "storm periods" predicted has already passed without any special disturbance, and the second one must hurry up in order to be on time. We fear that Vennor's weather predictions are no more reliable than the fishery statistics presented by the Dominion government to the treaty commissioners.

Press Comments on the Dead Czar.

He was not only the head of a nation bound to the United States in ties of peculiar sympathy and friendship, but he was a friend of the Union at a time when the Union wanted friends. The world will remember him as the liberator of serfs. America can never forget him as the one sovereign in the time of our civil war who was pronounced and generous in his sympathy for our cause, and now that the shadow of death has fallen on his imperial brow, our sorrow is intensified by the fact that in his loss civilization has not only been deprived of a far-seeing and beneficent prince, but America has lost a devoted and powerful friend.—Herald.

The Nihilists have slain the Czar, but have they not also slain Nihilism? When the shock of horror at their dreadful crime shall have passed away the world will look to see what the Nihilists propose to do, and it will see nothing. Their empty and inhuman creed guides them no further, but they will answer for their bloody work, if not to Russian justice, at least in the loss of the last shred of sympathy with which not a few ill-informed friends of liberty in other countries have regarded their career.—Times.

The Czar, during the last decade, had lost his hold upon the affection of his subjects which he had when an attempt was made upon his life in 1866. The death of the Czar will give the new Emperor an opportunity to prove his assertions that he never would consent to rule Russia as an autocrat.—World.

Americans have no cause to revile him, for he was a good friend to them in an hour of need. He did not break up his father's infamous system of police surveillance and arbitrary arrests, but he did enough—more than enough—to entitle him to the respect and compassion of the world. As for the crime itself and the nefarious plots which have preceded it, there can be only one feeling here and in Europe—utter abhorrence and detestation.—Tribune.

The evil which he did, affecting mainly individuals, may not long survive him, whereas the good this man performed by redeeming from an age-long slavery the bulk of the Russian nation, will long live after him. Long after the constitutional rights which he refused to recognize have been granted to Russia, the world will know the son and successor of Nicholas as the emancipator, and the millions of enfranchised serfs will give him, as through all the turmoil and terror of recent years they have given him the title of "Little Father."—Sun.

The Portland Advertiser thus summarizes the late Czar's efforts and achievements in the cause of Russian liberty and progress:

He became Czar at his father's death in 1855, while the Crimean war was still in progress. After peace was restored, he began by emancipating the nation from the military routine which permeated every branch of the administration. He reorganized the army, dissolved the greater part of the military colonies, freed public instruction from military discipline, and, instead of placing discharged officers as tutors and professors at the head of educational establishments, appointed men fitted by special studies for these positions. He prohibited espionage, and instituted measures against official corruption. He advanced young men in the different branches of the public service, superseding those whose only merit was long routine. He gave a new impulse to industry and trade, at the same time that he sought to develop the national commercial marine and to induce native merchants to extend their relations with foreign countries. He annulled the impediments which prevented Russians from visiting foreign lands; granted a general amnesty to political offenders, Poles and Russians, recalling the exiles from Siberia and allowing fugitives to return, and inaugurated that system of internal communication which is to cover his empire with nets of railroads. His greatest measure of reform, however, was the emancipation of the serfs. He had conceived from his earliest youth the idea of this measure. Their emancipation was decreed March 3d, 1861, and carried out within the following two years. In spite of all these services to the Russian people, he has been hunted down by the Nihilists. For fifteen years, a series of attempts upon his life have been made, and the last has proved successful. His successor will not be likely to err on the side of mercy, if he contemplates simply the fate of Alexander the Liberator.

News and Notes.

Mrs. Hayes' influence has spread to Canada. Mrs. Tilley, wife of the Canadian secretary of the treasury, at her last reception banished the flowing bowl from her table, and her colleagues in the cabinet will do likewise.

At Battle Creek, Mich., Phil Starke, a railway clerk, and Miss Lillie Symonds, a visitor from Madison, Wis., stood up at a social gathering as principals in a mock marriage. When it was all over they learned that they were legally married. Neither was pleased, especially the young lady, who has an engagement to marry another man in a few weeks. The courts will be applied to for a severance.

A Washington correspondent writes that it is now generally believed there that Mr. Christianey, United States minister to Peru, will be thoroughly disgraced by the exposure of a wicked plot to ruin the reputation of his young wife. As the testimony now stands, damaging as it appears on its face to Mrs. Christianey, there are some members of the Washington bar who say that, were they counsel, they would boldly go into court and ask a dismissal of the bill upon it, for the testimony of Giro, a particeps criminis, they claim, would be expunged.

The fresh fish market, owing to the bad weather of the past two weeks, has received but a limited supply, and prices have ruled correspondingly high. In Gloucester, market cod-fish have been 3 1-4 to 3 3-4 cents per lb.; steak cod-fish 4 1-2 to five cents; haddock 3 3-4 cents; hake, cusk and pollock one to two cents per lb. The salt fish market is active. Mackerel are firm, the stock in first hands being very small; No. 1s are $16 to $17 per barrel; No. 2s, $5.50 to $6.50; No. 3s, $4.50 to $4.75 per bbl.

Political.

In the Senate, on the 14th inst., Senator Hill of Georgia undertook to bully Senator Mahone of Virginia into declaring that he would support the democratic side of any question which might come up. Mahone replied to Hill's "bounce" by warmly asserting that he should vote as he should deem best, regardless of the dictation of the democratic caucus; and more than intimated that he should often be found voting with the republicans. Hill howled dismally about treachery to the democratic party, etc., and the republicans are of the opinion that his onslaught upon Mahone has assured the republicans the control of the Senate. Ben. Hill has always been one of the most useful men in the Senate—to the republican party.

Mrs. Mary B. Post has been re-elected town clerk and treasurer of Georgia, Vt. Her husband held these offices nearly thirty years. He died in 1878, and Mrs. Post has acceptably filled them since.

A Darwinian Diversion.

The servant of my grocer, a sharp boy named Joe, told me he had lately seen in the streets a large and handsome pigeon with scarlet-tipped wings, purple tail-feathers, and a small well-shaped comb, like a cock's, upon his head. This was a staggerer—a pigeon with a cock's comb! The freaks of color in feathers might be accounted for, but the comb! No, it was impossible; the columbæ were too widely distinct from the gallinæ. I questioned the lad. He declared it was true, and that he had seen the bird often. He calculated he knew a pigeon, and he knew what a comb was. This was a fine sleek bird, with a knowing look, and not a bit skeery.

If this is true, thought I, I will knock the naturalists endwise. A pigeon with a comb! I must have that bird. I will give him to Mr. Thornbury as a subject for a lecture. He will go back on Darwin, even. I will write to Darwin myself. It will be a favorable opportunity to get an autograph letter; for, of course, the great man will acknowledge my service in the cause of science.

"Joe," said I, "if you can catch that bird in a trap—alive, I mean, and without injury—I will give you ten dollars."

The boy's face brightened with a keen intelligence, and he said, "I'll try."

I visited Mr. Thornbury, and gave him the news. Our discussion was animated and long, but it need not be reproduced here.

I had stipulated with Joe that, in case he should catch the bird, he should take the trap direct to my friend's house.

Meanwhile the pigeon had been seen by many persons, and it was noised about in the grocery and provision stores of the South End that his phenomenal ornaments had excited great interest among savants. Joe had, moreover, expatiated upon his expected reward, and had promised to take his "girl" to the theatre on the strength of it.

When at length Joe made the capture, and started off with the prize in the grocer's wagon, he was followed by a curious crowd. I got the word, and started also. By the time I arrived there were a dozen persons in the front yard. Joe had already alighted with the box, and taken it in-doors.

Mr. Tooke Thornbury, in his best blue coat, and with eyes that gleamed behind his huge glasses, stood waiting for the trap to be opened.

There the pigeon was, as bright a creature as ever was seen, with purple tail, scarlet-tipped wings, and a coral comb. The bird ran about the room without fear, but did not choose to be handled.

Mr. Thornbury's emotion was extreme. "Shades of Hunter and Buffon, of Owen, Agassiz, and Aristotle!" he ejaculated. "Am I too to be one of you—known to after-times as one of the great co-ordinates in science? The Columba thornburyi shall mark a new era in classification. Now we will see if the director of the Stubbs Institute, who has refused to invite me to lecture, will delay longer the acknowledgment of my talents!"

Meanwhile the lively bird kept hopping about, gracefully eluding capture. Mr. Thornbury was unconscious of the gradually increasing audience, as he talked and meditated by turns. The entry and door-way were filled with eagerly curious folk.

There was a slight rustle, then a voice, and quick footstep. A buxom and saucy girl about twelve years of age, in a short dress, and wearing long braids of yellow hair, rushed in, saying, in a tone that was like scolding and crying at once, "I declare it's too bad! Billy, pretty Billy, come!"

She held out her hand, and the bird rose on his wings and alighted on her finger. "There! there!" she said soothingly; "Pretty Billy, kiss me!"

The bird put his bill to the full red lips, and gave an audible coo of delight.

"Now, Joe Saunders," she said, turning to the grocer's boy, "you see if you don't catch it! My pa says there's a law against setting traps for birds in the city. Yes, poor Billy!" she said, caressing the bird again, "they were going to cut you up" (giving a spiteful glance at Mr. Thornbury), "but they sha'n't—no, they sha'n't."

My feelings went through as many phases as the colors of a dying dolphin. There was a pathetic as well as a comic side to the scene. The face of Mr. Thornbury was a study for a picture of vacuity. He was at his wits' end.

I ventured to calm the girl's wrath by admiring her pet. "Those are very unusual colors," I said, pointing to the purple and scarlet tips.

"Oh, I did that," said the girl, gayly. "Papa's carmine ink on the wing feathers, and violet on the tail feathers. Aren't they pretty? Kiss me, Billy!"

"But his extraordinary comb!" gasped Mr. Thornbury.

"Pretty nice, isn't it? I cut it out of red felt. See the nice smooth ridges—just like a real comb! It's stuck well, hasn't it? Fish-glue doesn't soak off. Nice Billy!"

And the pretty lord dandled the ornithological monster up and down, while he clung to his perch on her finger, and now and then fluttered his carmine-tinted wings and spread his violet tail.

"Say good-by to the gentlemen," said the girl, mischievously; and away she went.

There was not much to be said (from a scientific point of view), and I was in haste to settle with the grocer's clever boy and be gone.

I feared that Mr. Thornbury would be prostrated with the shock, but it is singular to observe the elasticity of great minds.—Harper's Magazine for April.

Pushing Advertising Too Far.

"Bless my soul!" said Col. Crawford, last Sunday morning; "This is too bad! Here Bull's Cough Syrup in the Bible!" The colonel took off his specs, rubbed them carefully and looked again. "Yes! here in the 23d chapter of Isaiah, 15th verse—'Over 500,000 bottles of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, &c.' Well, I thought that Bull got everywhere else except in the Bible. Now I'll give it up; it must be a good thing." Mrs. Crawford came in and explained that she had cut the slip out of a newspaper and put it in her Bible for safe keeping, and it had stuck to the leaf. So the colonel was satisfied.—Staunton (Va.,) Vindicator.

This evening, at Music hall, "All the Rage" will be presented, by the same excellent company that played it here last year. It is one of the most amusing of the light plays now on the American stage.

To-morrow evening Haverly's New Mastodon Minstrels will appear at Music hall. The company embraces eight leading vocalists supported by a picked choir, ten end men, thirteen clog dancers, fourteen song and dance artists, and a grand orchestra.

A suit has been entered against the city, returnable at the April term of the supreme court, by Mrs. Marion L. Odion of Rye, for personal injuries alleged to have been caused by slipping on an icy sidewalk on December 8th, 1880. A second suit by her husband for the loss of her services is said to be forthcoming.

It is not long since a man sailing in a vessel fishing out of this port was convicted in the police court of stealing fish from trawls belonging to other boats, and fined. Considerable evidence has been accumulated against another vessel from this port, and another trawl robber is quite likely to be brought to justice.

Rev. Chas. Earl Preston, (anti-ritualist) of Boston, did not deliver his lecture, "Paganism not abolished in the Roman empire or the Christian world," on the 14th, as announced by the Boston Herald, but will deliver it this (Wednesday) evening at the Advent church, Hanover street, at 7:30 o'clock. A special invitation is given to churchmen, other Christians, and the public in general, to attend.

The schooner Loella, Capt. Amee, came into the lower harbor last week from Smuttynose island, where she had taken on board a partial cargo of fish, oil, etc., shipped for Boston by Mr. Lemuel B. Caswell. While in the lower harbor the schooner took on board four hundred bushels of potatoes, shipped by Jesse E. Frisbee of Kittery Point; and the weather appearing favorable, she started for her destination on Tuesday.

A horse belonging to Mr. Manuel Silver ran away from near Mechanics' block, Tuesday afternoon, up Islington street, and after taking a turn through several streets was stopped on Congress street, unhurt. The hind wheels of the wagon were left on Cornwall street, the principal part of the body on Hanover street, near Vaughan, and the shafts and forward wheels were found with the horse, the vehicle being completely wrecked.

Hon. Uri Lamprey died at his home in Hampton shortly after noon on the 15th inst., at the age of seventy-two years. For many years he has been one of the most prominent leaders of the democracy in his section of the state.

The steamer Fearless, which during the summer runs as a ferry boat between Portsmouth and Kittery Point, was towed up from the point on Tuesday by the steamer Mystic, and went on the ways at Kittery to receive a new propeller and any other improvements necessary to put her in first-class condition for the summer's business.

The "brickers" will shortly be under weigh again. The schooner Satellite, Capt. Adderton, which has laid up at Portsmouth bridge during the winter, will shortly load bricks at Eliot for Boston, and bring back a general cargo for the Burnham place, Gerrish's island. The Hattie Lewis, Capt. Garland, which has wintered alongside the wharf at the Raynes shipyard, it is reported will go up river for a cargo on the 21st inst., and the Emily A. Staples, Capt. Coleman, will start from Boston for this port on the same date.

It has been finally decided that the Ocean Park Association will locate at Old Orchard. Mr. B. F. Haley, of Newmarket, N. H., the treasurer of the association, was in Saco on Monday and took the deeds of the land.

Charles B. Franklin, alias Clark, the fellow who hired of Knight Brothers, livery stable keepers of North Berwick, a horse and sleigh which he did not return, has been held in $500 for trial, and lodged in Alfred jail, in default of sureties. The Messrs. Knight traced their team to the auction room of Moses Coleman in Boston, where it was sold, but up to the present time have only recovered the whip that was stolen with the team.

Two yoke of oxen belonging to Mr. David Perkins of Kennebunk were drowned at Milton, N. H., on Saturday last. The team was in charge of Wm. Perkins of Kennebunk, and was engaged in logging. In attempting to cross a pond with a load of logs, the team—oxen and driver—found themselves struggling in the water through the breaking of the ice; Mr. Perkins succeeded in getting out, but all efforts to extricate the cattle were unavailing.

The municipal election in Biddeford was held on the 14th inst., and was quite an exciting one. There were three tickets in the field,—the republican, democratic, and "citizens' ticket," the latter being run by some of the extreme temperance men in an endeavor to defeat the republicans. The republican candidate for mayor, Mr. Elisha E. Clark, received a majority of 135 votes over all other candidates. The republicans carried five wards of the city, there being no choice in two wards.

Mr. John Tobey, who for ten or a dozen years past has carried on the lobster-catching business at Bra' Boat harbor, Kittery, has sold out to Messrs. Samuel Black and Alexander Black, who have removed the building, cars, boilers, pots, etc., to Sea point, Gerrish's island, where the building has been placed on land belonging to Mr. George Patch. The Messrs. Black will go into lobster fishery quite extensively. Mr. Jesse Riley, of the Bra' Boat harbor district, lost a valuable cow last week, the animal dying of horn-ail.

Nick Goodall and his violin! Who does not recall this eccentric, unmanageable, unbalanced man, who a few years since appeared in our city and remaining many days, astonished public and private circles with his wonderful executions on the violin, evoking such music as only the hand of a genius could? Alas! poor Goodall, the weak-minded, has played his final chord, and is dead, breathing his last in the insane asylum at Watertown, N. Y., a few days since. None but one who knew him well, could photograph his life of oddities; yet strange, uncouth being that he was, his was the hand of genius that touched the very soul of the violin, and the many who heard the poor fellow in this city will not soon forget his delicious transcriptions from the most eminent of composers. The musical circles of Watertown as well as the citizens generally did nobly and well for his support for his remarkable music on his violin, and on his death contributed liberally for a very respectable burial, providing a nice casket and shroud. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Danker, D. D., the rector of Grace Episcopal church, and a procession of 400 persons escorted his remains to the city vault, eager to look upon the face of the great musician.—Journal.

RYE, March 14th.

Town meeting passed off without any disturbance, and with only two ripples to indicate any opposition to the powers that be; but if dire threats made on that day are not forgotten in a year's time, there may be at the next annual gathering of the yeomanry an uprising which will hurl from their seats some of those who were lucky enough to get the prizes this time. The bones of contention were, the office of selectman from the east part of the town, and the town clerk.

At the democratic caucus the fortunate one for third selectman was nominated by one majority, and the friends of the defeated candidate claimed that it was done by republicans voting for him, which undoubtedly was the case; but as the chairman of the caucus did not refuse their votes, and no one challenged them, it was perhaps all right, although it is not customary in this town for republicans to help the democrats nominate their candidates, though they frequently help elect them, as of course there is no hope of ever electing one of their own party. At the meeting Tuesday there was a split, and the republicans ran a candidate, and made things so close that the gentleman chosen received exactly the number of votes necessary to elect.

For town clerk, the gentleman holding that office and who had only been its occupant one year, was summarily thrown overboard at the caucus; and although his name was before the meeting election day, he failed to receive many votes, and the regular nominee was chosen.

The West school closed Friday after a very successful term. The East and South schools have also finished their winter terms, and the Centre school is the only one open at present.

School meetings will soon be held in all the districts, and besides choosing prudential committees, there will be brought before the west district the subject of raising money to paint their school house and making some necessary repairs. At the south district they usually have very animated meetings, caused undoubtedly by the fact that the bulk of the culture and wealth of our town lies in that favored locality; and if they, having such an advantage over the rest of the town, can't have a better looking schoolhouse than they have got, they had better go outside with a subscription paper, and solicit a little aid from their less fortunate neighbors. A school district that furnished three superintending school committees, (all the town thought it could support comfortably last year,) and has one in reserve to bring forward in a case of emergency, ought to feel proud of that elegant pile of brick and wood which ornaments a portion of the highway at the south end.

There has been no complaint of lack of water either in wells or cisterns, for two weeks past. The drought is evidently ended for the present. The snow is disappearing rapidly, but there are still places where the tops of the walls are as yet invisible. The mud is plentiful, and travelling anything but agreeable. The blue birds and robins are probably waiting in their southern homes until Venor's big snow storm has come and gone, and the voice of the frog is still hushed.

NAT.

—Two country spinsters were stopping at a friend's house in Boston, after their return from a scientific lecture. They occupied the same apartment, and shortly after midnight one of them started up, and awakening the other, exclaimed in great trepidation, "Betsey, I believe there is a man under the bed!" Betsey merely raised her finger in an admonitory way, and replied: "Don't make a noise then, Jane; you might scare him away."—Brooklyn Eagle.

NEURALGIA.

It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

A Paper Railroad.

When Cheyenne was at the zenith of its glory a sign of "General Offices of the Cheyenne, Pacific Slope and Sandwich Islands Railroad" was hung out one morning without creating the least surprise. If one person had asked another where the depot of said railroad was there might been some hesitation about answering; but it was some time after the sign was out before any special inquiries began to be made. Then an eastern man walked in one day, carpet-bag in hand, and said:

"I suppose you connect at San Francisco with the regular steamers?"

"Well, yes; I suppose we shall," was the hesitating reply.

"Shall? Isn't your road through yet?"

"Well, not quite."

"Do you take in Salt Lake?"

"Salt Lake? Yes, I think we do?"

"How much for a ticket?"

"Can I get one at the depot?"

"Well, I think not; we haven't any depot yet."

"Can I pay on the train?"

"I suppose I can walk on the track," persisted the stranger.

"Well, I should have no objection if we had a track."

"Well, you see, it's only on paper thus far, but as soon as we can sell $8,000,000 worth of stock we shall begin grading, and rush business right along. If you happen to be along when we get to going, we will put you through as low as any other responsible route."

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured to the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With it be best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 45 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended "Favorite Remedy" to others whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and, I assure the public that the "Favorite Remedy" has done its work with a similar promptness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the "Favorite Remedy," as I did."

Daily Chronicle.

Limited Development of Great Abilities.

Judge Nathan Crosby, of Lowell, in his memoir of the late Judge Wilde of Massachusetts, speaking of the graduates of Dartmouth college who have been satisfied with limited results, without full development of their powers, says:

Had Daniel Webster taken the clerkship his father so affectionately procured for him, and which he at first was inclined to accept, and but for Mr. Gore's advice would have accepted; or had he continued in Boscawen, where he first nailed up his sign, and where he might have won the approbation of his friends and neighbors instead of meeting the special pleas and more special arguments of Jeremiah Mason, we might not have gloried in him as we have had such proud occasion to do. Ezekiel Webster, the beloved brother of Daniel, took Daniel's office in Boscawen, and settled down quietly upon a country practice, with a mixture of husbandry, land mortgages, town offices, care of the academy, and domestic cares and pleasures. There is full evidence that these two brothers, though good scholars in college, had not the pride of scholarship of Mr. Choate and scholars of his time, when the first appointment for the graduating commencement was the first great ambition and event of the scholar's life. Daniel Webster, though as good a scholar as any in his class, had no appointment, and Ezekiel received his degree while absent teaching school in Boston. With great talents, great power of acquisition, great love of books and learning, their home in labors, country habits, and social life had little tendency to awaken in them, thus early, great expectations beyond earning money enough to repay the expenses of their education, and a competency to maintain a family in the style of good society of the time. Mr. Gore stimulated Daniel, upon his admission to the bar, to make a mark above country practice, and plant himself at once in Portsmouth, lest his great promise of success should be "lost or defeated" by delay. He went to Portsmouth, and lost no opportunity for professional success or political elevation. Ezekiel remained in Boscawen, a careful attorney, a manager of affairs, growing in wisdom and power, but lost no opportunity to make money, and diffuse among his neighbors social, domestic, and agricultural elevation. Distinguished and growing lawyers then followed the courts from county to county—"rode the circuit," as it was called; and Daniel rode the circuit, meeting at every court the strong men of the county in all the varied sharp practice of the profession. His great personal address and magnetism, his forensic power and grace, soon gave him marked distinction, opened the halls of congress to him, and invited him to Boston. Mr. Mason, before him, had practised awhile in Westmoreland, N. H., then Walpole, before he ventured into Portsmouth, and after twenty years' practice removed to Boston, where he died. Mr. Webster said of him, "If there be in the country a stronger intellect, if there be a mind of more native resources, if there be a vision that sees quicker or sees deeper into whatever is profound, I must confess I have not known it, and I have not written this paragraph without considering what it implies." Again he said, "I am bound to say that of my own professional discipline and attainments I owe much to that close attention to the discharge of my duties, which I was compelled to pay, for nine successive years, by Mr. Mason's efforts and arguments at the same bar, in the constant displays of that power I had so much occasion to see and feel." Ezekiel had no such flint of rivalry, to strike fire from the steel-like sturdiness of his natural ability. I am quite glad, alumni, of this opportunity to give you Mr. Webster's opinion of his great associate in the Dartmouth college case.

Mr. Fletcher, of the class of 1806, removed his office from Salisbury, N. H., to Boston, and there found a field and honors equal to his talents and ambition. Mr. Choate (1819) also started an office in Danvers, and then stopped awhile in Salem on his way to Boston. But Parker Noyes, of the class of 1796, seven years after Judge Wilde in college, after practising two years in Warner, dropped down into the office of Thomas W. Thompson, whose pupil he had been and whose sister he had married, when Mr. Thompson removed to Concord. Mr. Thompson, graduate of Harvard, 1786, three years earlier than Wilde, became a lawyer and a statesman of great eminence in New Hampshire, and was a trustee of our college twenty years. Mr. Webster read law in part in his office in Concord. Mr. Noyes was a son of a clergyman in South Hampton, N. H., who was probably settled for life, and must have given to the son the almost universal sentiment of the time, that lawyers, doctors, and merchants should hold their places also for life, as did the farmers and mechanics. Mr. Noyes quietly occupied his small office in his front yard, was a great student in his profession, obtaining great local reputation as a lawyer, and refused a seat on the bench of the supreme court of New Hampshire. He was courteous, affable, argued his causes to court and jury with great logical clearness and brevity, was winning in address and persuasive in illustration—in fact, he exhibited such mild eloquence, inflexible integrity, and great learning, that he rose to the leadership of the Hillsborough bar, and was equal to the highest demands of the profession in any court of law. He passed away with local honors, without a deserved doctorate. Mr. Joseph Bell, of the class of 1807, opened an office in Haverhill, and remained there to the age of sixty, when he removed to Boston in expectation of professional rest from country practice, and to receive more select and important legal matters arising out of the great interests of large capitalists, commercial men, and manufacturers; but increased illness and death terminated his expectations in four years. He was also long a leader of the Grafton bar. He was a man of powerful physique, fine personal bearing, athletic, with a strong voice and nervous action, impressive and tenacious in the conduct of his causes, a severely diligent student and worker in his office, cordial, and respectful towards his brethren and the court. He possessed personal accomplishments, thorough learning, and professional skill to have placed him among the first lawyers of the city of his new home. Had he carried into effect his much earlier purpose, to seek a larger field of professional service, the highest honors had been within his reach.

Workingmen.

Before you begin your heavy spring work after a winter of relaxation, your system needs cleansing and strengthening to prevent an attack of ague, bilious or spring fever, or some other spring sickness that will unfit you for a season's work. You will save time, much sickness and great expense if you will use one bottle of Hop Bitters in your family this month. Don't wait. — Burlington Hawkeye.

An adopted child of H. B. Dockham, of Laconia, was drowned in the bay on the 9th inst. He was sliding on the crust, and lost control of his sled, which carried him over the bank into the water.

The Czar's Murder.

One of the chief organizers of the fatal attack upon the Czar was arrested March 11th, previous to the explosion. He has confessed his complicity in the deed, and denounced Roussakoff as an accomplice. The latter is the man who threw the first bomb. The man who threw the second bomb was killed, and Roussakoff, on being shown his body, recognized him as his accomplice. The house from which the bombs were obtained was discovered by the police, whereupon the only male occupant shot himself. Another young man was arrested as he attempted to enter the house, but not until he fired a revolver six times, and wounded three policemen. In the house were found a number of grenades, and a proclamation stating that the assassination had been accomplished by two persons. Roussakoff, the thrower of the first bomb, is a thick-set, short-necked, repulsive-looking man. He is very stubburn in refusal to reply to any questions. He is uninjured.

News and Notes.

The Maverick National bank, of Boston, buys and sells all kinds of United States bonds.

The committee appointed by the Chicago board of trade to investigate the charges regarding hog disease, report that the swine of the west are free from trichinosis. The report is carefully made up by men specially detailed on account of their high standing and competency. The scare is entirely groundless.

Franklin E. Barnes of Sutton, Mass., has been arrested for making preparations to burn his house. He had moved and concealed his furniture, and fixed kitchen places with shavings and kerosene. Sylvester A. Stockwell was arrested for assisting him. Barnes was held in $8,000, and Stockwell in $5,000, to appear before the grand jury.

James Nolan of Marine, Minn., supposed to be insane, shot and killed his wife on the 14th inst. With two shotguns and a revolver he afterward kept the whole population of the village at bay, until officers arrived from Stillwater and arrested him.

John O'Neil, aged thirty years, shot himself dead in presence of his wife at Taunton, Mass., on the 15th inst. He was secretary of a co-operative association for three years up to the present year, and the discovery that he was a defaulter to the amount of $2216 led him to take his own life.

Edward Murtha of Lowell, Mass., was arrested March 15th for knocking down and robbing Mary Kerrigan in her own house.

Brevet Brig. Gen. Emery Upton, U. S. A., shot himself through the head while in bed at at his house in San Francisco, Cal., Monday night, the 14th inst., and was found dead next morning. It is supposed that grief at the death of his wife caused the act. He was the author of "Upton's tactics."

One of the most famous of English jockeys has just died in the person of Henry Constable. He was only twenty-eight, but headed the long list of whining jockeys, and in a single year—1873—he won 109 races. Few persons inexperienced in turf matters understand what is the wear and tear of the popular jockey's life.

A Panama letter states that a protocol has been entered into which will put the De Lesseps canal enterprise absolutely under American control.

Naval Affairs.

Commander Mortimer L. Johnson has been detached from the command of the Ashuelot, on the Asiatic station, and ordered to return home on the report of his relief.

Capt. Henry J. Bishop, U. S. M. C., has been ordered to command the marine guard on board the Colorado.

The Kearsarge arrived at Mobile on the 10th, from New Orleans; she was unable to get near the city, and was to have sailed for Havana on the 14th.

A Big Swindle.

At St. Louis, Mo., March 15th, Robert L. Lindsey, a prominent lawyer and investigator of titles, was arrested on the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government out of lands by uttering false deeds under fraudulent titles. The operations appear to have extended over a period of many years, commencing prior to 1860, and it is estimated that from three to four million acres of lands in Wayne, Butler, Shannon, Ripley, Oregon, Carter, Reynolds, Dent, Iron and other counties in southeastern Missouri are involved.

Political.

The Maine legislature on the 15th inst. elected William P. Frye to the United States Senate, by a vote of eighty-two to fifty-three in the house, and twenty-three to five in the senate. The two houses met in convention on the 16th, and declared the result.

Congressman Townsend says "Mr. Robert Lincoln is really an able man. He is forty-two years of age, very good looking, commands a large legal practice, is highly respected by all who know him, genial in temperament, and is paid $15,000 yearly by one New England insurance company alone for transacting their law business. He has the reputation of being a very able lawyer."

New Hampshire Items.

Gen. J. N. Patterson, United States marshal for New Hampshire, received on the 11th inst. from the department of state at Washington a copy of the act authorizing the removal of the United States courts from Exeter to Concord. By the provisions of the bill the district courts will be held on the third Tuesday of June and December, and the circuit court on the 8th of October.

The warm, pleasant weather is rapidly wasting the snow in New Hampshire. The rivers are breaking up, and travelling is very bad. Logging and wood drawing are nearly done. Sugar making has opened well.

The Corbin Banking company of Boston offer to investors, in our issue of today, the first mortgage bonds of the Danville, Olney & Ohio River railroad, which is located in the richest portion of central Illinois, and has exceptional advantages in its franchise. These bonds have a long time to run, and return to investors a high rate of interest, while the amount issued per mile is extremely small.

Hay for Hogs.

Very few are aware of the fact that hay is exceedingly beneficial to hogs, but it is true nevertheless. Hogs need rough food as well as horses, cattle, or the human race. To prepare it, you should have a cutting-box, or hay cutter, and the greener the hay the better. Cut the hay fine, and mix with bran, shorts or middlings, and feed as other food. Hogs soon learn to like it, and if soaked in swill or other slop food, it is highly relished by them. In winter use for hogs the same hay you feed to your horses, and you will find that while it saves bran, shorts, or other food, it puts on flesh, as rapidly as anything that can be given them.

Wanted the Money.

A story is told of the effect of an attempt to drive a sharp bargain with a wood-sawyer in Chicago. The old man stood near a stove rubbing his hands, and shivering with the cold. He was grumbling, and this is what a listener heard him say: "There was two cords in the pile, and two cuts in it. Spected to git my money prompt. Wants me to take a receipted pew bill for two months advance preaching. Bah! What do I want of preaching? Why, I ain't been inside of a church for forty years. Besides all that, thar ain't no certainty I'll live two months. Bah! I want the money."

—A man who said that he had spent all his money on gambling, requested a St. Louis judge to send him to jail for a few months until business picked up a little.

The telegraph informs us that Postmaster Peirce was nominated for re-appointment on Wednesday.

The Times says "Gov. Bell has appointed April 7th as Fast Day." We had previously been under the impression that Natt Head was governor.

Mr. Charles Akerman of this city, who has been in the grocery business in Great Falls for the past two years, will return here and open a store on Daniel street.

A large lot of ashes is being removed from beneath Mrs. Fonda's millinary store. The pile has been accumulating for nearly twenty years. Twenty large loads have already been removed, and about as many more remain.—Times.

The fish arrivals on Wednesday, the 16th inst., were the schooners Addie & Hattie, with 2600 lbs.; Water Lily, 3500; Christie Campbell, 8000; Dart, 4000; Flora Temple, 5000; Helen F. Tredick, 2500.

A big coach, patterned after the old-fashioned stage coaches of the long ago, arrived in this city by one of the morning trains on the 16th inst. It is to run between this city and the hotel Wentworth at Newcastle during the season of summer travel.

The ship Wm. H. Marcy, on her late passage from New York to Liverpool, encountered a furious gale which lasted three days, during which her sails were mostly blown to pieces and her masts badly strained, decks swept, etc. She is now in dock at Liverpool, undergoing a general overhauling and repairing.

Messrs. Ayers & Locke announce their spring opening to take place this day, March 17th, when they will open a very large stock of desirable dress-goods, both foreign and domestic. They tell us that owing to the very light importation of foreign goods it will be to the advantage of all purchasers to make their selections early. Their advertisement appears in another column.

The daily South Florida Citizen, published at Apopka City, Florida, reports more northern visitors at Jacksonville, Palatka, Maitland and other places in Florida this winter than ever before. The same paper speaks in most complimentary terms of Capt. John L. Amazeen of this city, master of the steamer George M. Bird, one of the boats of the Merchants' Line on the St. John's river.

The adjourned parish meeting of the North church was held on the evening of the 15th inst., when the committee on music appointed at the previous meeting made a report, which was not adopted. It was voted to appropriate $200 for the salary of an organist; $75 for the salary of a musical director, if it was thought proper to employ one; $10 for the services of an organ-blower. Mr. Edwin A. Tilton, who had been acting as organist for several weeks, declined to take the position permanently at the salary offered.

A singular accident happened at the Eastern railroad wharf on Tuesday of this week, in discharging cotton from the barkentine Henry Norwell. The gin, a part of the hoisting gear which is fastened to the wharf about six feet in front of the engine house, flew upward, tearing away the platform over the door and raising the roof of the house about three inches; and the engine, weighing five tons, was moved from its position six inches. Had the gang been discharging at the time from the fore hatchway, there would have been a loss of life. As it was, a general scattering of all hands took place.

C. E. Walker & Co., at Pier wharf, and J. Albert Walker, at Concord railroad wharf, are each to put an engine on their premises for sawing firewood.

Capt. Horatio W. Trefethen, of the steamer Mystic, who was so successful in the cultivation of the trailing arbutus the past winter, has received letters from florists in several cities asking for information as to his mode of treatment of the plants.

The buoys which are commonly used in Norway and Sweden on cod-fish nets are made of what is called, "puffon peel," or the bark of the puffon tree, a species of the pine. They are hollow, and do not absorb water the same as the wooden or cork floats, nor do they fill from great pressure in deep water as is oftentimes the case with glass balls. The schooner Grace Choate has them attached to one of her nets, and the result seems favorable to their general adoption.

The "Galley Slave" will be performed at Music hall on Monday evening next. This is certainly one of the best—the best, in our opinion—of Bartley Campbell's numerous dramatic productions. Throughout the entire piece the plot is admirably sustained, and the sentimental and amusing so nicely balanced that sympathy with the misfortunes of the high minded hero never becomes painful, while the interest to know how it is all going to turn out never flags. The person desiring an evening's pleasure can find it at Music hall next Monday.

Major David Urch, who has been in Washington for several days on business with the patent office, was informed on Tuesday, the 15th inst., by the commissioner of patents, that letters patent will be granted on his marine bycicle at once. The major's rooms at the Waverley have frequently been thronged with members of the Arlington and Capital bycicle clubs, so interested have they become in his unique pleasure craft, a four-foot-model of which the major took to Washington with him. He has received several orders from parties in that city for boats to be sent on early in the season, and will commence manufacturing extensively on his arrival home. Major Urch was fortunate in his selection of attorneys, Mason, Fernwick & Co., the oldest firm doing business in that city, and said to be the most successful. The description of this bycicle (and by the way it has been wonderfully improved since last season) filled four pages of foolscap, closely written. The devices and combinations claimed as new number sixteen, and were filed on Saturday, reached the examiners on Monday, and passed on Tuesday. Quick work. We congratulate the major on his good luck.

MEMORIAL DAY.

At a meeting of Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R., held on Wednesday evening of this week, Commander William H. Smith appointed committees on Memorial day observances, as follows:

On Invitations—Daniel J. Vaughan, J. Horace Kent and William H. Lovell;

On Flowers—Robert E. Rich, James R. May, John H. Hutchinson and Reuben Gilpatrick;

On Evening Exercises — Marcus M. Collis, John W. Parsons, John H. Locke and J. F. Hall;

On Procession, Route, and Ceremonies at Cemetery—Adolph Nelson, George E. Hodgdon and James E. Ford;

On Printing—Oliver M. Knight and D. Webster Barnabee;

THE "CITY BOOK."

The bids of the several printers for the printing of the city accounts were opened on Tuesday evening of this week by the committee on printing, and Mr. Lewis W. Brewster was found to be the lowest bidder, and the job was consequently awarded to him. The several estimates were as follows:

A. A. Hanscom, (Daily Times,)	$225
Oliver M. Knight,	215
Charles W. Gardner,	205
Lewis W. Brewster, (Journal,)	168

Hitherto this job of city printing has been estimated for by the page. This year it was resolved by the committee to discontinue that custom, and specifications were issued and the work bidden for in the lump. The price paid to Mr. Brewster last year was about $250.

AT MUSIC HALL TO-NIGHT.

This evening, at Music hall, Haverly's New Mastodon Minstrels will give an entertainment. People have got accustomed to look for something first-class of its kind, whenever an entertainment is announced to take place under the management of Mr. Haverly; and unless the press reports everywhere are gross exaggerations, the New Mastodons are even superior to the old company, which is now on a tour through Europe. From a mass of commendatory notices we have room for only the following, from the Free Press of Detroit:

In every essential, the company excels the United Mastodons, now in Europe. The programme was hailed with shouts of laughter. The merriment was almost continuous from curtain to curtain. It was early seen that Manager Mack has undertaken to lift the performance of this company out of the rut, notable in the first part, when he has introduced the merry, jingling music of the Bells of Cornville. The first part was handsomely set, and the silk plush coats, navy blue trowsers and patent leather shoes of the end men "glittered with gorgeousness," as the tamborinist would say. The songs are new and taking. * * * The songs and dances were given by a team of twelve, in sections, as it were, and is one of the hits of the performance. The feature of the performance is the clog dancing of Charles Queen and his company of twelve clog dancers. This act is far superior to anything else which Haverly has ever given his patrons. The evening closed with a most amusing afterpiece, and the immense audience went away wearied with laughter.

A CARD.

Mr. Editor: We regret to be obliged to ask the privilege of again being heard through your columns in regard to the scandal touching Dr. Donaldson, and we only do so in self defence. The card of Mr. and Mrs. Ham misrepresents both our connection with the case, and the conclusions at which we arrived.

The daughter of Mr. Ham, acting under the advice of her relatives, made complaint of wrongs done her by Dr. Donaldson, to an attorney of this city; for which legal redress was sought. Their lawyer thought it advisable, before commencing legal proceedings, to have an examination by some medical gentlemen. With the advice of her nearest relatives we were selected to make such examination and with us was to be associated Dr. Crosby of Concord, if the matter came before the courts.

The statement that the daughter made to her legal adviser was communicated to us so far as was necessary to a proper understanding of her case, and was subsequently repeated to one of us by herself. This statement has been heretofore, and will hereafter be, regarded as confidential.

Dr. Donaldson, as we were informed, was not consulted and did not assent to our engagement, but we were employed by her father and brother at the suggestion and by the advice of counsel. Indeed the relations of Mr. Ham and family with Dr. Donaldson at this time were so unfriendly that he was refused admittance to the house, and an interview with her was denied him. Since then, we understand he has been attending Miss Ham. What inducement has caused such an utter change of sentiment towards Dr. Donaldson does not concern us, excepting so far as it is sought in Mr. Ham's card to make us responsible for it. Mr. Ham's card conveys at least a wrong impression as to the conclusions at which we arrived from our examination. He seemingly admits that serious charges were made against Dr. Donaldson by the daughter, but excuses them by reason of her mental condition. It is not proper for us to discuss here the truthfulness of these charges nor do we feel at liberty to state how far they were or were not corroborated by our examination.

The complaint made against us by Dr. Donaldson and his friends is not because of anything we have said upon this subject but because we could not conscientiously say what they desired us to. We have heretofore deemed it better for all concerned that we should maintain absolute silence, and if the following statement is any departure from this rule it is to correct the entirely erroneous impression very artfully attempted to be conveyed by Mr. Ham's communication. We did not discover anything in the mental condition of Mr. Ham's daughter which led us to the conclusion that any narration of the wrongs she had suffered was the fiction of a disordered brain. We have never intimated such a thing to Mr. and Mrs. Ham and they have no justification whatever for the assertion that "upon our statement" "no doubt remains that every suspicion of wrong was wholly unfounded." Such an idea as her mental unsoundness was never suggested, to our knowledge, by any one to whom this unfortunate young lady related her sad tale, until it was advanced by Dr. Donaldson. If Mr. and Mrs. Ham honestly believe that their daughter's mental condition furnishes a true solution of this unfortunate affair it may be well for them, but they must not expect us to stultify ourselves by endorsing it.

Of the truth of these statements the counsel employed in the case has full knowledge as well as Mr. Ham.

Signed { J. W. PARSONS, J. F. HALL.

LECTURE IN KITTERY.

Mr. Benjamin Durgin, of Kittery, will deliver a lecture in Trefethen's hall in that town, on Friday evening, March 18th, at 7:30 o'clock.

The subject will be on the creation of the world, and its ultimate results will be in the generation of the world's history of events. The subject will be taken up and handled on a purely scientific principle, reasoning from cause to effect, observing law and order in all of its parts; and will show up the two races of mankind, and the prominent places they will fill in the great plan of God. There will be something said on the perihelion of the four great planets which will take place from 1880 to 1885, agreeing with the theology of the Bible. A free and cordial invitation is extended to all of both sexes to come out and hear for yourselves, then judge.

FELLOWS'
Compound
SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOS-PHITES

It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.

The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.

IMPORTANT.

Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.

NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

Land & Buildings at Kittery Point for Sale

THE lot of land and buildings thereon situated at Kittery Point, formerly owned by Thos. O. Hoyt. The land is a knoll of about five acres, pleasantly situated, overlooking the lower harbor and ocean. It would make an excellent site for a seaside hotel, or summer boarding house. A steamer makes, during the summer months, regular trips to Kittery Point, so that the place is easily reached from Portsmouth by a very cheap and speedy mode of conveyance, and are long this place must be quite valuable for the erection of a boarding house or hotel. The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. On the land are buildings recently erected for an extensive henery, which can easily be converted into outbuildings for a boarding house. Apply to

A European Scandal.

A cable despatch from Berlin to New York announces the elopement of Count Herbert Bismarck, son of the great German minister, with a married woman, the Princess Elizabeth of Carolath-Beuthen. Both arrived at Messina, Sicily, several weeks ago. The Princess is the wife of Prince Charles of Carolath-Beuthen, Count of Schonarch, and chief of one of the first Prussian aristocratic families and hereditary member of the upper house. The faithless wife is a step-sister of Prince Hermann of Hatzfeldt-Thrachenberg, head of a Catholic family bearing the title since 1741, and daughter of the Countess of Reichsenbach. She married Count Carolath in 1866, and has one daughter, the Princess Sybilla, now fourteen years of age. Prince Carolath, who is thirty-six years of age, has retired to his estates in Silesia. He will commence a divorce suit. Count Herbert Bismarck, whose age is thirty-two, was formerly secretary of the German legation at Berne, and recently secretary to his father, who had destined him as chief assistant and eventual successor.

The April number of the "International Review" contains the conclusion of Edwin Arnold's new poem, "The Iliad of India," which is written in the peculiarly beautiful manner of "The Light of Asia," and is in no sense inferior to that very popular poem. "Improvements in prison discipline" is an article by A. S. Meyrick. Great interest will attach to Dr. George E. Ellis's article upon Dr. Seabury—"The First American Bishop"—from the fact that he was the pioneer Episcopal bishop in America, and that the article discusses the whole establishment of Episcopalianism in this country. President D. C. Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, contributes a valuable sketch of the life and works of Dr. Francis Lieber. Madame Z. Ragozin, a Russian lady residing in New York, gives the first instalment of a series of brilliant and spirited articles upon the trial of the Russian Nihilists, under the title of "The Last Trial of the Russian Nihilists," her facts being drawn from the original stenographic reports of the trial. Dr. Ernest W. Cushing writes of the "Statutes regulating the practice of medicine," and the number closes with a review of "Schurz's administration of the Interior Department," by Henry L. Nelson. The number is one of lasting and solid qualities, and has articles of timely and present value; 50 cents a number; $5.00 a year. A. S. Barnes & Co., publishers, New York.

Henry W. Danforth, a retired merchant of Dover, died suddenly on Monday, March 14th. He was sixty years old, highly esteemed, and a prominent member of the Odd Fellows.

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines.—Concord, N. H., Patriot.

Who left the United States for Liberia last year, have lately returned, being unable to stand the climate. Everybody going to a new climate should have a bottle of Sulphur Bitters with them as a safeguard against disease.—Hartford Courant.

Peter and Elias Sandry, two of the crew of the fishing schooner Fleur de Lis, of Gloucester, were drowned on the 16th inst. in an attempt to cross Newburyport bar in dories. Peter's body was recovered. They were aged twenty-four and twenty-nine years respectively.

In certain cases of sickness it is important to obtain pure Whiskey. Such is the "G. O. Taylor Old Bourbon," bottled by Chester H. Graves & Sons, Boston. Ask your druggist or grocer for it.

Frederick T. Ayer of Lowell, Mass., has bought the well known schooner yacht Vesta, and will go to Labrador in her next summer.

"Am delighted with it. I have no confidence in the colorless extracts. A pure article was greatly needed," says Dr. J. J. Youlin, (President Jersey City, N. J., Board of Health and Vital Statistics), of the Liebig Co's Armicated Extract of Witch Hazel. Cures painful periods, leucorrhœa, female weakness, exhausting flows, sore breasts, and quickly relieves pains of any kind. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

Meetings of nihilists, socialists and communists have been held in New York, St. Louis and Chicago, at which the murder of the Czar of Russia has been applauded, and messages sent to Europe encouraging the nihilists there to assassinate more of the reigning classes.

My mother resides at Lansing, Mich. Two years ago she was attacked with dyspepsia, became reduced from 160 to 119 pounds. The doctors gave her up to die. Three bottles D. R. V. G. has cured her; you are at liberty to use my name for benefit of others. L. D. Bruce, Syracuse, N. Y.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I found your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a grand thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of those cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 49 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

THE

Established 1756.

The Gazette is published every Thursday and sent to Subscribers at the low price of $1.50 per year, paid in advance, or $2 at the end of the year.

It contains full accounts of all of importance that transpires in Portsmouth and its vicinity, and a condensed summary of news, foreign and domestic; editorials upon current topics; New Hampshire Items; carefully prepared marine news, containing reports of vessels owned at this port, or officered by men from Portsmouth or its neighborhood; and is just the paper for residents desiring to be posted on all that takes place at home, while to those living in the vicinity of Portsmouth, or to former residents who retain their interest in the "old home by the sea," it is the best means of keeping informed of what transpires in this city.

—THE—

Contains more original matter

THE N. H. GAZETTE

Presents an excellent opportunity for a weekly invitation to customers, at a reasonable rate, and all those who desire to reach patrons in Rockingham and York counties will find it an economical medium. THE GAZETTE is in many instances the only paper taken by families, and it is read to a large extent in localities whence is derived much of the trade of Portsmouth, a fact which our merchants should not fail to bear in mind.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

An Interesting Story--A Hopeless Case Cured--A Good Reason for Happiness.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which she had somewhere heard of or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended "Favorite Remedy" to others whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and, I assure the public, that the "Favorite Remedy" has done its work with a similar completeness in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the "Favorite Remedy," as I did."

If you are a man of business, weakened by the strain of your duties, avoid stimulants and use Hop Bitters.

If you are young and inexperienced or dissipated or single, old or poor health or languishing, rely on Hop Bitters.

Whoever you are, whenever you feel that your system needs cleansing, toning or stimulating, without intoxicating, take Hop Bitters.

Have you dyspepsia, kidney or urinary complaint, disease of the stomach, bowels, blood, liver or nerves? You will be cured if you use Hop Bitters.

If you are sinking, weak and nervous, or low spirited, try it. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

If you are a man of letters toiling over midnight work, or recruiting your brain nerve and waste, use Hop Bitters.

Sugar Beets.

The first flush of enthusiasm over beet sugar as a New England product seems to have passed away. So far nobody has made it pay. The beets require a good deal of labor to raise, are exhaustive to the land, and it costs a good deal to get them to the factories. And another circumstance has dampened the ardor of beet growers; it is the pretty well ascertained fact that a variety of sorghum, which can be grown anywhere that corn can be matured, will furnish more sugar to the acre and the dollar than beets.—Lowell Courier.

Over-Sensitiveness.

There are some people, yes, many people, always looking out for slights. They cannot carry on the daily intercourse of the family without some offense is imagined. If they meet an acquaintance on the street who happens to be preoccupied with business, they attribute his abstraction in some mode personal to themselves, and take umbrage accordingly. They lay on others the fact of their own irritability. A fit of indigestion makes them see impertinence in every one they come in contact with. Innocent persons, who never dreamed of giving offense, are astonished to find some unfortunate word or momentary taciturnity mistaken for an insult. To say the least, the habit is unfortunate. There are people in this world who have something to do besides talking, joking and complimenting. There are persons who get too weary to answer foolish questions repeated again and again. There are persons who now and then appreciate the privilege of a moment's thought or silence, and it is not needful for over-sensitive persons to construe weariness and care and labor into indifference, unkindness or contempt. It is far wiser to take the more charitable view of our fellow-beings, and not suppose a slight is intended unless the slight is open and direct. After all, too, life takes its hues in a great degree from the color of our mind. If we are frank and generous, the world treats us kindly. If, on the contrary, we are suspicious, men learn to be cold and cautious towards us. Let a person get the reputation of being touchy, and everybody is under more or less constraint, and in this way the chance of an imaginary offense is increased.—The Christian.

—He knew if he was editing a newspaper he would give the public the "ins and outs" of the goings on of public men. He would open the eyes of the people till they cried long and loud for "reform." He tried it three days. Result: Five libel suits, two arrests for defamation of character, seven times called a liar by a contemporary, challenged to a duel once, horsewhipped three times, a daily reception of soreheads with murder in their hearts, fire in their eyes and mouths reeking with profanity, and the last we saw of that man he was trying to trade a puff in the paper for a bit of rope long enough to reach from the clothes-hook round his neck.—New Haven Register.

Castoria.

—Our future aristocracy will be the descendants of the plumbers and fuel merchants of the present, and they will hold their heads as high as the grandsons of the dealers in codfish and West India groceries do now.—Boston Herald.

Ash-Tonic;

A perfected purifyer of the system. In 1-2lb. bottles; 75 cents. For dyspepsia, the many forms of liver complaint, impure and impoverished blood, and functional derangements attendant upon debility. For symptons indicated by indigestion, loss of appetite, nausea, sick headache, sour stomach, furred tongue, drowsiness, blanched lips, sallow complexion, pain in the side or back, eruptions, depression of spirits, nervous irritability and hysteria, and for building up the system, ash-tonic is unquestionably the most prompt and energetic remedy yet devised.

—The committee on public health in the Michigan legislature has reported favorably upon a bill requiring liquor-drinkers to take out licenses, and providing penalties for selling liquor to persons not thus licensed to buy.

To Keep the Blood Pure.

Is the principal end of inventions and discoveries in medicine. To this object probably no one has contributed more signally than Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., in the production of a medicine which has become famous under the title of the "Favorite Remedy." It removes all impurities of the blood, regulates the disordered liver and kidneys, cures constipation, dyspepsia, and all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to females. Sold by your druggist, $1.00 a bottle.

—Some thoughtless boys stretched a wire across a sidewalk in Kansas City, Mo., a few evenings ago. A citizen hurrying home tripped over it, fell, and fractured his skull. The boys will have a different idea of fun hereafter.

For twenty-four years I have suffered and at times nearly made crazy with sick headache, and my kidneys became impaired. D. R. V. G. has greatly benefited me. I recommend it to all. Mrs. D. N. Lathrop.

Guaranteed by all druggists.

Savings Bank Defalcation.

A despatch from Winchester, N. H., dated March 16th, says:

John D. Lyman, state bank commissioner, in examining the Ashuelot savings bank of that town, finds that the treasurer, Ellery Albee, has made false entries. The latter is now under keepers, and has made over his property to secure the bank. The commissioner has petitioned the court for an injunction, and notified the depositors to bring in their books. Fears are entertained that the deficit will reach $100,000 or more. Few men in the county stood better than Mr. Albee prior to this. He is a lawyer of ability, a graduate of Middlebury college, and lately state senator. The commissioner thinks the defalcation will be over $100,000, but cannot give further figures until the examination is closed. This will take several days. The depositors are rushing in with their books, but cannot draw anything at present. There is only a small amount on deposit. Many of the losers are working men and women, and the blow is a very bad one for them to bear.

Another report is to the effect that the assets exceed the liabilities, from which it would seem that the money stolen cannot amount to the large sum named.

News and Notes.

Now that Government bonds are being refunded at such very low rates, parties having but small amounts to invest are warranted in seeking a higher rate of interest where ample security is offered. The six per cent. bonds of the International Pavement company seem to answer this need, and are placed on the market for a short time by the Corbin Banking Company of Boston, one of the most reliable firms in the business.

A despatch from Port Townsend, Oregon, says the steamer California, from Sitka, Alaska, has arrived with a number of San Francisco capitalists and mining experts who have visited the new quartz mining district at Takon and found a clear channel and good anchorage. The miners have forwarded petitions for mail service from Sitka or Wrangel. Work will be resumed on the Stewart mine in Sitka early in the spring.

A court of inquiry at New York has decided that the loss of the British steamer Drumduff was due to overloading. The insurance companies refuse to pay for either vessel or cargo.

The Purim ball in New York on the night of the 14th inst. netted $21,000 for the Hebrew Benevolent society.

In the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia, on the morning of March 16th, John Peiffer and John McBride were found dead in one of the cells, the latter having evidently been murdered by Peiffer, who had afterward hanged himself. The murderer, though only twenty-three years old, was a noted New York thief, and had served four terms in prison. Neither of the men injured the world any by dying.

Measures have been taken to impeach Judge C. W. Tyler, of Montgomery county, Tenn., on the alleged grounds of neglect of the duties of his office, drunkenness, misappropriation of public funds, and attempted assassination. Some people would allow a judge no liberty at all.

A new light-giving substance is reported to have been invented by a Hungarian, with which he has been making some surprising experiments in Paris. The material is said to burn with so little heat that its flame will not set fire to a handkerchief or other fabric with which it may come in contact. A person, if he desires, may hold the burning liquid in his hand without injury. It is produced from petroleum.

The owner of a cargo of beef shipped from New York on the steamer City of Bristol for Liverpool, four years ago, has recovered a verdict of $32,624 against the Inman line of steamers for the value of the beef. The steamer broke her shaft, the voyage was protracted, the meat became tainted and it was found necessary to throw it overboard.

At Los Angeles, Cal., on the 16th inst., F. P. Foster was shot dead on the street by Lastonia Aborta, a Spanish girl, who stated that Foster seduced her under promise of marriage. Foster was connected with some of the oldest Spanish families in southern California.

Addison O. Burns and H. R. McLellan, notaries of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, have been arrested by the United States marshal on a charge of complicity in the recently discovered forgeries of land titles in Missouri.

An order is published at Vienna, prohibiting the importation into Austria of swine, pork, bacon or sausages from the United States.

Frank Wright telegraphs to his father at Westminster, Md., that he is at Silver City, Col., and has no knowledge of having been hung by a western vigilance committee through a mistake, as has been reported.

A tornado accompanied by rain and hail passed over a considerable part of southwest Missouri on the night of the 15th inst. At Galena, Kansas, just across the Missouri line, it demolished fifteen buildings, mortally wounded two persons, and severely injured six others. Several buildings were blown down at Joplin, but at Carthage, Mo., the damage was slight.

On the 14th inst., Toney Pino met Peter Cook and shot him dead at the north fork of the Red river in Texas. Pino proved to the satisfaction of the crowd that Cook fifteen years ago robbed his house of $1600, and outraged a lady stopping there, and that this was the first time he had met him since. The crowd released Pino.

Tom Gordon, the desperado who killed the city marshal of Socorro in New Mexico a few days ago, but escaped and fled to Albuquerque, was arrested there, and on Friday, the 11th inst., taken back to Socorro, where he was hanged to a water-tank by a mob of 200 or 300 men.

The Boston Journal says: "A large three-masted schooner of 1000 tons capacity is being built at the ship yard of Messrs. Baldwin & Paine, in New Haven, Conn., for Capt. George H. Crowell of Hyannis, one of the veteran sea captains of Cape Cod."

A fifteen-year-old Hartford girl was to have been taken before a magistrate on the 14th inst., and committed to the industrial school at Middletown, Conn., on complaint of her neighbors, but her parents betrothed her to a Bloomfield milkman, and when the time for the hearing came the girl was a married woman, and therefore beyond jurisdiction.

A brakeman standing on the top of a freight train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, on the 12th inst., struck the water pipe at the water tank above the Bridgeport depot with sufficient force to break it off near the point where it was secured to the building. He was thrown to the ground by the shock, but evidently was not injured, for he jumped up and got on board of the train, which had stopped for him.

Mr. Henry Moon, an English engineer, has written to the Pennsylvania Coal company offering to come to this country and put out the fire at the Butler mine, near Pittston, if the company will pay his expenses and reasonable compensation. He says he is in possession of every detail of a plan that was successfully carried out in extinguishing a fire in a colliery in England that had been burning for over thirty years, and that had extended to over twenty-six acres. There are many subterranean fires raging at different points in this country.

The English publishers of "Endymion" paid the author $50,000 for the manuscript, and are out $15,000 after the receipts are all in. They traded on the reputation of the author rather than on the merits of the work, and deservedly got beaten. Beaconsfield proposes to return a part of the purchase money.

Rev. Mr. Fenton, a stranger, preached in Flushing, L. I., on a recent Sunday night, and attacked Free Masonry with such bitterness that several members who belonged to the order told him that his assertions were "a pack of lies." Of course there is great excitement over the affair, and the members (not the minister) are censured for disturbing the meeting. But Mr. Fenton appears to be dealing in a kind of theology with which he is not acquainted.

Cornelius Doyle, sixteen years old, was caught by a shaft in the basket works at Northampton, Mass., on the 16th inst., and killed. His body made 5,000 revolutions, striking a flooring each time, and was reduced to pulp.

At the Phenix works in Tewksbury, Mass., March 16th, Frederick Maycock had his head caught by the machinery in such a way as to break his neck. He was thirty-three years old, and leaves a wife and child in England.

William Corbo, who it is said for over a year past has been committing petty burglaries in Burlington, Vt., the total number being near a hundred, has been bound over in $800.

Abraham W. Whiting of Rutland, Vt., eighty-two years old, made use of nitric acid for the removal of corns from his right foot and continued the application until inflammation set in, resulting in erysipelas and gangrene, causing his death on the 13th inst.

B. F. Ashley, editor and proprietor of the Portchester Journal, was brutally assaulted in Greenwich, N. Y., March 16th, by Ed. Weed, because Ashley had said in his paper that Weed had not paid his taxes for several years. Ashley was kicked in the face by the ruffian, and badly injured.

The city marshal of Anderson, Ind., aided by a sheriff and two deputies, on the night of March 15th arrested three burglars, after a fight in which one of the latter, Dan Leehan of Indianapolis, was fatally shot by the city marshal.

Despatches from the northwest give accounts of suffering and business obstructions caused by the snow blockade. Many railroads are now covered over with twenty feet of packed snow, and cuts miles in length are filled up with a solid mass of snow and ice.

The assassination of the Russian Czar has brought an increased severity of the enforcement of the laws against socialists in Berlin, and this result is already noticeable, as a number of suspected persons have been expelled from the city and suburbs.

The schooner Edward E. Webster, Jacobs master, sailed from Gloucester March 15th on a southern mackereling trip—the first departure for the season, in that branch of the fishing business.

Political.

The "independence" of David Davis has drawn forth democratic admiration for years, said independence having caused him to always vote on the democratic side of any party question which arose in the Senate, though he represents a strongly republican state. But they don't like Mahone's independence at all.

The amendments to the constitution of Indiana, which were adopted last year by a decided majority, and set aside by the partisan supreme court of the state in hope to aid the democratic party, have been again adopted by a heavy majority in a light popular vote. The principal changes involved are the transferring of Indiana to the column of states holding their elections in November, and the adoption of a registration law to prevent fraudulent voting, both which changes the democrats have opposed. Without the aid of voters from outside the state, Indiana becomes surely republican.

A little girl whose mother belongs to the "official circle" in Washington, was watching the inaugural procession and the dignitaries on the platform. The mother pointed out Garfield, and said:—"There, child, that's the new president." "What!" exclaimed the girl, in dismay, "isn't Mrs. Hayes going to be president any more?"—New York Evening Post.

The late Congress failed to pass a reapportionment bill, but it is evident the number of representatives should be 329. It was a popular number with the democrats in the late campaign, and it certainly ought to be with the republicans, as it was a prime factor in their success, and it is a number neither party would forget.—Newburyport Herald.

New Hampshire Items.

Walter Dolber, a hard-working and industrious man of Candia, about two years ago had one of his eyes taken out, which had been injured by an iron splinter getting into it, and recently, while cutting wood, a chip hit his well eye and injured it so badly that there is little hope that it will ever be of use.

In Concord, on the 16th inst., the police raided on the liquor saloons, and found eight parties violating the liquor law. They were arraigned and fined.

The Exeter Machine works are full of work. The News-Letter says within a week they have sent two large blowers to Germany and one to Valparaiso, and an order has since been received for another to go to Germany, and it is believed that this is but the beginning of an extensive foreign business. They have orders on hand for ten new engines.

The Union declines to bet that its circulation is what it has claimed, on account of its patrons. This is considerate in the Union. It wouldn't be pleasant to advertising patrons who have paid for a circulation of 7,200, to be shown that they have been cheated one-half.—Manchester Mirror.

—A girl heard her father criticised severely across a dinner table. The careless critic paused a moment to say: "I hope he is no relative of yours, miss." Quick as thought she replied, with the utmost nonchalance: "Only a connection of my mother's by marriage."

INTERNATIONAL Pavement Co.

With a Bonus of Stock.

The pavement made by this Company has met with the highest favor, both in this country and in Europe, and it is considered to approach perfection more nearly than any other.

The Works of the Company are at Providence, R. I., and at Hastings, N. Y., and the needs of its business will soon require additional ones at Chicago and other large cities.

The Company require additional means to extend the facilities for manufacture, and offer for sale the special $100,000 issue of six per cent. bonds (convertible into stock) at par and interest. These bonds carry a bonus of stock, which is fixed for the present at fifty per cent.

The beautiful scenery in and around this locality, its pure air, facilities for boating, bathing, fishing, &c., and the means of access either by road or river, make this a most desirable location for any one seeking a summer residence. AROUND HOME.

Mr. Charles Hart, engineer of the steamer Pinafore last summer, will take charge of the engine of the steamer Fearless this season.

On Thursday the tug Samuel B. Jones, of Gloucester, bound from Newburyport to Portland, made this harbor and came up to Commercial wharf on account of rough weather.

Messrs. Sullivan & Downs received from the Shoals on Thursday, the 17th inst., one thousand lobsters; part of them were sent to Boston, and the balance were sold piping hot from their store on Bow street.

Mr. George J. Fernald is making a floating stage for the steamer Fearless, which will make landings at Ladd's or Moffat's wharf. The platform will be floated with air tanks, and will be twenty-three feet long.

The schooner Boxer, of Ipswich, Mass., has been sold to Samuel Rankin of Kennebunkport, for $600. She registers 60.70 tons, and was built in Wells in 1845; and though thirty-six years old is still in good condition, having been constructed of seasoned oak.

The fish arrivals on the 17th inst. were the schooners Water Lily, 2000 lbs.; Vanguard, 6000; Mary E. Caswell, 1500; Flying Cloud, 7000; Daniel C. Baker, 5000; Comet, 6000; Nettie Adams, 2000; Julia A., 2500; Norma, 2000; Celia, 1000; Addie & Hattie, 4000; Young Selim, 2500; small boats, 2000 lbs.

The "wharf rats" or thieves are making raids on the fish wharves on Water street. Two weeks ago Messrs. Herbert & Newton had their building broken into, and on Wednesday night the fish house of Randall & Caswell was entered and a quantity of fresh fish stolen. It is an every day occurrence for boys to pilfer fish from some vessel or other.

The committee on Memorial day observances appointed by the Grand Army of the Republic on the evening of the 16th inst., are to act in conjunction with similar committees to be appointed by a citizens' meeting at a future date, so that the committees will be composed of citizens and members of the G. A. R. in equal numbers, the same as in 1880.

In unloading the cotton from the barkentine Henry Norwell, on Thursday forenoon, the planks of the wharf to which the gin was attached were hauled out of place, and the gin landed in the engine house, fortunately injuring no one. On the afternoon of the same day, the strong-back of the main hatchway fell into the hold, one of the workmen just escaping receiving it on his head.

ALWAYS WITH YOU.

At no season of the year are the charitably inclined, or the officers and agents of benevolent societies, more frequently called upon for aid than at the end of a hard winter, before the business of the succeeding season begins to circulate money in a community. At the same time, from the necessities of the case, the treasuries of such charitable organizations are apt to be depleted, and their officers have difficulty in responding to the urgent calls. To relieve this state of affairs the constant effort of the benevolent, and the representatives of associated organizations, is ever extended.

In view of these facts and the peculiar wants in our own community, occasioned in part by the severity of the past winter and the loss of the cotton mill, it was determined some little time since to make appeal to the benevolent for material aid in this behalf. In larger cities it is quite the custom to have balls, concerts and benefit entertainments of this nature, the receipts from which are devoted to the "greatest of all, charity," and we are happy to announce that in our own city a generous effort is to be made next week in this behalf.

A gentleman resident upon Middle street will devote an evening to this end, and has tendered the use of his large parlors for the purpose of enabling lovers of music to listen to a concert, vocal and instrumental. Upon this occasion the piano music will be on two concert grands, and the programme to be enjoyed will be of a high order.

The entire proceeds, without any deduction for expenses of any kind, are to be passed to a committee consisting of Ex-Gov. Goodwin, the president of our oldest charitable organization, His Honor Mayor Sise, and Rev. James DeNormandie, minister of the South Parish, and these gentlemen will make such distribution of the gross receipts of the entertainment to and among such organizations and charitable objects as in their judgment shall be deemed proper. This, it will be seen, is a pleasant and agreeable mode of doing good. The affair is originated solely to this end. There is no other object to be attained. Such an effort should be encouraged by the attendance of those who may be invited by card to lend their presence on the occasion, and when our readers remember that the poor "you have always with you," and at this season above all others there is need of a generous contribution from those who have an abundance, we trust that all will look at this effort in a proper light, as an unselfish endeavor to do good in our community, and while the ear is being delighted with a musical feast of rare excellence and pleasing variety, the hearts of the poor will be gladdened by the reception of the generous avails of the evening's entertainment.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Past Grand Chancellor, Rufus R. Foss, of Farmington;
Grand Chancellor, F. W. McKinney, Manchester;
Grand Vice Chancellor, G. P. Abbott, Suncook;
Grand Master of Exchequer, L. K. Peacock;
Grand Prelate, W. P. Frye, Newmarket;
Grand Master of Arms, A. T. Pinkham, Dover;
Grand Inner Guard, F. G. Evans, Suncook;
Grand Outer Guard, C. A. Bagley, Nashua.

Members from several lodges in the state were present, and at the conclusion of the work a grand banquet was served, which was partaken of by about one hundred of the Knights.

The Wentworth Lodge have leased the building in Newcastle formerly occupied by Mr. Benjamin Curtis as a grocery store, and will add another story to it for their hall.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, regular meeting, Thursday evening, March 17th:

Dennis Shea was granted permission to open drain on Deer street to make repairs, and Dr. Goodall was granted relay of sidewalk on Islington street.

A communication from the board of instruction was received, asking the appropriation of $20,000 for schools in 1881.

Petition of Alexander Robinson and others, asking the city's acceptance of Ell court at the west end, was referred to the committee on laying out and widening streets, to report.

Claim of Wm. Sladen for $75, for damages done to his premises by overflow caused by a defect in a sewer, was referred to committee on claims.

Petition of S. H. Marshall and other for extension of sewer from High street to Vaughan was referred to committee on sewers.

The mayor was authorized to furnish a new book-case for the clerk's office.

Notice was given of suit of Marion L. Odion against the city to recover for injuries received by a fall on an icy sidewalk, and the city solicitor was authorized to defend the city, and employ counsel.

The committee on finance reported back the proposition of John J. Pickering, without recommendation. The city solicitor said that prominent citizens protested against settling with Mr. Pickering agreeably to his proposition. Matter laid over one week.

The committee on fire department, to whom was referred the matter of repairing the engine house near the court house, asked that a special appropriation be made for that purpose, as the sum allowed for repairs on public buildings would be insufficient. Voted that the mayor call a meeting of the board at the engine house, Friday afternoon at five o'clock.

Husbands and Wives.

A good husband makes a good wife. Some men can neither do without wives nor with them; they are wretched alone in what is called single blessedness, and they make their homes miserable when they get married; they are like Tompkin's dog, which could not bear to be loose, and howled when he was tied up. Happy bachelors are likely to be happy husbands, and a happy husband is the happiest of men. A well-matched couple carry a joyful life between them, as the two spies carried the cluster of Eschol. They are a brace of birds of paradise. They multiply their joys by sharing them, and lessen their troubles by dividing them. This is fine arithmetic. The wagon of care rolls lightly along as they pull together, and when it drags a little heavily, or there is a hitch anywhere, they love each other all the more, and so lighten the labor.—John Ploughman.

—A young man who didn't like the color of his hair wrote to a chemist, asking, "What is the best dying receipt?" The chemist wrote back, "Fool with an empty shot gun."

—He came in yesterday, and taking a desk, asked: "Well, what shall I write about?" The editor told him he had better right about face. When he left, a small scrap of manuscript was found on the desk, and the fellow had apparently followed instructions, for he wrote: "The editor has lots of cheek."

—A little four-year-old patriot living in Washington became greatly excited during the inauguration ceremonies, and insisted upon wearing his Garfield badge to bed. When his nurse, to tease him, told him that Hancock was a better man than Garfield, he replied with indignant scorn: "What do you know about it, Katie? You are nothing but an old dummy-crack."

—Young Malony De Smith, who exterminates melody with a fiddle, met old Col. Northcote yesterday, and said to him: "Colonel, you must be on hand to-night at the De Smith mansion. I want you to hear some really good music. I will give a few solos on the violin to a few invited guests, and afterwards, at eight o'clock, we will have some refreshment—oysters, wine, cigars, you know." "My dear boy, I will be on hand just a little after eight. Rely on me."—Galveston News.

—An amusing story is told of Gambetta. In a private parlor he was recently telling how, at the age of twenty, he promised himself never again to pronounce the name of the Divine Being. "You can imagine," he added, "how difficult that was for one who speaks often and extemporaneously, like myself. But, finally, owing to the extreme pains that I took, I have, thank God"—the sentence was interrupted by peals of laughter, and Gambetta ended with the words: "You see that I had flattered myself too much. I have not yet succeeded."

—George Arnold, a Texas farmer, believing he would go mad from the bite of a dog, bought a twelve foot trace chain and strong lock and went into the woods. After writing a letter to his wife, in which he told her what he thought would happen, and giving directions as to certain things he wished her to do after his death, he ran the chain around a tree, drew it through the large ring at the end, and then wound the other end around his ankle so tight that it would not slip the foot, locked it securely, and threw the key far beyond his reach. Two days after which his dead body was found chained to the tree, and there was evidence that he died of hydrophobia.

FELLOWS'
Compound
HYPO-PHOS-PHITES
It has been ascertained that the most inveterate cases of neuralgia are cured by Fellows' Syrup of Hypophosphites. Not only is the principal disease eradicated, but the patient is made vigorous and strong; the stomach, the blood, the skin become healthy, and he obtains a new lease of enjoyable life.
The virtues of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites are such that other remedies are seldom required.
The demand for Hypophosphites and other Phosphorus preparations at the present day, is largely owing to the good effects and success following the introduction of this article in the United States.
IMPORTANT.
Should the invalid have any difficulty in procuring the Compound Syrup in his vicinity, let him not be put off with any other remedy, because this article has not its equal in the diseases for which it is recommended.
NOTE.—Be suspicious of persons who recommend any other article as "just as good." The highest class medical men in every large city, where it is known, recommend it.

About Pins.

To the young lady whose intricate overskirt is held in innumerable folds by many pins, it may seem a hardship that her yearly allowance of pins is only 140. Such, however, is the case with each individual in the United States on an equitable division of the pins yearly sold in this country. But the Indians in the west are not supposed to use their full allowance, and collar buttons have so far done away with the use of pins by gentlemen generally that the young lady may perhaps provide herself with some one else's allowance. The pins used in the United States are made somewhat scattered as to locality, but chiefly in New England. Their annual production for several years past has been about 7,000,000,000 pins. This number has not varied much for some years, the demand remaining about the same. A few of these 7,000,000,000 are swallowed by children, a number are bent up in schools and placed in vacant and inviting chairs, and some millions get into the cracks of floors, the rest for the most part are scattered along the byways and highways where they have dropped from dresses and been left to work their way into the earth.

Two years ago the competition among the nine principal companies than existing for the manufacture of toilet pins led to such a cutting of prices that the business became unprofitable, and the market was flooded with goods. Dealers who were shrewd laid in stock, and families even bought in wholesale quantities for future needs. A year ago a combination was formed of three wire companies, and now all of the pins made by them are shipped to New York, and handled by the head agency in that city. From their common warehouse they are sent to every part of the country in quantities varying according to the female population.

The importation of English pins is small, and the exportation of pins from the United States is confined to Cuba, South America, and parts of Canada, where, however, but few pins are sent. England supplies almost the whole world outside of the United States, although it is claimed that the American pins are not inferior in quality. Quality, however, is a matter which but slightly concerns the retail buyer. To him a paper of pins is a paper of pins, so long as they don't have heads on both ends.

The raw material—the brass and iron wire from which all American pins are made—is from the wire mills of this country, and much of the machinery for their manufacture is of American invention and patent.

Power of the Eye.

A story is told of Van Amburgh, the great lion tamer, now dead. On one occasion, while in a bar room, he was asked how he got his wonderful power over animals. He said: "It is by showing them that I am not in the least afraid of them, and by keeping my eye steadily on theirs. I'll give you an example of the power of my eye." Pointing to a loutish fellow who was sitting near by, he said: "You see that fellow? He's a regular clown. I'll make him come across to me, and I won't say a word to him." Sitting down, he fixed his keen, steady eye on the man. Presently the fellow straightened himself gradually, got up, and came slowly across to the lion tamer. When he got close enough he drew back his arm and struck Van Amburgh a tremendous blow under the chin, knocking him clear over the chair, with the remark: "You'll stare at me like that again, won't you?"

An Honest Medicine.

J. H. Northrup, of Lansingburgh, formerly captain of the Troy police, writes: "I firmly believe that Dr. Kennedy's 'Favorite Remedy' is a great, good, honest preparation; one that may be depended upon." And this is the testimony of thousands. Capt. Northrup suffered from liver derangement for years, and was cured by Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy." It is an honest medicine, and sold by all honest druggists at the honest price of one dollar.

—The Baltimore American discovers that Baltimore girls are the prettiest because of the climate and of the food they eat. Ohio girls, it says, eat pork and sauerkrot, Massachusetts girls eat codfish balls, Virginian girls eat bacon and greens, the Gulf states girls eat gumbo, New Hampshire girls eat pie and doughnuts, and Kentucky girls eat blue-grass beef, and yet all these are prettier than the girls of Europe. But the Baltimore girls eat oysters, terrapin, canvasback duck, bay mackerel and soft shell crabs, all productive of beauty. Not only has the Baltimore girl become beautiful, but the canned oysters of Baltimore have begun to make beautiful the girls of the Mississippi Valley.

Dr. Green's Oxygenated Bitters

Are a cheap and simple remedy for dyspepsia and billiousness in all their worst forms. It is a well known preparation, and has been known and endorsed by physicians for many years, and has been used by thousands of sufferers in all parts of the world as a standard and reliable remedy.

—James Hainsworth, a young married man of Wilmington, went down to Washington to help out with the inauguration. When he returned to his house in Wilmington he found it locked, and saw that his wife was missing. Mrs. Hainsworth left a note, in which she said good-bye forever. She didn't believe in a husband who goes off to good times without his wife.

My mother resides at Lansing, Mich. Two years ago she was attacked with dyspepsia, became reduced from 160 to 119 pounds. The doctors gave her up to die. Three bottles D. R. V. G. has cured her; you are at liberty to use my name for benefit of others. L. D. Bruce, Syracuse, N. Y.

ILLUSTRATION. At age 25 an annual premium of $16.91 will secure a policy for $1000, payable at death. By the same annual outlay and the ordinary methods of investment it would take 26 years, at six per cent compound interest, to save $1000.

Can any man afford to risk the chances of living twenty-six years to make a thousand dollars for his family, when he can secure the same benefit at once by taking a life insurance for this amount?

If he feels that he cannot afford to be without insurance on his house, which may never burn, can he afford to be without insurance on his life, which is sure to end sooner or later?

RUPTURE

Wesley Phillips' Case.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Sir: I am happy to inform you that I am entirely cured of my large scrotal rupture. It is one year ago to-day that I received your treatment. I have tested the cure by going without the appliance. My business is that of a locomotive engineer. My rupture, as you will recall to your mind was similar to Mr. Jordan's, in your pamphlet of illustrations.

I was ruptured in the year 1863, while in the army. I have tried spring and elastic trusses with great discomfort and injury, my rupture always growing worse. Finding I must get some relief or give up my business, I determined to try you as a last resort, and I must say that I consider your treatment a complete success. My improvement and cure have, considering my terrible condition, surprised my friends as well as myself. During your treatment I have worked hard in my business, enjoying both safety and comfort, and have not lost a day's work. My general health has also improved. I will take pleasure in recommending the afflicted to you whenever I have an opportunity.

You may publish this letter for the benefit of humanity. My address is 211 East 44th st. With the best wishes I remain yours respectfully,

Its Relief and Cure as Certain as Day follows Day.

Since the reduction of Dr. Sherman's terms, thousands are crowding upon him for treatment, gladly throwing away their griping, irksome, despiriting, and life-punishing trusses. His treatment for the affliction makes the patient comfortable and safe in the performance of every kind of exercise and labor. It is a great thing, and those who are ruptured and do not provide themselves with it must endure the dangers of that precarious affliction and the use of trusses all through life. Thousands of these cured give the most flattering testimonials of gratitude to Dr. Sherman. He is the author and inventor of his popular system; he imparts his secret to no one; it is applicable to all classes, and, under his reduced rate, within the reach of almost everyone.

Patients can receive treatment and leave for home same day. Dr. Sherman's Book on Rupture gives convincing proofs from professional gentlemen and others of his successful treatment. It is illustrated with photograph pictures of bad cases before cure, and is sent to those who send 10 cents. Principal office 251 Broadway, N. Y. Branch office 43 Milk street, Boston. Days in New York—Monday, Tuesday, Saturday. In Boston—Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

TO GRATIFY HIS WIFE.

An Interesting Story—A Hopeless Case Cured—A Good Reason for Happiness.

"For many years I had suffered from a complaint which the physicians called Gravel. I had employed some of the most noted doctors without obtaining any permanent relief, and for a long time my case was regarded as hopeless. All who knew the circumstances said I must die. Finally, my wife induced me to try a bottle of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which she had somewhere heard or seen advertised. Without the slightest faith in it, but solely to gratify her, I bought a bottle of a druggist in our village. I used that and two or three bottles more, and—to make a long story short—I am now as healthy a man as there is in the country.

Since then I have recommended "Favorite Remedy" to others whom I knew to have suffered from Kidney and Liver complaints; and, I assure the public that the "Favorite Remedy" has done its work with a similar cure wherever in every single instance, and I trust some other sick and discouraged mortal may hear of it and try the "Favorite Remedy," as I did."

Irish Characteristics.

It has become the fashion to say that Ireland has suffered from its manufacturers having been destroyed by England in past times. But industries continue to die out there now, because of the want of a quiet, docile population. A large flax factory was established a few years ago by some enterprising man in the south of Ireland, but it had soon to be closed. I was told: "The children do not work here as they do in the north; and, as soon as their labor becomes of the least value, their parents come and threaten to take them away unless their wages are raised." Moreover, capitalists are not inclined to invest their money where there is neither coal nor iron, and where, if they dismiss any of their hands, they are in danger of having their buildings burned or their machinery destroyed. Given the character, what is the life? Necessarily the Irish are poor. The peasantry spend much of their time in gossiping, smoking, card-playing, and in attending fairs, weddings, wakes, and funerals—the latter are often a mile long. The description one of them gives of himself is not inaccurate:

"I'm not much given to work,
It was never the way with the Brady;
But I'd make a most excellent Turk,
For I'm fond of tobacco and ladies."

I cannot say whether the true Moslem is quite so fond of porter and whiskey. But the people are forward enough in attending religious festivals, and there are men ready to encourage them in all sorts of ridiculous superstitions. I know a substantial farmer who is very particular about having his cattle blessed every year by the priest, and another who drives them on midsummer's eve between fires—a remnant apparently of fire-worship. On one occasion I ventured to ask a pretty girl with dark, wavy hair and lovely violet eyes, but without any shoes or stockings, or indeed much petticoats, why, instead of purchasing what was necessary, she parted with all her money to the priest. But I soon found that argument and advice were of no avail, her ready answer being, "Shure, an' what could I do betther with it than give it to the Church?" "Well, Norah," I replied, "your thoughts are heavenly; may you be blessed in your deed! You have more faith than I in the absolution of priests and the prayers of saints. I remember an old French woman once telling me than I did not believe in heaven because I said I had doubts about the miracle at La Salette." "It was thrue for her," she returned; "and I should not be surprised if you did not believe there was such a thing as a Providence when you don't believe that there is such a thing as a Virgin."—London Society.

Preventing Cracked Chimneys.

A Leipsic journal gives a method which it asserts will prevent lamp-chimneys from cracking. The treatment will not only render lamp-chimneys, tumblers, and like articles more durable, but may be applied with advantage to crockery, stoneware, porcelain, etc. The chimneys, tumblers, etc., are put into a pot filled with cold water, to which some common table salt has been added. The water is well boiled over a fire, and then allowed to cool slowly. When the articles are taken out and washed, they will be found to resist afterward any sudden changes of temperature.

Workingmen.

Before you begin your heavy spring work after a winter of relaxation, your system needs cleansing and strengthening, to prevent an attack of ague, bilious or spring fever, or some other spring sickness that will unfit you for a season's work. You will save time, much sickness and great expense if you will use one bottle of Hop Bitters in your family this month. Don't wait.—Burlington Hawkeye.

—"I threw this off in ten minutes," softly said the poet, placing a manuscript on the editorial table. The editor said that when it came to speed no long-haired poet should distance him, and he threw it off in less than ten seconds—off the table into the waste-basket.

It Don't Pay!

To sling money away, but I invested a dollar for a bottle of Sulphur Bitters which cured me of dyspepsia. It saved me ten dollars in doctors and druggists bills.—Machinist, Lowell, Mass.

—Mr. Richard Grant White, in an article in the Atlantic, says that about the most amazing piece of paper that he ever looked upon was the business card of an English hangman, which read as follows: "William Marley, Executioner, No. 12 —— street, Bristol. N. B.—Executions attended to with promptness and despatch."

"Am delighted with it. I have no confidence in the colorless extracts. A pure article was greatly needed," says Dr. J. J. Youlin, (President Jersey City, N. J., Board of Health and Vital Statistics), of the Liebig Co's Acid Extract of Witch Hazel. Cures painful periods, leucorrhœa, female weakness, exhausting flows, sore breasts, and quickly relieves pains of any kind. Beware of counterfeits. Sold in fifty cents and dollar sizes.

—A circular, issued by the trustees of the Lemoyne crematory, informs the public that $45 covers all expenses of cremating a body after it reaches the railroad station at Washington, Pa., and the ashes may be returned in a sealed box by express.

For twenty-four years I have suffered and at times nearly made crazy with sick headache, and my kidneys became impaired. D. R. V. G. has greatly benefited me. I recommend it to all. Mrs. D. M. Lathrop.

SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1881.

[Entered at the Post-Office at Portsmouth, N.H., as second-class matter.]

Fatally Defective.

The supreme court, law term, was in session in Concord this week. On Friday the bar of the state was present in quite a large force, and opinions in several cases were delivered.

The most important of these was that delivered by Judge Stanley in the case State vs. U. S. & Canada Express Co., upon the constitutionality of the law taxing receipts of express companies passed recently by the legislature. After a lengthy opinion by Judge Stanley holding the law to be a contravention of the principles of the constitution, Chief Justice Doe also read an opinion to the same end. Both opinions were quite lengthy, that of the chief justice going back historically to the time when slaves could be taxed in this state, and by a different process arriving at a similar conclusion with Judge Stanley. Gen. Stevens foreshadowed this result when the act was before the legislature, but Geo. Ordway and Bro. Moore of the Telegraph were anxious to tax something, and the U. S. & Canada seemed an object of attack. The case seems to have furnished considerable legal discussion among the learned judges of the court. The opinions, it was stated by one prominent member of the bar present, were as much noted for their length as their depth, though the dicta about the "lightning rod men" and other witty and sarcastic passages in the opinion of the chief justice were highly appreciated by the bar present.

The Senate Organized.

The Senate was organized on the 18th inst., the committees as arranged by the republican caucus being adopted. David Davis voted with the democrats, and Malone with the republicans; this made a tie, and Vice President Arthur threw the casting vote.

A Sickly Town.

The superintendent of schools of Pittsfield, Mass., finding awhile ago that his annual report would exhibit an extraordinary amount of absence from school, and irregular attendance of pupils on account of sickness among the scholars, decided to ascertain the facts, and supplied the teachers with blanks on which to gather the required statistics. From these papers, which have been returned to the superintendent, it is found that among the 2,300 children in the schools, there have been since the year began last April 132 cases of scarlet fever, fifty cases of mumps, 573 cases of measles, seventy-five cases of diphtheria, and 129 cases of whooping cough: in all, 994 scholars have been ill during the year, from one or the other of the above diseases.

Endorsing Murder.

A despatch from San Francisco, dated March 17th, says: "The greenback central club, composed of greenback ward presidents and leading greenbackers of the city, last evening adopted resolutions indorsing the assassination of the Czar." This story seems incredible; if true, the murderous bombs of the nihilist assassins did not blow the life out of their imperial victim any more effectually than this resolution will blow all decent persons out of the greenback party in California. The American people are not yet prepared to daily murder at the bidding of a gang of red-handed communists.

News and Notes.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune states that one of the American ministers to Russia, four years after the war, said that during an official call on Gortschakoff the chancellor sent for a book and showed him an order written by Alexander Second's own hand at the very outset of the southern rebellion. This order was the substance of the sealed instructions sent to the admiral of the Russian fleet, then lying in New York harbor, that if either England or France took any part favoring the south, the admiral was at once to report to President Lincoln for orders.

The authorities at St. Petersburg have discovered a mine which had been laid in a small street nearly opposite the new Czar's residence. The mouth of the mine was discovered in a shopkeeper's dwelling room under an ottoman. More arrests have been made, and a quantity of explosives found.

A bomb found in the pocket of the assassin Roussakoff was made in a zinc case containing glass tubes, two of which were filled with vitriol and two with Bertholdy salts, India rubber tubes with fulminating mercury, and a box holding nitro-glycerine and pyroxyline, the whole weighing six pounds and three quarters.

An attempt was made on the night of March 16th to blow up the Lord Mayor's mansion in London, with a torpedo containing forty pounds of gunpowder. A reward of £100 is offered for the detection of the criminals.

David F. Zerrahn, son of Carl Zerrahn, of Boston, died on the schooner Frank M. Noyes, Capt. Silas Daggett, while on the passage between Cayenne and Baracoa, Cuba. He was accompanied by his brother Frank, and had undertaken the trip on the schooner from Boston to Baracoa in search of better health.

Joseph Roderick, of Farmington, Me., left his camp on Dead river March 10th, and not returning, search was made. His gun and shoes were found in the snow a mile from the camp, and a rod further on his dead body was discovered. Nothing is known as to the cause of his death.

Lima dates of Feb. 22d state that the Chilian general there was paying no attention to the late president of Peru, and initial steps were being taken to form a provisional government. In Salaverry and Trujilla a mob commenced plundering, but the foreigners and respectable natives turned out and restored order, after twenty or thirty of the rioters had been killed. Similar scenes took place all over the country.

The purchase of Alaska by the United States promises to turn out a profitable investment after all. The Alaska Fur Seal company alone has paid the government $3,000,000 of the $7,200,000 given to Russia for the territory in 1867. Before the grant expires the company will have repaid the entire sum received by Russia, while the seals being carefully protected, are more numerous than ever, thus leaving a continuous source of revenue independent of the rich mineral deposits which are said to exist in the territory.

On Thursday last an unknown man about fifty years of age was found dead in the barn of Ira Russell at Arlington, Mass., hanging by the neck.

The widow of Alexander G. Cutler of Norwich, Conn., a victim of the Narragansett disaster, cannot obtain an insurance of several thousand dollars on his life, because his body cannot be found.

The coroner's jury in the case of General Upton of the United States army, who committed suicide at Presidio, Texas, found a verdict that the suicide was due to overtasking the brain and expected failure of a work in which he was engaged.
